(CNN) -- Eight former employees of the Bay County Sheriffs Office were charged Tuesday with aggravated manslaughter in the death of a 14-year-old at a Florida boot camp for juvenile offenders State Attorney Mark Ober said seven former guards and a nurse are accused of causing the death of Martin Anderson by culpable negligence If convicted each could face up to 30 years in prison Anderson collapsed January 5 at the sheriffs office Boot Camp program in Panama City Florida He had complained of breathing difficulties while running around a track as part of the entry process on his first day at the facility He was taken to a hospital and died early the next day Gov Jeb Bush who ordered the investigation said he was told the arrests were being made and hoped that at the end of the day justice will be served (Watch Bush express his hopes about the case) We also hope that once the process is completed that Martin Lee Andersons family will have the answers to the questions that they legitimately have Bush said Waylon Graham attorney for one of the defendants Charles Helms said he wasnt surprised at the outcome of the probe Its pretty clear that the outside prosecutors succumbed to the pressure from the governor Graham said No doubt It was clear from the beginning what the governor wanted Graham said the charge of aggravated manslaughter of a child would be difficult for prosecutors to prove adding If these men can raise the money to put on a good defense to hire the right experts they have an excellent chance of being found not guilty Bob Pell an attorney who represents former guard Joseph Walsh Jr told The Associated Press he hadnt heard about charges against his client I didnt anticipate it he told AP I was hoping cooler heads would prevail but we will deal with this as it comes down We understood the political pressure that was brought to bear Benjamin Crump an attorney for Andersons parents was in Panama City with the family Tuesday and didnt immediately return APs call for comment Video: Teen forced to the ground Videotape of the incident showed Anderson being forced to the ground by various methods including knees to the thigh pressure points to his ear and punches to his arms Later another camp staffer hit him from behind lurching his body forward A nurse stood by and on at least one occasion she determined his vital signs were normal An initial autopsy conducted in nearby Panama City showed that Anderson died a natural death caused by complications of sickle cell trait But a second autopsy conducted by pathologist Dr Vernard Adams showed the teen was suffocated by guards who were restraining him To reach his findings Adams studied the video including having it enhanced by engineers at NASA The intake process at the facility is videotaped as a matter of policy Afterward the staff prepared a report detailing the techniques used on Anderson including ammonia capsules under his nose knee strikes a straight arm-bar takedown bending his wrist and pouring water over his head To explain the use of force one staff member wrote I ordered (the) offender to stop resisting and relax his arms Offender refused to comply with those instructions Some experts on juvenile justice call it excessive force But the sheriffs office said Anderson was restrained for being uncooperative After the incident he was taken away on a stretcher and died later that day Andersons family accused county and state officials of attempting to cover up what happened but Ober said there is no evidence by any public official or agency to undermine or improperly influence this investigation. The boot camp in Bay County was closed in early May 2005. The sheriff's office said the closure had nothing to do with Anderson's case but also said the eight people involved in the incident were not offered new jobs. Later that month, Bush signed the Martin Lee Anderson Act into law with Martin's parents present which replaces boot camps with juvenile facilities more focused on education and counseling.
