12 SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION, 13 Plaintiff, 14 v. 15 THOMAS A. SKOULIS, PETER M. FRANKL, 16 ALAN B. LEFKOF and WILLIAM D. BAKER 17 Defendants.	Civil Action No. _____ COMPLAINT

19
20 Plaintiff Securities and Exchange Commission (the "Commission") alleges:

21 SUMMARY OF THE ACTION

22 1. This matter arises out of a financial reporting fraud scheme at Netopia, Inc. ("Netopia" 23 or the "Company"), an Emeryville, California corporation that provides broadband and wireless 24 products and services. In 2002 and again in 2003, Netopia improperly reported revenue on two 25 major software deals with a thinly capitalized customer who did not have the legal obligation to pay 26 for the software. As a result, Netopia reported inflated revenue in two fiscal quarters and posted its 27 first profitable quarter in over three years.

28 2. In both instances, Netopia's former head of worldwide sales, Thomas A. Skoulis, and 1 former head of software sales, Peter M. Frankl, arranged for the customer, a software reseller, to 2 place major orders with Netopia, while at the same time agreeing with the customer in undisclosed 3 “side agreements” that the reseller would not have a firm obligation to pay Netopia for the software.

4 For each transaction, Netopia improperly reported approximately $750,000 in revenue that was only 5 due if and when Netopia’s reseller customer was paid by an end user according to the side 6 arrangements.

7 3. Also, for the first transaction, Netopia’s then Chief Financial Officer William D.
8 Baker improperly authorized the Company to report the $750,000 of revenue notwithstanding 9 evidence that collection by Netopia was not probable.

10 4. In later efforts by Netopia to collect payment on the second transaction, first Baker 11 and then later Netopia Chief Executive Officer Alan B. Lefkof learned of the payment contingency 12 contained in the side agreement, but they failed to take immediate corrective action. As a result, 13 Lefkof and Baker allowed the Company to publicly treat the unpaid contract as a bad debt, and to 14 avoid reporting that Netopia had improperly inflated its revenue for the fiscal quarter and year ended 15 September 30, 2003.

16 JURISDICTION AND VENUE

17 5. The Commission brings this action pursuant to Sections 20(b) and 20(d) of the 18 Securities Act of 1933 (“Securities Act”) [15 U.S.C. §§ 77t(b) and 77t(d)] and Sections 21(d) and 19 21(e) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 (“Exchange Act”) [15 U.S.C. §§ 78u(d) and 78u(e)].

20 6. This Court has jurisdiction over this action pursuant to Sections 20(c) and 22(a) of the 21 Securities Act [15 U.S.C. §§ 77t(c) and 77v(a)] and Section 27 of the Exchange Act [15 U.S.C. § 22 78aa]. The defendants, directly or indirectly, have made use of the means and instrumentalities of 23 interstate commerce, of the mails, or of the facilities of a national securities exchange in connection 24 with the acts, practices and courses of business alleged in this complaint.

25 7. Venue is proper in this District pursuant to Section 22 of the Securities Act [15 U.S.C.
26 § 77v], and Section 27 of the Exchange Act [15 U.S.C. § 78aa]. Skoulis, Baker and Lefkof reside in 27 and acts or transactions constituting violations occurred in the Northern District of California.

2 INTRADISTRICT ASSIGNMENT

3 8. Assignment to the San Jose Division is appropriate pursuant to Civil Local Rules 3-4 2(c) and 3-2(d) because acts and omissions giving rise to the Commission’s claims occurred, among 5 other places in this district, in Santa Clara County.

6 DEFENDANTS

7 9. Thomas A. Skoulis, age 49, resides in Menlo Park, California. At the time of the 8 events alleged in the complaint, Skoulis was the Senior Vice President of Sales and an officer of 9 Netopia. In that position, Skoulis had responsibility for overseeing sales at Netopia. Skoulis was 10 fired by Netopia.

11 10. Peter M. Frankl, age 38, resides in Addison, Texas. At the time of the events alleged 12 in the complaint, Frankl was the Vice President of Sales and Marketing at Netopia, where he was 13 responsible for managing software sales. Frankl reported to Skoulis. Frankl was fired by Netopia.

14 11. Alan B. Lefkof, age 52, resides in Tiburon, California. At the time of the events 15 alleged in the complaint, Lefkof was the President, Chief Executive Officer and a member of the 16 board of directors of Netopia. Lefkof currently still holds those positions.

17 12. William D. Baker, age 59, resides in Fremont, California, and was a licensed Certified 18 Public Accountant in the State of Indiana. At the time of the events alleged in the complaint, Baker 19 was the Senior Vice President of Finance and Operations and the Chief Financial Officer of Netopia.
20 Baker was asked to resign by Netopia.

21 RELEVANT ENTITY

22 13. Netopia is a Delaware corporation headquartered in Emeryville, California. During 23 the time the events described herein occurred, Netopia maintained other offices, including an office 24 in Santa Clara County. Netopia develops, markets and supports broadband and wireless products and 25 services including both computer hardware and software. At the time of the events alleged in this 26 complaint, Netopia had common stock registered with the Commission pursuant to Section 12(g) of 27 the Exchange Act [15 U.S.C. § 78l(g)], which was listed on the NASDAQ National Market.

2 FACTUAL ALLEGATIONS

3 Netopia Enters into a Software Transaction in its Third Fiscal Quarter Ended June 30, 2002
4 Subject to an Undisclosed Payment Contingency

5 14. In 2002, Netopia’s software sales force, led by head of worldwide sales, defendant 6 Skoulis, and head of software sales, defendant Frankl, began negotiating the Company’s first sale to 7 Interface Computer Communications (“ICC”), a small software reseller that intended to resell 8 Netopia’s software to a public school district. ICC was a new customer to Netopia, with whom 9 Netopia had not previously conducted business.

10 15. On May 23, 2002, in Netopia’s third fiscal quarter, ICC issued a $1.6 million order to 11 purchase software from Netopia. The order represented one of the largest single orders for software 12 Netopia had received to date.

13 16. During negotiations, ICC’s president informed Frankl that if ICC was not paid by its 14 own customer, ICC could not pay Netopia. Frankl told Skoulis that ICC would not pay Netopia 15 unless and until ICC received a purchase order from the end user of the software, the public school 16 district.

17 17. The purchase order ICC submitted to Netopia stated on its face that ICC would make 18 two payments and that the “second payment [would] be made upon receipt of a second PO [Purchase 19 Order] from Board of Education...PO should be received in July and payment can be made in 20 August.” Skoulis and Frankl each saw the ICC purchase order, which indicated that ICC’s obligation 21 to pay Netopia was contingent on future events, and not a fixed certainty.

22 18. Frankl concealed the contingency from others at Netopia by directing that the 23 contingency language be physically redacted – “whited out” – from the face of ICC’s purchase order.
24 Frankl knew that a purchase order with the contingency language would be rejected by Netopia’s 25 order management department because Netopia could not record the sale as revenue during that 26 reporting period with the payment contingency. Netopia’s order management personnel entered the 27 ICC order into the system based on the redacted purchase order.
28

1 19. By reporting revenue on this transaction, Netopia violated Generally Accepted 2 Accounting Principles (“GAAP”), the accounting standards that public reporting companies must 3 follow in the United States. Since payment by ICC to Netopia was contingent upon ICC’s receipt of 4 its payment from its own customer, the transaction failed the GAAP requirement that ICC have a 5 fixed obligation to pay Netopia at the time Netopia recorded revenue from the transaction.

6 20. Even apart from this contingency, members of Netopia’s finance department informed 7 Baker that ICC did not have the financial strength to qualify for a $1.6 million line of credit. A credit 8 check performed by Netopia indicated that ICC qualified for at most $15,000 in credit – far lower 9 than the $1.6 million order. Pursuant to GAAP, a company cannot report revenue if it is not probable 10 that the company will be able to collect its purchase price from its customer. Baker nevertheless 11 authorized the recognition of revenue.

12 21. ICC paid Netopia the first installment of approximately $800,000 in late June 2002, 13 the last month of Netopia’s third quarter, after ICC’s school district customer made a payment to 14 ICC.

15 22. On August 14, 2002, Netopia filed with the Commission a quarterly report on Form 16 10-Q for the third quarter ended June 30, 2002. The financial statements in Netopia’s quarterly 17 report improperly included approximately $750,000 in revenue -- web platform licenses and services 18 revenue -- from the ICC transaction. At the time Netopia booked this revenue, collection by Netopia 19 on the remaining balance was not probable and ICC did not have an obligation to pay, and therefore 20 reporting the $750,000 in revenue was improper and violated GAAP. As a result, Netopia’s revenue 21 was inflated by 13.7 percent and its operating loss was understated by 13 percent. Netopia also 22 publicly announced the same falsely inflated third quarter financial results on July 23, 2002 in a press 23 release.

24 23. Consistent with the side arrangement, ICC did not pay the remaining balance 25 described in its purchase order to Netopia until months later, in September 2002, after ICC had 26 received a further payment from its school district customer.

27 24. Skoulis and Frankl knew, or were reckless in not knowing, that their undisclosed side 28 agreement with ICC altering the terms of the purchase order, and their concealment of the payment

1 contingency, would result in Netopia materially misstating its financial results to the public.
2 Separately, Baker knew, or was reckless in not knowing, that reporting revenue on the transaction 3 was improper because Netopia did not have a reasonable basis to believe that it would collect from 4 ICC.

5
6 Netopia Negotiates a Second Improper Transaction with ICC in the Fourth Fiscal 7 Quarter Ended September 30, 2003

8 25. In 2003, Netopia and ICC were discussing another possible software transaction for a 9 different school district. Based on early discussions, Skoulis included a $750,000 sale to ICC in his 10 forecast for sales to be completed by Netopia during the fourth quarter ending September 30, 2003.
11 However, as the end of Netopia's fiscal year drew to a close, Frankl informed Skoulis that ICC would 12 not be placing the $750,000 order by the end of the reporting period because the scope of ICC's 13 intended project with their customer had changed. This larger deal was in the preliminary stages.
14 Skoulis nevertheless directed Frankl to obtain a purchase order from ICC for $750,000, the amount 15 he had forecast.

16 26. On September 30, 2003, the final day of Netopia's 2003 fiscal year, ICC sent a 17 purchase order to Netopia for the purchase of software in the amount of $750,400. However, ICC 18 made the purchase order subject to another, undisclosed side agreement that materially altered the 19 terms stated in ICC's purchase order.

20 27. Under the terms of the side agreement, Frankl and Skoulis agreed, as a basis for ICC 21 submitting the $750,400 purchase order to Netopia, that ICC would not pay Netopia unless and until 22 ICC received a contract from ICC's school district customer. At the time, ICC had not yet obtained a 23 contract from the school district.

24 28. In early October 2003, in response to receiving a routine audit request from Netopia's 25 outside auditors asking that ICC confirm the terms of the September 2003 purchase order, ICC sent a 26 letter to Frankl confirming the side agreement.

27 29. ICC stated in the letter, dated October 7, 2003, that ICC's September 2003 purchase 28 order "is only valid upon ICC's receipt of a Purchase Order" from ICC's intended customer, a public

1 school district. ICC further stated that if the school district “decides at any point that they are no 2 longer interested in the Purchase of [Netopia software], ICC will not be held liable or accountable for 3 [its] Purchase Order” submitted to Netopia on September 30, 2003.

4 30. Frankl discussed the ICC side letter with Skoulis. Skoulis instructed Frankl not to 5 show the side letter to anyone else. Frankl kept the side letter in his desk drawer and did not forward 6 it to Netopia’s finance department, including the Company’s order management personnel.

7 31. Nevertheless, as part of the fraudulent scheme, Frankl, at Skoulis’ urging, contacted 8 ICC’s president and reaffirmed the side agreement: that ICC did not have to pay Netopia for the 9 September 2003 order until ICC was paid by its own customer.

10 32. Netopia recorded approximately $750,000 in revenue from the ICC purchase order for 11 the fourth quarter, although the payment contingency made it improper to do so under GAAP. As 12 with the earlier ICC transaction, recording revenue on a purchase order that was subject to a payment 13 contingency violated the GAAP requirement that the purchaser’s payment obligation be fixed at the 14 time Netopia recorded the revenue.

15 33. On December 19, 2003, Netopia filed with the Commission its annual report on Form 16 10-K for the fiscal year ended September 30, 2003, which included financial statements that were 17 improperly inflated by the approximately $750,000 in revenue -- web platform and services revenue - 18 -from the ICC order. As a result, Netopia’s revenue for the fourth quarter was overstated by 16 19 percent. The financial statements in the Form 10-K also materially overstated revenue based on the 20 order. Netopia reported quarterly income of approximately $300,000 – the Company’s first profit 21 since the quarter ended June 30, 2000. Without the falsely reported ICC transaction, Netopia’s 22 income would have actually reflected a loss of more than $400,000 for that quarter. Netopia publicly 23 announced its falsely inflated quarterly revenue and income in a November 5, 2003 press release.

24 34. Skoulis and Frankl knew, or were reckless in not knowing, that the undisclosed side 25 agreements with ICC altering the terms of the purchase orders, and their concealment of the payment 26 contingencies from others, would result in Netopia materially misstating its financial results to the 27 public.

28 Lefkof and Baker Learn of the Payment Contingency in 2004

1 35. Netopia CEO Lefkof and then-CFO Baker subsequently learned of the side agreement 2 with ICC. Nonetheless, as described below, they failed to take prompt corrective action, allowing the 3 Company to avoid reporting to the public that Netopia had improperly inflated its revenue for the 4 fourth quarter and its revenue for the year ended September 30, 2003 and understated its loss for the 5 same period.

6 36. In October 2003, Skoulis asked his superiors to approve extending typical payment 7 terms for the September 2003 purchase order. Extending the payment terms helped, for a time, to 8 conceal from Netopia's finance personnel and outside auditors the undisclosed payment contingency 9 in the side agreement because the finance personnel delayed taking steps to try to collect from ICC.

10 37. By April 2004 – over six months after the second sale to ICC – ICC had yet to pay any 11 of the $750,000 it supposedly owed Netopia. At Lefkof's direction, Baker, accompanied by Skoulis, 12 met with ICC's president. During the meeting, Baker learned of the improper side agreement making 13 payment contingent on ICC reselling the product to the school district (an event which had yet to 14 transpire).

15 38. Baker subsequently attended a meeting of Netopia's Audit Committee on April 19, 16 2004. Although ICC was discussed, Baker failed to report the payment contingency. Instead, Baker 17 agreed that he would try to obtain a payment schedule from ICC.

18 39. On April 27, 2004, ICC sent Baker a proposed payment schedule expressly providing 19 that such payments would be contingent on ICC's receipt of payments from the end user school 20 district. Baker asked Frankl to have the ICC email establishing the payment schedule "cleaned up" 21 so that the document did not contain the contingent payment language.

22 40. Frankl emailed ICC with instructions to "cut and paste" the payment schedule he 23 provided into an email to Baker eliminating the contingent language. Based on Frankl's instructions, 24 ICC provided an email that had no reference to the end user school district and did not contain the 25 contingent payment language.

26 41. On May 6, 2004, Baker falsely informed the Audit Committee that there was a firm 27 payment schedule and that ICC would have the cash available on the dates in the schedule to make 28 the payments. On June 18, 2004, after ICC failed to make the payments in accordance with the April

1 payment schedule, Netopia sent a demand letter to ICC. In response, ICC informed Netopia's 2 controller, who in turn informed Lefkof, that ICC refused to pay Netopia and claimed that the 3 September purchase order was not valid.

4 42. Two weeks later, on July 2, ICC provided a copy of the October 7, 2003 side letter to 5 Netopia, a copy of which was received by Lefkof.

6 Lefkof and Baker Allow the Company to Issue a False Press Release on July 6, 2004

7 43. On July 6, 2004, Lefkof and Baker participated in an Audit Committee meeting to 8 review a press release that Netopia planned to issue later that day. Among other things, the press 9 release announced that the Company was going to write off the ICC receivable as a bad debt. Both 10 Lefkof and Baker understood that a write-off would only be appropriate if the ICC transaction was 11 properly recorded as revenue in the first instance; the side letter, however, suggested that the 12 transaction was improperly recorded, and that the Company's financial statements for the year ended 13 September 30, 2003 might need to be restated. Nonetheless, during this meeting, neither Lefkof nor 14 Baker mentioned the side letter or the contingency to the Audit Committee members.

15 44. Instead, the Audit Committee approved the press release, which was issued by 16 Netopia on July 6, 2004, and filed with the Commission as an exhibit to a current report on Form 8-K 17 signed by both Lefkof and Baker.

18 Subsequent Events and the Restatement

19 45. On July 12, 2004, Netopia's Audit Committee obtained a copy of the October 7, 2003 20 side letter modifying ICC's September 2003 purchase order.

21 46. On July 22, 2004, after the close of the market, Netopia announced that the board's 22 Audit Committee was conducting an internal investigation. The next trading day after the Company 23 made the announcement, the closing price of its common stock fell from $4.31 per share to $3.60 (a 24 16 percent decline).

25 47. On February 1, 2005, following the internal investigation by Netopia's Audit 26 Committee, Netopia announced it was restating its financial statements due to the two improperly 27 recorded software transactions (as well as other unrelated items). For the first ICC transaction, 28 recorded as revenue in the quarter ended June 30, 2002, Netopia eliminated $750,000 of software

1 license revenue, deferring $632,000 of such revenue to the following quarter. After elimination of 2 the improperly recorded revenue from the 2002 ICC transaction, Netopia's restated software revenue
3 for the second quarter ended June 30, 2002 declined to $4.7 million, or by approximately 13.7 4 percent from the originally reported revenue. Similarly, Netopia's restated operating loss for that 5 period increased by approximately 13 percent, to $5.7 million.

6 48. For the second ICC transaction, recorded as revenue in the fourth quarter ended 7 September 30, 2003, Netopia eliminated software license, maintenance and deferred revenue of 8 $750,400. Consequently, Netopia's overall restated revenue for the fourth quarter of 2003 declined 9 to $3.9 million from what the Company had previously reported, or by approximately 16 percent.
10 Eliminating the revenue from the ICC transaction resulted in Netopia reporting an operating loss of 11 approximately $400,000 for the fourth quarter of 2003, rather than the previously-reported profit of 12 approximately $300,000.

13 Skoulis and Frankl Were Unjustly Enriched by their Fraudulent Scheme

14 49. During the period from 2002 through 2004, Skoulis and Frankl were unjustly enriched 15 by their conduct at Netopia, including compensation from Netopia. In addition, Skoulis and Frankl 16 sold Netopia common stock during and immediately after their participation in the fraud. Skoulis 17 sold approximately 47,500 shares of Netopia stock. Frankl sold approximately 5,000 shares of 18 Netopia stock.
