Form 10-K for the fiscal year ended July 31, 2008

Results of Operations

Item 7- MD&A

1. We note your response to our prior comment 1. However, we continue to believe your discussion and analysis of costs of goods sold is significantly limited and should be supplemented with or, preferably, replaced by more comprehensive disclosures than that currently presented that includes separate quantification and discussion of changes in significant components of costs of goods sold.

Additionally, a significant portion of the disclosures with respect to your results of operations states dollar and percentage changes in revenues, gross profit, SG&A, and operating profit, is in only provided in narrative form. In addition, while you discuss certain factors to which changes are attributable, you do not quantify all of these factors nor analyze the underlying business reasons for the changes. We believe your disclosures could be improved by:

- using tables to present dollar and percentage changes in amounts, rather than including such information in narrative form;
- using additional tables to list, and quantify all of the material individual factors to which changes in amounts are attributable;
- refocusing the narrative text portion of the disclosure on analysis of the underlying business reasons for the individual factors in the tables above;
- ensuring that all material factors are quantified and analyzed; and
- quantifying the effects of changes in both price and volume on revenues and expense categories, where appropriate.

Item 8- Financial Statements and Supplementary Data

Consolidated Statements of Operations, page F-6

2. We note your response to our prior comment 2. However, we can not concur with your conclusions and reissue our prior comment. We note from the description of your business model that your personnel are an integral part of your revenue generation processes and future revenue growth. In this regard, your personnel provide the logistical support requested by your customers and their ability to provide such support is critical to your operations. Additionally these fulfillment (labor personnel) costs are direct to the revenue generation and earnings process. Therefore, in being a service company, it appears personnel costs is a major component in providing a service activity that should be included before reporting a performance (profitability) measure and we believe that the presentation of a gross profit measure that excludes your personnel costs is not appropriate. In addition, based on the reporting by others in the logistics service provider industry, your presentation does not appear to conform to standard industry practice. Therefore, in absence of compelling evidence or authoritative guidance indicating that providing this performance measure would not be misleading to your investors, please discontinue your presentation of gross profit and revise your results of operations discussion in MD&A as necessary.

Notes to the Consolidated Financial Statements

Note 8- Income Taxes, page F-17

We note your response to our prior comment 5. However, the classification of your employees as independent contractors has a direct impact on your income taxes and, therefore, it appears it is within the scope of paragraph 4(d) of FIN 48. As such, we reissue our prior comment. You indicate that the adoption of FIN 48 did not have a material effect on your financial position. However, based on your contingency disclosures on pages F-16, it appears that you have taken uncertain tax positions (in relation to the classification of employees as independent contractors) whose outcome could have a material impact on your financial statements. In this regard, it appears that you should revise your filing to comply with the disclosures requirements in paragraph 20 of FIN 48 for this and any other uncertain tax position.
