EMPEROR PURSUES RESTRUCTURE PLAN

Following a strategic review undertaken by Emperor Mines Limited ("Emperor" or the "Company") together with its major shareholder DRDGold Limited ("DRDGold"), Emperor (ASX:EMP) is considering a restructure of the Company in order to retire long term debt and ensure the full potential value of Company assets can be achieved. This process has the full support of major credit providers ANZ Banking and DRDGold.

The strategic review examined potential reconfigurations of mine and exploration assets at a range of production levels, together with the attendant funding options, and concluded that the Company should consider either the divestment of certain key assets, or seek a suitable merger partner in order to grow the value of the Company's asset base. Emperor is now pursuing these re-structuring options and has appointed Rothschild Australia Limited to assist it in this process.

The strategic review also concluded that further capital is required to realise the full potential value of Emperor's assets. Accordingly, a new short term finance facility has been arranged with ANZ to fund the restructure process. The first tranche of this facility, totalling approximately USD$15 million, has now been drawn down with a further tranche expected to be finalised shortly. This facility provides Emperor with capacity to pursue several restructuring options, and will be repaid for the proceeds of the restructure.

The Company has committed to a plan to repay this facility within an agreed timeframe.

The Company has also moved to reduce corporate costs, including a reduction in staff levels at the Brisbane corporate office.

Update on operations

During the past two quarters production across the group was impacted by a number of unforeseen events, which together significantly altered the forecast production and cash flow profiles of the group.

As a consequences of the cessation of further mining Vatukoula, combined with the ongoing political uncertainty surrounding Emperor's ability to fully realise the residual value of its Fiji assets, it has become necessary for the Company to write off much of the value of those assets.

This decision, coupled with production losses arising during the first half of the year, is expected to result in a likely loss to the Emperor group after tax of between $200million - $230million for that period. This information has not been reviewed or audited. Further information will be provided in the half-yearly report, expected for release late February 2007.

Fiji operations

As previously announced, the Company's Vatukoula mine in Fiji has ceased production and has been placed on care and maintenance. The Company has been working with the Interim Fiji Government in relation to the future of Vatukoula, and is now actively considering a divestment of the Fiji assets which also include the Tuvatu gold deposit and regional exploration assets in Fiji.

The assets at Vatukoula may still represent residual value to the group, and provided that the Company is able to properly and lawfully deal with those assets, options for realising that value could be reasonably pursued.

The operations of the group in Fiji have been complicated by the political events in Fiji, and by actions taken by the Fijian military in occupying parts of the Vatukoula mine site from the weekend of January 7 and 8.

A further announcement regarding the Fiji assets will be made in due course, following ongoing discussions with the Interim Government of Fiji and other interested parties.

PNG operations

As previously announced, Tolukuma and Porgera have experienced a number of interruptions to production due to a range of causes over the past six months.

Porgera has experienced a temporary reduction in production due to lightning damage to the Hides power generation plant late last year, however repairs are now well under way, and the management of the Porgera Joint Venture report that these are likely to be complete in the coming month, following which the operation will return to normal production levels. "We remain upbeat about the potential for further growth at Porgera", Mr Gordon said.

Tolukuma has also experienced production issues in the past quarter, following damage to the mill infrastructure at the mine in late November last year. Repairs were effected quickly and were completed in early December with the mine operating well since then.

Exploration

Exploration activity is continuing in Papua New Guinea, with near-mine exploration at Tolukuma concentrated around the Zine and Fundoot structures, and regional exploration taking place on Exploration leases 1271 and 1366, located to the North of Tolukuma.

The Company has also been in discussion with potential exploration Joint Venture partners, included three major copper producers, regarding opportunities for more advanced exploration targeting gold / copper targets on Emperor's exploration leases.

NOTE: Emperor's quarterly operating report will be released shortly, providing further information on the Company's activities in the last quarter. A half yearly financial report will also be released to the market in late February.
