The information contained herein with respect to the three month periods ended March 31, 2003 and March 31, 2002 and the period from September 25, 1996 (inception) through March 31, 2003 has not been audited but was prepared in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles for interim financial information and instructions for 10-QSB and Item 310(b) of Regulation S-B. Additional financing or a joint venture relationship will be required by the Company to fund its activities.

Certain amounts in 2002 have been reclassified to conform to current year presentation.

Variable Gear will pay the Company 4% royalties for 7 years after which the Company is obligated to repurchase the license. Variable Gear is owned 51% by Robert C. Horton, Chairman and CEO of Ultrafab, Inc. and a Company shareholder. The Company owns the remaining 49%. The Company does not share in any profit or losses in this entity. Variable Gear has initiated discussions with a number of boat manufacturers, but to date it has not commenced operations or sublicensed our automotive technology in its markets.

The Company's overall business strategy relating to its ice technology is to

- o to continue our development efforts necessary to position the ice technology for sale or license to one or more candidates, whether domestic or foreign;
- o to license or sell the ice technology.

The Company's ice technology is held through its majority-owned subsidiary, Ice Surface Development, Inc. Our subsidiary has made significant progress in identifying three distinct methods for de-icing -- electrolysis, high frequency and pulse. It is currently developing with a joint venture partner a coating process designed to enable microcircuitry to be applied to glass surfaces without visual distortion. Our subsidiary is actively seeking a partner in the power supply field to assist it develop an industry-acceptable power supply for the ice technology.

The Company's license agreement with Dartmouth provides for a royalty of 3.5% based on the value of net sales of licensed product with minimum annual payments of $10,000 for the first two years, $15,000 for the third year and $25,000 per year thereafter. In addition, the agreement provides for the payment of 50% of sub-license fee income.

Recent Developments

We are on the threshold of completing, installing and testing our infinitely variable transmission in our Dodge Ram 4 x 4 pick-up truck. Specifically, to May 14, 2003,

- o we have completed the bench testing of all IVT components - hydraulic pistons, gear arrangements, electronic controls, overdrive controls and required force to turn each component (pump and motor; input drive shaft to measure parasitic losses). We confirmed through our internal testing that these components can be turned with minimum effort (by hand) in contrast to the considerable force required for turning automatic transmission components;
- o we have completed the necessary software systems to collect working performance data, such as hydraulic flow, temperature, pressures, etc., with respect to the IVT in suitable format to satisfy auto-related parties;
- o we have installed the assembled IVT in the Dodge Ram 4 x 4 truck to assure there was no interference with the exhaust system, floor boards and drive shaft to complete the matchups of input and output couplings - e.g. engine mounting surfaces and transfer case;
- o we confirmed, as we expected, through our internal testing, that our IVT is interchangeable with the commercial automatic transmission that it replaced;
- o now that the IVT is installed, we anticipate completing the hydraulic plumbing, electronic circuitry and data acquisition models within two to three weeks;
- o we are pleased with the cooperation we have received to date from Cummins and Daimler-Chrysler who assisted us in meeting our internal timetable;
- o upon completion of the plumbing, electronic circuitry and data acquisition modeling, we will then test the Dodge Ram truck with functioning IVT for total operating performance on a stationary platform;
- o upon meeting our internal benchmarks for performance, we will briefly "break-in" the Dodge Ram 4 x 4 with functioning IVT through actual city and expressway driving;
- o upon the completion of the brief break-in period, we will road-test the Dodge Ram 4 x 4 with functioning IVT under the auspices of an independent, EPA-certified agency to compare the fuel economy and emission reductions of the Dodge Ram with our infinitely variable transmission with a Dodge Ram with identical equipment with a conventional four-speed transmission;
- o we will announce the results of this testing as soon as they become available, which we expect will be this June.

It should be noted that the achilles heel of any automatic transmission in combination with either a gas or diesel engine is the torque converter:

"the technical characteristics of the conventional planetary-type torque converter in automatic transmissions do not match the attributes of a diesel engine. Diesel engines reach their maximum torque at very low revolutions, but planetary transmissions do not operate very efficiently at low revolutions. As a result, conventional four-speed transmissions mated to diesels suffer a 20 percent loss of fuel efficiency."

Bernd Matthes, Director of Dual Clutch Transmission Systems at BorgWarner Automotive, as taken from an article appearing in Automotive News, April 21, 2003.

Torvec's IVT DOES NOT HAVE, NEED OR USE ANY TORQUE CONVERTER but rather Torvec's unique pump and motor system, which is a significantly more efficient hydraulic system compared to commercially available pump and motor systems. We believe that this system will enable our IVT to double the city-driving efficiency of a comparable gasoline powered Dodge Ram 4 x 4.

The Company believes that the modern diesel engine is the solution to the current world-wide need for fuel economy and reduced emissions. Currently, there appears to be no efficient transmission, automatic or otherwise, for diesel engines. We believe that our IVT will be the benchmark for fuel efficient and emissions resistant transmission compatible with diesel - as well as gas-engines, and add to the performance of futuristic fuel-cell technology currently being developed.

Certain First Quarter Information

The net loss for the three months ended March 31, 2003 was $531,000 as compared to the three months ended March 31, 2002 net loss of $1,418,000. The decrease in the net loss of $887,000 is principally related to a decrease in wage expense. During the three months ending March 31, 2002 wages charged operations were $240,000 and a charge of $618,000 for the value of options forfeited in exchange for the interest in subsidiary as compared to zero for the three months ending March 31, 2003.

Research and development expenses for the three months ended March 31, 2003 amounted to $327,000 as compared to $227,000 for the three months ended March 31, 2002. The increase amounted to $100,000 and is principally due to an increase in consulting work for Ice Technology.

General and administrative expenses for the three months ended March 31, 2003 amounted to $295,000 as compared to $1,191,000 for the three months ended March 31, 2002. This decrease amounted to $896,000 and is principally due the same reasons as noted in the second above preceding paragraph.

Liquidity and Capital Resources

The Company's business activities during the quarter ended March 31, 2003 were funded through the purchase of 111,112 common shares for proceeds of $100,000.

At March 31, 2003, the Company's cash position was $130,000 and it had a working capital deficit of $164,000. Included in the Company's current liabilities are amounts payable of $138,000 which the Company believes will be paid with future issuances of stock.

The Company's cash position at anytime during the quarter ended March 31, 2003 was directly dependent upon its success in selling stock since the Company did not generate any revenues. The Company does not anticipate generating any revenues from its business activities during the balance of its 2003 fiscal year.

During the quarter ended March 31, 2003 the Company issued 238,387 shares to business consultants under its Business Consultants Stock Plan in exchange for ongoing corporate legal services, internal accounting services, marketing research expenses, legal fees and associated expenses for ongoing patent work and reimbursement of ongoing employee expenses.

In addition, during the three months ended March 31, 2003, 9,140 restricted shares were issued for services, and 130,000 shares were issued in payment of accrued compensation to former officers.

We have not continued to access our Swartz equity line due to current stock market conditions. The Company believes that, depending upon the short-term success of its ongoing negotiations with one or more joint venture candidates, it may be required to initiate a private placement in order to raise capital to build up to two production ready state-of-the-art FTVs.

At March 31, 2003 loans payable and advances to stockholders and officers amounted to $28,000 and are non-interest bearing and have no fixed date of repayment.

The Company has an obligation to purchase 51% of Variable Gear, LLC on January 1, 2008. The purchase price is equal to 51% of the then value of Variable Gear, as determined by an independent appraiser selected by the parties. This liability can not be estimated at this time. We believe that contributions of cash flows from operations, financing and strategic alliances will produce sufficient cash flow to fund this obligation.

Subsequent Event

On May 5, 2003 a shareholder agreed to purchase 250,000 restricted common shares in a private transaction at the closing price for our common stock on that day. The Company received proceeds of $200,000 on May 7, 2003. These monies will be used to continue the implementation of our business plans, including the promotion of the Company's infinitely variable transmission.

Critical Accounting Policies

Revenue Recognition

Revenue in connection with the granting of the license to Variable Gear, LLC is to be recognized when all conditions for earning such fee is complete. Generally, revenue is only recorded when no future performance is required related to the item.

Impairment of Long-Lived Assets

The Company has adopted SFAS No. 144, "Accounting for the Impairment of Disposal of Long-Lived Assets." Accordingly, whenever events or circumstances indicate that the carrying amount of an asset may not be recoverable, management assesses the recoverability of the assets. Management is also required to evaluate the useful lives each reporting period. When events or circumstances indicate, our long-lived assets, including intangible assets with finite useful lives, are tested for impairment by using the estimated future cash flows directly associated with, and that are expected to arise as a direct result of, the use of the assets. If the carrying amount exceeds the estimated undiscounted cash flows, an impairment may be indicated. The carrying amount is then compared to the estimated discounted cash flows, and if there is an excess, such amount is recorded as an impairment.

Impact of Inflation

Inflation has not had a significant impact on the Company's operations to date and management is currently unable to determine the extent inflation may impact the Company's operations during the quarter ending March 31, 2003.

Quarterly Fluctuations

As of March 31, 2003, the Company had not engaged in revenue producing operations. Once the Company actually commences significant revenue producing operations, the Company's operating results may fluctuate significantly from period to period as a result of a variety of factors, including purchasing patterns of consumers, the length of the Company's sales cycle to key customers and distributors, the timing of the introduction of new products and product enhancements by the Company and its competitors, technological factors, variations in sales by product and distribution channel, product returns, and competitive pricing. Consequently, once the Company actually commences significant revenue producing operations, the Company's product revenues may vary significantly by quarter and the Company's operating results may experience significant fluctuations.

CONTROLS AND PROCEDURES

Eric Steenburgh and Samuel M. Bronsky, the Company's chief executive officer and chief financial officer, respectively, have informed the Board of Directors that, based upon their evaluations of the Company's disclosure controls and procedures on a date within 90 days of the filing of this Quarterly Report (Form 10-QSB), such disclosure control and procedures are effective to ensure that information required to be disclosed by the Company in the reports it submits under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 is accumulated and communicated to management (including the chief executive officer and chief financial officer) as appropriate to allow timely decisions regarding required disclosure.

There were no significant changes in the Company's internal controls or in other factors that could significantly affect the controls since the date of their evaluation.
