Dear Mr. Rounds:

We have reviewed your response letter dated November 16, 2006 and have the following additional comment. If you disagree, we will consider your explanation as to why our comment is inapplicable. After reviewing this information, we may or may not raise additional comments.

Form 10-K for the year ended December 31, 2005

Note 5 – Equipment Financing and Sales of Notes Receivable, page 78

1. We have read your response to prior comment 3 in our letter dated November 3, 2006. Notwithstanding the fact that SFAS 140 is not specific as to which line item within a statement of operations such activity should be classified, it remains unclear to us that revenue classification is appropriate. In this regard, it does not appear appropriate to classify the gain on sale of notes receivable as well as the servicing fees and interest income on beneficial interests retained as revenues because the transfer of the notes receivable is unrelated to the transaction originally generating the receivable. In future filings please reclassify these gains and fees to a separate line item within your operating income and separately discuss such amounts in Management's Discussion and Analysis.
