Management's Discussion and Analysis or Plan of Operations

Overview

Secure Blue, Inc. (formally known as Eight Ball Corporation) has experienced increasing net losses from operations for the last three fiscal years. The Company has considered a number of estimates and assumptions through these periods to provide a means to evaluate the costs of operations versus revenues, and appropriately adjust business objectives and plans to sustain and grow profitable the Westchester Sports Grill business. Inherently, the best efforts of management may be subject to contingencies and uncertainties beyond the control of Secure Blue, Inc. (formally known as Eight Ball Corporation). Such factors may include domestic economics and competitive pressures.

Secure Blue, Inc.'s (formally known as Eight Ball Corporation) management had projected continued operations of the Westchester Sports grill could be achieved without the need for additional funding or financing. However, either short-term or long-term funding would be considered necessary if operations could not be sustained through revenues; that is, the short term goal that the Westchester Sports Grill would become self-sustaining had to be achieved.

In consideration of the current fiscal year expenses and operations, management had considered the possibility of a business acquisition or merger to be in the best interests of the shareholders of Secure Blue, Inc. (formally known as Eight Ball Corporation). To such end, the company, in January 2003, began discussions and negotiations with CardioBioscience Corporation in anticipation of a business combination that subsequently never transpired.

In February 2003, the company has entered into a Letter of Intent with Omega Information Solutions, Inc. in anticipation of a business combination, with such activity pending as needed to reach agreements and actions necessary to complete such anticipated business merger.

In March 2003, the Company entered into an Agreements and Plan of Merger with to merge with Omega Information Solutions, Inc. to acquire the assets of Omega subject to completion of mutual due diligence examination of the Company and Omega. To accomplish the Agreement, the Company will acquire all of Omega's outstanding common stock owned by the shareholders of Omega. Omega shareholders shall receive a total of twelve million (12,000,000) shares of the Company's common stock, which shall constitute approximately sixty percent (60%) of all the outstanding shares of the Company's common stock upon closing of the Agreement, in exchange for all of the Omega shares.

Financial Condition and Results of Operations

For the fiscal years 2002, 2001, and 2000; the company has achieved gross profits of $167,358, $132,780, and $164,543. Selling, general and administrative expenses for these periods were $198,837, $144,973, and $168,280; contributing to net losses for each period of $34,623, $15,337, and $6,881.

Liquidity and Capital Resources

The company has been dependent upon operations for cash flow; On October 9, 1997, the Company issued 50,000 shares of its common stock for $50,000 cash. On September 15, 1998, the Company completed a public offering that was offered without registration under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended, in reliance upon the exemption from registration afforded by sections 4 (2) and 2 (b) of the Securities Act and Regulation D promulgated thereunder. The Company sold 100,000 shares at a price of $0.04 per share for a total amount raised of $25,000.

The company currently relies on advances from officers to supplement cash flows. No commitments are in place to continue these cash advances. Cash available at the end of each of the prior three fiscal years is: 2002 = $0, 2001 = $0, and 2000 = $109.

Forward-Looking Statements

Certain statements concerning the Company's plans and intentions included herein may constitute forward-looking statements for purposes of the Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995 for which the Company claims a safe harbor under that Act. There are a number of factors that may affect the future results of the Company, including, but not limited to, (a) the ability of the company to obtain additional funding for operations, (b) the continued availability of management to develop the business plan and (c) successful development and market acceptance of the company's products.

Board of Directors
Eight Ball Corporation
Las Vegas, Nevada

We have audited the accompanying balance sheet of Eight Ball Corporation as of December 31, 2002; and the related statement of operations, stockholders' equity and cash flows for the period ended December 31, 2002. These financial statements are the responsibility of the Company's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audit.

We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion.

In our opinion, the financials referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of Eight Ball Corporation at December 31, 2002; and the results of operations and their cash flows for the period ended December 31, 2002 in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles.

The financial statements for the quarter ended March 31, 2002 and years ended December 31, 2001 and December 31, 2000 were audited by other auditors and they expressed an unqualified opinion on them in their report dated May 3, 2002.

EIGHT BALL CORPORATION

Notes To Financial Statements

NOTE 1 – HISTORY AND ORGANIZATION OF THE COMPANY

The Company was organized on October 9, 1997 under the laws of the State of Nevada, under the name Eight Ball Corporation. The Company operates in the pool hall and restaurant industries.

NOTE 2 – SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

1. The Company uses the accrual method of accounting.
2. Estimates-The preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities, disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities, and the reported amounts of revenue and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.
3. Cash and Cash Equivalents-For the statements of cash flows, all highly liquid investments with a maturity of three months or less are considered to be cash equivalents. There were no cash equivalents as of December 31, 2002, December 31, 2001 and December 31, 2000.
4. Inventory-Inventories are stated at the lower of cost (which approximates first-in, first-out cost) or market.
5. Property and Equipment-Property and Equipment is stated at cost. Depreciation is recorded using the straight-line method over the estimated useful life of the asset of three to seven years.
6. Income taxes-Income taxes are provided for using the liability method of accounting in accordance with Statement of Financial Accounting Standards No. 109 (SFAS #109) "Accounting for Income Taxes." A deferred tax asset or liability is recorded for all temporary differences between financial and tax reporting. Deferred tax expense (benefit) results from the net change during the year of deferred tax assets and liabilities.
