1. We note your response to comment 1 in our letter dated October 18, 2012. It is our understanding that the legal right that you specifically gave the holders of your registered notes gives them the ability to foreclose on the capital stock of your operating subsidiaries in the event of default. This provision was referenced on the prospectus cover page and presumably gives your investors an additional means to secure repayment in the event that the subsidiaries do not satisfy their obligations as guarantors. While we understand that the noteholders also have some security interests in the underlying assets of the subsidiaries, it can obviously be more difficult, costly and time consuming for holders of the notes to foreclose on the assets of a subsidiary they don't control, rather than to foreclose directly on its capital stock. Consequently, we continue to believe that you need to inform investors about the extent to which their foreclosure right is limited by your Article 3-16 exclusion provision. Based on your current market capitalization and the 43 subsidiaries listed in Exhibit 21, it would not be apparent to investors that any of your subsidiaries are currently impacted by your Article 3-16 exclusion. Your letter to us however states that certain subsidiaries are impacted but the number and materiality of these subsidiaries has not been disclosed. As previously requested, please provide the following information in your future filings:

- a. that the exclusion applies to the capital stock of any subsidiary collateralizing the Notes where the greater of the book value or market value (fair value) of the subsidiary capital stock equals 20% or more of the current principal amount of the registered notes;
- b. the name(s) of any subsidiary that as of the latest Balance Sheet date (1) has capital stock collateralizing the Notes, and (2) has the greater of the book value or market (fair) value of its capital stock equaling 20% or more of the current principal amount of the registered notes;
- c. the aggregate percentages of consolidated assets, revenue, and pre-tax income which is comprised of the subsidiaries identified in b. above;
- d. that based on the applicable data as of the latest Balance Sheet date, the security interest held by Noteholders in the capital stock of the subsidiaries identified in b. above could be significantly limited; and
- e. that the subsidiaries impacted by the Article 3-16 exclusion may change based on the corresponding changes in the values of the capital stock as well as changes in the outstanding principal amount of the registered Notes.

2. We note your response to comment 5 in our letter dated October 18, 2012. Please expand your disclosures in future filings to clarify that the financial valuation model used to estimate the fair value of your restricted stock grants with market conditions is appropriate for path-dependent options and that the expense recognized will be recognized regardless as to whether the market conditions are met. Please refer to ASC 718-10-30-14 for guidance.

3. We note your response to comment 7 in our letter dated October 18, 2012, in which you agreed to provide the disclosure required by Note 1 to Article 3-10(f) of Regulation S-X in your future filings. However, you did not provide the required disclosure in your Form 10-Q filed on November 9, 2012. Please confirm that you will provide the disclosure in all future periodic reports (i.e., Forms 10-K and 10-Q) to the extent that the Convertible Secured Notes are outstanding.

4. We note the discussion and analysis you provided for income (loss) from operations in response to comment 3 in our letter dated October 18, 2012. Please expand your disclosure of income (loss) from operations to include a discussion and analysis at the segment level, as we note the profit measure your CODM uses to assess performance and allocate resources is segment operating income (loss). Please refer to Item 303(a) of Regulation S-K and Section 501.06.a. of the Financial Reporting Codification for guidance.
