Dear Mr. Bies:

We have reviewed your response letter dated June 3, 2008 in connection with the above-referenced filing and have the following comment. If indicated, we think you should revise your document in response to this comment. If you disagree, we will consider your explanation as to why our comment is inapplicable or a revision is unnecessary. Please be as detailed as necessary in your explanation. In our comment, we may ask you to provide us with supplemental information so we may better understand your disclosure. After reviewing this information, we may raise additional comments. Form 10-K for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2007

Note 13. Taxes on Income, page 100

1. Please explain further the following with regards to the information provided in your response to our prior comment 5:
 - You indicate that management's forecast of future domestic earnings for the subsequent five years was more than sufficient to support the utilization of the Company's domestic net operating loss carryforward as of December 31, 2007 and 2006. Please provide your forecasts and related assumptions for the next five years that were used in your analysis and explain, in detail, how management determined the reasonableness of achieving such future domestic earnings, especially considering the nominal domestic pre-tax earnings for the last three fiscal years ($3.6 million) and the domestic pre-tax loss in the first quarter of fiscal 2008 of $6.8 million.

- You further indicate that the Company considered potential tax-planning strategies that might be available to prevent the Company's domestic net operating loss carryforwards from expiring unused, one of which is the repatriation of excess cash from the Company's foreign subsidiaries to the US parent. Please tell us how you determined that the accelerating the repatriation of foreign earnings is a valid tax planning strategy considering the disclosures in your Form 10-K, which state "[w]e have not provided for income taxes on cumulative undistributed earnings of subsidiaries outside the United States because of our intention to indefinitely reinvest those earnings." In this regard, tell us whether the Company has recognized a deferred tax liability for existing undistributed earnings or has a pattern of remitting earnings that is expected to be continued in the future. If not, then tell us what literature you are relying on in concluding that the repatriation of excess cash can be used as a tax-planning strategy in your valuation analysis.
