Engineering Comments

1. We note your response to our comment in which you explain the 0.30 grams per tonne gold cutoff was chosen based on continuity as demonstrated by variograms, cross sections and plan maps with acceptable levels of confidence. These are valid reasons for selecting a cutoff grade or preparing a mineral envelope, but the reasonable prospects for economic extraction are not demonstrated, as this criterion does not affect your resource estimate as the gold price is varied from $10 to $1,000 per ounce. This lack of sensitivity to commodity price gives your resource estimate the appearance of a mineral inventory or a tabulation of mineralization. Your statement regarding a typical heap leach scenario, as documented by your qualified person, should provide the required information in regard to commodity price, operating cost, and metallurgical recovery. In the event your resource estimates do not demonstrate economic viability, please remove them from your filing.
