Hewlett-Packard and WordLogic Reach a Settlement

VANCOUVER, British Columbia – (BUSINESS WIRE)-July 23, 2004 -WordLogic Corporation (OTCBB:WLGC) announced today that it has reached a settlement regarding WordLogic's alleged copyright infringement suit against HP. Under the terms of the settlement, neither company could comment on the terms of the settlement.

In December 2002, WordLogic filed action in the United States District Court for the Northern District of California (San Jose Division) against HP, and was scheduled for trial later this year.

"This is a very positive result for everyone concerned. We are pleased to have this dispute behind us." stated Frank Evanshen, CEO of WordLogic Corporation.

About WordLogic Corporation: WordLogic Corporation is a progressive developer and licensor of advanced text input software for wireless information devices. WordLogic addresses the need of mobile device manufacturers to offer their customers a simpler and easier method of entering information into mobile devices. Incorporated in the United States, the company's research, testing and marketing facilities are located in Vancouver, Canada.

This release contains 'forward-looking statements' within the meaning of Section 27A of the Securities Act of 1933 and Section 21B of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934. Any statements that express or involve discussions with respect to predictions, expectations, beliefs, plans, projections, objectives, goals, assumptions or future events or performance are not statements of historical fact and may be 'forward-looking statements'.
