Financial Statement Estimates

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with generally accepted accounting principles may require management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

NOTE 1 - SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES (CONTINUED)

Revenue Recognition

In May 2014, the Financial Accounting Standards Board, ("FASB"), issued ASU 2014-09, Revenue from Contracts with Customers (Topic 606). ASU 2014-09 is a comprehensive new revenue recognition model requiring a company to recognize revenue to depict the transfer of goods or services to a customer at an amount reflecting the consideration it expects to receive in exchange for those goods or services. The Company adopted this guidance for the annual period beginning January 1, 2018 using the modified retrospective transition method. There were no changes to prior period presentations of revenue. Results of operations for reporting periods beginning January 1, 2018 are presented under Topic 606. The adoption of Topic 606 did not have a material impact on our financial statements.

The Company's revenue from licensing agreements is based on the number of shares traded using the licensed software and recognized when the trades occur. Upfront fees from customers are deferred and recognized over the life of the contract. Some agreements may provide for a maximum annual fee payable by a customer. In such cases, if the Company determines based on the proportionate number of shares traded as of the balance sheet date, that the volume of shares traded will result in the maximum being reached, the revenue is recognized on the straight-line basis over the life of the contract. Some agreements provide for a minimum monthly fee. In such cases, the Company recognizes as revenue the greater of the minimum fee or the amount calculated based on trading volume.

Accounts Receivable and Allowance for Doubtful Accounts

The Company's trade accounts receivable is recorded at amounts billed to customers and presented on the balance sheet net of the allowance for doubtful accounts, if required. The allowance is determined by a variety of factors, including the age of the receivables, current economic conditions, historical losses and other information management obtains regarding the financial condition of customers. The policy for determining past due status of receivables is based on how recently payments have been received. Receivables are charged off when they are deemed uncollectible, which may arise when customers file for bankruptcy or are otherwise deemed unable to repay the amounts owed to the Company.

Income Taxes

No provision is required for federal and state taxes on the income of the Company. The Company is a limited liability company for federal and state tax purposes whereby the income of the Company is taxed to the members. The Company remains liable for New York City and various other state taxes.

Sales Tax

The sales taxes charged by the Company to customers are presented in the financial statements on a net basis and accordingly, excluded from revenues and costs.

Future Adoption of New Applicable Accounting Standards

In February 2016, the FASB issued ASU No. 2016-02, "Leases (Topic 842)" ("ASU 2016-02"). ASU 2016-02 requires lessees to recognize a right-of-use asset and lease liability for all leases with a term longer than 12 months and disclose key information about leasing arrangements. The recognition, measurement and presentation of expenses and cash flows arising from a lease by a lessee have not significantly changed from the current U.S. GAAP. The Company will adopt ASU 2016-02 as of January 1, 2019 using the modified retrospective approach. The new guidance is not expected to materially impact the Company's statement of financial condition or net capital.
