EXPRESSJET ANNOUNCES EXECUTION OF UNILATERAL AMENDMENT OF 4.25% CONVERTIBLE NOTES DUE 2023

HOUSTON, July 30, 2008 — ExpressJet Holdings, Inc. (NYSE: XJT) announced today it has executed a supplemental indenture to unilaterally amend the indenture governing its 4.25% convertible notes due 2023. The company announced on July 22 that it had determined to enter into this amendment in order to provide improved terms and additional flexibility for the noteholders, and both the trustee under the indenture and the company executed the amendment earlier today.

The benefits of the amendment will apply to any noteholder holding the notes on August 2, 2008 following the consummation of the exchange offer that is currently being conducted as required by the indenture. Under the current indenture, noteholders may require the company to exchange their notes on August 1, 2008 and the company has begun the required exchange offer with the intention to satisfy the obligation wholly in shares of common stock. Those noteholders who retain their notes will automatically receive the benefits of the unilateral amendment, including:

- Security based on a pro-rata amount of collateral appraised at approximately $181 million, including approximately $96 million in spare parts and $85 million of spare engines;
- Coupon increased from 4.25% to 11.25% over the remaining note term; and
- An additional put right in three years or on August 1, 2011.

Now that the company and trustee have executed the supplemental indenture and the related security agreement, the company has filed these documents with the Securities and Exchange Commission via a Form 8-K, which is available on the SEC's Internet site (<http://www.sec.gov>).

Important Information Regarding Tender Offer

This report is not a recommendation, an offer to purchase or a solicitation of an offer to sell any securities of the company. The company has commenced such tender offer as required under the indenture and filed with the SEC a tender offer statement on Schedule TO-I and related exhibits, including an offer to exchange, letter of transmittal and related documents. The company has also mailed such materials to the noteholders. Noteholders are urged to carefully read these documents, as they contain important information, including the various terms of, and conditions to, the tender offer. Noteholders can obtain a copy of the tender offer statement on Schedule TO-I, offer to exchange, letter of transmittal and related documents free of charge from the SEC's EDGAR database, which can be accessed through the SEC's Internet site (<http://www.sec.gov>).

Forward Looking Statement

Some of the statements in this document are forward-looking statements that involve a number of risks and uncertainties. Many factors could affect actual results, and variances from current expectations regarding these factors could cause actual results to differ materially from those expressed in the forward-looking statements. Some of the known risks that could significantly impact revenues, operating results and capacity include, but are not limited to the company's continued dependence on Continental for the majority of its revenue; the company's new operations are less profitable than historical results; record-breaking fuel prices; competitive responses to the company's branded entry into new markets; certain tax matters; reliance on technology and third-party service providers; flight disruptions as a result of operational matters; regulatory developments and costs, including the costs and other effects of enhanced security measures and other possible regulatory requirements; competition and industry conditions. Additional information concerning risk factors that could affect the company's actual results are described in its filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission, including its 2007 annual report on Form 10-K. The events described in the forward-looking statements might not occur, or might occur to a materially different extent than described herein. The company undertakes no duty to update or revise any forward-looking statements, whether as a result of new information, future events or otherwise.
