Archstone-Smith Announces Corporate Governance Improvements

DENVER — September 21, 2004 — Archstone-Smith (NYSE:ASN) announced today that its Board of Trustees approved two new corporate governance improvements. First, the Board voted to terminate its Shareholder Rights Agreement (commonly known as a “poison pill”) effective October 1, 2004. In addition, the company will include in its 2005 Proxy Statement a proposal for shareholder consideration to amend the company’s Declaration of Trust to eliminate the staggered Board, effective with the election of Trustees in 2006.

“These changes continue our track record of shareholder-friendly actions, such as completing one of the largest share repurchase programs in the industry and not raising equity capital simply because the window is open,” said R. Scot Sellers, chairman and chief executive officer. “We look forward to continuing to identify new ways to enhance shareholder value”

These actions were taken following a comprehensive review of the company’s governance policies undertaken by the Board’s Nominating and Corporate Governance Committee over the past year. Archstone-Smith’s corporate governance guidelines, code of ethics and business conduct and committee charters are available on the company’s web site at www.ArchstoneSmith.com, in the “Corporate Governance” section of the Investors portion of the site.
