NEWS RELEASE

Positive Results from Metallurgical Tests on Sulfide Mineralization from Mulatos Gold Project, Sonora, Mexico

Vancouver, British Columbia – Alamos Gold Inc. is pleased to announce that metallurgical test work carried out by Resource Development Inc. (RDi) on sulfide-rich gold mineralization from the Company's Mulatos Gold Project indicates a maximum of 87.5 % of the total gold in sulfide mineralization can be leached with cyanide. This test work confirms that Mulatos ore is not refractory due to sulfides and that previous projected heap leach recoveries can be increased with finer crushing and/or extending leach times. The heap leach recovery of finer crushed sulfide ore and the economics of achieving this recovery will be determined with column and bulk sample leaching tests, and engineering currently underway.

Alamos submitted 11 samples of sulfide mineralization from 2 tunnels in the heart of the orebody to RDi for compositing and testing. The results are as follows. The composite sample assayed 1.89 g/t gold, 4.26 % sulfur and 120 ppm copper. Hot cyanide shake tests performed on the pulverized composite sulfide sample indicated 87.5% of the gold was cyanide soluble. Bottle roll tests were performed on the composite sample at a grind of 80 % minus 200 mesh. Cyanidation of the finely ground ore for 72 hours resulted in a gold extraction of 87 %. The extraction vs. leach time curve indicated gold recovery was not complete.

These tests indicate the sulfide ore is not refractory, but leaches at a slow rate. These results in conjunction with cyanide soluble data indicate the finer the particle size the faster it leaches and the more it leaches. This is new, positive data. The ultimate gold deportation from sulfide ore was not known, but it was previously reported that leaching 18 mm (3/4 inch) sulfide ore in a column for 525 days resulted in a gold extraction of 71.5 % compared to 48.9 % gold extraction for 12 mm (1/2 inch) sulfide ore leached in a column for 28 days. These test results were a strong indication to Alamos that sulfide ore gold recoveries might be increased by crushing finer and/or leaching longer. Alamos has now proven this to be so.

Alamos recognized the potential of raising the overall heap leach recovery of the orebody by crushing the ore finer and conducted preliminary field column tests in 2002 on fine crushed (~ 1/8 inch) sulfide ores and obtained between 85 and 88% recovery.

With these encouraging results, Alamos contracted RDi to perform an independent review of the previous metallurgical test work on the Mulatos Project. Alamos and RDi developed a series of metallurgical test programs to obtain the data to raise gold recovery. The test programs consist of laboratory, column, crushing and bulk heap leach tests.

The next phase of testing, column tests on bulk samples from 2 tunnels, are in progress at Metcon Research Inc. (Metcon) in Tucson, Arizona. Fine crushing tests with a high pressure grinding roll (HPGR) crusher have been completed on a similar bulk sample at Polysius Corp. in Germany. These samples are being shipped to Metcon for testing to determine if there is a more favorable recovery response and economics from HPGR crushed ores. Alamos personnel are preparing to mine a 2,000 tonne sample from the tunnels for a bulk heap leach test at the mine site in Sonora, Mexico. Alamos will do trade-off studies with the results from these tests. The more favorable economics of crushing ores finer and/or leaching longer to raise overall heap leach recovery will be incorporated in the new Mulatos Feasibility Study that is currently in progress at M3 Engineering in Tucson.

Judgment on the Ejido Lawsuit

Vancouver, B.C. - Alamos Gold Inc. announces that a judgment was rendered by the Agrarian Court concerning two disputes between the Company and the Mulatos Ejido in Hermosillo, Mexico. The Ejido (the surface rights holders), disputed the validity of the 1995 Surface Agreement and the Company's right to reduce the amount of land under its lease to develop the Mulatos, Escondida and El Victor deposits and its annual lease payments.

The Court found in favour of the Mulatos Ejido on the payment issue on the basis that the Company did not correctly notify the Mulatos Ejido of the area and price reductions notwithstanding the notices and tender of a reduced lease payment by the Company. The Court ruled that the Mulatos Ejido were entitled to be paid US$336,972 in the year 2002 and US$334,375 in the year 2003.

The Court denied the claim to void the 1995 Surface Agreement. Accordingly, the Company is of the view that it is entitled to reduce the area and yearly payments by providing proper notice. The Company intends to reduce the lease area and bring its yearly payments down to approximately US$53,000 annually.

The Company and its counsel are in the process of reviewing the 425 page judgment in detail and intend to lodge an appeal. Notwithstanding the results of the lawsuit, the Mulatos Ejido officials and the Company have been conducting meetings and are working toward improving communications to establish a baseline of information for negotiation and increased cooperation.

d) Stock-based compensation

The fair value of stock options determined in the calculation of compensation expense is estimated using the Black-Scholes Option Pricing Model which following assumptions; risk-free interest rate - 4.3%; expected dividend yield - Nil; expected stock price volatility - 47%; and expected option life - 5 years.

The pro forma effect on net loss and loss per share for the period ended June 30, 2003 for the stock options granted to directors and employees using the fair value method, is as follows:

	Net loss for the period $	Basic and diluted loss per share $
	<hr/>	<hr/>
Reported	(432,597)	0.01
Pro-forma	(976,483)	0.03

Option pricing models require the input of highly subjective assumptions, particularly as to the expected price volatility of the stock. Changes in these assumptions can materially affect the fair value estimate, and therefore it is management's view that the existing models do not necessarily provide a single reliable measure of the fair value of the Company's stock option grants.

11. ACQUISITION OF NATIONAL GOLD

The Company acquired on February 21, 2003, all of the outstanding shares of National Gold Corporation ("National"), the Company's joint venture partner on the Salamandra property, by the issue of 13,373,291 shares of the Company valued at $8,000,000. The acquisition has been accounted for by the purchase method and the operating results of National are included in the consolidated statement of operations from the effective date of the acquisition.

SCHEDULE "C"
MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS
For the Quarter Ended June 30, 2003

1.) Description of Business:

The Company is in the gold mining business in Mexico. It has acquired a significant mineral property in the State of Sonora and is working towards placing this Mulatos property into commercial production.

2.) Operations:

The Company is doing feasibility work which is expected to provide the information needed for production planning. Other activities that are being pursued include infrastructure improvements, community relations, exploration, and a search for equipment and operating personnel.

The feasibility work is being done under the direction of M3 Engineering who are expected to furnish a completed report in approximately 9 months time. Currently, the work consists mainly of metallurgical testing done in part by consultants in Arizona and in part by Company personnel on site. In the fourth quarter of 2003, the Company expects to commence open cut mining to expose the ore and start mining tests. A small scale bulk heap leach test of fine-crushed ore will also be done. Mining contractors will be hired to do some of this work.

Infrastructure improvements that are currently underway include upgrades to the public road between the village of Sahuaripa and Mulatos as well as roads within the village of Mulatos itself. The construction of a new camp, water supply system, test leaching facility, mine haul roads, and an airstrip will be started soon.

Community relations center around dealing with the Ejido or co-op that owns the land. A dispute over a key provision in the contract with the Ejido is awaiting a judge's ruling. The provision was used by Alamos to reduce the annual rental payments, which brought on a lawsuit. The judge's ruling may not settle all of the problems with the Ejido but it should provide the basis for an out-of-court settlement. An effort to improve communications between the Company and the many individuals that make up the Ejido has been started. A number of Ejido members have been hired. Certain improvements to the village of Mulatos have also been initiated.

An exploration program is set under the supervision of Ken Balleweg who has extensive knowledge of the area resulting from his employment as senior project geologist for Placer Dome, the former owner. This program will consist mainly of underground drilling and mapping and is expected to not only increase the understanding of the higher grade zones in the deposit, but also increase the ounces of gold in the reserves. A second look will also be done on several other promising mineral zones within the portfolio owned by Alamos. An application to acquire certain other nearby mineralized zones has been made.

3.) Financings / Subsequent Events

During the first half of 2003, a total of 4.8 million warrants were exercised to bring in C$2.5 Million.

Subsequent to June 30, the Company closed a private placement of 8.5 million units @C$1.45 per unit for gross proceeds of C$12,325,000. Each unit consisted of one common share and a half of transferable share purchase warrant. Each full warrant entitles the holder thereof to purchase one additional share of Alamos at a price of C$1.75 for a one year period following the closing. The shares, warrants and any shares issuable on the exercise of the warrants are subject to a hold period expiring December 22, 2003.

At the time of writing this report, the Company has C$13.8 Million in treasury.

The Company has given notice that it will pay back 50% of the long-term loan from H. Morgan & Company.

4.) Liquidity

The Company continues to demonstrate its ability to raise funds in the capital market and remains confident that it will meet all its operating and financial obligations.
