NOTE 1 — ORGANIZATION AND SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES:

Organization:

Genesis Financial, Inc. (“the Company” or “Genesis”) was incorporated in Washington State on January 24, 2002. The Company is primarily engaged in the business of purchasing and selling real estate receivable contracts, initiating new real estate loans and periodically providing bridge capital funding. Receivables contracts consist of real estate contracts and mortgage notes collateralized by primarily first position liens on residential and commercial real estate. The receivables collateralized by real estate are typically non-conventional either because they are originated as a result of seller financing, or the underlying property is non-conventional.

The Company invests in receivables contracts using investor funds, equity funds and funds generated from external borrowings including a line of credit facility from an affiliated shareholder.

The unaudited financial statements have been prepared by the Company in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America for interim financial information, as well as the instructions to Form 10-Q. Accordingly, they do not include all of the information and footnotes required by accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America for complete financial statements. In the opinion of the Company’s management, all adjustments (consisting of only normal recurring accruals) considered necessary for a fair presentation of the interim financial statements have been included. Operating results for the nine-month period ended September 30, 2008 are not necessarily indicative of the results that may be expected for the full year ending December 31, 2008.

For further information refer to the financial statements and footnotes thereto in the Company’s Annual Report on Form 10-K for the years ended December 31, 2007, 2006, 2005, and 2004.

Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

Use of estimates – The preparation of financial statements in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenue and expenses during the reporting period. Significant estimates used herein include those relating to management’s estimate of market value of contracts and real estate held in inventory. It is reasonably possible that actual results could differ from those and other estimates used in preparing these financial statements and such differences could be material.

Cash and cash equivalents – Cash and cash equivalents consist of demand deposits, including interest-bearing accounts, held in a local bank. The Company maintains cash balances in various depository institutions that periodically exceed federally insured limits. Management periodically evaluates the creditworthiness of such institutions. The Company considers all highly liquid investments purchased, with an original maturity of three months or less, to be a cash equivalent.

Investments – The Company’s investments are considered available for sale instruments. The cost of securities sold is determined by the specific identification method. Net unrealized holding gains and losses are reported as accumulated other comprehensive income, a separate component of stockholders’ equity. Declines in the fair value of individual available-for-sale securities below their cost that are other than temporary, result in a write-down of the individual security to its fair market value; write-downs are reflected in earnings as a realized loss on available-for-sale securities. Factors affecting the determination of whether an other-than-temporary impairment has occurred include a downgrading of the security by a rating agency, a significant deterioration in the financial condition of the issuer, or that management would not have the intent or ability to hold a security for a period of time sufficient to allow for any anticipated recovery in fair value.

Inventories

Contracts receivable

Real estate contracts held in inventory for resale are carried at the lower of cost (outstanding principal adjusted for net discounts, deferred origination fees and capitalized acquisition costs) or fair market value, determined on an aggregate basis by major type of receivable. Interest on these receivables is included in interest income during the period held for sale. Until the contract is sold, contract origination fees received from borrowers are deferred and amortized into income over the established average life of related loan under a method which approximates the effective interest rate method.

The Company holds contracts in inventory pending sale. Typically, the Company attempts to sell contracts three to twelve months after acquisition. It is the policy of the Company not to hold any contracts for investment purposes.

Real Estate

Real estate owned represents property acquired by foreclosure, deed in lieu of foreclosure or purchase, and is initially recorded at the lower of cost or fair value minus estimated selling costs at the date of acquisition. Fair market value is determined via (1) appraisal provided by a certified appraiser, (2) BPO (Broker's Pricing Opinion) provided by a qualified real estate broker, (3) site inspection by qualified management of the Company, or (4) a combination of all of the above. Costs relating to the improvements of the property are capitalized. Holding costs are charged to expense as incurred. Subsequent to the foreclosure the property is advertised for rent or sale. Management makes the determination of whether to rent or to sell the property on a case-by-case basis. Real estate owned is not depreciated. Impairment changes are recognized when the fair market value of the property falls below its carrying value.

Allowance for Losses

The Company evaluates the estimated market value of its contracts and real estate held in inventory at the end of each financial reporting period and adjusts the carrying values to reflect decreases in fair market value below cost. Fair market value is determined via (1) appraisal provided by a certified appraiser, (2) BPO (Broker's Pricing Opinion) provided by a qualified real estate broker, (3) site inspection by qualified management of the Company, or (4) a combination of all of the above. Currently the Company breaks its properties into the following categories: residential properties, commercial properties, and land.

Processing fees – Genesis earns fees for processing contracts that it has sold. Genesis collects processing fees, generally expressed as a percent of the unpaid principal balances, from the borrowers' payments. Such fees also include late fees, prepayment penalties, and other ancillary fees and are recognized as servicing fee income when the fees are collected. During any period in which the borrower is not making payments, Genesis generally will advance its own funds to pay property taxes and insurance premiums and process foreclosures. Genesis also advances funds to maintain, repair and market foreclosed real estate properties on behalf of investors. We are entitled to recover advances from borrowers for reinstated and performing loans and from investors for foreclosed loans. We record a charge to earnings to the extent that advances are uncollectible, taking into consideration historical loss and delinquency experience, length of delinquency and the amount of the advance.

Contract sales – Contracts are considered sold when the Company surrenders control over the transferred contract to the investors, with standard representations and warranties, and when the risks and rewards inherent in owning the contracts have been transferred to the buyer. At such time, the contract is removed from inventory and a gain or loss is recorded on the sale. Gains and losses on contract sales are determined based on the difference between the allocated cost basis of the assets sold and the proceeds. Losses related to recourse provisions, if any, are accrued as a liability at the time such additional losses are determined, and recorded as part of non-interest expense.

Customer advances – From time-to-time, customers deposit funds with the Company for general purposes pending a real estate receivable contract purchase or loan closing. The Company records these customer advances as a liability when received and the amounts are offset against the contract or loan delivered to the customer when the purchase is closed. The closings generally occur within a relatively short time after receipt of the advance from the customer.

Genesis Financial, Inc.
Notes to Financial Statements

Income tax – Deferred taxes are provided, when material, on a liability method whereby deferred tax assets are recognized for deductible temporary differences and deferred tax liabilities are recognized for taxable temporary differences. Temporary differences are the differences between the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and their tax bases. Deferred tax assets, subject to a valuation allowance, are recognized for future benefits of net operating losses being carried forward.

Earnings per share – Basic earnings per common share have been computed on the basis of the weighted-average number of common shares outstanding during the period presented. Diluted earnings per common share is computed on the basis of the number of shares that are currently outstanding plus the number of shares that would be issued pursuant to outstanding warrants, stock options and common stock issuable on conversion of preferred stock. For all periods presented, earnings per share and weighted average share amounts reflect the two for one stock split that occurred in 2007.

NOTE 2 — INVESTMENTS IN SECURITIES AVAILABLE FOR SALE:

During the nine months ended September 30, 2008, the Company wrote down the value of certain investment securities because management believed their decline in market value was other than temporary. These writedowns resulted in a realized loss of $386,468. There were no writedowns during the nine months ended September, 2007.

NOTE 3 — INVENTORY:

Real Estate:

The Company's real estate inventory balances consisted of the following:

	September 30, 2008	December 31, 2007

Ending balances	$ 1,697,602

Genesis Financial, Inc.
Notes to Financial Statements
September 30, 2010

The Company did a carrying value analysis of their portfolio during the third quarter, and due to the nation-wide plunge of real estate values, wrote-down the property values accordingly. One write-down on a large residential land development in Southern California was 75% of the appraised value, resulting in a loss provision increase of $798,750. Also in the third quarter a business startup loan went into default, and the Company expected a complete write-off, and increased the loss provisions by the full $284,843 balance owing. In addition, a 15 unit apartment complex in Ohio was damaged in a flood, and subsequently taken over by black mold during the foreclosure process, resulting in a $313,166 loss.

NOTE 5 — LINE OF CREDIT:

At September 30, 2008, the Company had a $1,000,000 Line of Credit with RiverBank, an unaffiliated lender, with a variable interest rate equal to the prime rate index rate (as published in the Wall Street Journal) plus 1%, totaling 8.25%. The line has a term of 12 months, and an origination fee of 1%, or $10,000. The outstanding balance at March 31, 2007 was $1,150,000. The RiverBank line of credit is senior to the CFC line of credit and is secured by the assets of Genesis. The RiverBank line requires that the CFC line may not be paid down lower than the amount owing to RiverBank at any time during the term of the loan. The line is payable on demand and is personally guaranteed by John and Wendy Coghlan.

At September 30, 2008, the Company had a $2,500,000 Line of Credit Agreement with the Coghlan Family Corporation, Inc. (“CFC”). Subsequent to December 31, 2007, the line of credit was renewed for $2,500,000 with the same terms.

NOTE 6 – SUBSEQUENT EVENTS

The country’s economic environment since December 31, 2007 has steadily worsened, having a dramatic affect not only on the Company’s profitability, but also on the Company’s business focus and organizational structure.

Throughout 2008, the nation’s financial markets continued to tighten. The two big national players in the seller financed real estate receivables, Bayview and C-Bass, both retracted from the market due to the disintegration of the securitization markets. Many of the big players in the commercial hard money lending market (i.e. PointCenter, Premier, Scripps) either discontinued their lending programs, or shut their doors all together.

The Company experienced increased delinquencies and repossessions due to the inability of our borrowers to refinance their loans, or sell their property. The void left by the exit of Bayview and C-Bass from the seller financed markets, coupled with the poor performance of the commercial loans, dictated that the Company re-focus their business direction from hard money lending to acquiring seller financed real estate receivables. The increase in delinquencies and repossessions resulted in decreased revenues and profitability. The Company was forced to reevaluate not only the operational structure going forward, but also the corporate structure itself.

Effective January 1, 2009, Genesis Financial, Inc. outsourced its’ day-to-day management and servicing operations to Genesis Finance Corporation (GFC), an affiliated company solely owned by Michael A. Kirk. GFI pays a combination management and servicing fee of $6,000 per month to GFC for these services. This arrangement resulted in material monthly savings to GFI in operational expenses. In addition to the monthly management fee, GFC will retain any spread income generated from those investor-owned deals they assumed the management of. The Company’s forward focus is to keep expenses to a minimum, while reducing debt as they work through the problem delinquencies and repossessions. Their business focus has shifted from the commercial hard money loans to the acquisitions of seller financed real estate receivables.

Effective January 1, 2009, Director and majority shareholder, John R. Coghlan, was appointed Co-President and Chairman of the Board of Genesis Financial, Inc. Michael A. Kirk was appointed Co-President, CEO, and Director of the Company, and James Bjorklund remained a Director. Douglas Greybill left the Company.

In April, 2010 Genesis Financial, Inc. completed a private placement of 1,000,000 shares of common stock at $.10 per to accredited investors.

NOTE 7 – FAIR VALUE OF FINANCIAL INSTRUMENTS:

The carrying amounts cash and cash equivalents, inventories – contracts, investments in securities available for sale, and lines of credits approximate their fair value because of the short maturity or holding period of these instruments.

Effective January 1, 2008, accounting principles require an entity to maximize the use of observable inputs and minimize the use of unobservable inputs when measuring fair value. The new accounting principles establish a fair value hierarchy based on the level of independent, objective evidence surrounding the inputs used to measure fair value. A financial instrument's categorization within the fair value hierarchy is based upon the lowest level input that is significant to the fair value measurement. Inputs are prioritized into three levels that may be used to measure fair value:

Level 1: applies to assets or liabilities for which there are quoted prices in active markets for identical assets or liabilities.

Level 2: applies to assets or liabilities for which there are inputs other than quoted prices that are observed for the asset to liability such as quoted prices for similar assets and liabilities in active markets; quoted prices for identical assets or liabilities in markets with insufficient volume or infrequent transactions (less active market); or model-derived valuation in which significant inputs are observable or can be derived principally from, or corroborated by, observable market data.

Level 3: applies to assets or liabilities for which there are unobservable inputs to the valuation methodology that are significant to the measurement of the fair value of the assets or liabilities.

At September 30, 2008, our financial instrument measured at fair value on a recurring basis consists of investments in securities available for sale which is measured using Level 1 inputs.

NOTE 8 – LEGAL PROCEEDINGS:

In June, 2008 three members of Valencia, LLC filed suit against Genesis Financial, Inc., Valencia LLC and both LLC managers Michael A. Kirk and Brad E. Herr. The suit alleged that although Kirk and Herr, (the Company's former CFO) had acquired a majority approval of a settlement, the magnitude of the settlement that occurred during 2007 required a unanimous approval of the members, not simply a majority. The language of the LLC Operating Agreement was vague, and a ruling in favor of the plaintiffs would have resulted in an unwinding of a settlement with Cherry Grove. That result would not have been beneficial to either the Genesis shareholders, or the Valencia LLC members. A settlement was reached January, 2009, whereas Genesis agreed to re-distribute their 52.5% interest; which had no carrying value, amongst the Valencia LLC members. In addition, Genesis was reimbursed for $25,000 of their legal expenses. Valencia paid a settlement amount of $95,000 to the plaintiffs from future credit sales.

Item 2. Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operation

When used in this Form 10-Q and in our future filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission, the words or phrases will likely result, management expects, or we expect, will continue, is anticipated, estimated or similar expressions are intended to identify forward-looking statements within the meaning of the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995. Readers are cautioned not to place undue reliance on any such forward-looking statements, each of which speaks only as of the date made. These statements are subject to risks and uncertainties, some of which are described below. Actual results may differ materially from historical earnings and those presently anticipated or projected. We have no obligation to publicly release the result of any revisions that may be made to any forward-looking statements to reflect anticipated events or circumstances occurring after the date of such statements.

Background

Genesis Financial, Inc. is engaged in the business of buying and selling seller financed real estate contracts ("contracts"), and originating commercial real estate hard money loans. We purchase contracts at a discount and hold them in inventory for a relatively short period to provide seasoning and value appreciation. After the holding period, we sell the contracts. We expect to derive operating revenues from resale's of contracts at a profit, and from interest income derived from contracts during the holding period. We originate commercial real estate loans and sell the loans, or participations in those loans, to accredited private investors. From time to time, we also consider other forms of cash flow instruments when warranted. Additional details about our business are set forth in our Annual Report on Form 10-K.

The following discussion should be read in conjunction with the financial information included elsewhere in this Quarterly Report on Form 10-Q.

The purpose of this section is to discuss and analyze our financial condition, liquidity and capital resources and results of operations. You should read this analysis in conjunction with the financial statements and notes that appear elsewhere in this Quarterly Report on Form 10-Q. This section contains certain "forward-looking statements" within the meaning of federal securities laws that involve risks and uncertainties, including statements regarding our plans, objectives, goals, strategies and financial performance. The Company's actual results could differ materially from the results anticipated in these forward-looking statements as a result of factors set forth under "Disclosure Regarding Forward-Looking Statements" in this Quarterly Report on Form 10-Q.

PLAN OF OPERATIONS

Over the course of the next twelve months, we will continue to develop our operations along the lines of our growth since inception. We are not yet funded to a level that allows holding of significant amounts of contracts and loans. As a result, we will continue to work toward short term inventory turnover. We originally anticipated holding most of our contracts and loans between three and six months, and then selling them in the secondary markets. Through the first nine months of 2008, the disappearance of the secondary markets has required the company to make adjustments. We are either holding these contracts in inventory, or selling them individually as opportunities arise. We will continue to focus our efforts towards developing relationships with investors who are interested in the individual contracts and loans, versus the pools. In order to achieve our targeted growth, we will require additional investors and capital. If additional investors and capital are not available, our growth plans will be delayed and profitability will be negatively impacted.

Over the past two years, we have seen an increase in delinquencies, resulting in increased costs of collection and litigation. The increase in delinquencies has also resulted in an increase in repossessions. These repossessions tie up capital until the collateral properties can be resold, and require additional capital to maintain the properties during the holding period until a sale can be achieved. In addition, if property values continue to decline, our ability to recoup the value of our receivables through a resale of the property will be adversely affected. If real estate market values continue to decline, our growth plans will be delayed and profitability will be negatively impacted.

RESULTS OF OPERATIONS

Quarter ended September 30, 2008 compared to quarter ended September 30, 2007.

Revenues

Total revenues for the quarter ending September 30, 2008 was $198,708 compared to $243,506 for the same quarter September 30, 2007. The majority of revenue was generated from interest and broker fee income.

During the quarter ended September 30, 2008, we sold $10,696 of contracts and real estate properties compared to $26,758 for the quarter ended September 30, 2007. The cost of sales, generating gross profits from contract sales and real estate properties was $-0- for the quarter ending June 30, 2008 as compared to $28,241 for the quarter ended September 30, 2007.

Our ending inventory for the quarters ending September 30, 2008 and 2007 consisted of contracts and real estate properties with a cost basis of $7,783,634 and $8,756,543, respectively.

We also earned $157,045, and $278,902, respectively of interest, processing and other income, and $30,967 and ($33,913), respectively, in broker and contract extension fees.

Net aggregate total revenues for the quarters ending September 30, 2008 and 2007 were $198,708 and $243,506, respectively, generating net income (loss) from operations of ($1,550,703) and ($135,661), respectively for each quarter.

Of the contracts held in inventory at September 30, 2008 and 2007, contracts with aggregate values of $1,868,668, and $124,308, respectively, were in payment default. We believe this increase in defaults was related to the national real estate market collapse.

General and Administrative Expenses

General and administrative expenses ("G&A") quarters ended September 30, 2008 and 2007, were $125,151 and $125,127, respectively. G&A primarily consists of executive and director salaries, rent and professional fees for legal, accounting and public relations, utilities, and maintenance. The year over year increases and (decreases) for the fiscal quarters ended September 30, 2008 and 2007 were $24 and $36,513, respectively. The primary reason for the decrease was the reduction compensation and related expenses for the quarter ended September 30, 2007.

Interest Expense

For the quarters ending September 30, 2008 and 2007, interest expense amounted to $54,482 and $123,226, respectively.

Interest expense was incurred on borrowings under lines of credit with RiverBank, an unaffiliated lender, and Coghlan Family Corporation, an affiliated company.

We are currently operating under a primary $1,500,000 line of credit with RiverBank, an unaffiliated lender, with a variable interest rate equal to the prime rate index rate (as published in the Wall Street Journal) plus 1%. The line of credit also includes a one percent origination fee.

We also are currently operating under a secondary $2,500,000 line of credit with Coghlan Family Corporation, an affiliated company, bearing interest at the rate of eight percent (8%). The line of credit also includes a one-half percent origination fee.

We consider the terms of the lines of credit to be acceptable. As of September 30, 2008 and December 31, 2007, the balances on the lines of credit were $3,500,000 and $3,150,000, respectively. Interest expense on the line of credit will fluctuate in future periods with inventory levels. The increase (decrease) for the lines of credit for the nine months ending September 30, 2008 and 2007, were $350,000 and $1,608,962, respectively.

Nine Months ended September 30, 2008 compared to nine months ended September 30, 2007.

Revenues

Total revenues for the quarter ending September 30, 2008 was $967,780 compared to $1,572,757 for the same period September 30, 2007. The majority of revenue was generated from interest and broker fee income.

During the nine months ended September 30, 2008, we sold $10,696 of contracts and real estate properties compared to $700,379 for the nine months ended September 30, 2007. The cost of sales, generating gross profits from contract sales and real estate properties was $-0- for the nine months ended September 30, 2008 as compared to $581,599 for the nine months ended September 30, 2007.

Our ending inventory for the nine months ending September 30, 2008 and 2007 consisted of contracts and real estate properties with a cost basis of $7,783,634 and $8,504,528, respectively.

We also earned $619,279, and $856,830, respectively of interest, processing and other income, and $337,805 and $597,147, respectively, in broker and contract extension fees.

Net aggregate total revenues for the nine months ending September 30, 2008 and 2007 were $967,890 and $1,572,757, respectively, generating net income (loss) from operations of ($1,334,969) and $348,098, respectively for the nine months.

General and Administrative Expenses

General and administrative expenses ("G&A") for the nine months ended September 30, 2008 and 2007, were $373,486 and $463,380, respectively. G&A primarily consists of executive and director salaries, rent and professional fees for legal, accounting and public relations, utilities, and maintenance. The year over year increases and (decreases) for the nine months ended September 30, 2008 and 2007 were $(89,894) and $32,894, respectively. The primary reason for the decrease for the nine months ending September 30, 2008 was the reduction compensation and related expenses.

Interest Expense

For the nine months ending September 30, 2008 and 2007, interest expense amounted to $209,485 and $261,279 respectively.

LIQUIDITY AND CAPITAL RESOURCES

The Company's principal sources of cash are from related party loans, unaffiliated party loans, funding agreements and common stock private placements. The Company anticipates that our primary uses of cash will need to be supplemented in order to meet the demands upon its current operations, and the need for additional funds to finance ongoing acquisitions of seller financed real estate receivables and originations of commercial real estate hard money loans, and the expense of the litigating of delinquent contracts and loans, and the maintenance and resale costs of repossessed properties.

At September 30, 2008 and December 31, 2007, we had cash available of $8,050 and $165,174, respectively, and $500,000 and $1,039,906, respectively available under our lines of credit.

At September 30, 2008 and December 31, 2007, we were holding contracts and real estate properties in inventory with an aggregate cost of $7,783,634 and $8,080,449, respectively.

At September 30, 2008, we operated under two lines of credit:

The primary line of credit with RiverBank, an unaffiliated lender, bearing interest at a variable rate equal to the prime rate index rate plus 1%. The line of credit requires a one percent origination fee that is payable in cash. The line is for a 12 month term, and expired on August 24, 2008. The line of credit was renewed for 2009. We believed the terms of the line of credit were acceptable.

The secondary line of credit with Coghlan Family Corporation, an affiliated company, bearing interest at the rate of eight (8%) per annum. The line of credit requires a $20,000 origination fee that is payable in cash. The line is for a 12 month term, and expires on 12/31/08. The line of credit was renewed for 2009. We believed the terms of the line of credit were at least as favorable as those available to us from an unaffiliated lender.

Pursuant to the terms of our line of credit agreements with our primary line of credit holder, RiverBank (RB), an unaffiliated lender, we have provided RB with a blanket security agreement in all of our assets. The security agreement will remain in place so long as amounts are due RB under the line of credit. Our contract and loan inventory represented the primary asset that secured the RB loan. In the event of default on the line, RB will be in a position to foreclose their security interest in any or all of our assets, up to the balance due on the line plus interest and costs. Our secondary line of credit with Coghlan Family Corporation (CFC) also provides guarantees of performance on the primary lines of credit, as well as guarantees of size limits on the amounts of the lines of credit on the secondary lines of credit.

Pursuant to the terms of our line of credit with our secondary line of credit holder, Coghlan Family Corporation (CFC), an affiliated company, we have provided CFC with a blanket security agreement in all our assets, junior only to the primary line of credit holder blanket security agreement. The security agreement will remain in place so long as amounts are due CFC under the line of credit. Our contract and loan inventory represents the primary asset that secured the CFC loan. In the event of default on the line, CFC will be in a position to foreclose their security interest in any and all of our assets, up to the balance due on the line, plus interest and costs, plus the amount necessary to pay off the primary line of credit holders.

Our capital resources have occasionally been strained, but were adequate to fund our operations at a reasonable level during the quarter covered by this Quarterly Report. We have paid close attention to our contract purchases and loans and maintained our funding requirements within our available resources. We were able to control our funding rate by adjusting our pricing, tightening our underwriting, and/or discontinuing certain product lines. The strains on our capital have been largely caused by increased litigation expenses, as well as increased repossession maintenance, holding and resale costs, coupled with lower resale values. We received interest and principle reductions (typically monthly) on contracts and loans we held in inventory pending sale, and the interest rate spread between the cost of our lines of credit, or the participation sales to private investors, and our weighted average contract yield provided operating capital which sustained our operations during the reported periods. The origination fees generated from the commercial loans contributed additional operating capital. We would require an increase in our capital base, and an improvement in the real estate markets, in order to grow the company, and improve profitability. Until such time as that happens, we expect to see our asset base continue to decline in both size and value, and capital resources to remain strained.

In May, 2010 Genesis Financial, Inc. completed a private placement of 1,050,000 shares of common stock at $.10 per to accredited investors.

For the fiscal periods ending September 30, 2008 and September 30, 2007, our net cash used in operating activities was ($301,892) and ($1,911,983), respectively. The primary reason for the increases was the increase in delinquent accounts, resulting in increased collections and legal expenses.

During these periods our net cash used in investing activities was $44,882 and $39,675, respectively. The reason for the increase/decrease was no purchases were made.

During these periods our net cash provided by financing activities was $99,886 and $995,976, respectively. The reason for the increase/decrease was the decrease use of the lines of credit plus the redemption of common stock for the period ended September 30, 2008, and the proceeds of stock options exercised.

Item 3. Quantitative and Qualitative Disclosures about Market Risk

Not applicable to Smaller Reporting Companies

Item 4T. Controls and Procedures.

Evaluation of Disclosure Controls and Procedures

We maintain disclosure controls and procedures (as defined in Rules 13a-15(e) and 15d-15(e) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended (the "Exchange Act") that are designed to be effective in providing reasonable assurance that information required to be disclosed in our reports under the Exchange Act is recorded, processed, summarized and reported within the time periods specified in the rules and forms of the Securities and Exchange Commission (the "SEC"), and that such information is accumulated and communicated to our management to allow timely decisions regarding required disclosure.

In designing and evaluating disclosure controls and procedures, management recognizes that any controls and procedures, no matter how well designed and operated, can provide only reasonable, not absolute assurance of achieving the desired objectives. Also, the design of a control system must reflect the fact that there are resource constraints and the benefits of controls must be considered relative to their costs. Because of the inherent limitations in all control systems, no evaluation of controls can provide absolute assurance that all control issues and instances of fraud, if any, have been detected. These inherent limitations include the realities that judgments in decision-making can be faulty and that breakdowns can occur because of simple error or mistake. The design of any system of controls is based, in part, upon certain assumptions about the likelihood of future events and there can be no assurance that any design will succeed in achieving its stated goals under all potential future conditions.

As of the end of the period covered by this report, we carried out an evaluation, under the supervision and with the participation of management, including our Chief Executive Officer and Principal Financial Officer Chairman of the Board), of the effectiveness of the design and operation of our disclosure controls and procedures. Based upon that evaluation, management concluded that our disclosure controls and procedures are effective as of September 30, 2008 to cause the information required to be disclosed by us in reports that we file or submit under the Exchange Act is recorded, processed, summarized and reported within the time periods prescribed by SEC, and that such information is accumulated and communicated to management, including our Chief Executive Officer and Principal Financial Officer (Chairman of the Board), as appropriate, to allow timely decisions regarding required disclosure.

Changes in Internal Control over Financial Reporting

There was no change in our internal controls over financial reporting identified in connection with the requisite evaluation that occurred during our last fiscal quarter that has materially affected, or is reasonably likely to materially affect, our internal control over financial reporting.

Limitations

Our management, including our Chief Executive Officer and Principal Financial Officer (Chairman of the Board), does not expect that our disclosure controls or internal controls over financial reporting will prevent all errors or all instances of fraud. A control system, no matter how well designed and operated, can provide only reasonable, not absolute, assurance that the control system's objectives will be met. Further, the design of a control system must reflect the fact that there are resource constraints, and the benefits of controls must be considered relative to their costs. Because of the inherent limitations in all control systems, no evaluation of controls can provide absolute assurance that all control issues and instances of fraud, if any, within our company have been detected. These inherent limitations include the realities that judgments in decision-making can be faulty, and that breakdowns can occur because of simple error or mistake. Controls can also be circumvented by the individual acts of some persons, by collusion of two or more people, or by management override of the controls. The design of any system of controls is based in part upon certain assumptions about the likelihood of future events, and any design may not succeed in achieving its stated goals under all potential future conditions. Over time, controls may become inadequate because of changes in conditions or deterioration in the degree of compliance with policies or procedures. Because of the inherent limitation of a cost-effective control system, misstatements due to error or fraud may occur and not be detected.

PART II-OTHER INFORMATION

Item 1. Legal Proceedings.

In June, 2008, three members of Valencia, LLC filed suit against Genesis Financial, Inc., Valencia LLC, Michael A. Kirk, LLC manager and Brad E. Herr, LLC managers. The suit alleged that although Kirk and Herr had acquired a majority approval of the settlement, the magnitude of the settlement required a unanimous approval of the members, not simply a majority. The language of the LLC Operating Agreement was vague, and a ruling in favor of the plaintiffs would have resulted in an unwinding of the settlement with Cherry Grove. That result would not have been beneficial to either the Genesis shareholders, or the Valencia LLC members. A settlement was reached January, 2009, whereas Genesis agreed to re-distribute their 52.5% interest amongst the Valencia LLC members. In addition, Genesis was reimbursed for $25,000 of their legal expenses. Valencia paid a settlement amount of $95,000 to the plaintiffs from future credit sales.
