NEWS RELEASE

03-12

July 17, 2003

TSX Venture: GC

Caramelia Exploration Program Commences

Fred Sveinson, President, reports that Jantri Resources Inc. is commencing a trenching, mapping, and biogeochemical sampling program at the Company's Caramelia property, located 15 kilometres northwest of Rock Creek, British Columbia. Under the terms of an option agreement dated April 14th, 2003, Jantri may earn a 50% interest in Gold City's Caramelia property.

The Caramelia property, which encompasses the historic Camp McKinney gold camp, lies 18 kilometres northwest of Crown Resources Corporation's Washington State Crown Jewel property (currently 2.64MT @ 0.346 oz/ton gold in proven and probable reserves or 915,500 ounces). Historic production from the Cariboo-Amelia Mine at Camp McKinney totals 124,500 tonnes grading 20.39 g/t gold, recovering 81,600 ounces. During the last period of mining at the Cariboo-Amelia mine in 1962, the ore grade averaged 36.4 g/t gold from the lower levels of the mine, at a vertical depth of 165 metres. Mineralization remains open at depth and laterally on this mesothermal system.

The current exploration thrust will be directed at near surface efforts of discovering parallel vein systems to the Cariboo-Amelia vein, in the till-covered area south of the main vein. Anomalies identified by Gold City in 2002 from a biogeochemical (bark) sampling program will be prospected and trenched. The 2002 biogeochemical survey will be expanded westward adding a further 1.3km x 2km area to search for signatures of buried mineralized quartz veins. Bark sampling is a promising exploration tool in thick till covered areas, due to the deep and broad tapping roots of specific trees. The exploration program will be conducted under the supervision of Paul Cowley, P.Geol. and Dr. Colin Dunn, P.Geol.
