CAUTIONS ABOUT FORWARD-LOOKING INFORMATION

This presentation and the information incorporated by reference in this presentation include forward looking statements within the meaning of Section 27A of the Securities Act of 1933, as amended, and Section 21E of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended. Some of the forward-looking statements can be identified by the use of forward-looking words such as “believes,” “expects,” “may,” “will,” “should,” “seeks,” “approximately,” “plans,” “estimates” or “anticipates” or the negative of those words or other comparable terminology. Statements concerning projections, future performance developments, events, revenues, expenses, earnings, run rates, and any other guidance on present or future periods constitute forward-looking statements. Such statements include, but are not limited to, those relating to the effects of growth, revenues and earnings, our principal investing activities, levels of assets under management and our current equity capital levels. Forward-looking statements involve risks and uncertainties. You should be aware that a number of important factors could cause our actual results to differ materially from those in the forward-looking statements. These factors include, but are not limited to, the overall environment for interest rates, repayment speeds within the mortgage backed securities market, risk associated with equity investments, the demand for public offerings, activity in the secondary securities markets, competition among financial services firms for business and personnel, the high degree of risk associated with venture capital investments, the effect of demand for public offerings, mutual fund and 401(k) pension plan inflows or outflows in the securities markets, volatility of the securities markets, available technologies, the effect of government regulation and of general economic conditions on our own business and on the business in the industry areas on which we focus, fluctuating quarterly operating results, the availability of capital to us and risks related to online commerce. We will not necessarily update the information presented or incorporated by reference in this presentation if any of these forward looking statements turn out to be inaccurate. Risks affecting our business are described throughout our Form 10-K, especially in the section entitled “Risk Factors” beginning on page 29. The entire Form 10-K, including the Consolidated Financial Statements and the notes and any other documents incorporated by reference into the Form 10-K, as well as, the Forms 10Q and 8-K filed subsequent to the forms 10K, should be read for a complete understanding of our business and the risks associated with that business.

On March 31, 2003, Friedman, Billings, Ramsey Group, Inc. merged with FBR Asset Investment Corporation, a real estate investment trust (“REIT”) managed by FBR prior to the merger. The merged company, Friedman, Billings, Ramsey Group, Inc. is structured as a REIT for U.S. Federal Income Tax purposes and conducts its brokerage, sales and trading, investment banking, asset management and banking business through taxable REIT subsidiaries.

MBS Portfolio Spread

Source: Bloomberg, Federal Reserve

Notes:

CMT is the 1 Year Constant Maturity Treasury. For purposes of estimating spread, this chart assumes a margin of 225 bps.

On January 9, 2003, the Federal Reserve Board made a policy change regarding the discount rate in an effort to reduce the stigma of borrowing from the federal government and raised the discount rate above the federal funds rate. However, because the Federal Reserve's monetary stance, as reflected by the federal funds rate, has remained unchanged, this chart assumes a constant discount rate from January 9, 2003 through May 31, 2003 of 75 bps., as it stood prior to the Federal Reserve's policy change.

Merchant Banking and Other Long Term Investments

- Merchant Banking Equities, Mezzanine and Other Debt, Private Equity Fund Investments and Hedge Fund Investments $236 Million at 6/30/03
- Merchant Banking Portfolio at 6/30/03 Equaled Approximately $164 Million
 - Realized gains and dividends on that portfolio in six months ended 6/30/03 exceeded $12 Million
 - Approximately $56 Million of unrealized gains on marketable securities in the merchant banking portfolio as of 6/30/03
- Alternative Fund Investments $53 Million at 6/30/03
- Broker/Dealer Investments $19 Million at 6/30/03

- (1) The foregoing financial models of Friedman, Billings, Ramsey Group, Inc. were prepared by management of the company and will be provided to financial analysts as of September 16, 2003. This model includes a hypothetical allocation of equity. The actual allocation will vary from time to time and the company is not undertaking any obligation to update this model.

The financial model is not a measure of the company's historical or future financial performance, financial position or cash flows. The model is not a projection of or a prediction of the company's future performance. The model contains various assumptions that management has made as of this date with regard to the allocation of capital and the level of returns, revenues, and expenses among the company's businesses. The assumptions in the model are not necessarily reflective of historical results, or a projection or prediction of the company's actual performance or decisions with regard to allocation of capital, expenses, returns on equity and revenue levels. Actual performance or decisions by the company may vary from the assumptions contained in the model.

The company's actual financial performance will be subject to a number of factors, risks and uncertainties that might cause actual results to differ materially from stated expectations or current circumstances. These factors include, but are not limited to, the effect of demand for public offerings, activity in the secondary securities markets, interest rates, costs of borrowing, interest spreads, mortgage pre-payment speeds, risks associated with merchant banking investments, the realization of gains and losses on principal investments, available technology, competition for business and personnel, and general economic, political and market conditions. These and other risks are described in the company's Annual Report on Form 10-K and quarterly reports on Form 10-Q that are available from the company and from the SEC.
