ITEM 2. MANAGEMENT'S DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS

The following discussion and analysis of our financial condition and results of operations should be read in conjunction with the financial statements and accompanying notes and the other financial information appearing elsewhere in this periodic report. Allied's fiscal year end is December 31.

This report and the exhibits attached hereto contain forward-looking statements within the meaning of the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995. The forward-looking statements include, without limitation, statements as to management's good faith expectations and beliefs, which are subject to inherent uncertainties which are difficult to predict and may be beyond the ability of Allied to control. Forward-looking statements are made based upon management's expectations and belief concerning future developments and their potential effect upon Allied. There can be no assurance that future developments will be in accordance with management's expectations or that the effect of future developments on Allied will be those anticipated by management.

The words "believes," "expects," "intends," "plans," "anticipates," "hopes," "likely," "will," and similar expressions identify such forward-looking statements. Such forward-looking statements involve known and unknown risks, uncertainties and other important factors that could cause the actual results, performance or achievements of Allied, or industry results, to differ materially from future results, performance or achievements expressed or implied by such forward-looking statements.

These risks and uncertainties, many of which are beyond our control, include (i) the sufficiency of existing capital resources; (ii) uncertainties involved in the longevity of existing oil and gas resources; (iii) uncertainties related to price instability in the oil and gas markets; (iv) volatility of the stock market; and (v) general economic conditions. Although Allied believes the expectations reflected in these forward-looking statements are reasonable, such expectations may prove to be incorrect.

Readers are cautioned not to place undue reliance on these forward-looking statements which reflect management's view only as of the date of this report. Allied undertakes no obligation to publicly release the result of any revisions to these forward-looking statements which may be made to reflect events or circumstances after the date hereof or to reflect the occurrence of unanticipated events, conditions or circumstances. For additional information about risks and uncertainties that could adversely affect Allied's forward-looking statements, please refer to Allied's filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission, including its Annual Report on Form 10-KSB for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2004.

General

Allied is an independent oil and natural gas producer involved in the exploration, development, production and sale of oil and gas derived from properties located in Calhoun and Ritchie counties, West Virginia.

Results of Operations

During the period from January 1, 2005 through June 30, 2005, Allied has been engaged in overseeing the operation of its oil and gas assets by an independent operator, Allstate Energy Corporation. For the six month period ended June 30, 2005 Allied realized net income from operations due to an increase in revenues and a decrease in production costs as compared to the prior six month period ended June 30, 2004.

Revenue

Revenue for the three months ended June 30, 2005 increased to $221,709 from $197,323 for the three month period ended June 30, 2004, an increase of 12%. Revenue for the six months ended June 30, 2005 increased to $379,529 from $360,445 for the six month period ended June 30, 2004, an increase of 5%. The increase in revenue over the three and six month comparative periods is attributable to an increase in the prices paid for oil and gas production over the prior three and six month periods. Allied anticipates that increases or decreases in revenues in future periods will remain substantially dependent on the market price for oil and gas.

Income

Net income for the three months ended June 30, 2005 decreased to $47,073 from $59,282 for the three month period ended June 30, 2004, a decrease of 21%. Net income for the six months ended June 30, 2004 decreased to $83,223 from $120,587 for the six month period ended June 30, 2004, a decrease of 31%. The decrease in net income over the three and six month comparative periods was due to an increase in general and administrative expenses. Allied anticipates that net income will increase over future periods subject to the market price for oil and gas and production levels.

Expenses

General and administrative expenses for the three months ended June 30, 2005, increased to $37,546 from $36,826 for the three month period ended June 30, 2004, an increase of 2%. General and administrative expenses for the six month ended June 30, 2005 increased to $87,261 from $50,462 for the six month period ended June 30, 2004, an increase of 73%. The increase in general and administrative expenses over the six month comparative periods can be attributed to an increase in increased accounting costs associated with tax filings, annual audit fees and the preparation of an annual oil and gas report. Allied anticipates that general and administrative expenses for the comparative three month periods are more indicative of general and administrative expenses over future periods.

Direct production costs for the three months ended June 30, 2005, increased to $82,811 from $80,386 for the three month period ended June 30, 2004, an increase of 3%. Direct production costs for the six months ended June 30, 2004, decreased to $141,025 from $148,077 for the six month period ended June 30, 2004. Direct production costs include the cost of maintaining the wells, access roads, miscellaneous expenses for soap, solvent, gasoline or electricity and expenses such as those incurred in swabbing, dozer work or rig time. The increase in direct production costs for the three month comparative periods can be attributed to increases in production. The decrease in direct production costs for the six month comparative periods can likewise be attributed to an overall decrease in production. Allied expects that direct production expenses will remain relatively consistent with increases or decreases in production over future periods.

Depletion expenses for the three months ended June 30, 2005 and June 30, 2004 were $16,290 and $20,829 respectively. Depletion expenses for the six months ended June 30, 2004 were $32,120 and $41,658. Allied expects that oil and gas resources will continue to deplete over future periods as wells age.

Income Tax Expense (Benefit)

Allied has an income tax benefit resulting from prior net operating losses which may be used to offset current operating profits. As of December 31, 2004, Allied had net operating loss (NOL) carryforwards of approximately $3,780,000. Should substantial changes in Allied's ownership occur there would be an annual limitation on the amount of NOL carryforward, which could be utilized. Further, the ultimate realization of these carryforwards will be due, in part, on the tax law in effect at the time of the anticipated benefit which cannot be definitively determined based on future events.

Impact of Inflation

Allied believes that inflation has had a negligible effect on operations over the past three years. Allied expects that it can offset inflationary increases in maintenance costs by increasing revenue and improving operating efficiencies.

Liquidity and Capital Resources

Cash flow provided by operations was $57,678 for the six months ended June 30, 2005, as compared to cash flow provided by operations of $80,463 for the six months ended June 30, 2004. The decrease in cash flow provided by operations over the comparative periods can be attributed to the decrease in net income and in increase in deposits. Allied expects to continue to realize cash flow produced by operations in future periods.

Cash flow used in investing activities for the six month period ended June 30, 2005 was $0 as compared to $0 for the six month period ended June 30, 2004. Allied intends to reevaluate its existing wells over the next fiscal year which may lead to a decision to invest capital into upgrading existing production facilities or to drill new wells in order to increase production. Should Allied expend capital on existing wells or drilling, it would then expect to use cash flow in investing activities in future periods.

Cash flow generated from financing activities was $0 for the six months ended June 30, 2005 and $0 for the six months ended June 30, 2004. Allied has no current intention of proceeding with any financing activities in the near term.

Allied has a working capital surplus of $784,332 as of June 30, 2005 and has funded its cash needs since inception with revenues generated from operations, debt instruments and private placements. Existing working capital and anticipated cash flow are expected to be sufficient to fund operations for the next twelve months.

Allied has no current commitments for the purchase or sale of any plant or equipment.

Allied has no current intention to make any changes in the number of employees.

Critical Accounting Policies and Estimates

Accounting for Oil and Gas Property Costs. As more fully discussed in Note 1 to its financial statements, Allied (i) follows the successful efforts method of accounting for the costs of its oil and gas properties, (ii) amortizes such costs using the units of production method and, (iii) evaluates its proven properties for impairment whenever events or changes in circumstances indicate that their net book value may not be recoverable. Adverse changes in conditions (primarily gas price declines) could result in permanent write-downs in the carrying value of oil and gas properties as well as non-cash charges to operations that would not affect cash flows.

Estimates of Proved Oil and Gas Reserves. An independent petroleum engineer annually estimates Allied's proven reserves. Reserve engineering is a subjective process that is dependent upon the quality of available data and the interpretation thereof. In addition, subsequent physical and economic factors such as the results of drilling, testing, production and product prices may justify revision of such estimates. Therefore, actual quantities, production timing, and the value of reserves may differ substantially from estimates. A reduction in proved reserves would result in an increase in depreciation, depletion and amortization expense.

Estimates of Asset Retirement Obligations. In accordance with SFAS No 143, Allied makes estimates of future costs and the timing thereof in connection with recording its future obligations to plug and abandon wells. Estimated abandonment dates will be revised in the future based on changes to related economic lives, which vary with product prices and production costs. Estimated plugging costs may also be adjusted to reflect changing industry experience. Increases in operating costs and decreases in product prices would increase the estimated amount of the obligation and increase depreciation, depletion and amortization expense. Cash flows would not be affected until costs to plug and abandon were actually incurred.

ITEM 3. CONTROLS AND PROCEDURES

The Company's president acts both as the Company's chief executive officer and chief financial officer and is responsible for establishing and maintaining disclosure controls and procedures for the Company.

Under the supervision and with the participation of our management, including our principal executive officer and principal financial officer, we evaluated the effectiveness of the design and operation of our disclosure controls and procedures, as defined in Rules 13a-15(e) and 15d-15(e) under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 ("Exchange Act"), as of June 30, 2005. Based on this evaluation, our principal executive officer and our principal financial officer concluded that, as of the end of the period covered by this report, our disclosure controls and procedures were effective and adequately designed to ensure that the information required to be disclosed by us in the reports we submit under the Exchange Act is recorded, processed, summarized and reported within the time periods specified in the applicable rules and forms and that such information was accumulated and communicated to our chief executive officer and chief financial officer, in a manner that allowed for timely decisions regarding required disclosure.

The auditors did not test the effectiveness of nor relied on the internal controls of the Company for the fiscal quarters ended June 30, 2005 and 2004.

(b) Changes in Internal Controls

During the period ended June 30, 2005, there has been no change in internal control over financial reporting that has materially affected, or is reasonably likely to materially affect our internal control over financial reporting.
