Dear Mr. Bonach:

If you do not believe a comment applies to your facts and circumstances, please tell us why in your response. Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations
Critical Accounting Policies
Liabilities for Insurance Products—reserves for future payment of long-term care policy claims, page 57

1. Provide us proposed disclosure to be included in future periodic reports that shows, as of December 31, 2012 and 2011, of the following related to your long-term care business:
 - active life reserve;
 - the liability for due and unpaid claims;
 - claims in the course of settlement;
 - incurred but not reported claims; and

- reserve for the present value of amounts not yet due on claims.

For each category above, indicate in the proposed disclosure which line item in the balance sheet the amount is included and the significant assumptions used to arrive at the December 31, 2012 amounts. Further, where assumptions or estimates have changed from 2011 to 2012, discuss the effects on each category and on results of operations.

2. In the example where you indicate that an increase in the initial loss ratio would decrease earnings approximately $35 to $72 million, clarify in proposed disclosure to be included in future periodic reports whether this decrease in earnings is the total effect of the increase in the initial loss ratio over the life of the business and the timing of recognition (i.e. in one year, over the life of the business).

Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements

2. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

Accounting for Long-term Care Premium Increases, page 128

3. Please refer us to the technical guidance upon which you relied and why you believe your accounting for long-term care premium increases under each policyholder option complies with GAAP. In this regard, you recognize premium rate increases as earned and do not reflect these increases prospectively in your reserves, while you follow a prospective revision methodology for policies subject to the Florida Order. Explain to us this apparent inconsistency in your accounting treatment for premium rate increases.

4. Income Taxes, page 164

4. Your reduction of the deferred tax valuation allowance in 2012 is in part based on projections of higher taxable income in future periods using your deferred tax valuation model. Please tell us why these projections are reasonable considering the decrease in your income before taxes in 2012 and that the valuation model that you used to determine estimated gross profits as a basis for amortizing deferred acquisition costs appears to have projected lower profits in future periods.

12. Statutory Information (Based on Non-GAAP Measures), page 191

5. Please provide us proposed disclosure to be included in future periodic filings of the amount of statutory capital and surplus necessary to satisfy regulatory requirements if significant in relation to the entity's statutory capital and surplus, as required under ASC 944-505-50-1b. If not significant, clarify in the proposed disclosure.
