Investment Objective

- Long-term total return

Investment Strategy

- The Fund's primary strategy is to purchase public companies based on fundamental research and simultaneously sell covered call options to generate income.
- Additionally, the Fund will purchase out-of-the money put options as a way to limit the risk of the portfolio.

Finally, the Fund will purchase securities that it believes are special situations and that offer superior investment potential.

Investment Advantages

- The Fund is designed to generate income while simultaneously defining risk by the use of stock options.
- Small Fund Size: The size of our Fund and lack of big company administration allows us to be agile and take advantage of investment opportunities found in quality companies of all sizes. These companies may not be on the radar of larger money managers whose research is sometimes limited to those firms followed by traditional equity research providers.
- Concentration: We allow more flexibility in the Fund's position sizes for a strict focus on securities we believe to be the most attractive.
