Exhibit No.	Description
99.1	Press release dated October 10, 2006

PRESS RELEASESecurus Technologies, Inc., through its wholly owned subsidiaries, T-Netix, Inc. and Evercom Systems, Inc. files Intellectual Property Lawsuit Against Several Industry Competitors

DALLAS – October 10, 2006 – Securus Technologies, Inc. announced today that its subsidiaries, T-Netix, Inc. and Evercom Systems, Inc., have filed a lawsuit for patent infringement against the following industry competitors: (i) Global Tel*Link Corporation; (ii) AGM Telecom Corporation; (iii) Inmate Calling Solutions, Inc.; (iv) Encartele, Inc.; (v) TIP Systems, LLC and TIP Systems Holding Company, Inc.; and (vi) FSH Communications, LLC. The suit, filed in the U.S. Federal District Court for the Eastern District of Texas, alleges infringement of several patents related to the inmate correctional services and telecommunications industry by each such defendant.

The company indicated that, through its subsidiaries, substantial investments have been made in innovation, and its associated intellectual property portfolio, during a period of more than a decade, and that it intends to vigorously protect and enforce its patents. Securus' subsidiaries have an extensive patent portfolio with 45 issued patents. Of the 45 patents issued, Securus' subsidiary, T-Netix, Inc., has previously successfully litigated and enforced three of its patents against selected industry competitors.

Securus' subsidiary, T-Netix, Inc., also has a patent infringement suit presently pending against Value-Added Communications, Inc., in the U.S. Federal District Court for the Northern District of Texas, alleging infringement by Value-Added Communications, Inc. of several T-Netix patents related to the correctional services and telecommunications industry.

The company's subsidiaries may determine to bring additional actions to enforce its patents against infringers in the future.
