Notes to the Financial Statement

1. Organization

Raine Securities LLC ("Raine Securities" or the "Company") is a limited liability company established in the state of Delaware on August 23, 2005. The Company is registered as a securities broker-dealer with the Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC") and is a member of the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority, Inc. ("FINRA"). Raine Securities is an indirect wholly owned subsidiary of The Raine Group LLC ("Raine Group"). Raine Advisors LLC ("Raine Advisors") is the sole member of Raine Securities. The Company provides financial advisory services, acts as agent in the private placement of securities and acts as underwriter and selling group participant (for corporate securities other than mutual funds).

The Company does not carry securities accounts for customers or perform custodial services and all other business activities are limited to receiving transaction-based compensation for identifying potential merger and acquisition opportunities for clients, participating in private placements of securities, participating in underwriting of securities, and acting as a 15a-6 chaperone to a foreign broker dealer. The Company claims exemption from Rule 15c3-3 under Section (k)(2)(ii) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and in accordance with Footnote 74 of the SEC Release No. 34-70073 adopting amendments to 17 C.F.R. § 240.17a-5.

2. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

Basis of Presentation

The Company's financial statements have been prepared in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America ("US GAAP").

The following is a summary of the significant accounting policies followed by the Company.

Cash

Cash consists of cash held by First Republic Bank.

Accounts Receivable

Accounts receivable is presented net of allowance for credit losses of $4,027,571 for balances not partially or fully collectable. The Company considers a receivable uncollectible when, based on current information or factors such as age and creditworthiness it is probable that the Company will not collect, in full, the receivable balance. An allowance is established when management believes that collection, after considering relevant factors, is in doubt.

Accrued Revenue

Accrued revenue is recorded for revenue earned, but not yet invoiced.

Fair Value of Financial Assets and Liabilities

The Company's financial assets and liabilities are carried at cost which approximates fair value. The Company's financial assets and liabilities include cash, receivables, accrued revenue, and certain other assets and liabilities. The carrying value of these financial assets and liabilities has been determined to approximate fair value since they are short-term in nature.

Revenue and Expense Recognition

The Company recognizes revenue when there is a transfer of services to customers in an amount to which the Company expects to be entitled in exchange for those services.

The services provided under contracts with customers include transaction-related advisory services,

Raine Securities LLC

Notes to the Financial Statement

fairness opinion and valuation services and underwriting services, each of which are typically identified as a separate performance obligation in contracts that contain more than one type of service.

Transaction-related Advisory Services

The Company provides investment advisory services on strategic matters including mergers and acquisitions, private placements and similar strategic advisory services. In some circumstances, and as a function of the engagement letter terms, the Company may receive fixed retainer fees for financial advisory services concurrent with, or soon after, the execution of the engagement letter or over the course of the engagement, where the engagement letter will specify a future service period associated with those fees. The Company may also receive announcement fees upon announcement of a transaction in addition to success fees upon closing of a transaction or another defined outcome, both of which represent variable consideration. This variable consideration will be included in the transaction price, as defined, and recognized as revenue to the extent that it is probable that a significant reversal of revenue will not occur. When assessing probability, the Company applies careful analysis and judgment to the remaining factors necessary for completion of a transaction, including factors outside of our control. A transaction can fail to be completed for many reasons which are outside of our control, including failure of parties to agree upon final terms with the counterparty, to secure necessary board or shareholder approvals, to secure necessary financing or to achieve necessary regulatory approvals, as well as adverse market conditions.

With respect to retainer, announcement and success fees, there are no distinct performance obligations aside from advisory activities, which are generally focused on achieving a milestone (typically, the announcement and/or the closing of a transaction). Although there may be individual advisory activities provided in a typical contract, the individual activities are not distinct within the context of the contract; rather the performance of these individual activities helps to fulfill one overall performance obligation to deliver advisory services to the customer. The Company recognizes revenue from these services when or as its performance obligations are fulfilled. These advisory services are provided over time throughout the contract period and the Company's clients are continuously benefitting from its counsel, and, accordingly, over time revenue recognition matches the transfer of such benefits. In circumstances in which retainer fees are received in advance of services, these fees are initially recorded as deferred revenue (a contract liability) and subsequently recognized as advisory fee revenue during the applicable time period within which the service is rendered. Announcement fees for advisory services are recognized upon announcement (the point at which it is determined that the reversal of revenue is not probable) and all other requirements for revenue recognition are satisfied. A portion of the announcement fee may be deferred based on the services remaining to be completed, if any. Success fees for advisory services, such as merger and acquisition advice, are recognized when it is determined that the reversal of revenue is not probable and all other requirements for revenue recognition are satisfied, which is generally at closing of the transaction.

Payments for advisory services are generally due upon completion of a specified event or, for retainer fees, periodically over the course of the engagement. The Company recognizes accounts receivable between the date of completion of the event and payment by the customer.

Fairness Opinion and Valuation Services

Although the Company may provide fairness opinion and valuation services in conjunction with and in the same contract as other transaction-related advisory services, these services are considered to be a distinct performance obligation in such contracts since the opinion is rendered separate from any other advisory service and could be obtained separately. The associated fee for these services is fixed and represents the standalone selling price of the services. The fee is recognized at the point in time at which the opinion is delivered rather than over the period of time during which the associated services are being performed because the customer does not simultaneously receive and consume the benefit of the Company's performance activities as it compiles the opinion but rather receives the benefit upon delivery of the opinion itself. Payments for these services are generally due upon delivery of (or upon the Company's communicating to its customer the Company's readiness to deliver) the opinion. The Company recognizes a receivable between the date of delivery of the opinion and payment by the customer.

Raine Securities LLC

Underwriting Services

The Company provides underwriting services as part of an underwriting syndicate where it is not the lead investment bank. The completion of the offering of securities is the performance obligation in these types of transactions. Once the Company has committed to the offering whether it is able to sell the securities does not impact the client and the Company recognizes revenue at the point in time when the offering is completed. Payments for underwriting services are generally due upon completion of the offering and any over-allotment options. The Company recognizes underwriting revenue gross of any underwriting expense reimbursements.

Income Taxes

The Company is a single-member limited liability company that, to the extent permitted by law, is treated as a "disregarded entity" for federal and state income tax purposes. The Company is included in the US federal income tax return for Raine Group. Raine Securities accounts for income taxes in accordance with ASC 740, "Income Taxes" ("ASC 740"). ASC 740 provides guidance for the financial accounting and reporting for income taxes, and requires that when a member of a consolidated group issues separate financial statements, the consolidated amount of current and deferred tax expense be allocated to such member using a method that is systematic, rational and consistent with the broader principles of ASC 740.

ASC 740 also provides guidance regarding how certain tax positions should be recognized, measured, presented and disclosed in the financial statements. ASC 740 requires evaluation of tax positions taken or expected to be taken in the course of preparing the tax returns to determine whether the tax positions are "more likely than not" of being sustained by the applicable tax authority. The Company concluded that it does not have any unrecognized tax benefits or any additional tax liabilities for any uncertain positions as of December 31, 2022. The earliest tax year of Raine Group open for examination by tax authorities is 2018.

Use of Estimates

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with US GAAP requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from these estimates.

ASC Topic 460, "Guarantees" requires the disclosure of the Company's representations and warranties which may provide general indemnifications to others. The Company in its normal course of business may enter into other legal contracts that contain a variety of these representations and warranties that provide general indemnifications. The Company's maximum exposure under these arrangements is unknown, as claims may be unasserted. However, based on its experience, the Company expects the risk of loss to be remote.

3. Recent Accounting Pronouncements

There were no recent accounting pronouncements issued by the FASB that are applicable to the Company and expected to have a material impact on the financial statements.

4. Revenue from Contracts with Customers

The Company earned its advisory revenue from services performed over time, services performed at a point in time and client reimbursements for the year ended December 31, 2022.

The opening and closing balances of the Company's contract assets, deferred revenue (contract liabilities), and receivables are as follows;

	Receivables (1)	Contract Asset (2)	Deferred Revenue (Contract Liability) (2)
Opening (1/1/2022)	$ 3,621,499	$ -	$ 375,000
Increase/(Decrease)	(3,446,499)	-	(375,000)
Closing (12/31/2022)	$ 175,000	$ -	$ -

- (1) Receivables are presented net of allowance for credit losses. Refer to "Accounts Receivable" within footnote 2 for further details.
- (2) The difference between the opening and closing balances of the Company's contract assets and contract liabilities primarily results from the timing difference between the Company's performance and customers' payment.

The Company's contract assets represent arrangements in which revenue has been recognized (i.e., services have been transferred to the customer), but customer payment is contingent on a future event. The Company's contract liabilities represent arrangements in which payment has been received from the client, but the performance obligation is not yet satisfied.

Generally, performance obligations under client arrangements will be settled within one year. In accordance with ASC 606-10-50-14, the Company has elected to apply the practical expedient and does not disclose the expected timing and amount of revenue remaining related to such contracts.

During the year ended December 31, 2022, the majority of revenue recognized was related to performance obligations that were partially satisfied in prior periods, mainly due to constraints on variable consideration in prior periods being resolved. Such amounts related to the Company's performance obligations of providing Transaction-related Advisory Services.

5. Concentration of Credit Risk

At times, the Company may maintain deposits in federally insured financial institutions in excess of the federally insured ("FDIC") limit of $250,000. On December 31, 2022, the Company had $24,163,880 in cash held at First Republic Bank.

The Company may be exposed to credit risk regarding its accounts receivable. The Company routinely assesses the financial strength of its clients and, based upon factors surrounding the credit risk of its clients, believes that its concentration and credit risk exposure with regard to its accounts receivable is limited. There is no collateral held for the accounts receivable as of December 31, 2022. Two clients accounted individually for more than 5% of client related receivable as of December 31, 2022. These clients represented in the aggregate 96% of gross client related receivable as of December 31, 2022.

6. Expense Sharing Agreement

On April 6, 2010, Raine Securities and Raine Group entered into an Administrative Services Agreement, as amended and restated (the "Expense Sharing Agreement"). In accordance with the Expense Sharing Agreement, the Company reimburses Raine Group for a proportional share of salaries and related expenses of personnel employed by Raine Group performing services on behalf of Raine Securities, as well as a proportional share of certain other costs and expenses paid on behalf of Raine Securities, including office space, utilities, expenses for business travel and entertainment, insurance premiums and other general, administrative and overhead expenses. The parties to the Expense Sharing Agreement agree that Raine Securities has no obligation to any third party for the services that Raine Group provides. Raine Group is solely responsible for any amounts owed relating to costs incurred by it in providing services on behalf of Raine Securities. Refer to Note 8 for further discussion.

7. Commitments and Contingencies

The Company's customers' securities transactions are introduced on a fully-disclosed basis to its clearing broker. The clearing broker carries all of the customer accounts and is responsible for collection and payment of funds and receipt and delivery of securities relative to customer transactions. These transactions may expose the Company to off-balance-sheet risk, wherein the clearing broker may charge the Company for any losses it incurs in the event that customers may be unable to fulfill their contractual commitments and margin requirements are not sufficient to fully cover losses. As the right to charge the Company has no maximum amount and applies to all trades executed through the clearing broker, the Company believes there is no maximum amount assignable to this right. The Company has the right to pursue collection or performance from the counterparties who do not perform under their contractual obligations. The Company seeks to minimize this risk through procedures designed to monitor the creditworthiness of its customers and to ensure that customer transactions are executed properly by the clearing broker, subject to the credit risk of the clearing broker. The Company maintains a deposit of $50,373 with its clearing broker. For the year ended December 31, 2022, the Company did not conduct any customer securities transactions.

From time to time, we may be subject to legal proceedings and claims in the ordinary course of business. There are no legal actions, pending, or to management's knowledge, threatened against the Company that we believe will have a material adverse effect on our business or financial statements.

8. Related-Party Transactions

From time to time, the Company renders advisory services to members of Raine Holdings LLC, the ultimate parent company of Raine Group.
