Significant Credit Risk and Estimates

The responsibility for processing customer activity rests with the Company's clearing firm, Merrill Lynch. The Company's clearing and execution agreement provides that the clearing firm's credit losses relating to unsecured margin accounts receivable of the Company's customers are charged back to the Company.

In accordance with industry practice, Merrill Lynch records customer transactions on a settlement date basis, which is generally three business days after the trade date. Merrill Lynch is therefore exposed to risk of loss on these transactions in the event of the customer's inability to meet the terms of its contract, in which case Merrill Lynch may have to purchase or sell the underlying financial instruments at prevailing market prices in order to satisfy its customer-related obligations. Any loss incurred by Merrill Lynch is charged back to the Company.

The Company in conjunction with Merrill Lynch, controls off- balance- sheet risk by monitoring the market value and marking securities to market on a daily basis and by requiring adjustments of collateral levels. Merrill Lynch establishes margin requirements and overall credit limits for such activities and monitors compliance with the applicable limits and industry regulations on a daily basis.

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States requires management of the Company to use estimates and assumptions that affect certain reported amounts and disclosures. Accordingly, actual results could differ from those estimates.

There were no liabilities subordinated to claims of general creditors during the year ended June 30, 2016.

Cash and Cash Equivalents

Cash and cash equivalents include money market accounts. Financial instruments that potentially subject the Company to credit risk consist primarily of cash and cash equivalents and amounts due from broker dealers. Use of Estimates

Management uses estimates and assumptions in preparing financial statements. Those estimates and assumptions affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities, and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses.

Fair Value Measurement

FASB ASC 820 defines fair value , establishes a framework for measuring fair value, and establishes a fair value hierarchy which prioritizes the inputs to valuation techniques. Fair value is the price that would be received to sell an asset or paid to transfer a liability in an orderly transaction between market participants at the measurement date. A fair measurement assumes that the transaction to sell an asset or transfer the liability occurs in the principal market for the asset or liability or, in the absence of a principal market, the most advantageous market. Valuation techniques that are consistent with the market, income or cost approach, as specified by FASB ASC 820, are used to measure fair value.

The fair value hierarchy prioritizes the inputs to valuation techniques used to measure fair value into three broad levels:

Level 1 - Inputs are quoted prices (unadjusted) in active markets for identical assets or liabilities that the Company has the ability to access.

Level 2 - Inputs (other than quoted prices included in level 1) that are observable for the asset or liability, either directly or indirectly.

Level 3- Are unobservable inputs for the asset or liability and rely on management's own assumptions about the assumptions that market participants would use in pricing the asset or liability. (The unobservable inputs should be developed base on the best information available in the circumstances and may include the Company's own data). The Company did not have any assets or liabilities subject to fair value measurement at June 30, 2016.
