Use of estimates

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with U.S. GAAP requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Income taxes

The Company was formed as a limited liability company and is treated as a sole proprietorship for federal income tax purposes. NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS
MOODY SECURITIES, LLC

Note 1 - General information and summary of significant accounting policies - continued

The Company recognizes the tax benefit from an uncertain tax position only if it is more likely than not that the tax position will be sustained on examination by the taxing authority, based on the technical merits of the position. The Company does not file composite state income tax returns. All federal and state income tax positions taken or anticipated to be taken in the income tax returns are attributable to the member and not to the Company.

As of December 31, 2022, there are no known items which would result in a material accrual related to where the Company has federal or state attributable tax positions.

Revenue recognition policy

All of the Company's revenues are considered to be revenues from contracts with customers. The Company does not have customer accounts receivable or obligations for warranties, returns or refunds to customers. The Company does not have revenue recognized from performance obligations that were satisfied in prior periods, and the Company does not have any transaction price allocated to unsatisfied performance obligations. No judgements or estimates are necessary in the identification and timing of satisfaction of performance obligations and the related allocation of transaction price. The Company believes that the Company's recognized revenue represents a faithful depiction of the transfer of services to the Company's customers.

The Company earns revenue through various investment banking activities primarily as an advisor in services related to debt and equity securities offerings. Commissions and management fee revenues are generally earned and recognized only upon satisfaction of the performance obligation. The performance obligation is deemed to be satisfied when the investor's funds are received by the issuer and all other terms of the subscription agreement have been met.

Financial instruments and credit risk

The financial instrument which potentially subjects the Company to credit risk is cash. The Company maintains its cash with a major domestic bank. From time to time, cash may exceed federally insured limits. The Company has not incurred losses related to these deposits.
