CCA CAPITAL LLC

NOTES TO THE STATEMENT OF FINANCIAL CONDITION DECEMBER 31, 2022

1. NATURE OF OPERATIONS AND SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

Nature of Operations

CCA Capital LLC (the "Company") is a broker-dealer registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC") and is a member of the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority ("FINRA") and the Securities Investor Protection Corporation ("SIPC"). The Company was formed on June 25, 2010 pursuant to the Delaware Limited Liability Company Act, and is a wholly-owned subsidiary of CCA Group, LLC (the "Parent"). The Company's primary role is to facilitate the introduction of potential investors to its clients in order to help its clients reach their financing goals. The Company works with various institutions to identify financing sources and/or financing opportunities within the institutional marketplace. It does not hold customer funds and/or securities. The Company was registered with FINRA and commenced operations as a FINRA member in May 2011.

Basis of Accounting

The accompanying financial statement is prepared using the accrual basis of accounting in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America ("U.S. GAAP").

Use of Estimates

The preparation of the financial statement in conformity with U.S. GAAP requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingencies at the date of the financial statement. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Revenue Recognition

The Accounting Standard Codification ("ASC") Topic 606 revenue recognition guidance requires that an entity recognize revenue to depict the transfer of promised goods or services to customers in an amount that reflects the consideration to which the entity expects to be entitled in exchange for those goods or services. The guidance requires an entity to follow a five-step model to (a) identify the contract(s) with a customer, (b) identify the performance obligations in the contract, (c) determine the transaction price, (d) allocate the transaction price to the performance obligations in the contract, and (e) recognize revenue when (or as) the entity satisfies a performance obligation. In determining the transaction price, an entity may include variable consideration only to the extent that it is probable that a significant reversal in the amount of cumulative revenue recognized would not occur when the uncertainty associated with the variable consideration is resolved.

The financial statement of the Company is prepared on the accrual basis of accounting; accordingly, revenue is recognized when the work has been completed, in accordance with the terms of the respective contracts with the Company's customers.

The Company provides advisory services and receives revenue for these under an advisory contract. These revenue streams are recognized when control of these products or services is transferred to its customers, in an amount that reflects the consideration the Company expects to be entitled to in exchange for those products or services. Incidental items that are immaterial in the context of the contract are recognized as expense. The Company does not have any significant financing components as payment is received at or shortly after the point of service provided.

Financial Instruments

The carrying amount of the Company's financial instruments, which includes cash equivalents, accounts receivable, deposits, accounts payable, and accrued expenses approximates their fair value at the financial position date due to their short-term nature.

NOTES TO THE STATEMENT OF FINANCIAL CONDITION
DECEMBER 31, 2022

1. NATURE OF OPERATIONS AND SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES (CONTINUED)

Income Taxes

The Company is a disregarded entity for federal income tax purposes and is, therefore, required to be treated as a division of its single member. The earnings and losses of the Company are included in the tax return of the Parent. The Company is not subject to income taxes in any jurisdiction. Each member of the Parent is responsible for the tax liability, if any, related to its proportionate share of the Company's taxable income. Accordingly, no provision for income taxes is reflected in the accompanying financial statement. Management has concluded that the Company is a pass-through entity and there are no uncertain tax positions that would require recognition in the financial statement. If the Company were to incur an income tax liability in the future, interest on any income tax liability would be reported as interest expense and penalties on any income tax liability would be reported as income taxes. For the year ended December 31, 2022, no interest or penalties were required to be recorded.

Management's conclusions regarding uncertain tax positions may be subject to review and adjustment at a later date based upon ongoing analyses of tax laws, regulations and interpretations thereof as well as other factors. Generally, federal, state and local authorities may examine the Company's tax returns (as part of the Parent's returns) for three years from the date of filing. These returns generally remain open for examination for three years from the date filed with each taxing jurisdiction.

Leases

At the commencement date of a lease, the Company recognizes a liability to make lease payments and an asset representing the right to use the underlying asset during the lease term. The lease liability is measured at the present value of lease payments over the lease term. As its leases typically do not provide an implicit rate, the Company uses its incremental borrowing rate based on the information available at the commencement date taking into consideration necessary adjustments for collateral, depending on the facts and circumstances of the lessee and the leased asset, and term to match the lease term. The operating lease right-of-use ("ROU") asset is measured at cost, which includes the initial measurement of the lease liability and initial direct costs incurred by the Company and excludes lease incentives. Lease terms may include options to extend or terminate the lease when it is reasonably certain that the Company will exercise that option. Operating lease costs are recognized on a straight-line basis over the lease term. Lease agreements that contain both lease and non-lease components are generally accounted for separately.

Allowance for Credit Losses

ASC Topic 326 "Financial Instruments - Credit Losses" ("ASC 326") impacts the impairment model for certain financial assets by requiring a current expected credit loss ("CECL") methodology to estimate expected credit losses over the entire life of the financial asset. Under the accounting update, the Company could determine there are no expected credit losses in certain circumstances (e.g., based on the credit quality of the client).

The allowance for credit losses is based on the Company's expectation of the collectability of financial instruments, including fees and other receivables utilizing the CECL framework. The Company considers factors such as historical experience, credit quality, age of balances and current and future economic conditions that may affect the Company's expectation of the collectability in determining the allowance for credit losses. The Company's expectation is that the credit risk associated with receivables from related parties is not significant accordingly, the Company has not provided an allowance for credit losses at December 31, 2022.

CCA CAPITAL LLC

NOTES TO THE STATEMENT OF FINANCIAL CONDITION
DECEMBER 31, 2022

2. CONCENTRATIONS OF CREDIT RISK

The Company has a potential concentration of credit risk in that it maintains deposits with a financial institution in excess of amounts insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation ("FDIC"). Management regularly monitors the financial condition of the institution in order to keep the potential risk to a minimum.

The Company is engaged in various private placement activities in which the counterparties primarily include institutions, issuers and entities active in the energy, transportation and commercial finance industries. In the event counterparties do not fulfill their obligations, the Company may be exposed to risk. The risk of default depends on the creditworthiness of the counterparty or issuer of the instrument. It is the Company's policy to review, as necessary, the credit standing of each counterparty.

3. RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

On June 25, 2010, the Company entered into an Expense Sharing Agreement with the Parent. This agreement was amended and restated on January 1, 2022. The initial term of the agreement is one year, with automatic renewals for successive one-year terms, unless terminated sooner by one of the parties. Under the terms of this agreement, the Parent provides the Company with all administrative and back office support services required by the Company, including payment for overhead expenses (e.g., rent, utilities, insurance, bookkeeping, salaries, etc.). This agreement does not include services that are directly related to or are associated with the broker/dealer activities being undertaken by the Company. In accordance with this agreement, the Company is responsible for reimbursing the Parent for the shared expenses paid on behalf of the Company. However, the Company's obligation to repay the Parent shall be forgiven if such obligation would cause the Company's net capital to fall below 120% of its minimum net capital requirement under Exchange Act Rule 15c3-1. Forgiveness of the Company's obligation shall be treated as a capital contribution by the Parent to the Company.

In addition, on December 7, 2018, the Company entered into an amended and restated Sublease Agreement with the Parent for a portion of certain real property located in Boston, Massachusetts (see Note 4).

At December 31, 2022, the total amount due to the Parent was zero. In addition, during the year ended December 31, 2022, the Company made capital distributions to the Parent of $17,443,000.
