Notes to Financial Statement
December 31, 2020

1. Organization and Business

RB International Markets (USA) LLC (the “Company”), a wholly owned subsidiary of Raiffeisen Bank International AG (“Parent”), is a limited liability company formed under the laws of Delaware. The Company is a broker-dealer and as such is registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission (the “SEC”) and is a member of the Financial Industry Regulatory Authority (“FINRA”).

The Company acts as a broker-dealer to U.S. institutional investors, including but not limited to asset managers, hedge funds and insurance companies. The Company clears most of its transactions by using the facilities of its Parent. These trades are settled on a delivery versus payment/receive versus payment basis. The Company’s commissions on foreign securities transactions are allocated by the Parent and remitted to the Company monthly. The Company also serves as a co-underwriter of securities but does not engage in sales transactions with respect to those securities. The Company also engages in private placements of securities.

2. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

Basis of Presentation

This financial statement was prepared in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America (“GAAP”) which require management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statement. Actual results could differ from these estimates.

Revenue Recognition

The revenue recognition guidance of ASC Topic 606, Revenue from Contracts with Customers, requires that an entity recognize revenue to depict the transfer of promised goods or services to customers in an amount that reflects the consideration to which the entity expects to be entitled in exchange for those goods or services. The guidance requires an entity to follow a five-step model to (a) identify the contract(s) with a customer, (b) identify the performance obligations in the contract, (c) determine the transaction price, (d) allocate the transaction price to the performance obligations in the contract, and (e) recognize revenue when (or as) the entity satisfies a performance obligation. In determining the transaction price, an entity may include variable consideration only to the extent that it is probable that a significant reversal in the amount of cumulative revenue recognized would not occur when the uncertainty associated with the variable consideration is resolved.

Revenue from contracts with customers includes commission income and fees from investment banking. The recognition and measurement of revenue is based on the assessment of individual contract terms. Significant judgment is required to determine whether performance obligations are satisfied at a point in time or over time; how to allocate transaction prices where multiple performance obligations are identified; when to recognize revenue based on the appropriate measure of the Company’s progress under the contract; and whether constraints on variable consideration should be applied due to uncertain future events.

The Company does not execute or clear any trades, but rather acts as a chaperone for transactions between its U.S. institutional investors and its Parent, pursuant to Exchange Act Rule 15a-6. Under a commission sharing arrangement with its Parent, the Company introduces customer securities transactions to the Parent for execution and is compensated by the Parent for those foreign transactions. Substantially all of the Company's commissions were derived from trades executed by the Parent under this arrangement. All commissions are earned on trade date. The Company has determined that the performance obligation is satisfied on the trade date because that is when the underlying financial instrument, counterparties are identified, the pricing is agreed upon and the risks and rewards of ownership have transferred to/from the customer. Commission payments are received from the Parent the following month.

Periodically, the Company earns placement fees from its Parent for assisting in underwritings in which the Parent is lead manager and are recorded at the time the placement is complete and the amounts are reasonably determinable. The Company has determined that the trade date is the appropriate point in time to recognize revenue for the placement transactions as there are no significant actions which the Company needs to take subsequent to this date and the purchaser obtains the control and benefit of the capital markets offering at that point. After an approximate waiting time of three months for the syndication period, under an internal agreement, the Company will receive a percentage of the total fee from its Parent.

The Company participates in underwritings through a syndicate for entities that want to raise funds through a sale of securities. The Company has determined that the trade date is the appropriate point in time to recognize revenue for securities underwriting transactions as there are no significant actions which the Company needs to take subsequent to this date and the purchaser obtains the control and benefit of the capital markets offering at that point. Revenues are recorded, net of reasonable underwriting expenses. After an approximate waiting time of three months for the syndication period, the Company will receive payment.

Disaggregation can be found on statement of operations for the year ended December 31, 2020.

The beginning and ending balance of receivables, contract assets, and contract liabilities are presented below:

	Receivables	Contract Assets	Contract Liabilities	Receivables, Parent*
Balance, January 1, 2020	$ 50,925	$ -	$ -	$ 51,344
Balance, December 31, 2020	$ 170,760	$ -	$ -	$ 101,513

*Represented as net Due to Parent on statement of financial condition.

2. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies (continued)

Receivables

Effective January 1, 2020, the Company adopted ASC Topic 326, Financial Instruments – Credit Losses (“ASC 326”). ASC 326 impacts the impairment model for certain financial assets by requiring a current expected credit loss (“CECL”) methodology to estimate expected credit losses over the entire life of the financial asset. Under the accounting update, the Company has the ability to determine that there are no expected credit losses in certain circumstances (e.g., based on the credit quality of the customer).

The Company identified fees and other receivables (including, but not limited to, receivables related to commissions and underwriting fees) as impacted by the new guidance. ASC 326 specifies that the Company adopt the new guidance prospectively by means of a cumulative-effect adjustment to the opening partner’s equity as of January 1, 2020. Accordingly, the Company recognized no adjustment upon adoption.

Leases

The guidance under ASC Topic 842, Leases increases transparency and comparability by requiring the recognition of right-of-use assets and lease liabilities on the statement of financial condition.

Lease liabilities are recognized at the present value of the fixed lease payments using the prime rate. Right-of-use assets are recognized based on the amortized initial present value of the fixed lease payments.

Cash

The Company’s cash account is held by one financial institution and therefore is subject to the credit risk at that financial institution.

The Company held time deposits during the year which matured at December 31, 2020.

The balances in these accounts may exceed the federally insured limits. The Company has not experienced any losses in such accounts and does not believe there to be any significant credit risk with respect to these accounts.

2. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies (continued)

Income Taxes

The Company is a single member limited liability company and is treated as a disregarded entity for federal, state and local income tax purposes. The Company does not file federal, state or local income tax returns but its income is reported as part of the Parent's federal, state and local income tax returns.

The Company has a tax sharing arrangement ("TSA") with the Parent whereby it reimburses the Parent for federal, state and local income taxes incurred from the results of the Company's operations.

The Company recognizes the effect of income tax positions only when they are more likely than not to be sustained. As of December 31, 2020, management has determined that the Company had no uncertain tax positions that would require financial statement recognition or disclosure.

Translation of Foreign Currency

Assets and liabilities expected to settle in foreign currencies are translated into United States dollar amounts at the year-end exchange rates. Transactions denominated in foreign currencies, including purchases and sales of investments, and income and expenses, are translated into United States dollar amounts on the transaction date. Adjustments arising from foreign currency translations and transactions are reflected in the statement of operations. The foreign exchange gain for the year ended December 31, 2020 was not material.

The Company does not isolate that portion of the results of operations arising from the effect of changes in foreign exchange rates on investments from fluctuations arising from changes in market prices of investments held. Such fluctuations are included in the statement of operations.

3. Regulatory Requirements

The Company is subject to Securities and Exchange Commission Uniform Net Capital Rule 15c3-1 and has elected to compute its net capital requirements in accordance with the Alternative Net Capital Method. Under this alternative, net capital, as defined, shall not be less than $250,000. At December 31, 2020, the Company had net capital of approximately $12,900,000 which exceeded the required net capital by approximately $12,650,000.

The Company is exempt from Securities and Exchange Commission Rule 15c3-3 under paragraph (k)(2)(i) since all of its customer business is handled on a delivery versus payment or receive versus payment basis. The Company does not handle cash or securities for customers with respect to its underwriting or private placement business.

4. Related Party Transactions

At December 31, 2020, the Company owes the Parent approximately $185,000 which represents taxes payable of $286,000 net of commission receivable of $101,000.

Commission income is earned on trades performed with institutional customers and cleared with the Parent. Under an agreement with the Parent, the Company will receive a flat fee of $35,000 per month as commission income for these trades. Of the total commission income earned of approximately $421,000, approximately $35,000 is unpaid as of December 31, 2020 and included in due to Parent on the statement of financial condition. Clearing and brokerage expenses, in the statement of operations, include fees paid to the Parent on the clearing of these transactions and totaled approximately $2,600. The Company also earns fees for acting as placement agent on underwritings where the Parent is lead manager. Total fees earned for 2020 were approximately $999,000, of which approximately $66,500 is still owed and included in due to Parent on the statement of financial condition.

The terms of any of these arrangements may not be the same as those that would otherwise exist or result from agreements and transactions among unrelated parties. All transactions with related parties are settled in the normal course of business.

5. Commitments

The Company extended its lease to occupy office space under a non-cancellable lease agreement which expires on April 30, 2022. The lease has an automatic renewal option that requires three months advance notice of cancellation by the Company or its lessor. The Company may also incur periodic costs for ancillary services provided by the landlord. At December 31, 2020, the annual minimum payments under this agreement are approximately $55,000 and $18,000 for 2021 and 2022, respectively.

6. COVID-19

During the 2020 calendar year, the World Health Organization has declared COVID-19 to constitute a "Public Health Emergency of International Concern". This pandemic has disrupted economic markets and the economic impact, duration and spread of the COVID-19 virus is uncertain at this time. The financial performance of the Company is subject to future developments related to the COVID-19 outbreak and possible government advisories and restrictions placed on the financial markets and business activities. The impact on financial markets and the overall economy, all of which are highly uncertain, cannot be predicted. If the financial markets and/or the overall economy are impacted for an extended period the Company's results may be materially affected. The financial statements do not include any adjustments that might result from the outcome of this uncertainty.
