2. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies

Basis of Presentation

This financial statement was prepared in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America which requires management to make estimates and assumptions that could affect the reported amounts and disclosures. Accordingly, actual results could differ from these estimates.

Contract Assets and Liabilities

The Company had $500,000 in accounts receivable at January 1, 2021 and it has accounts receivable of $0 at December 31, 2021.

The Company had no contract assets or liabilities at January 1, 2021 and at December 31, 2021.

The Internal Revenue Code provides that any income or loss is passed through to the ultimate beneficial individual members for federal, state and certain local income taxes.

At December 31, 2021, management has determined that the Company had no uncertain tax positions that would require financial statement recognition. This determination is subject to ongoing reevaluation as facts and circumstances may require.

Allowance for Credit Losses

ASC Topic 326, Financial Instruments – Credit Losses (“ASC 326”) impacts the impairment model for certain financial assets by requiring a current expected credit loss (“CECL”) methodology to estimate expected credit losses over the entire life of the financial asset. Under ASC 326, the Company could determine there are no expected credit losses in certain circumstances (e.g., based on the credit quality of the client).

2. Summary of Significant Accounting Policies (continued)

The allowance for credit losses is based on the Company's expectation of the collectability of financial instruments, including fees and other receivables utilizing the CECL framework. The Company considers factors such as historical experience, credit quality, age of balances and current and future economic conditions that may affect the Company's expectation of the collectability in determining the allowance for credit losses. Under the standard, the allowance for credit losses must be deducted from the amortized cost of the financial asset to present the net amount expected to be collected.

The statement of operations would reflect the measurement of credit losses for newly recognized financial assets as well as the expected increases or decreases of expected credit losses that might have taken place during the period. The Company has not provided an allowance for credit losses at December 31, 2021.

3. Concentrations of Credit Risk

During the year ended December 31, 2021, 100% of the Company's revenue was from one client.

The Company maintains its cash balances at two financial institutions which at times may exceed federal limits. The Company does not regard itself to be at any risk with respect to its cash balances.

4. Transactions with related parties

During the year ended December 31, 2021, the Member forgave $406,434 that was owed to it by the Company. Such forgiveness was treated as capital contributions to the Company.

All transactions with related parties are settled in the normal course of business. The terms of any of these arrangements may not be the same as those that would otherwise exist or result from agreements and transactions among unrelated parties.

As of December 31, 2021, there was no payable to or receivable from the Member under the administrative services agreement.
