COMMUNITY CONNECTIONS

Sports at the service of the community

Community is at the heart of the New York Gotham Ballers and the Champions Basketball League. Our teams will help bring sports and the community together.

What is extra special about the Champions League is that every single player to be a part of the League has committed to serving their community. The communities where they grew up, played in college and played professionally. They'll feel great and you'll feel great for helping make it possible. These memories will travel on and off the court.

Leadership from Gotham Ballers and other Champions League teams will empower community youth and their parents, teaching about nutrition and well-being, good sportsmanship, and the importance of a healthy lifestyle.

The Gotham Ballers will host camps, clinics and school programs across the New York public school system year-round. So when fans become owners, their participation supports a greater good.

Walt Frazier, Earl Monroe like what they see in new Knicks
August 9th, 2016
Walt Frazier, Earl Monroe like what they see in new Knicks: Walt Frazier stood at the mic, and the sharp-dressed man of teal introduced his former Knicks backcourt partner, Earl Monroe. The 71-year-old Hall of Famers were together again Tuesday at Clyde Frazier's Wine and Dine in Manhattan to promote their latest dish-and-swish venture — the Gotham Ballers of the Champions Basketball League, coming in 2017. "I think unequivocably the best backcourt ever," Frazier said

When you look at some of the names, you have iconic names here, and they do resonate. And the reality is that sports merchandising and the business of sports is staggering. So this, to me, is a very large asset that I anticipate we'll be able to leverage across multiple product categories and deal structures, and I think we'll have a lot of fun in the process. Be A Fan - Own The Team

Imagine owning a piece of a pro sports team.

The average NBA team has gone up in value over ten-fold in the past 20 years according to Forbes Magazine.

This is an investment that you will definitely enjoy owning.
The best seats, the best parking, free access to practices that only owners can attend, exclusive parties for owners, a special nationwide social network that only owners will have access to, and much more. Enjoy the game as NEVER BEFORE with players STRAIGHT OUT OF THE NBA.

Like many of you, I wanted to be a team owner. Be part of something great. Entertain and have fun and be a hero for my community. Champions League is that opportunity.

The Gotham Ballers, our league's team that will play in New York City, is composed entirely of former NBA players, including All-Stars. The roster includes Shawn Marion, Kenyon Martin, Al Harrington and other world-famous talent.

The team is now part of the Champions League, playing games during NBA off-season, taking over the summer.
ESPN is our broadcast partner. You'll see many of your team's games on both Internet and national broadcast TV.
The Gotham Ballers are also part of our mission to connect with local schools across the country.

Since early 2016 we have worked with school districts in the Bronx and Manhattan, and we will change lives of kids for the better, on a regular basis. See the video below for more on this great, great mission using fantastic players who the kids love!

You can be an owner. Being a fan is great, but the special privileges of ownership are now available to you. I invite you to join us in Gotham Ballers and help us build a great basketball team, have a ton of fun and improve our communities together.
