FUGU, Inc.

$250,000 in Common Shares

$2.25 per Share

SUMMARY

The following summary is qualified in its entirety by the detailed information appearing elsewhere in this Offering Statement. See "Risk Factors" for information to be considered by prospective investors.

FUGU, Inc., an Oregon corporation, (the “Company”) is a development stage company engaged in the design, development, construction and operation of a state-of-the-art indoor agricultural facility utilizing natural sunlight through light deprivation greenhouses in a 16,000 square foot “clean sheet of paper” design to produce the lowest cost growing method that is also capable of sustainably producing large volumes of medical-grade, “top shelf” sun-grown plants in a completely controlled “clean room” indoor environment at a fraction of the cost of plants grown in enclosed converted warehouse type facilities.

FUGU’s approach solves a significant and growing problem for retailers and consumers alike: The inconsistent availability of trusted product. To solve that problem, the Company’s facility and work flow process design allows for continuous, year-round harvests. With a significantly smaller carbon footprint and lower operating costs vs competing grow methods, while still being able to primarily use natural sunlight through a high-grade polycarbonate, light diffusing roofing material, the Company will be able to supply the significant Oregon market with consistent delivery of the strains the marketplace demands, day in and day out, all year round. With that foundation, the Company is able to effectively “brand” its products through a communications, distribution, marketing and sales strategy that positions the Company to be a leader in what Inc. magazine has termed the fastest growing industry in the United

You should not rely on any information or representations other than those contained in this Offering Statement or in the documents referred to herein.

Company Risks

1. We have no operating history. Our marijuana production business is recently formed and has no operating history. We face the general risks associated with any new business operating in a competitive industry, including the ability to fund our operations from unpredictable cash flow and capital-raising transactions. There can be no assurance that we will achieve our anticipated investment objectives or operate profitably.
2. Our financial statements have not been audited. We have included historical financial statements in our disclosure documents. The financial statements: (a) were prepared internally; (b) may not have been prepared in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles; and (c) have not been audited by an outside certified public accountant or auditor. Consequently, the financial statements may not completely or accurately reflect our financial condition, our results of operations, or our cash flow. We encourage you to consult with your legal and financial advisors to determine whether you have sufficient financial information to evaluate the merits and risks of purchasing the Shares.
3. Any financial projections are for illustrative purposes only. To the extent financial projections have been provided, such financial projections were based on a variety of estimates and assumptions which may not be realized, and are inherently subject to significant business, economic, legal, regulatory, and competitive uncertainties, most of which are beyond our control. There can be no assurance that the financial projections will be realized, and actual results may differ materially from the projections.
4. We will need to raise additional financing. Our ability to implement our business plan will depend on our ability to obtain additional financing in the future. We cannot assure you that additional financing will be available on terms favorable to us. If adequate funds are not available on acceptable terms, our ability to start and grow our businesses would be dependent on the cash we raise from this offering and the cash flow, if any, from our operations, which may not be sufficient.
5. We may not generate sufficient cash flow to make distributions to you. There is no assurance that we will ever have income sufficient to cover our expenses and have sufficient cash flow to make distributions to you. Even if we make distributions, there can be no assurance concerning the timing or amounts of the distributions.
6. Our success depends on the skills and expertise of Lawrence A. Cornell and Grant R. Chaput. Our success substantially depends on the skills, talents, abilities, and continued management services of Lawrence A. Cornell and Grant R. Chaput. There is no guarantee that Mr. Cornell and Mr. Chaput will manage our business successfully. We do not carry life or disability insurance on Mr. Cornell or Mr. Chaput, nor do we have an employment agreement with Mr. Cornell or Mr. Chaput. The loss of the services of Mr. Cornell or Mr.

Chaput, for any reason, may have a material adverse effect on your investment in the Shares.

7. Our success depends on our ability to hire and retain additional qualified individuals. Our success substantially depends on our ability to hire and retain additional individuals to implement our business plans. There is no assurance that we will be able to hire or retain qualified individuals, or that the individuals hired will be able to successfully implement our business plans.

Marijuana Industry Risks

8. Our business is illegal under federal law. Producing, manufacturing, processing, possessing, distributing, selling, and using marijuana is a federal crime. Under the Federal Controlled Substances Act of 1970 (the “Federal CSA”), marijuana is classified as a Schedule I drug, which is defined as having a high potential for abuse and no currently accepted medical use. Your investment in the Shares may: (a) expose you personally to criminal liability under federal law, resulting in monetary fines and jail time; and (b) expose any real and personal property used in connection with our businesses to seizure and forfeiture to the federal government. We encourage you to carefully review the U.S. Department of Justice Memorandum for All United States Attorneys dated August 29, 2013 from James M. Cole (the “Cole Memo”), which summarizes the current enforcement policies of the U.S. Department of Justice (the “US DOJ”) concerning marijuana, which is included in the Listing.
9. The federal government’s enforcement policies with respect to marijuana may change. Since the release of the Cole Memo, federal United States Attorneys having jurisdiction in Oregon have not attempted to prosecute any person whose commercial marijuana operation is in compliance with Oregon law. As a result of the United States presidential election held on November 8, 2016, Donald Trump became President of the United States on January 20, 2017. President Trump nominated Jeff Sessions for Attorney General of the United States, and Mr. Sessions was confirmed by the United States Senate on February 8, 2017. Consequently, Mr. Sessions currently heads the US DOJ and will dictate the US DOJ’s enforcement policies concerning marijuana. Mr. Sessions has stated his opposition to the legalization of marijuana, and may adopt US DOJ enforcement policies consistent with his position, including but not limited to a revocation of the Cole Memo. Any change in the US DOJ’s enforcement policies likely will have a material adverse effect on us.
10. We will not be able to deduct many normal business expenses. Under Section 280E of the Internal Revenue Code (“Section 280E”), many normal business expenses incurred in the trafficking of marijuana and its derivatives are not deductible in calculating our federal and Oregon income tax liability. A result of Section 280E is that an otherwise profitable business may in fact operate at a loss, after taking into account its income tax expenses. The application of Section 280E likely will have a material adverse effect on us.
11. Our success depends on our ability to maintain our real property lease. We have entered into an Agricultural Lease for a premises located in Eagle Creek, Oregon (the “Agricultural Lease”). Our success depends on our ability to maintain our leasehold rights under the Agricultural Lease. Our failure to do so will have a material adverse effect on us. A copy of the Agricultural Lease is available upon request, subject to you signing a nondisclosure agreement.

12. Our success depends on our ability to obtain a marijuana license from the Oregon Liquor Control Commission. We have applied for a marijuana producer license from the Oregon Liquor Control Commission (the “OLCC”) for the premises subject to the Agricultural Lease. Our success depends on our ability to obtain the license from the OLCC in the near future. Our failure to obtain and maintain the license will have a material adverse effect on us.
13. Our business is highly regulated and we may not be issued necessary licenses and permits. Our business and products are and will continue to be regulated as applicable laws continue to change and develop. Regulatory compliance and the process of obtaining regulatory approvals can be costly and time-consuming. Even if we obtain a marijuana production license from the OLCC, no assurance can be given that we will receive all of the other licenses and permits that will be required to operate our business. Further we cannot predict what kind of regulatory requirements our business will be subject to in the future.
14. The implementation of the Control and Regulation of Marijuana Act is uncertain. Effective January 1, 2017, the OLCC adopted its most recent rules to implement the Control and Regulation of Marijuana Act, which governs Oregon’s recreational marijuana market. The OLCC’s rules are unclear on a number of matters, and the OLCC likely will have to interpret and further amend the rules. Any interpretations of the rules by the OLCC, any additional rules adopted by the OLCC, and any additional statutes passes by the Oregon legislature could have a material adverse effect on us.
15. Customers for our marijuana business are limited. The customers of our marijuana production business will be limited to other Oregon-licensed marijuana businesses. We may not sell our products to any business or person located outside the State of Oregon. Consequently, we have a limited customer base.
16. We have numerous competitors. Our marijuana production business is not, by itself, unique. We have numerous competitors throughout the State of Oregon utilizing a substantially similar business model. Excessive competition may impact our sales and may cause us to reduce our prices. Any material reduction in our prices may have a material adverse effect on your investment.
17. Local laws and ordinances could restrict our business activity. Although legal under Oregon state law, local governments have the ability to limit, restrict, and ban medical marijuana businesses from operating within their jurisdiction. Land use, zoning, local ordinances, and similar laws could be adopted or changed, and have a material adverse effect on our business.
18. We may not be able to obtain or maintain a bank account. Because producing, manufacturing, processing, possessing, distributing, selling, and using marijuana is a crime under the Federal CSA, most banks are unwilling to provide banking services to marijuana businesses. Our inability to obtain bank accounts could have a material adverse effect on our business.
19. We will not be able to register any federal trademarks for our marijuana products. Because producing, manufacturing, processing, possessing, distributing, selling, and using marijuana is a crime under the Federal CSA, the United States Patent and Trademark Office will not permit the registration of any trademark that identifies marijuana products. As a result, we likely will be unable to protect our marijuana product trademarks beyond the geographic areas in which we conduct business. The use of our trademarks outside the State of Oregon by one or more other persons could have a material adverse effect on our business.

20. Laws will continue to change rapidly for the foreseeable future. Local, state and federal laws and enforcement policies concerning marijuana-related conduct are changing rapidly and will continue to do so for the foreseeable future. Changes in applicable law are unpredictable and could have a material adverse effect on our business.

Security Risks

The valuation of the Company and the Shares is not based on a professional or reliable fair market value estimation or appraisal. No outside party, including our attorneys and financial advisors, has made any representations as to the fairness of the valuation of the Shares, the Company, our business, or your investment in general.

The holders of the Preferred Shares will have rights and preferences that are senior to yours. We encourage you to carefully review the Capitalization Chart and the Articles of Restatement of the Company.
23. This Agreement has not been reviewed or approved by the government. No government agency or authority has reviewed or approved this Agreement or any of the documents provided to you relating to this Agreement, including these Risk Factors. You are expected to conduct your own review and analysis before deciding whether to purchase the Shares.
24. There will be significant restrictions on your ability to transfer the Shares. No market exists for the Shares. Federal and state securities laws will restrict your ability to transfer the Shares. Any share certificate that represents the Shares will contain a legend that will place additional restrictions on your ability to transfer the Shares. Because of these restrictions, you may be unable to liquidate your investment in the event of an emergency or for any other reason. As a result, you should only enter into this Agreement if you are prepared to hold the Shares for an indefinite period of time.
25. You will not have any right to control management. You will be a minority owner of the Company without any right to control the management of the Company. Our board of directors will have control over substantially all of the decisions related to our business. Our directors could cause the Company to take actions over your objections. Additionally, our directors will not be obligated to cause the Company to pursue any alternative course of action that may be suggested or advocated by you.
26. An investment in the Shares has significant tax consequences. The tax consequences of an investment in the Shares are significant and complex, and may vary depending on your particular tax situation. We strongly encourage you to consult with your legal and tax advisors to determine the tax implications of purchasing the Shares.

ABOUT THE PROJECT

Nothing happens in the cannabis industry – nothing – until someone grows the plant. Which begs the question, “What is the best way to grow?” So-called “top-shelf” product is typically grown indoors in converted warehouse and similar facilities. Although a significant amount of product is grown outdoors, such product is perceived in the marketplace as less valuable than indoor product grown in “clean room” like conditions. And outdoor grow operations have significantly higher agricultural crop risks due to weather and pest issues. And the fact that the plant is grown outdoors means the final flower product is significantly prone to gathering airborne particulate matter (i.e., dirt and other substances).

Typical “warehouse” type grows however, have their own operational and environmental impact issues. First, the plants required substantial amounts of artificial lighting, which in turn generate substantial amounts of heat and humidity the dissipation of which requires enormous amounts of energy for cooling and dehumidification. And it is well established that the plants “prefer” natural sunlight over artificial lights. In addition, warehouse space that is allowed to be used by landlord/owners for growing marijuana are in scarce supply such that the cost to the operator is substantially higher than it needs to be. Virtually all such indoor grows also suffer from another problem: They were not designed from the beginning for the purposes of growing agricultural products. Accordingly, significant retrofits, modifications and compromises are forced upon the operators of such a grow facility which in turn leads to inefficiencies in production and increased labor costs. Finally, plants are highly susceptible to mold, mildew and pest problems. Most indoor warehouse grows are not designed to be quickly sanitized in the event of an outbreak of such problems. (Imagine having to sterilize gypsum walls and hidden ductwork throughout the building to eliminate or minimize mold spores.)

FUGU, Inc. has taken a modern approach to these issues. By constructing agricultural buildings, on agricultural land (representing a fraction of the cost for a similar industrial warehouse), with 12 foot tall, double insulated steel walls, a polycarbonate sunlight diffusing roof material, with every surface in the structure being readily and easily cleaned and sanitized, and augmented with artificial lighting, the Company is able to produce any plant that can be grown in a warehouse, with but at a fraction (perhaps less than one half) of the electrical grid strain a warehouse grow requires. In addition, the entire facility has been completely designed and laid out to optimize plant health, maximize production and provide a human work flow process that is highly efficient resulting in substantially lower operating and labor costs. The Company has purchased and taken possession of, at a cost of approximately $300,000, two Nexus “Vail” light deprivation greenhouses of approximately 5,000 square feet each and which are ready to be erected on the company’s long-term leased six-acre property in Clackamas County, Oregon. They will be erected on either side of a center structure that is dedicated to supporting the “flowering” phase of production in the light-deprivation greenhouses. This center section houses the master plant stock from which cuttings are cultivated and grown for an average of eight weeks prior to entering the greenhouse portion for another 8 weeks of the “flowering” stage of development. The center support structure also houses all the control logic for auto controlling the various environments throughout the facility including fertigation, heating, cooling, humidity, CO2 levels and airflow. This area also houses the climate controlled drying and curing rooms, trim areas, vault, research laboratory, security and office space. As to security, the entire facility is surrounded by a security fence and is monitored continuously with video camera feeds with a continuous and recorded view of the entire facility, inside and out.

Every surface in the facility is a “hard” surface allowing for rapid sanitation and recovery in the event of a mildew or pest issue. The floor is of smooth concrete with floor drains and a separate below-grade excess plant water/nutrient runoff capture system that recycles it for use to irrigate and feed outdoor plants that are known to repel pests.

The greenhouses have a racking system for its flowering plant stock that consists of 130 racks of 16 feet x 4 feet to house 4 plants each. Each such rack is on ball bearing casters on a rail system such that we maximize the number of plants that can be cultivated while still allowing easy access for the grow team to hand care for and trim the plants during the growth phase.

The facility also has installed an entire lighting system that allows it to supplement the natural sunlight through the polycarbonate roof if and when required. The light system is set on a grid pattern and through sensors, continuously monitors and measures the quantity and quality of sunlight reaching the plants and turn on and off in a manner that optimizes their health and growth.

Every major (and several minor) environmental control element is monitored through sensors with the systems themselves operating on “auto run” with human monitoring through alarms and other means on a 24/7 basis – remotely. These systems can also be managed, adjusted and turned on and off remotely through a secure platform.

The Company will harvest one half of the production in one greenhouse every two weeks. It is anticipated that each such harvest will be 260, at an average expected yield of between 1.5 and 2.5 pounds per month or 4,680 to 7,800 pounds per year of dried, finished flower.

The Company anticipates that it will establish relationships with only the top producing and finest retailers in the Oregon market. We will establish branding of our product through retail merchandising, promotion, public relations and advertising. We will communicate to the marketplace our key competitive advantages, namely, that we produce sun grown product in a “clean” environment, that we produce through environmentally responsible means and that, for the benefit of retailers and consumers alike, there will always be on the shelf “FUGU” branded product thereby addressing one of the fundamental issues surrounding the rapid development of this industry – namely, the problem of inconsistent supply of “top shelf”.
