In any situation where a return of investor commitments is triggered, such funds will be returned without any accrued interest and less any fees incurred.

Method for Delivering the Securities

The issuer will record all investments in book entry form so that no certificates would be delivered. The fully executed Subscription and Purchase Agreement relating to the Offering will serve as a written record of the transaction and will be available on the Platform via the investor dashboard. The investor will also receive email confirmation of the successful closing of the Offering, which will confirm the number of securities purchased and the amount paid. Such compensation is paid only if the Company's total Offering proceeds meet or exceed the target minimum offering amount indicated in this Material. Additionally, the Company reimburses the Intermediary for certain fees that the Intermediary passes through to the Company, such as the costs related to performing background checks and establishing an FBO Account. These fees are one-time fees and are not dependent on the success of the Offering. In total, the Intermediary will receive, directly or indirectly, a dollar amount equal to the sum of all the following: (a) a transaction fee equal to 6% of the total amount of monies raised in the Offering for the purchase of securities offered by the Company, payable upon success, (b) a registration and processing fee equal to $500 payable upon registration, and (c) a participation fee equal to $10 committed to by the investor. Participation fees that are attributable to each investor are not included in any calculation of total Offering amount.

Conditional Commitment

Purchase of the securities offered in this Offering shall be made pursuant to the execution of a Subscription Agreement available on the Platform, which contains, among other things, certain representations, warranties and covenants. The Company must secure investor commitments that equal or exceed the minimum target amount for the Offering prior to the applicable closing date, or the Offering will be canceled and investor funds committed in connection with the Offering will be returned. An investor commitment is conditional after being made, but only up until the time that is 48 hours before the applicable closing date. For the 48-hour period prior to the applicable closing date, investor commitments may not be cancelled by the investor but in certain circumstances may still be returned (e.g. if the target minimum amount is not met). As a reminder, investors are required to reconfirm their

Distinguishing the Securities

Ability of one class of security to materially limit, dilute or qualify the rights of another class: The class of security being offered is identical to the other class of security, excepting voting rights, which it does not have. The voting stock cannot limit or qualify the non-voting stock, and the two classes dilute identically.

Ability for the Rights of the Securities Being Offered to Be Modified

The terms may not be modified.

Any Additional Risks

The risks to purchasers of the securities being offered in this issuance are the same as those to which principal shareholders and other holders of voting stock are exposed. These include but are not limited to dilution in the event of further stock issuances, buyout, and bankruptcy. These risks do not differ for the different classes of securities, but are shared pro rata.

Valuation of the Securities

The offering price of the securities in this Offering has been established by the Company and does not necessarily bear any specific relation to the assets, book value or potential earnings of the Company or any other recognized criteria of value. The Shares have not been registered under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and have not been traded or quoted on any exchange or quotation system. There is no public market in which shareholders may sell their Shares, and there can be no assurance given that such a market will ever develop. The securities offered hereby are restricted by law and the ability to transfer and interests in the Shares is severely limited.

Method by which the offered securities are valued

The New Startup Valuation Calculator was used for Reference, and the results were adjusted to represent additional risks that are inherent to the area.

The price of each Share was determined by the Company in good faith based on its own assessment of its current position and by taking a variety of quantitative and qualitative considerations into account. Quantitatively, the Company considered revenue and operating profit, both one year from now and five years from now along with an analysis of the Company's existing capital structure and available cash. The Company then assessed where publicly traded peers were being valued in the markets. After considering several different valuation metrics, including Price/Sales and Enterprise Value/EBIT, the Company discounted its valuation by its cost of capital. For qualitative factors, the Company considered the type of industry that it is in and applied a discount rate appropriate for such industry. Finally, the Company applied a liquidity discount which resulted in a post-money valuation which takes into consideration the money projected to be raised in order to derive the valuation contained in this Material.

USE OF PROCEEDS

The Company intends to apply the proceeds of this Offering substantially as set forth herein, subject to reallocation by management as it deems in the best interests of the Company. The actual use of proceeds of this Offering is subject to the discretion of management and the board of directors, and may include general corporate purposes.

If the Company hits the minimum of our target offering, almost all of the funds will go into development for the new iOS version of StakeHaul, as well as an Android version.

However, the closer get to the maximum amount, the Company will spend more on development and look to hire a team full-time. The Company would hire one individual to act as a right-hand man for strategic planning. As far as development, the Company would look at immediately building in a sports betting feature within both the Android and iOS versions. The Company has been informed that the total cost for just this feature would be between $70,000-$100,000 plus continuous ongoing costs.

In terms of marketing, the Company would make it a huge priority to get my app promoted on popular websites and increase my influencer marketing strategies. The Company hired a firm for marketing for this campaign. The Company may continue to use this vendor in lieu of hiring someone full-time for marketing and public relations.

The Company's data and hosting fees will continue to grow as StakeHaul acquires more users.

The Company will look to travel to more tech conferences to get the StakeHaul brand out to a national audience.

Finally, the Company will look to partner with lobbying firms like the American Gaming Association and the American Sports Betting Coalition, as well as set reserves for legal expenses for future international patents. The Company already started the patent process for the U.S., U.K., and Canada.

Results of Operations

The following is a description of the financial condition of the Company, including any items that have had a material impact on the Company, for each year when financial statements are provided. This discussion also includes an identification of any known material changes or trends in the financial condition and results of operations of the Company during any time period subsequent to the period for which financial statements are provided.

For at least the next twelve months, our company will be constrained financially due to the current federal legislation that restricts sports betting for all of the U.S. besides Nevada. If we are able to raise $50,000, we will be able to develop the next version of StakeHaul for the iPhone, as well as develop an Android version. However, to achieve true market traction nationally over the next twelve months, we project we will need to raise a minimum of $100,000 to offset marketing and salary costs. We would all investments from this crowdfunding drive immediately. One good thing is that we currently carry no debt at all, so we do not need to pay off any outside loans.

Material Indebtedness

The Company has indicated that it has no outstanding material indebtedness.

Previous Issuer Offerings

The Company has indicated that it has not conducted any prior exempt offerings in the past three years.

Financial Statements

The issuer's financial statements are attached as Exhibit B.

For an offering conducted in the first 120 days of a fiscal year, the financial statements provided may be for the two fiscal years prior to the issuer's most recently completed fiscal year; however, financial statements for the two most recently completed fiscal years must be provided if they are otherwise available. If more than 120 days have passed since the end of the issuer's most recently completed fiscal year, the financial statements provided must be for the issuer's two most recently completed fiscal years.

An investor should not invest any funds in the Offering unless he or she can afford to lose his or her entire investment. In making an investment decision, investors must rely on their own examination of the Company and the terms of the Offering, including the merits and risks involved. The Shares have not been recommended or reviewed by any federal or state securities commission or regulatory authority. There is no ready market for the sale of the Shares and it may be difficult or impossible for an investor to sell or otherwise dispose of the Shares.

Risks from Relying on Issuer Supplied Information

There is the risk that some of the information supplied by the Company may be inaccurate. The management of the Company has provided all of the information stated in this Material without any third party verifying or investigating such information. The Company makes no express or implied representation or warranty as to the completeness of this information or, in the case of projections, estimates, future plans, or forward looking assumptions or statements, as to their attainability or the accuracy and completeness of the assumptions from which they are derived. It is expected that each prospective investor will pursue their own independent investigation. Forward-looking statements are subject to certain risks, trends and uncertainties that could cause actual results to differ materially from those projected.

Risks as a Minority Holder

Purchasers of a minority ownership have risks relating to limited control, limited information and limited rights. Minority owners have no control over the marketability and value of their purchased securities and they may be required to hold onto their minority ownership position for an indefinite period. Additionally, minority owners must address the following risks:

Minority owners have no right to participate in any management decisions of the Company or the day-to-day operations. There is the risk that the majority owners make decisions or take actions that a minority owner thinks is bad for the Company. A minority owner has limited ability to influence the governance and operations of a Company.

Minority owners have limited rights to information beyond those filings that are required by law to be made available. There is the risk that minority owners may be denied immediate information about the Company's performance or corporate affairs.

Minority owners have limited rights, if any, to demand current distributions from an operating business. Majority owners likely have the right and power to avoid making any distributions of profits at their discretion. There is also the risk that the management of the Company pursues a spending plan that causes the Company not to generate any profits to be distributed.

Minority owners have limited rights, if any, to have their interest bought out. There is the risk that a minority owner will want to sell their interest and they will have no right to force the Company to buy them out. There will also be liquidity risk if there is no secondary market for the Company's securities.

Minority owners have limited input into fundamental corporate changes such as sale of the Company. There is a risk that a sale could be structured in a way to avoid certain payouts to minority owners, such as a sale of assets over time with the proceeds reinvested in another business.

Minority owners may have interests that are different than shareholder-officers or shareholders that are part of the management team of the Company. There is the risk that minority owners perceive a conflict of interest if, for example, the managers that are shareholders receive a significant raise. Additionally, there is the risk that a minority owner will want to remove a manager or board member but have no independent power to do so.

Risks Regarding Corporate Actions

The Company may take certain corporate actions that could impact investors that purchase the Shares.

Regarding the additional issuances of securities, there is the risk that an investor has their ownership percentage diluted if, for example, the Company decides to raise additional amounts in the future. There is also the risk that an investor is excluded from the opportunity to participate in future fund-raising so that they are unable to maintain their ownership percentage.

Regarding the authorization of new securities with different rights, there is the risk that a future investor is able to obtain rights that are superior to the rights afforded to the purchasers of the security available in this offering.

To the extent that there is ever an offer to repurchase the Shares by the Company, there is the risk that investors may feel pressured to sell their Shares to the Company without fully participating in or capturing the potential increase in value of such Shares.

Regarding a sale of the Company or of assets of the Company, there is the risk that any such transaction fails to maximize the value of the Company's securities. The investor will be required to rely on the business judgement of the management team and the Board of Directors of the Company so there can be no guarantee that the investor will receive the full market value of their Shares

Regarding transactions with related parties, there is the risk that the Company is placed in a position that creates the possibility of a conflict of interest. The Company may choose to participate in transactions with affiliates and related persons, with limited disclosure required to investors.

Risks from an Investment in Securities

This Offering is being made on a conditional basis with no minimum number of Shares guaranteed to be sold. The Company has not engaged the services of an underwriter with respect to the Offering, and there is no guarantee that the minimum required amount of proceeds will be realized by the Company.

The Shares are not guaranteed or insured by any government agency or by any private party. The amount of earnings is not guaranteed and can vary with market conditions. The return of all or any portion of capital invested in the Shares is not guaranteed, and the Shares could become worthless.

Investors should be aware of the potentially long-term nature of their investment. Each purchaser of Shares will be required to represent that it is purchasing such securities for its own account for investment purposes and not with an intention to resell or distribute. Purchasers may be required to bear the economic risks of the investment for an indefinite period of time. There is currently no public market for the Company's securities. Ultimately, each investor's risk with respect to this Offering includes the potential for a complete loss of their investment.

Risks from Uncertain Capital Needs

The Company believes that the net proceeds of the Offering will be sufficient to fund the implementation of the Company's business plan, operations and growth for the foreseeable future. Nevertheless, in the event that additional capital is required, no assurance can be given that additional financing will be available at all or on terms favorable to the Company. If adequate funds were not available to satisfy either short or long-term capital requirements, the Company may be unable to continue in business, with a resulting loss of all or part of investments made by the Company's investors. Moreover, if additional equity securities are issued in connection with future financings, the ownership percentages of then shareholders could be diluted. Dilution of ownership percentages may also occur as a result of equity securities issued pursuant to possible sales or grants to existing shareholders, officers, managers, consultants, advisors, and/or employees.

Risks from Relying on an Exemption from Registration

The Shares are being offered for sale in reliance upon certain exemptions from the registration requirements of the Securities Act and applicable state securities laws. If the sale of the Shares were to fail to qualify for these exemptions, purchasers may seek rescission of their purchases of the Shares. If a number of purchasers were to obtain rescission, the Company would face significant financial demands, which could adversely affect the Company as a whole, as well as any non-rescinding purchasers.

ISSUER-SPECIFIC RISK FACTORS

MARKET AND CUSTOMER RISK FACTORS

There is a limited market for the Company's product or services.

Although we have identified what we believe to be a need in the market for our products and services, there can be no assurance that demand for our product will develop or that we will be able to create a viable business. Our future financial performance will depend, at least in part, upon the introduction and market acceptance of our products and services. Potential customers may be unwilling to accept, utilize or recommend any of our proposed products or services. If we are unable to commercialize and market such products or services when planned, we may not achieve any market acceptance or generate revenue.

We must correctly predict, identify, and interpret changes in consumer preferences and demand, offer new products to meet those changes, and respond to competitive innovation.

Our success depends on our ability to predict, identify, and interpret the tastes and habits of consumers and to offer products that appeal to consumer preferences. If we do not offer products that appeal to consumers, our sales and market share will decrease. If we do not accurately predict which shifts in consumer preferences will be long-term, or if we fail to introduce new and improved products to satisfy those preferences, our sales could decline. If we fail to expand our product offerings successfully across product categories, or if we do not rapidly develop products in faster growing and more profitable categories, demand for our products could decrease, which could materially and adversely affect our product sales, financial condition, and results of operations.

We may be adversely affected by cyclical, volatility or an extended downturn in the United States or worldwide economy, or in the industries we serve.

Our operating results, business and financial condition could be significantly harmed by an extended economic downturn or future downturns. Further, we may face increased pricing pressures during such periods as customers seek to use lower cost or fee services, which may adversely affect our financial condition and results of operations.

Failure to obtain new clients or renew client contracts on favorable terms could adversely affect results of operations.

We may face pricing pressure in obtaining and retaining our clients. On some occasions, this pricing pressure may result in lower revenue from a client than we had anticipated based on our previous agreement with that client. This reduction in revenue could result in an adverse effect on our business and results of operations.

Our business and results of operations may be adversely affected if we are unable to maintain our customer experience or provide high quality customer service.

The success of our business largely depends on our ability to provide superior customer experience and high quality customer service, which in turn depends on a variety of factors, such as our ability to continue to provide a reliable and user-friendly website interface for our customers to browse and purchase our services, reliable and timely delivery of our services, and superior follow-up after sales are completed. If our customers are not satisfied, our reputation and customer loyalty could be negatively affected.

FINANCIAL RISK FACTORS

The amount of capital the Company is attempting to raise in the Offering is not enough to sustain the Company's current business plan.

In order to achieve the Company's near and long-term goals, the Company will need to procure funds in addition to the amount raised in this offering. There is no guarantee the Company will be able to raise such funds on acceptable terms or at all. If we are not able to raise sufficient capital in the future, we will not be able to execute our business plan, our continued operations will be in jeopardy and we may be forced to cease operations and sell or otherwise transfer all or substantially all of our remaining assets.

Our company may need additional funding in the future, which may not be available.

The Company's operations may require additional capital sooner than currently anticipated. If the Company is unable to obtain additional capital if needed, in the amount and at the time needed, this may restrict planned or future development; limit our company's ability to take advantage of future opportunities; negatively affect its ability to implement its business strategies and meet its goals; and possibly limit its ability to continue operations. The company's working capital requirements may significantly vary from those currently anticipated. The Company does not know whether additional financing will be available when needed or on terms favorable to it or to its shareholders. The Company may raise necessary funds through public or private equity offerings or debt financings, among other methods. To the extent that the Company raises additional capital by issuing equity securities, our shareholders will experience dilution. If the Company raises funds through debt financings, the Company may become subject to restrictive covenants.

Our company may be required to take on debt which could result in limitations on our business.

The Company has no debt as of the date of filing. However, if the Company incurs indebtedness, a portion of its cash flow will have to be dedicated to the payment of principal and interest on such indebtedness. Typical loan agreements also might contain restrictive covenants, which may impair the Company's operating flexibility. Such loan agreements would also provide for default under certain circumstances, such as failure to meet certain financial covenants. A default under a loan agreement could result in the loan becoming immediately due and payable and, if unpaid, a judgment in favor of such lender which would be senior to the rights of shareholders of the Company. A judgment creditor would have the right to foreclose on any of the Company's assets resulting in a material adverse effect on the Company's business, operating results or financial condition.

The Company's future revenue goals are unpredictable and may fluctuate.

The Company has forecasted its capitalization requirements based on revenue goals, which include assumption of sports betting being legalized at a federal level in the next 18 months, and cost containment measures; any changes to these forecasts could make it difficult for the company to achieve its projected growth, which would affect available cash and working capital, ultimately affecting the Company's financial condition. This could put the investor at risk of losing their investment.

Our operating costs are unpredictable and our operating results may fluctuate due to factors that are difficult to forecast and not within our control.

In addition to general economic conditions and market fluctuations, significant operating cost increases could adversely affect us due to numerous factors, many of which are beyond our control. Increases in operating costs would likely negatively impact our operating income and could undermine our ability to grow our business. Our past operating results may not be accurate indicators of future performance, and you should not rely on such results to predict our future performance.

The Company's ambitious future revenue goals depend largely on sports betting becoming legalized at a federal level or in a large majority of states in the U.S.

While we believe we can develop and sustain a revenue model in the interim, future revenue potential in a $150 billion market will depend on PAPS being struck down by the U.S. Supreme Court and/or Congress creating federal legislation to legalize and regulate sports betting. If action to strike down PASPA is suspended or killed, this could put the investor at risk of losing value in their investment.

Expectation of Future Losses; Early Stage Corporation

The Company currently is not profitable. The Company anticipates that it will lose money in the foreseeable future, and the Company may not be able to achieve profitable operations. In order to achieve profitable operations, the Company needs to complete development of its sports betting feature, achieve favorable legislation in our industry, and achieve significant gains in our customer base. Also, there are risks not specified above that are inherent to the betting industry that may affect profitability. The Company cannot be certain that our business will be successful or that it will generate significant revenues and become profitable.

Absence of Dividends

The Company has never paid any dividends and does not anticipate paying dividends in the foreseeable future.

Lack of Public Market; Illiquidity

There is no public market for the Shares, and the company does not expect that such a market will develop in the near future. The Shares will not be registered under the Securities Act or any state securities laws and is being offered and sold in reliance upon the exemption provided under Section 4(a)(6) of the Securities Act. Securities sold pursuant to Section 4(a)(6) are subject to certain restrictions on transfer for the one-year period following the sale. Consequently, investors in the Offering may be unable to liquidate their investment immediately and should be prepared to hold the Shares for at least one year, but potentially indefinitely.

Loss of Investment

Anyone purchasing the Shares should be able to withstand the loss of his, her, or its entire investment and should understand that such a possibility exists.

OPERATIONAL RISK FACTORS

We have a limited operating history upon which you can evaluate our performance.

We have a limited history upon which an evaluation of our prospects and future performance can be made. Our proposed operations are subject to all business risks associated with new enterprises. The likelihood of our creation of a viable business must be considered in light of the problems, expenses, difficulties, complications, and delays frequently encountered in connection with the inception of a business, operation in a competitive industry, and the continued development of advertising, promotions, and a corresponding client base.

We plan to implement new lines of business or offer new products and service.

In developing and marketing new lines of business and/or new products and services, we may invest significant time and resources. Initial timetables for the introduction and development of new lines of business and/or new products or services may not be achieved and price and profitability targets may not prove feasible. We may not be successful in introducing new products and services in response to industry trends or developments in technology, or those new products may not achieve market acceptance. As a result, we could lose business, be forced to price products and services on less advantageous terms to retain or attract clients or be subject to cost increases. As a result, our business, financial condition or results of operations may be adversely affected.

If the Company fails to achieve certain operational goals it may incur significant losses and there can be no assurance that the Company will become a profitable business.

The Company's ability to become profitable depends upon successfully executing on operational goals, such as successful marketing efforts and generating cash flow from operations. This will largely depend on the next 12-18 months as to whether sports betting will be legalized in the U.S. There can be no assurance that this will occur. Unanticipated operational problems and executional expenses may impact whether the Company is successful. If the Company sustains losses over an extended period of time, it may be unable to continue in business and may need to make significant modifications to its stated strategies. Although the management team may have had some success in the past, they may be unable to meet future business objectives due to unanticipated operations challenges.

Incidents of hacking, identity theft, cyberterrorism or climate change may adversely impact our operations.

Our business operations may at times be dependent upon digital technologies, including information systems, infrastructure and cloud applications. The U.S. government has issued public warnings that indicate that such business information technology might be susceptible to cyber security threats, including hacking, identity theft and acts of cyberterrorism. Additionally, our critical systems may be vulnerable to damage or interruption from earthquakes, storms, terrorist attacks, floods, fires, power loss, telecommunications failures, computer viruses, computer denial of service attacks, or other attempts to harm the systems, whether man made or acts of nature. Many of these systems will not be fully redundant, and disaster recovery planning cannot account for all eventualities. As cyber incidents continue to evolve and as severe weather related events become more extreme, we may be required to expend additional resources to modify or enhance our protective measures or to investigate and remediate any vulnerability to cyber incidents or natural disasters.

Certain future relationships have not been established and existing relationships are not guaranteed to endure.

The Company has established and will establish certain relationships with others. We will need to maintain such relationships and, in some cases, establish new ones or replace existing ones. There will be several agreements and documents that remain to be negotiated, executed, and implemented with respect to certain aspects of our planned operations. In some cases, the parties with whom we would need to establish a relationship may not yet be identified. If we are unable to enter into these agreements or relationships on satisfactory terms, our operations could be delayed or curtailed, expenses could be increased, and profitability and the likelihood of returns to investors could be adversely affected.

We may experience defects and system failures which would harm our business and reputation and expose us to potential liability.

We may encounter delays when developing new products and services. Alternatively, any new products and services may in the future contain undetected errors or defects when first introduced. Defects, errors or delays in development of our products or services could result in an interruption of business operations; a delay in market acceptance; additional development and remediation costs; diversion of technical and other resources; a loss of customers; negative publicity; or exposure to liability claims. Any one or more of the foregoing occurrences could have a material adverse effect on our business, financial condition and results of operations, or could cause our business to fail.

Our advertising and marketing efforts may be costly and may not achieve desired results.

Although we target our advertising and marketing efforts on current and potential customers who we believe are likely to be in the market for the products we sell, we cannot assure you that our advertising and marketing efforts will achieve our desired results. In addition, we periodically adjust our advertising expenditures in an effort to optimize the return on such expenditures. Any decrease in the level of our advertising expenditures, which may be made to optimize such return could adversely affect our sales.

No Experience or History of Earnings

The Company is wholly dependent on its ability to develop, market and sell its products for future earnings. The continued development of the Company's products involves significant risks, which a combination of experience, knowledge, and careful evaluation may not be able to overcome. There can be no assurance that unanticipated problems will not occur which would result in material delays in the Company's continued product development or that its efforts will result in successful product commercialization. An investment in the Company is highly speculative, and no assurance can be given that the shareholders will realize any return on their investment or that they will not lose their entire investment.

COMPETITIVE RISK FACTORS

The Company may not be able to create and maintain a competitive advantage.

The demand for our products or services may change and we may have difficulty maintaining a competitive advantage within our market if sports betting becomes legalized. The Company's success could depend on the ability of management to respond to changing situations, standards and customer needs on a timely and cost-effective basis. In addition, any failure by the management to anticipate or respond adequately to changes in customer preferences and demand could have a material adverse effect on our financial condition, operating results and cash flow.

New competitors may enter our market in a manner that could make it difficult to differentiate our Company.

While the Company is aware of a few competitors in the market, there is the possibility that new competitors may enter and that they may be better funded. To the extent that the market becomes more crowded, this may make it more difficult for us to differentiate our value proposition or to get in front of right partners and customers. It may be difficult to compete with new entrants if there is pricing pressure or changes in market demand. The Company may also have a hard time competing against companies who can negotiate for better prices from suppliers, produce goods and services on a large scale more economically, or take advantage of bigger marketing budgets.

Lack of Sales and Market Recognition

The Company's ability to finance its development and operations and to achieve profitability will depend, in large part, on the Company's ability to introduce and successfully market its products. Market acceptance and recognition generally require substantial time and effort. While the Company believes its current market penetration has provided market recognition, management makes no assurances that the market will continue to be penetrated as planned, or if it is, that the level of penetration will be successful in helping the Company realize a competitive advantage over other who may enter the market. There can be no assurance that any of the Company's new or proposed products will maintain the market acceptance. The Company's failure to design, develop, test, market and introduce new and enhanced products and technologies successfully so as to achieve market acceptance could have a material adverse effect upon the Company's business, operating results and financial condition.

PERSONNEL AND THIRD PARTY RISK FACTORS

In order for the Company to compete and grow, it must attract, recruit and develop the new personnel who have the needed experience.

Recruiting and retaining highly qualified personnel is critical to our success. These demands may require us to hire additional personnel and will require our existing management personnel to develop additional expertise. If we experience difficulties in hiring and retaining personnel in key positions, we could suffer from delays in development, loss of customers and sales and diversion of management resources, which could adversely affect operating results. The Company will face competition for qualified employees from numerous industry sources, and there can be no assurance that it will be able to attract and retain qualified personnel on acceptable terms.

Although dependent on certain key personnel, the Company does not have any life insurance policies on any such individuals.

While the Company is dependent on key personnel in order to conduct its operations and execute its business plan, the Company has not purchased any insurance policies with respect to the death or disability of those individuals. Therefore, in the event that any of the Company's employees die or become disabled, the Company will not receive any insurance proceeds as compensation for such person's absence. The loss of such person could negatively affect the Company and its operations.

The Company relies on third-parties over which the Company has little control; third party failures could negatively affect the Company's business.

While the Company intends to implement rigorous standards in selecting third party relationships and vendors, if a third-party fails to meet its obligations or provide the products or services required by the Company, the Company's operations and reputation may suffer.

We outsource a number of our non-core functions and operations.

In certain instances, we rely on single or limited service providers and outsourcing vendors because the relationship is advantageous due to quality, price, or lack of alternative sources. If our third-party services were interrupted and we were not able to find alternate third-party providers, we could experience disruptions. Such interruptions could result in damage to our reputation and customer relationships and adversely affect our business. These events could materially and adversely affect our ability to retain and attract customers and have a material negative impact on our operations, business, financial results and financial condition.

The Company may not be able to adequately ensure the loyalty and confidentiality of employees and third parties.

The Company may rely on nondisclosure and noncompetition agreements with employees, consultants and other parties to protect, in part, trade secrets and other proprietary rights. There can be no assurance that these agreements will adequately protect the Company's trade secrets and other proprietary rights and will not be breached, that the Company will have adequate remedies for any breach, that others will not independently develop substantially equivalent proprietary information or that third parties will not otherwise gain access to our trade secrets or other proprietary rights.

Success is Highly Dependent on the Company's Current Management

The Company's success is highly dependent on Jeff Lippert, the Company's Founder & CEO. He has been the driving force behind the development of the Company's initial product. The loss of his services would have a material adverse effect on the business. Mr. Lippert has not obtained any "key man" insurance for himself.

Management Discretion as to Use of Proceeds

The Company's success will be substantially dependent upon the discretion and judgement of our management team with respect to the application and allocation of the proceeds of the Offering. Currently, Jeff Lippert, Founder & CEO, is the only member on the management team, but that is subject to change in the future.

Control by Majority Shareholders

The Company is currently 100% owned by Jeff Lippert, Founder & CEO. His control over the Company will continue even after the issuance of the Shares. Therefore, Mr. Lippert is now and will in the future be in a position to elect or change the members of the Company's board of directors (the "Board") and to control the Company's business and affairs including certain significant corporate actions such as acquisitions, the sale or purchase of assets, and the issuance and sale of the Company's shares. The Company may also be prevented from entering into transactions that could be beneficial to the other shareholders with the consent of Mr. Lippert. The interests of Mr. Lippert may differ from the interests of the Company's other shareholders.

The Company has no Independent Directors

The Board currently has only one member, Jeff Lippert, Founder & CEO, who currently owns 100% of the Company's shares. This could lead to unintentional subjectivity in matters of corporate governance, especially in matters of compensation and related party transactions. The Company also does not benefit from the advantages of having an independent director, including bringing an outside perspective on strategy and control, adding new skills and knowledge that may not be available within the Company, having extra checks and balances to prevent fraud and produce reliable financial reports.

LEGAL AND REGULATORY RISK FACTORS

We rely on various intellectual property rights in order to operate our business and these rights may be challenged.

The Company's intellectual property rights may not be sufficiently broad and may not provide a significant competitive advantage. The steps that the Company has taken to maintain and protect its intellectual property may not prevent it from being challenged, invalidated or circumvented. In some circumstances, enforcement may not be available to us because an infringer has a dominant intellectual property position or for other business reasons. The Company's failure to maintain intellectual property rights that convey competitive advantage, adequately protect its intellectual property or detect or prevent circumvention or unauthorized use of such property, could adversely impact the Company's competitive position and results of operations.

From time to time, third parties may claim that one or more of our products or services infringe their intellectual property rights.

Any dispute or litigation regarding future intellectual property could be costly and time-consuming due to the uncertainty of intellectual property litigation and could divert our management and key personnel from our business operations. A claim of intellectual property infringement could force us to enter into a costly or restrictive license agreement, which might not be available under acceptable terms or at all. This could require us to redesign our products, which would be costly and time-consuming, and/or could subject us to an injunction against development and sale of certain of our products or services. We may have to pay substantial damages, including damages for past infringement if it is ultimately determined that our product candidates infringe a third party's proprietary rights. Even if these claims are without merit, defending a lawsuit takes significant time, may be expensive and may divert management's attention from other business concerns. Any public announcements related to litigation or interference proceedings initiated or threatened against us could cause our business to be harmed. Our intellectual property portfolio may not be useful in asserting a counterclaim or negotiating a license, in response to a claim of intellectual property infringement. In certain of our businesses we rely on third party intellectual property licenses and we cannot ensure that these licenses will be available to us in the future on favorable terms or at all.

There is risk associated with the Company's indemnification of affiliated parties.

Our Directors and executive officers will be relieved of liability to the Company or our Shareholders for monetary damages for conduct as Directors and executive officers. We may also enter into indemnity agreements with our Directors and executive officers. The exculpation provisions contained therein may have the effect of preventing shareholders from recovering damages against our Directors and executive officers caused by poor judgment or other circumstances. The indemnification provisions may require us to use our assets to defend our Directors and executive officers against claims, including claims arising out of negligence, poor judgment, or other circumstances. The indemnification obligations of the Company will be payable from the assets of the Company.

Changes in federal, state or local laws and regulations could increase our expenses and adversely affect our results of operations.

Our business is subject to a wide array of laws and regulations. The current political environment, financial reform legislation, the current high level of government intervention and activism and regulatory reform may result in substantial new regulations and disclosure obligations and/or changes in the interpretation of existing laws and regulations, which may lead to additional compliance costs as well as the diversion of our management's time and attention from strategic initiatives. If we fail to comply with applicable laws and regulations we could be subject to legal risk, including government enforcement action and class action civil litigation that could disrupt our operations and increase our costs of doing business. Changes in the regulatory environment regarding topics such as privacy and information security, product safety or environmental protection, including regulations in response to concerns regarding climate change, collective bargaining activities, minimum wage laws and health care mandates, among others, could also cause our compliance costs to increase and adversely affect our business and results of operations.

Laws and regulations affecting the gambling industry

Local, state, and federal laws and regulations relating to the sports betting and gambling industries as a whole are subject to evolving interpretations, which could require us to incur substantial costs associated with compliance or alter certain aspects of our business plan. In addition, violations of these laws, or allegations of such violations, could disrupt of our business plan and result in a material adverse effect on certain aspects of our planned operations. While we have not received any cease and desist letters to date from any state or federal agency, we cannot guarantee we won't receive any of these types of notices in the future. In addition, it is possible that regulations may be enacted in the future that will be directly applicable to certain aspects of our business. We cannot predict the nature of any future laws, regulations, interpretations or applications, nor can we determine what effect additional governmental regulations or administrative policies and procedures, when and if promulgated, could have on our business. Finally, we cannot predict with certainty if or when the Professional and Amateur Sports Protection Act ("PASPA"), the main law currently outlawing sports gambling in the U.S. besides Nevada, will be repealed.

Availability of Information

The Company is not subject to the reporting requirements of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended (the "Exchange Act"). Therefore, Investors may not have access to information to which they would have access if the investment were made in a publicly-held company whose offering was issued under the Securities Act and the reporting regulations provided any the Exchange Act.

MISCELLANEOUS RISK FACTORS

Even if sports betting is legalized, there is no way to guarantee there will be full legalization for online gambling.

There may be gaming tribes and other casino interests that would prefer to keep sports gambling exclusive to brick-and-mortar casinos. Therefore, there may be unexpected additional legal and lobbying fees the company would have to commit to.

In addition, the federal Wire Act currently prohibits sports betting through online communications (i.e. a mobile app). If sports betting were to become legalized, the legalese in this federal law would need to be clarified. If lawmakers still determine online sports gambling to be illegal or limit online sports gambling in any way, it would hurt future revenues and the valuation of the company.

While casinos in Nevada currently advocate for federal legalization of sports gambling, they may decide to push to keep a sports betting monopoly in the future.

Following months of study and deliberation, the AGA's Board of Directors issued a set of recommendations that mark a major shift in the industry's approach to sports betting. Jim Murren, AGA chairman and MGM Resorts International chairman and CEO, said, "As the head of the largest private sector employer in Nevada, I'm confident that the entertainment experience we provide in Las Vegas – which is unmatched anywhere else in the world – can continue to excel even as our country takes a fresh look at our approach to sports betting."

However, there's always the possibility they may determine in the future that full legalization of sports betting may hurt their bottom line financially. Any limitation to online sports gambling would hurt future revenues and the valuation of the company.
