The Company

The following summary is qualified in its entirety by more detailed information that may appear elsewhere in this Form C-AR and the Exhibits hereto.

RISK FACTORS

Investing in the Securities involves a high degree of risk and may result in the loss of your entire investment. Before making an investment decision with respect to the Securities, we urge you to carefully consider the risks described in this section and other factors set forth in this Form C-AR. In addition to the risks specified below, the Company is subject to same risks that all companies in its business, and all companies in the economy, are exposed to. These include risks relating to economic downturns, political and economic events and technological developments (such as hacking and the ability to prevent hacking). Additionally, early-stage companies are inherently riskier than more developed companies. Prospective Investors should consult with their legal, tax and financial advisors prior to making an investment in the Securities. The Securities should only be purchased by persons who can afford to lose all of their investment.

Risks Related to the Company's Business and Industry

The Company is newly organized, has no history of operations or earnings, is a speculative investment, and involves a high degree of risk.

Any potential investment in the Company must warrant investor has sufficient financial resources to bear the economic risks of his/her/its investment in the Company and can afford a complete loss of the investment in the Company. The investor has sufficient liquid assets to pay the full amount of his/her/its investment in the Company, adequate means of providing for his/her/its current needs and possible personal contingencies and no present or anticipated need for liquidity of his/her/its investment in the Company.

The Company was adversely affected by the Covid-19 pandemic.

As were many other companies in our industry and elsewhere, the COVID-19 pandemic had enormous repercussions on our ability to conduct business. Without limitation, we had to pivot from an institutional/consumer (or “civilian” if you will) focus to focusing instead on the launch of Tactical, providing law enforcement, corrections, professional security, and potentially even the military with the advantages our technology innovations bring to less-lethal controlling force. Although a successful pivot (or more accurately, broadening) of focus could prove a very positive outcome for the Company in the long run, it also meant in many respects starting over under new expectations and potentially regulations both domestically and internationally. The fact, however, that the Company is still in business today to file this annual report is a positive sign, as many other companies failed entirely during the period April 1, 2020 through April 1, 2021. However, this approach may or may not prove ultimately successful.

The Company has not prepared audited financial statements.

Therefore, investors have no audited financial information regarding the Company's capitalization or assets or liabilities on which to make investment decisions. If investors feel the information provided is insufficient, then they should not invest in the Company.

The Company's success is dependent on consumer and law enforcement adoption of a new self-defense technology and paradigm.

It is a relatively unproven market. The Company may incur substantial operating costs, particularly in sales and marketing and research and development, in attempting to develop these markets. If the market for the Company's products develops more slowly than it expects, its growth may slow or stall, and its operating results could be harmed. The market for non-lethal self-defense solutions and associated systems is still evolving, and the Company depends on continued growth of this market. It is uncertain whether the adoption of non-lethal solutions and systems that the Company has experienced in the past will continue in the future.

The Company conducts business in a heavily regulated industry.

If it fails to comply with these laws and government regulations, it could incur penalties or be required to make significant changes to its operations or experience adverse publicity, which could have a material adverse effect on its business, financial condition, and results of operations. The chemical defense spray industry is regulated and scrutinized by federal, state, and local governments. Because of the breadth of these laws and the narrowness of the statutory exceptions and safe harbors available, it is possible that some of the Company's business activities could be subject to challenge under one or more of such laws. Achieving and sustaining compliance with these laws may prove costly. Failure to comply with these laws and other laws can result in civil and criminal penalties such as fines, damages, and overpayment recoupment. The risk of the Company being found in violation of these laws and regulations is increased by the fact that many of them have not been fully interpreted by the regulatory authorities or the courts, and their provisions are sometimes open to a variety of interpretations. The Company's failure to accurately anticipate the application of these laws and regulations to the business or any other failure to comply with regulatory requirements could create liability and negatively affect the business. Any action against the Company for violation of these laws or regulations, even if they successfully defend against it, could cause them to incur significant legal expenses, divert management's attention from the operation of the business, and result in adverse publicity.

The Company is still testing early versions of its products.

Sophisticated technology products often contain errors or defects, particularly when first introduced or when new versions or enhancements are released. The development of new or enhanced products is a complex and uncertain process requiring the accurate anticipation of technological and market trends, as well as precise technological execution. Despite quality assurance measures, internal testing, and beta testing by customers, the Company cannot guarantee that its current and future products, including upgrades to those products, will be free of serious defects, which could result in lost revenue, refunds without a commensurate decrease in costs, delays in market acceptance, increase in costs, reputational harm, and costs associated with defending or settling claims. If upgrades are not properly implemented, the availability and functioning of its products could be impaired.

The Company does not have an employment contract in place with all employees.

Employment agreements typically provide protections to the Company in the event of the employee's departure, specifically addressing who is entitled to any intellectual property created or developed by those employees in the course of their employment and covering topics such as non-competition and non-solicitation. As a result, if employees, the Company might not have any ability to prevent their direct competition or have any legal right to intellectual property created during their employment. There is no guarantee that an employment agreement will be entered into. Company has entered into proper engagement contracts with all non-employees but cannot guarantee continued participation by such contractors or existing employees.

Our business could be negatively impacted by cyber security threats, attacks, and other disruptions.

Like others in our industry, we continue to face advanced and persistent attacks on our information infrastructure where we manage and store various proprietary information and sensitive/confidential data relating to our operations. These attacks may include sophisticated malware (viruses, worms, and other malicious software programs) and phishing emails that attack our products or otherwise exploit any security vulnerabilities. These intrusions sometimes may be zero-day malware that are difficult to identify because they are not included in the signature set of commercially available antivirus scanning programs. Experienced computer programmers and hackers may be able to penetrate our network security and misappropriate or compromise our confidential information or that of our customers or other third parties, create system disruptions, or cause shutdowns. Additionally, sophisticated software and applications that we produce or procure from third parties may contain defects in design or manufacture, including "bugs" and other problems that could unexpectedly interfere with the operation of the information infrastructure. A disruption, infiltration or failure of our information infrastructure systems or any of our data centers as a result of software or hardware malfunctions, computer viruses, cyber-attacks, employee theft or misuse, power disruptions, natural disasters or accidents could cause breaches of data security, loss of critical data and performance delays, which in turn could adversely affect our business.

The development and commercialization of the Company's products and services are highly competitive.

Company faces competition with respect to any products and services that it may seek to develop or commercialize in the future. Its competitors include major companies worldwide. Although Company's products are innovative, the self-defense market is an evolving industry where new competitors may in the future enter frequently and existing competitors will no doubt act to counter Company's plans. Many of the Company's competitors have significantly greater financial, technical and human resources and may have superior expertise in research and development and marketing approved services and thus may be better equipped than the Company to develop and commercialize services. These competitors also compete with the Company in recruiting and retaining qualified personnel and acquiring technologies. Smaller or early-stage companies may also prove to be significant competitors, particularly through collaborative arrangements with large and established companies. Accordingly, the Company's competitors may commercialize products more rapidly or effectively than the Company is able to, which would adversely affect its competitive position, the likelihood that its services will achieve initial market acceptance and its ability to generate meaningful additional revenues from its products and services.

The Company's expenses will significantly increase as they seek to execute their current business model.

Although the Company estimates sufficient runway until the end of Q3, it will be ramping up cash burn to: promote revenue growth pursuant to the business plan upon which this offering is premised, further develop R&D, and fund other Company operations after the raise. Doing so could require significant effort and expense or may not be feasible. The Company projects aggressive growth in 2021. If these assumptions are wrong and the projections regarding market penetration are too aggressive, then the financial forecast may overstate the Company's overall viability.

IN ADDITION TO THE RISKS LISTED ABOVE, RISKS AND UNCERTAINTIES NOT PRESENTLY KNOWN, OR WHICH WE CONSIDER IMMATERIAL AS OF THE DATE OF THIS FORM C-AR, MAY ALSO HAVE AN ADVERSE EFFECT ON OUR BUSINESS AND RESULT IN THE TOTAL LOSS OF YOUR INVESTMENT.

BUSINESS

Description of the Business

Reflex Protect® offers the new gold standard in anti-violence safety preparedness equipment and training wherever people live, work, worship, and play. Whether providing workplace violence prevention safe enough for a hospital; a bipartisan-supported non-lethal solution to the “arm the teachers” debate; or simple peace of mind against the potential for violence to erupt anytime, anywhere; Reflex Protect® is the answer. Combining “low impact, no scare tactics” active threat training with patented technology innovations (including the proven stopping power of Presidia Gel®, which rapidly incapacitates a threat without affecting the user or bystanders), Reflex Protect® provides the most effective yet affordable non-lethal self-defense solution ever, just when it’s needed the most.

Likewise, the above-described innovations are showing themselves to be the basis of simply superior less-lethal products in general, including for law enforcement, corrections, professional security, and similar uses (i.e., tactical). Launched in September 2020, Tactical is rapidly gaining ground as a product line that fills a significant and growing vacuum in the use-of-force spectrum as pepper sprays become more subject to criticism for long-term effects and taser moves higher on the use-of-force continuum. The potential to replace tactical reliance on pepper sprays with products designed rapidly to end potentially violent encounters with lowered likelihood for injury or death to civilians or police themselves has a bright outlook considering the events of civil unrest beginning in the summer of 2020 and continuing into the present.

Business Plan

Reflex Protect is in the enviable position of selling something familiar yet made superior by innovation into markets desperate for any solution. Our price is comparable to pepper spray, yet we offer a far superior (and patented) deployment device, a proprietary indoor formulation of a well-studied irritant, and a revolutionary (patent-pending) antidote. Our innovations create new markets where pepper sprays are either unusable or ill advised (hospitals, schools, inside). Our superior quality makes us attractive to existing law enforcement and military markets. The plan then is to disrupt the law enforcement and military market for non-lethal sprays and dominate highly profitable new markets where pepper sprays were previously not available. To achieve this goal, we will use traditional sales and marketing efforts, distribution methods, and independent sales representatives, as well as cutting-edge online sales, social media, and similar sales and marketing tactics.
