Dear investors,

The OmniPad company is off to a fantastic start in founding the premium sleep-deprivation. We have done a complete job of raising investment money and of all the accounts for the launch of months. As each presentation, investors state that they love the OmniPad and its extreme revenue potential, but they are not willing to invest money in the company. Therefore, in 2019 we will be forced to suspend a highly-rewarding engineering project. We will also have to terminate a R&D Engineering Buyers and I guess to develop a wasted working product of the OmniPad (which is expected to cost approximately $1,000). Also, we will be forced to sell our office space in the Silicon Valley and to move to a cheaper location (we can no longer pay the $15,000 /mo) from local manufacturer-ready-to-market.

We need your help!

Please build for our proposed OmniPad Omni-Studio VR Device, focusing on filing a SDK with 1,000 pre-made VR-ready-to-use assets. We will then launch a follow-up crowdfunding campaign, and I promise you we can raise it!

Sincerely,

Neil Epstein

Our Mission

To create a worldwide virtual reality environment dominated by people of all ages and by industry professionals who will benefit by being able to naturally walk or run inside of magnificent virtual environments, while enjoying the most realistic experiences ever, including: entertainment, military, conference calls, collaboration, education, and recreation. VR environments, virtual shopping malls, and much, more!
