

LEAD

A dimly lit office interior with two people sitting at a wooden table, working on laptops. They are positioned in front of a large window that looks out onto a bright, overcast sky. The scene is silhouetted, with the people and their work area appearing dark against the bright light from the window. The overall mood is professional and focused.

Case Study

Customer Need Use Case

Problem: You hear this story every day. A tech firm can not increase employee diversity and retain its top talent because it is fighting the industry average turnover rate of 1.1 years. Replacing takes 42 days and costs 200% of a hires salary.

LEAD Solution: A LEAD mentorship program is set up that matches mentees with senior management and career coaches. It starts collecting team data. Guided support improves employee morale and provides a sense of growth and belonging.

LEAD looks over HCM, keywords, surveys, mentorship interactions, anonymous chatting, and more to show that female engineers are leaving at an accelerating rate (a common problem).

Women show negative sentiment towards a manager that constantly refers to them as “sweet heart” and is promoting male team members at a higher rate.

Keyword extraction and sentiment analysis shows “Low social responsibility” and “poor office temperature” are common phrases.

Executives place managers in a LEAD mentorship program that combats sexist attitudes. Increased behavior training is instituted. The company begins hosting events that donate to local Girl Scout Troops.

Ladies feel a sense of community. They reach out to their friends to attract new hires.
