Convesio is the first self-healing, autoscaling, platform-as-a-service for creating and managing business critical WordPress websites.

Convesio was founded in 2018 to provide businesses a platform for hosting business critical WordPress websites, leveraging Docker container technology to offer both vertical and horizontal scalability, which is typically achieved via complex and costly VPS designs and implementations. Convesio allows anyone to deploy a highly-scalable WordPress website in minutes via an easy to use dashboard.

Traditional hosting has not evolved to embrace the latest technology, and design agencies struggle to find scalable, high performance hosting. Cloud infrastructure is costly, complex and out of reach for most agencies.

To solve these problems we had to rethink hosting from the ground up, leveraging the latest technology, infrastructure, and development methods. The result is a multi-tiered system architecture that removes all of the single points of failure associated WordPress and scales as needed at each layer of the system.
