RISK FACTORS

Risks Related to the Company's Business and Industry

The app marketplace is highly competitive.

We face significant competition with respect to our current app and any technologies or solutions we may seek to develop or commercialize in the future. Our competitors include major companies worldwide. Many of our competitors have significantly greater financial, technical and human resources than we have and superior expertise in research and development and marketing and thus may be better equipped than us to develop and commercialize polling tools and technology. These competitors also vie with us to recruit and retain qualified personnel. Smaller or early stage companies may also prove to be competitive with Bestest. In addition, there may be domestic or foreign competitors in the market that Bestest has not yet identified and may never identify. It's possible new market entrants could render Bestest obsolete. There's also the chance that existing social media platforms could augment their polling technologies and become a significant threat to Bestest. Finally, it's possible that a foreign competitor could copy our business and operate from overseas at a lower cost than us. All of these factors could impair our ability to operate, or stay in operation.

The amount of capital the Company is attempting to raise in this Offering is not enough to sustain the Company's current business plan.

In order to achieve the Company's near and long-term goals, the Company will need to procure funds in addition to the amount raised in this Offering. There is no guarantee the Company will be able to raise such funds on acceptable terms or at all. If we are not able to raise sufficient capital in the future, we will not be able to execute our business plan, our continued operations will be in jeopardy, and we may be forced to cease operations and sell or otherwise transfer all or substantially all of our remaining assets, which could cause an Investor to lose all or a portion of his or her investment.

Bestest currently does not generate revenue.

Bestest is a pre-revenue company. In the future, the Company will probably depend on in-app purchases, subscriptions, technology licensing, sponsored polls, and special research projects for revenue, but the Company may be unable to roll out these offerings in a timely manner, or at all. We may fail to attract a sufficient volume of customers, or any customers at all. There is no assurance Bestest can or will generate revenue, or a profit.

Security breaches and other disruptions could compromise Bestest's user and customer data and cause Bestest's business and reputation to suffer.

The Company's business could be negatively impacted by cyber security threats, attacks and other disruptions. Like others in our industry, we continue to face advanced and persistent attacks on our information infrastructure where we manage and store various proprietary information and sensitive data. These attacks may include sophisticated malware (viruses, worms, and other malicious software programs) and phishing emails that attack our app or business systems, or otherwise exploit any security vulnerabilities. These intrusions sometimes may be zero-day malware that are difficult to identify because they are not included in the signature set of commercially available antivirus scanning programs. Additionally, sophisticated software and applications that we procure from third-parties may contain defects in design or manufacture, including "bugs" and other problems that could unexpectedly interfere with the operation of our app or other systems. Further, experienced computer programmers and hackers may be able to penetrate our network security and misappropriate or compromise our confidential information, including that of our users or customers. Any threat or attack could create system disruptions or cause shutdowns. A disruption, infiltration or failure of our information infrastructure systems or any of our data centers as a result of software or hardware malfunctions, computer viruses, cyber attacks, employee theft or misuse, power disruptions, natural disasters or accidents could cause system damage, the loss of source code, unauthorized release of critical data and problems with app performance. Despite the security measures we have in place, our information technology and infrastructure may be vulnerable to attack. Plus, there can be no assurance that future advances in information security will prevent our data from being compromised. Any unauthorized access, disclosure or loss of information, or disruption or system failure would have a material adverse effect on our reputation, operating results and financial condition, and could subject our Company to legal claims and proceedings. Moreover, these events may create negative publicity and result in reputation or brand damage for Bestest. Bestest may not be able to recover.

The Company's success depends on the experience and skill of its Chairman, advisors, executive officers and key employees.

Bestest is dependent on Lalit Goel, Kelly Helmuth, and Nicole Hernandez as principal contributors to the Company. The Company has or intends to enter into employment agreements with Lalit Goel, Kelly Helmuth, and Nicole Hernandez although there can be no assurance that it will do so or that they will continue to be employed by the Company for any particular period of time. The loss of Lalit Goel, Kelly Helmuth, or Nicole Hernandez could harm the Company's business, financial condition, cash flow and results of operations.

We depend on third-party providers for a variety of services, and we outsource a number of core functions and operations.

In certain instances, we rely on outsourced service providers because they offer savings, specialization or other benefits. We exercise limited control over our third-party vendors, which increases our vulnerability to problems with the technology and services they provide. If these third parties become unable to, or refuse to, continue to provide their services, goods, technology, or intellectual property rights on commercially reasonable terms consistent with our business practices, or otherwise discontinue a service important for us to continue to operate our app or business systems, our business could suffer significantly. If such companies, or our relationship to them, were compromised or interrupted and we were not able to find alternate third-party providers, we could experience disruptions in: the availability and functionality of the Bestest app; the release of new features; our ability to reach new users; our ability to monetize; and other critical functions. In general, if any of our third-party partners were to fail to perform as expected, it could subject Bestest to potential liability. All such dependencies may adversely or irreparably affect our business.

Bestest is significantly dependent upon its intellectual property rights.

Bestest is a technology-based company and its business model and future success are significantly dependent upon its ability to protect all of its intellectual property rights. Such intellectual property consists of, among other things, trade secrets, patents, innovative processes, trademarks and copyrights for its code, and other items. Protective measures we've taken may not be sufficient or effective and they may not prevent the misappropriation of Bestest's technology or other proprietary assets. Unauthorized parties may copy aspects of our services or technology, obtain and use information, marks, or technology that we regard as proprietary, or otherwise violate or infringe our intellectual property rights. It's also possible that others could independently develop substantially equivalent intellectual property. Effectively policing the unauthorized use of our services and technology is time-consuming and costly. We may have to litigate to enforce our intellectual property rights, to protect our trade secrets, or to determine the validity and scope of others' proprietary rights, which are often unclear and subject to change; plus, outcomes can be difficult to predict. Since we may not be able to adequately or cost-effectively protect or enforce our intellectual property rights or, in some instances, utilize the intellectual property presently in place, we could diminish Bestest's competitive advantage and adversely affect the Company's financial position and results of operations.

Bestest maintains confidential information.

Bestest's success depends on maintaining the confidentiality of its trade secrets and know-how. Bestest seeks to protect such information by, among other things, entering into confidentiality agreements with employees, existing and potential collaborators, and existing and potential investors and consultants. Such agreements may be breached by those parties. Bestest may not be able to obtain an adequate, or perhaps any, remedy to such a breach. In addition, trade secrets may otherwise become known to, or be independently developed by, competitors. Any disclosure of confidential information could diminish the Company's competitive edge and adversely affect its financial condition and results of operations.

The Company could be negatively impacted if found to have infringed on others' intellectual property rights.

Bestest's implementation of the pending patents, if granted, may be found to infringe upon claims of patents owned by others. Technology companies, including many of the Company's competitors, frequently enter into litigation based on allegations of patent infringement or other violations of intellectual property rights. Similarly, patent holding companies seek to monetize patents they have purchased or otherwise obtained. The plaintiffs in these actions frequently seek injunctions and substantial damages, and they often have substantially greater resources than the defendants and are thereby able to sustain the cost of litigation and proceedings more effectively. As Bestest grows, the intellectual property rights claims against it will likely increase. Regardless of the merit of any individual claim, litigation can be expensive, time-consuming, disruptive to the Company's operations, and distracting to management. Plus, results of litigation are inherently uncertain and may result in adverse rulings or decisions. If the Company is found to infringe one or more patents or other intellectual property rights, regardless of whether it can develop non-infringing technology, it may be required to pay substantial damages or royalties to a third party, or it may be subject to a temporary or permanent injunction prohibiting the Company from marketing or selling certain products. Such an outcome would have a material adverse effect on Bestest's financial condition and results of operations. In certain cases, the Company might consider the desirability of entering into licensing agreements as an alternative, although no assurance can be given that such licenses could be obtained on acceptable terms or that litigation would not occur. Licenses could significantly increase the Company's operating expenses. Although the Company intends to vigorously defend any infringement actions in court and before the U.S. International Trade Commission, any infringement claim could have an adverse effect on the Company.

We face intense competition for users' time.

We compete with all other forms of social media and entertainment for a user's time and attention. The increasing number of choices available to users could negatively impact not only user acquisition, engagement and retention but also future customers' willingness to purchase polling tools and research from Bestest, since our pricing model is based in large part on the size of the audience we can provide.

Bestest depends on its users for content.

Our success depends in part on user-generated content and we may be adversely affected if that content fails to achieve sufficient acceptance or we fail to have enough of it to retain users.

The Company depends in large part on the performance of ad networks to acquire and retain users.

Bestest drives app downloads by running install campaigns on the country's most popular social media platforms. Many of these platforms accept ads and promote products from our competitors. What's more, the platforms themselves often compete with Bestest. There is no assurance that these platforms will accept, run or continue to run our ad campaigns. Eliminating one or more of these channels could interrupt or challenge the Company's plans to grow. Though it's unlikely, the financial conditions or reputations of these platforms could weaken, or their business strategies could change, and they could stop offering services that drive app installs, which would adversely affect our business.

Our failure to deliver reliable, real-time poll results could damage our reputation and diminish demand for our technology, and subject Bestest to liability.

Our codebase is extensive and our technology has taken years to develop. Occasionally, we release a new build with errors or code conflicts that didn't appear or weren't detected during quality assurance testing. We sometimes need to make repairs that cost us money and divert time away from other projects. If customers discover defects or other performance problems with our technology, our customers' businesses, and our reputation, may be damaged. Customers may contest payment, request remedial action, terminate an agreement with us, or elect not to do business with us again. If we do not properly address customer or user concerns about our app, Bestest's reputation and the relationships we've built may be harmed. In extreme cases, we may be subject to liability claims. Any of the foregoing could have an adverse effect on our business and results of operations.

We must develop new features, evolve existing ones, and adapt to technology change or our growth prospects and results of operations could be adversely affected.

To survive as a tech company and market research business we need to identify and integrate advantageous new technologies. Similarly, we must observe and respond to changes in user behavior. Our failure to detect or assimilate either one could lessen the appeal of our app and impact the revenue we are able to generate. In a competitive, demanding and rapidly-changing environment, any failure to keep pace could result in the loss of market share. New technologies like blockchain could make Bestest's tech stack irrelevant or obsolete. Substantial resources could be necessary to pivot.

App reliability and availability are essential to our business.

Users and customers require Bestest to perform at a high level, contain valuable features, and operate reliably. Our future success depends on our ability to maintain and continuously improve our app. It also depends on the 24/7 availability of Bestest. Not addressing a quality or availability issue in an effective and timely manner may cause user attrition, negative publicity, loss of sales and loss of public confidence. Plus, either issue could make it more difficult for the Company to release or Bestest users to embrace new features, products or services by our Company.

Industry consolidation may result in increased competition.

As our competitors attempt to strengthen or maintain their market positions, some of them have made or may make acquisitions or may enter into partnerships or other strategic relationships to offer more comprehensive services than they offered prior. With increased size, strength and service offerings, the resulting entities could provide more complete or compelling solutions than Bestest. These pressures could retard our growth and have other adverse effects on our business.

Changes in government regulation could adversely impact our business.

The Company is subject to and affected by laws and regulations of U.S. federal, state and local governments. These laws and regulations may change and those changes may impact our business. In the future, Bestest may need to comply with certain domestic and foreign requirements related to data use, storage, sharing, modification, deletion and other handling. Policymakers and regulators are currently examining how they should govern and treat data privacy and security issues, and they may develop a body of laws or requirements specifically aimed at technology and data companies. Such regulations could be onerous and expensive for Bestest.

Competition for talented personnel is intense.

As a startup, the Company may not be able to offer competitive wages and benefits. By extension, Bestest may not be able to find, recruit, hire or retain personnel with the skills we require.

Our business could be adversely affected if there is a decline in market research spending.

A decline in the economic prospects of other businesses or the economy in general could cause current or prospective customers to spend less with Bestest. In addition, customers' willingness to purchase polling tools or research from Bestest may be adversely affected if our userbase doesn't grow or if user engagement declines.

We depend on cloud software services to supply some of the software, security and storage we rely on for our app.

We obtain cloud services from a limited number of vendors, some of which do not have a long operating history, or which may not be able to continue to support our technology stack in the way we desire. Some software and operational support vendors are the sole supplier of a service, or are in a position of some exclusivity. If these vendors experience operating or financial difficulties or are otherwise unable to provide the services we need in a timely manner, these circumstances could materially and adversely affect our ability to retain and attract users or customers, and they could have a material negative impact on our operations and finances.

Although dependent on certain key personnel, the Company does not have any key man life insurance policies on any such people.

The Company is dependent on Lalit Goel, Kelly Helmuth, and Nicole Hernandez in order to conduct its operations and execute its business plan, however, the Company has not purchased any insurance policies with respect to those individuals in the event of their death or disability. Therefore, if Lalit Goel, Kelly Helmuth, or Nicole Hernandez die or become disabled, the Company will not receive any compensation to assist with such person's absence. The loss of such person could negatively affect the Company and its operations.

Indemnity provisions in various agreements potentially expose us to liability.

Our agreements with third parties may include indemnification provisions under which we agree to indemnify them for losses suffered or incurred as a result of claims of intellectual property infringement, damages caused by us to property or persons, or other liabilities relating to or arising from our products, services or other contractual obligations. The term of these indemnity provisions generally survives termination or expiration of the applicable agreement. Large indemnity payments would harm our business, financial condition and results of operations. In addition, any type of intellectual property lawsuit, whether initiated by us or a third party, would likely be time-consuming and expensive to resolve and would divert our time and attention away from executing our business plan.

Bestest is subject to income taxes.

Significant judgment is required in determining our provision for income taxes and other tax liabilities. In the ordinary course of our business, there are many transactions and calculations where ultimate tax determinations may be uncertain.

We are not subject to Sarbanes-Oxley regulations and lack the financial controls and safeguards required of public companies.

We do not have the internal infrastructure necessary, and are not required, to complete an attestation about our financial controls that would be required under Section 404 of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002 so we can offer no assurance that there are not deficiencies or weaknesses in the quality of our financial controls.

Our personnel live and work in different locations.

Until now, Bestest has had a geographically-distributed workforce. Physical distance and time zone differences could have an effect on Company communications and productivity.

Our business could be negatively affected by environmental and political factors.

Natural disasters, extreme weather, acts of terrorism, political uncertainty, war and other events beyond our control could suspend or completely eliminate our business.

Risks Related to the Securities

Affiliates of the Company, including officers, directors and existing members of the Company, may invest in this Offering, and their funds will be counted toward the Company achieving the Minimum Amount.

There is no restriction on affiliates of the Company, including its officers, directors and existing members, investing in the Offering. As a result, it is possible that if the Company has raised some funds, but not reached the Minimum Amount, affiliates can contribute to the balance so that there will be a closing. The Minimum Amount is typically intended to be a protection for investors and give investors confidence that other investors, along with them, are sufficiently interested in the Offering and the Company and its prospects to make an investment of at least the Minimum Amount. By permitting affiliates to invest in the Offering and make up any shortfall between what non-affiliate investors have invested and the Minimum Amount, this protection is largely eliminated. Investors should be aware that no funds other than their own and those of affiliates investing along with them may be invested in this Offering.

The Crowd Notes will not be freely tradable until one year from the initial purchase date. Although the Crowd Notes may be tradable under federal securities law, state securities regulations may apply and each Purchaser should consult with his or her attorney.

You should be aware of the long-term nature of this investment. There is not now and likely will not be a public market for the Crowd Notes. Because the Crowd Notes have not been registered under the Securities Act or under the securities laws of any state or non-United States jurisdiction, the Crowd Notes have transfer restrictions and cannot be resold in the United States except pursuant to Rule 501 of Regulation CF. It is not currently contemplated that registration under the Securities Act or other securities laws will be effected. Limitations on the transfer of the Crowd

Notes may also adversely affect the price that you might be able to obtain for the Crowd Notes in a private sale. Purchasers should be aware of the long-term nature of their investment in the Company. Each Purchaser in this Offering will be required to represent that it is purchasing the Securities for its own account, for investment purposes and not with a view to resale or distribution thereof.

Neither the Offering nor the Securities have been registered under federal or state securities laws, leading to an absence of certain regulation applicable to the Company.

No governmental agency has reviewed or passed upon this Offering, the Company or any Securities of the Company. The Company also has relied on exemptions from securities registration requirements under applicable state securities laws. Investors in the Company, therefore, will not receive any of the benefits that such registration would otherwise provide. Prospective investors must therefore assess the adequacy of disclosure and the fairness of the terms of this Offering on their own or in conjunction with their personal advisors.

No Guarantee of Return on Investment

There is no assurance that a Purchaser will realize a return on its investment or that it will not lose its entire investment. For this reason, each Purchaser should read the Form C/A and all Exhibits carefully and should consult with its own attorney and business advisor prior to making any investment decision.

A majority of the Company is owned by a small number of owners.

Prior to the Offering the Company's current owners of 20% or more beneficially own up to 65.49% of the Company. Subject to any fiduciary duties owed to our other owners or investors under Delaware law, these owners may be able to exercise significant influence over matters requiring owner approval, including the election of directors or managers and approval of significant Company transactions, and will have significant control over the Company's management and policies. Some of these persons may have interests that are different from yours. For example, these owners may support proposals and actions with which you may disagree. The concentration of ownership could delay or prevent a change in control of the Company or otherwise discourage a potential acquirer from attempting to obtain control of the Company, which in turn could reduce the price potential investors are willing to pay for the Company. In addition, these owners could use their voting influence to maintain the Company's existing management, delay or prevent changes in control of the Company, or support or reject other management proposals that are subject to owner approval.

The Company has the right to extend the Offering deadline.

The Company may extend the Offering deadline beyond what is currently stated herein. This means that your investment may continue to be held in escrow while the Company attempts to raise the Minimum Amount even after the Offering deadline stated herein is reached. Your investment will not be accruing interest during this time and will simply be held until such time as the new Offering deadline is reached without the Company receiving the Minimum Amount, at which time it will be returned to you without interest or deduction, or the Company receives the Minimum Amount, at which time it will be released to the Company to be used as set forth herein. Upon or shortly after release of such funds to the Company, the Securities will be issued and distributed to you.

There is no present market for the Securities and we have arbitrarily set the price.

We have arbitrarily set the price of the Securities with reference to the general status of the securities market and other relevant factors. The Offering price for the Securities should not be considered an indication of the actual value of the Securities and is not based on our net worth or prior earnings. We cannot assure you that the Securities could be resold by you at the Offering price or at any other price.

You will not have a vote or influence on the management of the Company.

All decisions with respect to the management of the Company will be made exclusively by the officers, directors, managers or employees of the Company. You, as a Purchaser of Crowd Notes, will have no ability to vote on issues of Company management and will not have the right or power to take part in the management of the company and will not be represented on the board of directors or managers of the Company. Accordingly, no person should purchase a Security unless he or she is willing to entrust all aspects of management to the Company.

Purchasers will be unable to declare the Security in “default” and demand repayment.

Unlike convertible notes and some other securities, the Securities do not have any “default” provisions upon which the Purchasers will be able to demand repayment of their investment. With respect to Purchasers who invest less than $25,000 in the Securities, the Company has ultimate discretion as to whether or not to convert the Securities upon a future equity financing and such Purchasers have no right to demand such conversion. Only in limited circumstances, such as a liquidity event, may Such Purchasers demand payment and even then, such payments will be limited to the amount of cash available to the Company.

The Company may never elect to convert the Securities or undergo a liquidity event.

The Company may never receive a future equity financing or, with respect to those Purchasers who invest less than $25,000, elect to convert the Securities upon such future financing. In addition, the Company may never undergo a liquidity event such as a sale of the Company or an IPO. If neither the conversion of the Securities nor a liquidity event occurs, the Purchasers could be left holding the Securities in perpetuity. The Securities have numerous transfer restrictions and will likely be highly illiquid, with no secondary market on which to sell them. The Securities are not equity interests, have no ownership rights, have no rights to the Company’s assets or profits and have no voting rights or ability to direct the Company or its actions.

Upon conversion of the Crowd Notes, Purchasers who are not “Major Investors” will grant a proxy to vote their underlying securities to the intermediary or its affiliate, and, thus, will not have the right to vote on any matters coming before the shareholders of the Company for a vote. By granting this proxy you are giving up your right to vote on important matters, including significant corporate actions like mergers, amendments to our certificate of incorporation, a liquidation of our company and the election of our directors.

Upon conversion of the Crowd Notes and by virtue of a provision contained in the Crowd Notes, if you are not a Major Investor, that is, an investor who has purchased at least $25,000 in principal amount of the Crowd Notes, you will grant a proxy to the intermediary or its affiliate to vote the underlying securities that you will acquire upon conversion on all matters coming before the shareholders for a vote. The intermediary does not have any fiduciary duty to you to vote in a manner that is in your best interests. Accordingly, the intermediary may vote its proxy in a manner that may not be in the best interests of you as a security holder. For example, the intermediary may vote the proxy in favor of an amendment to our charter that adversely affects the rights of the holders of your class of securities in order to allow for a new investment to occur where the new investor requires senior rights.

In addition to the risks listed above, businesses are often subject to risks not foreseen or fully appreciated by the management. It is not possible to foresee all risks that may affect us. Moreover, the Company cannot predict whether the Company will successfully effectuate the Company's current business plan. Each prospective Purchaser is encouraged to carefully analyze the risks and merits of an investment in the Securities and should take into consideration when making such analysis, among other, the Risk Factors discussed above.

THE SECURITIES OFFERED INVOLVE A HIGH DEGREE OF RISK AND MAY RESULT IN THE LOSS OF YOUR ENTIRE INVESTMENT. ANY PERSON CONSIDERING THE PURCHASE OF THESE SECURITIES SHOULD BE AWARE OF THESE AND OTHER FACTORS SET FORTH IN THIS FORM C/A AND SHOULD CONSULT WITH HIS OR HER LEGAL, TAX AND FINANCIAL ADVISORS PRIOR TO MAKING AN INVESTMENT IN THE SECURITIES. THE SECURITIES SHOULD ONLY BE PURCHASED BY PERSONS WHO CAN AFFORD TO LOSE ALL OF THEIR INVESTMENT.

BUSINESS

Description of the Business

Bestest aims to accelerate market research, group decision-making, and live audience voting by making it easy to poll others, and vote, from a smartphone. The Company's social polling technology lets users gather feedback from the public or private groups in real time, using a free mobile app available on iOS or Android. Presently, the Company is focused on user acquisition efforts with increased emphasis on digital advertising and marketing. However, in the near future the company plans to begin rolling out paid features to the app such as sponsored polls and trend reports to begin generating revenue.

Business Plan

Bestest is currently focused on user growth for the platform and has not yet monetized any portion of the app. However, in the coming months and years, Bestest is planning to roll out several methods of generating revenue. Some of the proceeds from this raise are planned to be used to build out these features. Potential future monetizing features include:

- Micropayments/in-app purchases: In response to requests by users, Bestest is planning to introduce micropayments and in-app purchases for poll enhancements and specialized polling tools. Some of these enhancements and tools will include the ability to turn off commenting, delay the reveal of vote outcomes, and bundle event organizer polls (i.e. several polls grouped together). Bestest anticipates releasing this feature within the next month (as of June 2019). If the introduction is successful, the company anticipates eventually turning this feature into an optional monthly "pro" subscription.
- Custom real-time research: Specially commissioned research projects using data on-hand and/or poll questions designed by customers. Bestest plans to do several pilots (starting in the summer of 2019) before it builds out an enterprise dashboard letting companies harvest and sort the data themselves. Eventually, Bestest anticipates the data dashboard becoming its principal enterprise offering.
- Market Insights: A monthly report on what's trending in the app. It would be available by general interest or industry, complete with sharable infographics summarizing the reports.

This feature will be offered on an annual subscription basis. Bestest anticipates releasing this feature in 2020 or 2021.

- Sponsored Polling: Paid premium poll placement with real-time responses, a guaranteed number of participants, and full demographic analysis. Bestest anticipates releasing this feature in 2020.

History of the Business

The Company's Products and/or Services

Product / Service	Description	Current Market
Mobile app	Social polling app available on both iOS and Android that enables users to create polls and share them with friends, custom groups, or all users across the Bestest app.	United States

Over the next twenty-four (24) months, Bestest plans to introduce product enhancements to its core mobile app. New features are expected to include: poll sorting and poll categorization; a leaderboard listing top posts and top users; upgraded user descriptions; and the ability to add pictures and gifs to comments. Additionally, the Company plans to introduce several paid features including the ability to turn off commenting, the ability to delay or withhold poll results, and the ability to generate and share infographics with poll results. Bestest anticipates that approximately sixty percent (60%) of the funds from this crowdfunding campaign if the minimum is raised, and fifteen percent (15%) if the maximum amount is raised will be used for continued product development. Additionally, the company anticipates that approximately thirty-one percent (31%) of the Company's total 2019/20 budget will be used for continued product development.

The Bestest app is currently available for download in the Apple App Store and Google Play; and is co-promoted on the Company's website and social properties. Bestest aims to drive app installs through a combination of digital ads, videos, paid and organic social media, public relation (PR) campaigns, and user referrals. The Company also plans to use a network of strategic partners, campus representatives, event hosts, social media influencers, and Bestest users to promote downloads.

Competition

The Company's primary competitors are Facebook, Mammoth Media, Pollpop, SurveyMonkey, and Twitter.

We compete most directly with other social media companies that provide polling options and online market survey tools. General competition in the industry includes technology developed and owned by established competitors as well as new entrants. We believe our platform is superior to those offered by our competitors and see a significant opportunity to not only capture existing market share, but also to expand the size of the market with a visually-rich and easy-to-use platform designed to speed up market research, group decision-making, and live audience voting by making it easy to poll others, and vote, from a smartphone.

Customer Base

Bestest is currently a pre-revenue company. As of June 19th, we have 37,892 users and are laying the foundation to monetize the app by rolling out several features in the coming months and years. Anticipated customers of these monetized features include both app users and companies conducting research through the app.

COMPANY SUMMARY

Opportunity

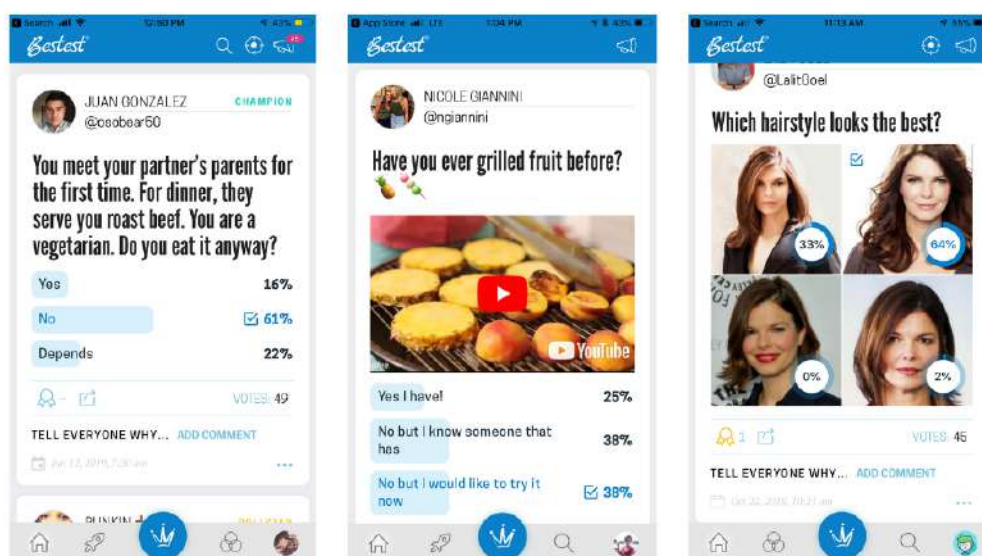

As of January 2019, about 45% of the world’s population uses social media, with more than 3.48 billion people around the world now using various social media platforms.ⁱ Increasingly, time spent on social media is being conducted through mobile devices. In 2019, the average U.S. adult will spend approximately 2 hours and 55 minutes on their smartphone per day. Approximately 21% of that time will be spent on social media (largely through mobile apps).ⁱⁱ As a result, social media advertising has undergone significant growth in the past year for companies such as Facebook,ⁱⁱⁱ Twitter,^{iv} and Snapchat.^v In addition to being able to target large user bases, companies are also beginning to increase advertising spending through social media channels for its cost-effectiveness, ability to target specific population segments, and ability to provide measurable results.^{vi}

Bestest is a social polling app that enables users to create polls and gather feedback in real-time from the general public, live-audiences, and private groups. Through the app, users can have their friends and followers help them decide on everyday topics such as what to wear, where to go for lunch, or which pair of sunglasses to buy at the store. The app allows users to create voting options utilizing text, pictures, or avatars. In addition to providing users with the ability to receive quick feedback and advice from targeted audiences, Bestest also represents an opportunity for businesses to access insight on user preferences. Polls can be posted to the Bestest main feed, which provides access to real-time information tracking from each voter to poll creators. Since its official launch in September 2018, more than 2.8 million votes have been made through the Bestest app, and there are currently more than 33,500 users on the platform. Since its launch, Bestest has focused on user acquisition and product development. Throughout the next three to six months, the company aims to begin generating revenue with the introduction of features such as in-app microtransactions and trend reports.

Product

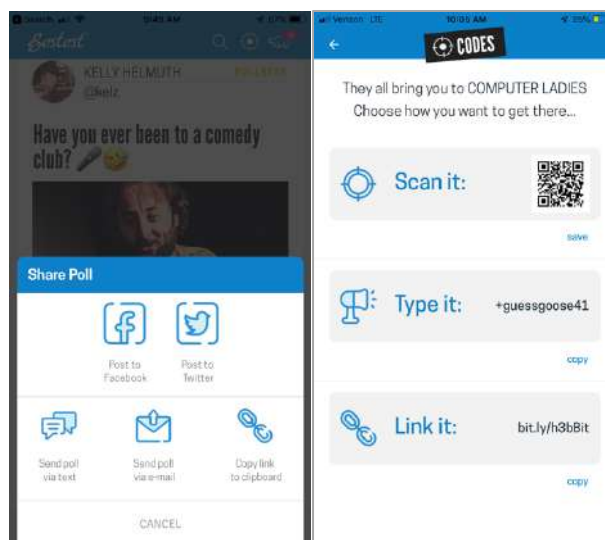

Bestest is a social polling app available on both iOS and Android. Users can create polls with voting options that can consist of text and uploaded pictures. Text polls can contain up to 20 voting options and be accompanied by a supporting image, article, video, or gif. Picture polls can contain up to four voting options.

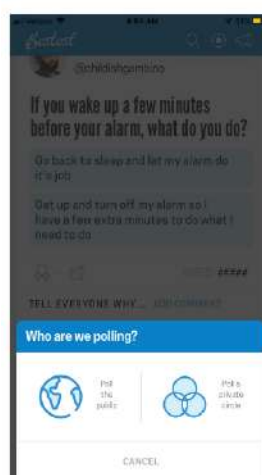

MICROVENTURES

Custom groups (i.e. private circles) can be created through the Bestest app by adding friends or followers. Some common examples of groups include colleagues, employees, customers, teammates, clubs, and organizations. Bestest enables sharing polls through links, social media, and scannable QR codes. One use-case is shopping; if a user is at the mall and unable to determine which pair of glasses to buy, they can take a picture of themselves wearing each pair and send a poll to their targeted group with each of the voting options. Groups can then vote, and the poll creator can view responses in real-time from each voter.

Users can also “poll the public” and share polls with all users on the Bestest app through the main feed. The main feed contains a running list of all public polls listed in the order in which they were created. All users can vote on the public polls and view how others have voted in real-time after they’ve submitted their own vote. Results are dynamically generated as bar graphs or circle graphs, depending on the type of poll. Users can see how other users voted by tapping on the percentage. Below the voting options of each poll is a comment section, where users can engage in conversation with other voters and write-in other voting choices.

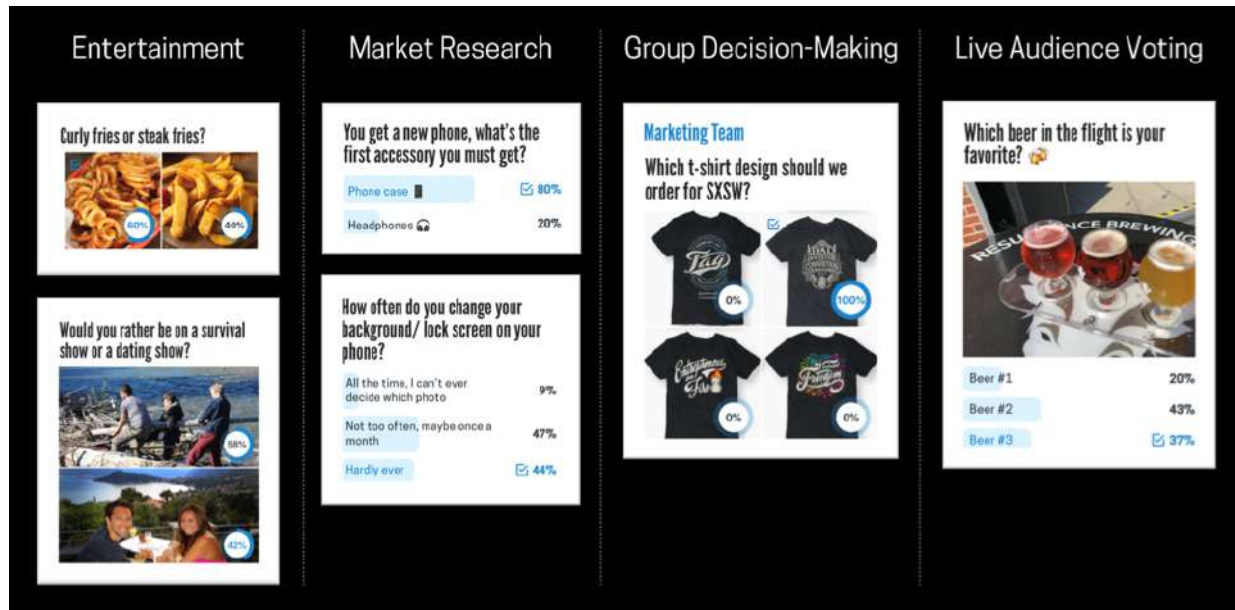

While public polls can consist of anything, the polls provide a potentially appealing opportunity for businesses to receive market feedback. Businesses can list various products, color schemes, etc. and see which option the public prefers. For example, a company can enlist the help of users in choosing a new product name or see which future product would be most popular. The same company can share future polls exclusively with targeted private groups consisting of previous voters or with the public. On a user's profile page, they can view their interaction with the app, such as polls created and votes cast, and can sort by most popular or most recent.

The Bestest app also has a separate page for “trending” polls. Trending polls, which are public polls that get the most votes in the main feed, are featured on the trending page in the app. Public polls must receive a minimum threshold of votes within 24 hours of being posted to qualify. Once a poll makes it to the trending page, it remains there until 24 hours after the poll was initially posted. Polls are displayed on the trending page in descending order by the number of votes cast.

There is also a search page that lets users look up other people and accounts on the app, or search the Bestest database for polls containing a specific keyword.

MICROVENTURES

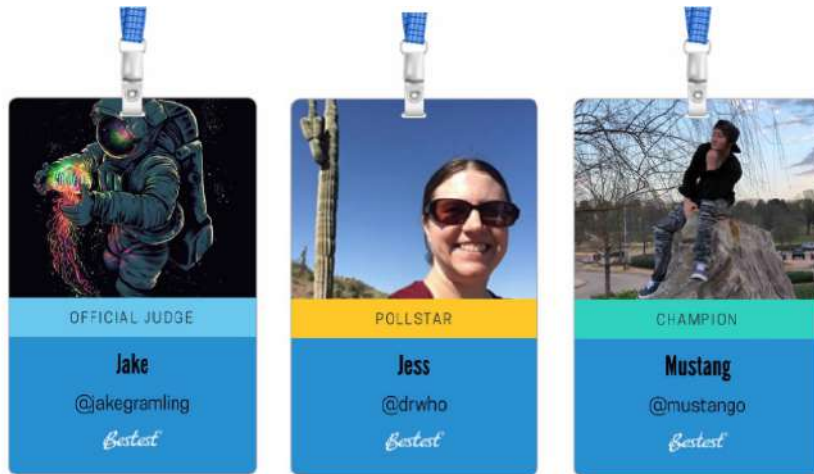

The Bestest app was designed to be user-friendly with an accessible and visually rich interface. Users are incentivized to create polls by receiving valuable feedback from the public and their peers. Conversely, users are incentivized to vote in polls by being able to voice their opinion and view how others have voted. Additionally, the app uses an ID badge system to reward good behavior and content; and discourage bad behavior and content. Badges are displayed next to a user's name when they post a poll or comments on a discussion. Bestest currently uses four badges:

- Official Judge – The default badge for all users.
- Pollstar – A user who produces high-quality content.
- Champion – A user who incentivizes outstanding behavior and actively discourages verbally abusive users. For example, a user who defends someone on a poll who is being unfairly treated by others. Bestest created this category to make its social platform a more friendly and encouraging environment. Champions must be nominated to achieve the status. All champion nominations are reviewed by the Bestest team.
- Troll – Users who meet a minimum threshold of being reported for negative behavior or provocative content are labeled with the troll status. The troll status is meant to disincentivize bad behavior.

Intellectual Property

Bestest filed for a utility patent on their social media polling technology in May 2017. The company is still awaiting the outcome of that filing.

Use of Proceeds and Product Roadmap

If the minimum amount is raised ($25,000), Bestest intends to use the majority of the funds on continued product development (60%, $15,000), with a focus on developing enterprise features in response to customer feedback and ones that may be monetized in the future. The remaining funds are planned to go towards:

- Working capital (15%, $3,750)
- General marketing (15%, $3,750)
- Campaign marketing related expenses (10%, $2,500)

If the maximum amount ($107,000) is raised, Bestest plans to use the majority of the funds (61.17%, $65,450) towards enhancing Bestest's user acquisition, engagement, and retention capabilities through professional software, automation tools, and a key hire. The remaining funds are planned to go towards:

- Increase general working capital (15%, $16,050)
- Continued product development (14%, $14,980)
- Pay for campaign marketing related expenses (5.13%, $5,490)
- Increase general marketing (4.7%, $5,030).

MICROVENTURES

User Acquisition, Engagement, and Retention

Investment in user acquisition, engagement, and retention efforts will primarily be through online advertising and promotional events as well as the addition of a staff member to oversee expanded user interaction efforts. Over the coming year, Bestest aims to continue increasing its expenditure on online advertising through channels such as Facebook, Instagram, Google, Twitter, and Apple. The company has previously invested in online advertising and witnessed strong growth in user sign-ups, poll creation, and votes cast as a result. Bestest also plans to host several promotional events and do a second promotional road trip in 2019. During Bestest's last road trip in 2018, the company visited university campuses across 25 states in the U.S. and worked to drive user sign-ups and increase company awareness among college students.

Since inception, the company has lowered its user acquisition cost through improving its digital media efforts, but without optimizing user retention, it has seen users subsequently leave the app. The company would like to allocate additional manpower and use professional tools, such as Leanplum, to further optimize the process and more easily engage, reactivate, and retain users.

The Company has already identified, trained, and worked with its target hire on a contract basis (during Bestest's 12-week "Poll the Planet" Road Trip last fall). By hiring the same individual, Bestest hopes to mitigate the risk of investment in and eliminate the typical ramp-up period of a new hire.

Working Capital

Bestest anticipates using a portion of the total funds raised for general working capital as it looks to support its business growth.

Business Model

Bestest is currently focused on user growth and building out its platform. It has not yet monetized any portion of the app. However, in the coming months and years, Bestest is planning to roll out several methods of generating revenue. Some of the proceeds from this raise will be used to build out several of these features. Potential future monetizing features include:

- Micropayments/in-app purchases: In response to requests by users, Bestest is planning to introduce micropayments and in-app purchases for poll enhancements and specialized polling tools. Some of these enhancements and tools will include the ability to turn off commenting, delay the reveal of vote outcomes, and create a study (i.e. several polls grouped together). Bestest anticipates releasing its first paid feature (turn off commenting) within the next month (as of June 2019). If the introduction is successful, the company anticipates eventually adding several more in-app purchases and offering an optional monthly “pro” subscription.
- Real-time research: Custom research projects using data on-hand (from the Bestest poll library), new poll questions, or a combination of the two. Bestest plans to do several pilots (starting in the summer of 2019) before it builds out an enterprise dashboard letting companies harvest and sort the data themselves. Eventually, Bestest anticipates the data dashboard becoming its principal enterprise offering.
- Market Insights: A monthly report on what's trending in the app. It would be available by general interest or industry, complete with sharable infographics summarizing the reports. This feature will be offered on an annual subscription basis. Bestest anticipates releasing this feature in 2020 or 2021.

- Sponsored Polling: Paid premium poll placement with real-time responses, a guaranteed number of participants, and full demographic analysis. Bestest anticipates releasing this feature once its userbase reaches 500,000 people.

USER TRACTION

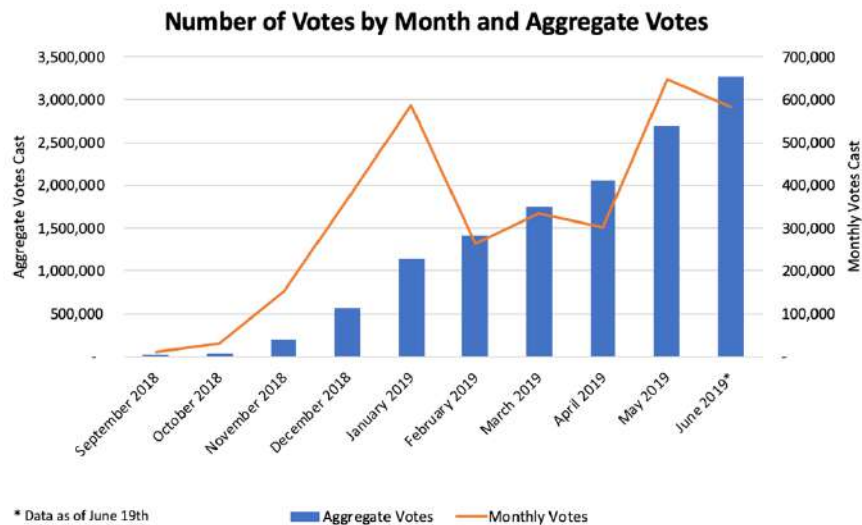

As of June 19th, 2019 (the most recent data available), 37,892 cumulative users had signed up on the platform, up from 289 in September 2018. Prior to the official app launch in September 2018, the platform had acquired 289 users from friends, family, investors, and a demo day in New York City. Between September 2018 and June 19th, 2019, Bestest added an average of 3,694 users to the platform every month.

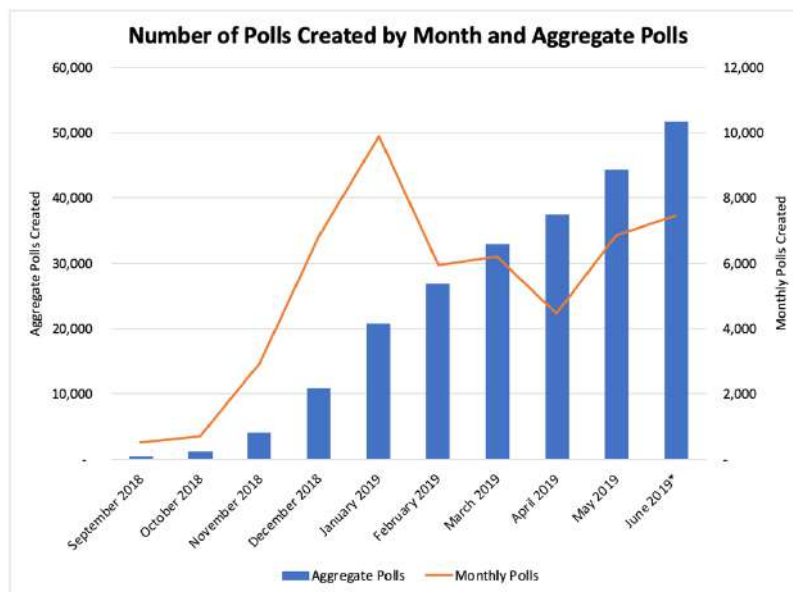

As of June 19th, 2019, 3,275,958 votes had been cast on the Bestest app since inception. Between September 2018 and May 2019, monthly votes on the Bestest app grew at a compound monthly growth rate (CMGR) of 87.77%. Monthly votes underwent a sharp increase between November 2018 and January 2019 due to increased spending on marketing and advertising through social media channels (e.g. Facebook and Instagram). Monthly votes proceeded to decline or remain flat between February and April 2019 due to Bestest testing other acquisition, engagement, and retention tools (e.g. app store optimization, influencer marketing, and contests). These strategies were less expensive but, also proved to be less effective. In May 2019, Bestest returned to its earlier marketing and advertising practices through social media and growth in user activity resumed.

As of June 19th, 2019, 51,840 polls had been created through the Bestest app since inception. Between September 2018 and May 2019, monthly polls created through the Bestest app grew at a compound monthly growth rate (CMGR) of 64.32%. Monthly polls created underwent a similar trend as monthly votes cast due to testing of marketing and advertising strategies.

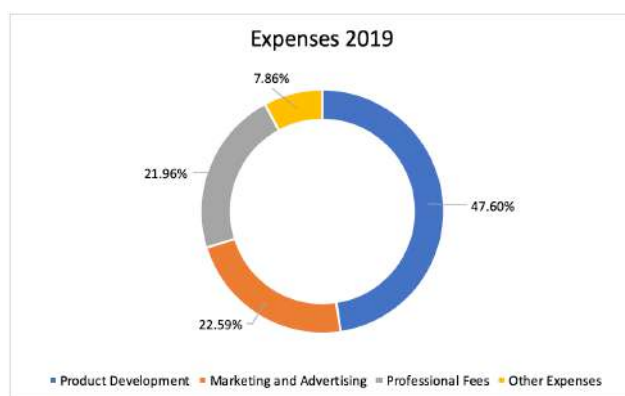

Since the app's formal launch in September 2018, the median time spent on the app per user was 6.5 minutes per day. As of June 4, 2019, the Bestest app had an average rating 4.3 stars (out of 5) in both the iOS and Google Play app stores.

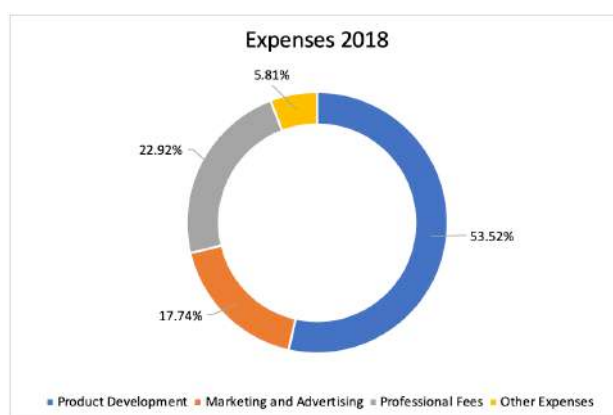

Bestest is currently pre-revenue, and its only source of income since inception has been from interest income. Total interest income since inception has amounted to $1,967.

Through April 2019, Bestest has incurred $168,289 in total expenses year-to-date, a 3.08% increase compared to the same period in 2018. Expenses incurred through April 2019 consist of (as % of total expenses):

When compared to the same period in 2018, Bestest increased its marketing and advertising spending by 5.18X (from $6,148; before the app was launched) and decreased its product development expenses by 26.78% through April 2019. Marketing and advertising expenses increased due to the introduction of advertising online through channels such as Facebook, Instagram, Google, and Twitter. Product development expenses decreased due to a change in the third-party contractor developing the app. Other expenses (e.g. travel and rent) also grew by 93.62% largely due to travel related expenses. Even though no revenue was generated from business activities, COGS was still incurred in 2018 at Bestest due to platform hosting related expenses. However, beginning in 2019, Bestest started categorizing platform hosting relating expenses as operating expenses, leaving COGS at $0 thus far in 2019.

In 2018, Bestest incurred $535,545 in total expenses, a 179.01% increase from 2017. Expenses incurred in 2018 consisted of (as a % of total expenses):

Expenses in 2017 were relatively lower compared to 2018 because the company did not begin business operations until September of 2017. Product development was the largest expense category in 2018, as Bestest focused its resources on developing and improving its polling app in anticipation of its formal launch.

In 2017, Bestest incurred $191,630 in total expenses. The company began business operations in September of 2017, only incurring expenses for four months. Expenses incurred in 2017 consisted of (as a % of total expenses):

The majority of expenses incurred in 2017 were product development related since the Bestest app was in its initial stages of development.

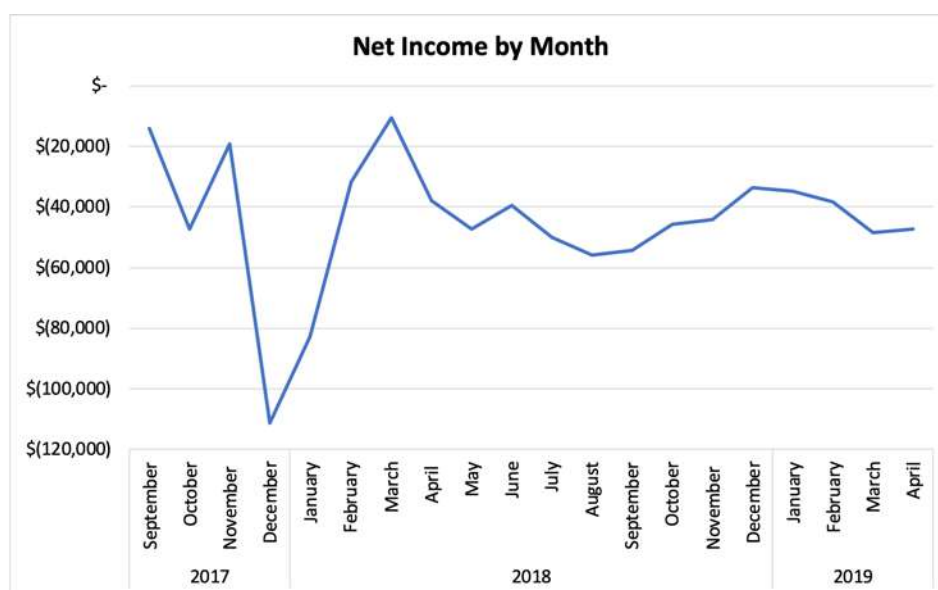

Through April 2019, Bestest incurred a net loss of $168,289, an increase of 3.13% from the same period in 2018. In all of 2018, Bestest incurred a net loss of $533,864, widening its loss by 179.01% from 2017. Its total net loss increased in 2018 compared to 2017 primarily due to Bestest's limited operating history in 2017 (four months) coupled with increased spending (as a percentage and total) on marketing and advertising. In 2017, Bestest incurred a net loss of $191,344. There was a sudden increase in monthly net loss in December 2017 and January 2018 due to cost overruns in the app development from a third-party developer. Bestest has since switched app development to a more efficient third-party developer.

Through May, Bestest has had an average monthly burn rate of $34,279 in 2019, an improvement of 21.04% from an average monthly burn rate of $43,415 in 2018. In addition to this equity crowdfunding raise, Bestest is also currently in the middle of a $2 million round with a post-money valuation of $9.6 million. Of the $2 million, $200,000 has already been collected. With the funds raised from this crowdfunding raise and the potential $2 million outside round, Bestest anticipates they will have approximately 15 months of runway.

As of June 10, 2019, Bestest had $50,840 in cash on hand.

2. The Investor agrees to take any and all actions determined in good faith by the Company's Manager to be advisable to reorganize this instrument and any units of Capital Units issued pursuant to the terms of this instrument into a special purpose vehicle or other entity designed to aggregate the interests of holders of Crowd Notes.

3. Successors and Assigns. The terms and conditions of this Crowd Note shall inure to the benefit of and be binding upon the respective successors and assigns of the parties hereto; provided, however, that the Company may not assign its obligations under this Crowd Note without the prior written consent of the Investor.

5. Notices. All notices and other communications given or made pursuant to this Crowd Note shall be in writing and shall be deemed effectively given upon the earlier of actual receipt or: (a) personal delivery to the party to be notified, (b) when sent, if sent by electronic mail or facsimile during normal business hours of the recipient, and if not sent during normal business hours, then on the recipient's next business day, (c) five days after having been sent by registered or certified mail, return receipt requested, postage prepaid, or (d) one business day after deposit with a nationally recognized overnight courier, freight prepaid, specifying next business day delivery, with written verification of receipt.
6. Financing Agreements. The Investor understands and agrees that the conversion of the Crowd Note into Conversion Units may require the Investor's execution of certain agreements relating to the purchase and sale of such securities as well as registration, co sale, rights of first refusal, rights of first offer and voting rights, if any, relating to such securities. The Investor agrees to execute all such agreements in connection with the conversion so long as the issuance of Conversion Units issued pursuant to the conversion of this Crowd Note are subject to the same terms and conditions applicable to the Preferred Units sold in the Qualified Equity Financing (or the Shadow Series).
7. Severability. If one or more provisions of this Crowd Note are held to be unenforceable under applicable law, such provision shall be excluded from this Crowd Note and the balance of the Crowd Note shall be interpreted as if such provision were so excluded and shall be enforceable in accordance with its terms.
8. Transfer of a Crowd Note. Subject to compliance with applicable federal and state securities laws (including the restrictions described in the legends to this Crowd Note), this Crowd Note and all rights hereunder are transferable in whole or in part by the Investor to any person or entity upon written notice to the Company.

10. Entire Agreement; Amendments and Waivers. This Crowd Note constitutes the full and entire understanding and agreement between the parties with regard to the subjects hereof. The Company's agreements with each Investor are separate agreements, and the sales of the Crowd Notes to each Investor are separate sales.

6. Dispute Resolution.

1. General Rule. Any dispute under this Crowd Note will be resolved through arbitration, not through the court system. All arbitration will be conducted in Wilmington, Delaware unless both parties agree otherwise in writing in a specific case. All arbitration will be conducted before a single arbitrator in following the rules of the American Arbitration Association. Except as required by law, neither a party nor the arbitrator may disclose the existence, content or results of any arbitration without the prior written consent of the other parties.
 2. Appeal of Award. Within thirty days of a final award by the single arbitrator, either party may appeal the award for reconsideration by a three-arbitrator panel. If there is an appeal, the other party may cross-appeal within thirty days after notice of the appeal. The panel will reconsider all aspects of the initial award that are appealed, including related findings of fact.
 3. Effect of Award. Any award by the individual arbitrator that is not subject to appeal, and any panel award on appeal, shall be final and binding, except for any appeal right under the Federal Arbitration Act, and may be entered as a judgment in any court of competent jurisdiction.
 4. No Class Action Claims. NO ARBITRATION SHALL PROCEED ON A CLASS, REPRESENTATIVE, OR COLLECTIVE BASIS. No party may join, consolidate, or otherwise bring claims for or on behalf of two or more individuals or unrelated corporate entities in the same arbitration unless those persons are parties to a single transaction. An award in arbitration shall determine the rights and obligations of the named parties only, and only with respect to the claims in arbitration, and shall not (i) determine the rights, obligations, or interests of anyone other than a named party, or resolve any claim of anyone other than a named party, or (ii) make an award for the benefit of, or against, anyone other than a named party. No administrator or arbitrator shall have the power or authority to waive, modify, or fail to enforce this paragraph, and any attempt to do so, whether by rule, policy, and arbitration decision or otherwise, shall be invalid and unenforceable. Any challenge to the validity of this paragraph shall be determined exclusively by a court and not by the administrator or any arbitrator. If this paragraph shall be deemed unenforceable, then any proceeding in the nature of a class action shall be handled in court, not in arbitration.
7. Approval. The Company hereby represents that its Manager, in the exercise of its fiduciary duty, has approved the Company's execution of this Crowd Note based upon a reasonable belief that the Purchase Price provided hereunder is appropriate for the Company after reasonable inquiry concerning the Company's financing objectives and financial situation. In addition, the Company hereby represents that it intends to use the proceeds primarily for the operations of its business, and not for any personal, family or household purpose.
8. Subscription Procedure. Each Investor, by providing his or her name, and subscription amount, confirms such investment through the Platform and has signed this Crowd Note electronically. Investor agrees that his or her electronic signature is the legal equivalent of his or her manual signature on this Crowd Note. By confirming, the Investor consents to be legally bound by the Crowd Note's terms and conditions, and to the terms and conditions of subscription established by the Platform. All Investors will be processed via Regulation CF. Investments may be accepted up to the Maximum Raise Amount up until the Offering End Date.

We're, lastly, we are joined by Nicole Hernandez, the Head of Product for Bestest. Nicole joined Bestest in 2017 as a technical consultant and was later promoted to Head of Product. As Head of Product, she is responsible for prioritizing, architecting, and testing new features in the app in collaboration with a company's engineering team and other stakeholders.

Prior to joining Bestest, Nicole was a fellow at the Startup Institute in New York, where she enriched her technical fluency by completing coursework and workshops and multiple programming languages such as JavaScript, Python, Ruby, Rails, HTML, and CSS. Nicole holds an undergraduate degree in arts from Middlesex County College. How are you guys doing today?

Lalit Goel: Great, thanks.

Kelly Helmuth: Thanks Brett.

Brett Andrews: Yeah, thanks for joining us and thanks for everyone who's joining us and logged in right now. Just real quick, before we get started, I want to let everyone know the format. Today, the Bestest team are going to spend about 10 minutes or so, maybe 15 minutes going through the pitch deck, and they'll give you a little bit more background on the company. During the presentation, we encourage you to send any questions. If you go over to your GoToWebinar control panel, there's several tabs there, one is titled Questions and you can submit them through there. Feel free to submit during the presentation, they won't interrupt the team, they'll just go to me. Then once the presentation is finished up, we'll go into Q&A and cover the questions that are submitted and field any others that people may have. With that, guys, I'll let you guys take it away and introduce everyone to Bestest.

Kelly Helmuth: Thank you, thank you MicroVentures for having us. As Brett said, I'm Kelly Helmuth, the CEO of Bestest, an addictive mobile app that lets you poll the public and vote right from your phone. Now we live in an era of fake news with people questioning who and what information they can trust. In response, we created a DIY polling tool that turns regular people into pollsters. You get reliable independent information, because we let you ask the public directly. You know what, people seem to like this. Our users, so here's now I'm trying to advance the presentation, let's see if this works. There we go. Our users are spending an average of six and a half minutes a day on the app, and back when we started 10 months ago in September, since then, we've accrued, actually it's 3.3 on here, 3.8 million votes in the app is what we've logged. That's from 40,000 users up from 470, our first 30 days out in the market.

We were able to accomplish all of this with a team of four people. I like to joke with some of our investors and say, "Just imagine what we could do with five?" We believe it's time that polling and surveying went from annoying to easy, from a solo experience to a social experience, from a one off to an always on, and from after the fact to as it happens. What is Bestest? Bestest is a downloadable mobile app, it's available for free on iOS and Android. It's a visually rich scrolling social feed, where every post is a poll, and some people like to say if SurveyMonkey and Instagram had a baby, it would be Bestest. It's usually at this point, so this is our team of four and we're going to go back to some of these slides, but it's usually at this point that I'd like to say let's pause.

I usually get questions on what are the use cases, and by extension, how do you generate revenue? We're going to get to that. But I want you to go back in time with me for a moment to that incident when Bestest came to be. Now, here in this picture, you see my co-founder, Lalit Goel. He's second from the right, and he was out shopping with his wife, Sandy, they were shopping for frames for her. Now, Sandy had narrowed it down to about four pairs and she turned to the clerk and she turned a Lalit and she said, "Which one of these looks the best?" Now, Lalit's been married for over 20 years so he didn't walk into that trap. He said, "Well, dear, of course they all look good on you," and that was no help. At that moment, he thought, "Wouldn't it be amazing if there were an app that just lets you poll the planet with something visual, something instant, something where you could get a bunch of outside honest opinions in a hurry?"

Now, of course, he thought of Facebook and Sandy wouldn't want those pictures going to all of our friends. He thought of Twitter and they didn't have a very big following there and those polls were text only. Instagram, it's visual but binary so it's similar problems. Now being a serial entrepreneur that he is, and as Brett mentioned... Now, he went home and did a lot of research. He did not find anything that met his needs and then he called up his son, a junior at MIT at the time, and within a few months, they had a working prototype and a name, Bestest. Now, people usually ask me what kinds of questions do users ask and answer on Bestest? I always say, "Questions range from serious, what's your stance on abortion to silly like what's the right way to open a ketchup packet, with your fingers or with your teeth?"

Now at this point, let's start to dive in to how people are using Bestest. What are they using it for? Public opinion gathering, group decision making, live audience voting. This is a battle of the bands, entrepreneurial pitch competition, the audience chooses the winner. Finally, the thing that surprised us the most, when we created it, it was really to solve those functional problems like the opinion gathering, group decision making, and live audience voting, and the problem that Sandy faced when she was shopping for frames. What surprised us, what we didn't anticipate, was how much it would be used for a form of entertainment. As you saw earlier, with users spending an average of six and a half minutes a day in the app. Now, our very first investors, to include Lalit, they saw a potential here in the market. Now, for a minute, I'd like to actually transition and walk us into what is that market?

Bestest is part of a global research industry, it's a $76 billion industry and we're part of a smaller segment that accounts for $3 billion in annual revenue. It's a new emerging segment and it focuses on social media, data gathering, and consumer research. Why would you even care? Why would a business care? These insights are real time, no longer are businesses spending $300,000 and waiting three months for results. We can discover purchases in 10, we can detect current trends, spot emerging trends. By the way, that's just the business side. If any of our users are on this webinar, they can tell you how fun it is. In the world of social media, 45% of the population is on some sort of social media. In fact, the average U.S. adult will spend 2 hours and 55 minutes per day on their smartphone, and that's up from 2018. Now, most of that time is spent on mobile apps, which includes social media, and for the first time, app installs surpassed 105 billion last year, and that was up over 10% from the prior year.

How much are they spending? $71.3 billion on apps and games, and that was up 22%. I can't make forward looking projections but don't scold me, so you can draw your own conclusions from here. We initially raised funding, we went out in the market, we tested our concept with the beta version. We swept out what the need was, we listened to our users. Now I like to joke, the name test is in our company name. You can test out any pricing, packaging ideas, branding, logos, taglines, and we did just that for our own application. We went out in the market and we tested and tested and tested. We spent 12 months developing an alpha version that would be market ready and we launched it in September 2018. At that point, it was still going, 470 users that first month. Now upwards of 40,000. We went on a 25 state Poll the Planet tour, where we traveled 15,000 miles and met our fans and followers and users and showed all the different ways you can use Bestest.

What are we doing now? What are we doing this year? We're focusing on scaling up and getting even better. For the users that are on this webinar, our goal is to bring Bestest to more people. We're ready to accelerate, and so why are we doing a crowdfunding campaign? So many of our users have come to us and said, "How do I participate in Bestest? Can I be an influencer? Can I be an investor?" I believe in this, and in fact, I encourage you to go read the reviews. With MicroVentures, a venture firm out of Austin, Texas, approached us and said, "We have a vehicle, we have a way to let your users come into the company and back some of the new features that you're rolling out and be part of your growth." We jumped at the chance. Our users had been seeking it and we needed a way to connect those interests.

How are those funds going to be used? 15% just for working capital for the business, but the bulk of it, 31%, is going to product development, features requested by users and features that help to generate revenue for the company. Our goal is to become self-sustaining as soon as possible. The bulk of those funds, 55%, are going to attract more users, engage the ones we currently have, and retain the ones that we earned since September. We have a plan for a minimum case and a maximum case. That brings us to the whole how will we generate revenue? We're several months ahead of schedule already in introducing in-app consumables. What does that mean? Well, these are polling tools. You probably already see one in the app and it is to turn off commenting. It was requested by a school and we were able to accommodate rolling out several of these small paid polling enhancements over the next few months.

Then bundling them together come January into a pro subscription for individual marketers, our regular users, and enterprise users. We have a plan beyond that for startup. We're taking every day as it comes and we were looking for your help. Now, I hope after hearing this presentation and after meeting our team in a minute and asking questions that you'll cast a resounding yes vote in favor of Bestest. When we get to questions about marketing strategy, I'm happy to dive into this a little bit more. But before we conclude, I want to go into like my number one asked question and that's how did you get all these users and how are you planning on getting more? This is what dives into that, we use a combination of install campaigns, in-person events, original videos, social media posts, search advertising press, influencer programs, promotional products, CPE engagements, and relying on our own users for in-app referrals, social sharing, and word of mouth. Now, that's a lot for a team of four people.

Some of the money that we're raising, that's going to go towards a key hire. Alex Cantor Ellis, he was with us on the road trip, so we got to try him out. We saw the results of his work, we developed a good dynamic, and have been able to de-risk his future hire. We want to bring him on our team full time, so that we can do more with what we have and we can introduce even more features to users. At this point, I think Brett would like to open it up to questions and we've got Lalit on the line, Nicole, and our tech team. So, fire away.

Brett Andrews:

Thank you, Kelly, that was great. We did have a couple of people join late so I do want to remind everyone that if you do have some questions, you can go over to your Control Panel and under the Questions tab, feel free to submit them. I want to kick things off on my side, so I think one of the biggest stories here is really the growth that you guys have had. Kelly, if you remember, I think you and I first connected back in, I want to say, February. I think at the time you were only, I don't even know if you're... I think you started what, you said September? Maybe you were six months old and already to about 20,000 since then. You're now it's been another five months or so and now you've almost doubled in terms of user base. I'd love to hear your take on what you attribute to that.

I know you touched on the marketing piece of it, and maybe I'm not sure how much of that is the plan going forward in terms of the install ads and whatnot, but maybe you can share a little bit on what has been one of the main factors in the really hockey stick growth in terms of user numbers?

Kelly Helmuth:

Yeah, well, I have to give credit, it's the Bestest app with the Bestest users, so I really have to give credit to our users who've been some of our fiercest advocates. The fact that we have a marketing strategy that we've tested over time and it works. We've driven down our marketing cost to a bare minimum, so as I mentioned, we have the word test in our name. I'm a big believer in trying all different platforms, all different approaches. In the beginning, even when we did our install campaigns, those download campaigns, I tried on Facebook, Instagram, Twitter, Snapchat, all over to see which one converted the best. Instagram, as it turns out, had the highest level of downloads and conversions for Bestest.

I'm not surprised since we're an Instagram style feed, and so from there, we made an executive decision to put more of our money, more investment money into deploying install campaigns on Instagram. That's how we've approached everything. We tried a bunch of events, we saw which ones work the best, we do more of that.

Lalit Goel: Also, there are people who are already using this app and they're referring us to their friends and their own circles. In this natural [inaudible 00:18:12] position through their board.

Brett Andrews: Great, yeah, and we had a question, I know you mentioned a little bit about this during the presentation but I wanted to dive a little bit deeper. One of the things I personally like about what you're building is it is a social, it's in the social media category and you showed some great market statistics during the presentation. You have different monetization models built in that aren't just ad based, right? It's there's some premium features and that sort of thing. With the question that we got was about customers and I think I'd love to hear more on what conversations you've been having with potential customers? I know you mentioned the school wanting to eliminate comments. But I got to believe that there's some CPG companies or some other companies out there that could really use some of the insights. What conversations have you had there, if any, and what do you look at the likelihood that they would pay for something like this and how would the business model affect that?

Kelly Helmuth: Yeah, we're really lucky because the business I was in before this was an online publishing business. I dealt with over 2000 brands a year that made advertising decisions. One thing I love about Bestest is it's not peppered with ads, but we say why settle for a view when you can get a vote? When brands that we're working with can have consumers, it cast their input in favor of packaging, coloring, even pricing of products that are coming out. First of all, we envision a world where there are better products, public policies and personal decisions, because of our app. But when they can use this and actually gain valuable actionable business insights, why just advertise when you can advertise and get the insights? We're leveraging my Rolodex of these 2000 advertisers I've worked with before. We've attracted the attention of some on our own.

What surprises the most, Brett, in response to your question, so there are these CPG companies, and for those that means consumer product companies like think of toothpaste and hair brushes and deodorant and like that type of consumable. This is a really natural application for them, but beyond that, we were really surprised when our own users came to us and said, "No, I would pay for something. Here's what I want, I would pay for this. I would pay for the ability to ask a question anonymously." We've had politicians say, "I don't want to reveal my identity to my constituents but I want to get a read on how people in my community feel about this issue." It's actually been for our users. Again, whether they're individual users or whether they represent a large organization who've driven the introduction of monetizable features for us.

Brett Andrews: I think that's a great point talking about the feedback from getting direct feedback from the user perspective on these polls, rather than... I know as a user myself, when I get different advertisements, whether that's on YouTube or even TV, the brand still feels so distant. You don't feel like you're interacting. I think, with this, the user is getting a say. I'm also curious what have the users said about that aspect of it and what guess what jobs, what problems do you feel like you're solving for them in addition to the brands who, in many ways, are the ultimate customer?

Kelly Helmuth: Sure, sure. Well, I would actually encourage, we have pages full of reviews on the App Store in Google Play, people saying, "This app deserves its name, best polling app I've ever used. You guys are the most flexible out there." I know I'm limited to what I can say during the webinar, so I encouraged folks to please go take a look, our users say it best. In response to your other question, I can give an example in terms of what jobs, what problems it's solving. Now, we have two sections of our app so there's a private environment and a public environment. Just this morning it was a private environment, so my girlfriends and I were going on a tour that included some wine tasting,

I have to confess and it got canceled because of the weather. We have 10 possible dates for the future as far as when the company will do this for us. We suffered through, I think, four and a half days of group texts and these long email threads trying to decide on a date and hearing what everybody's conflicts were and their schedule.

This morning, my friend, Sarah, said, "You know what, I'm settling this once and for all." She created a private circle on Bestest, listed all the dates, and is making sure that we get a unanimous decision on what date everyone can do it. We collect qualitative and quantitative information and what that means is that you can actually just cast a vote and see the raw numbers. But qualitative saying, "Hey, I voted for September 1st but it's not an ideal time for me." You can get feedback like that. In my own personal life, it's also a pretty big problem this morning.

Brett Andrews:

That's great. I wanted to also bring up at a point that I think there's probably some people out there that maybe on their mind. In the news recently, there's been a lot of other social media platforms that have been under scrutiny, whether that's government or just the popular culture in terms of just the behavior on some of these platforms. Whether it's trolls or certain types of... There can be some, I don't know... I think hate speech is probably a strong word but certainly in some of these platforms that occurs, what are your thoughts around trying to prevent that and make sure that this is a place that people want to continue to hang out for an average of six minutes? Which I have to say is extremely impressive from the companies that I've looked at. But, yeah, we'd love to hear your thoughts on maybe the general and social media landscape and then how you think you guys can prevent some of that?

Kelly Helmuth:

Sure. I can speak to the general media landscape and then I'd love to invite Nicole Hernandez, our head of product, to address how she's come up with a system to monitor the feed and create a certain ecosystem within our app. But to begin with, what really sets us apart from other social is that we are open and unfiltered. Our feed is completely public, you're seeing everything that's out there in real-time. When I say unfiltered, on Facebook and other social channels, they know your preferences. If you're liberal, you're getting New Yorker articles to support your point of view. If you're conservative, same thing, I mean, opposite scenario but you get me, you get what I'm saying. In our social platform and Bestest, what we love to say is there are no echo chambers, you're not in an echo chamber hearing opinions that are just like yours. You'll actually get to see we're testing a light on how does the general population feel about an issue?

Again, whether it's silly, not silly, but whether it's a movie like The Lion King, what's your feeling on that live action flick? Or if it's on a political issue about declawing cats in New York State, which has just recently outlawed. Regardless of how you in your immediate circle thinks, you're actually seeing how the world at large thinks. That's one, open and unfiltered. Number two, undiluted, no other stuff. You're not seeing family albums of your friends' vacation. A lot of social platforms try to be everything to everyone, and they offer a small polling function that's very limited. We're just polling, we're just polling for a reason, completely undiluted. Our answers and the poll responses are transparent. You can see the poll results, you can see who voted for what, and by extension, we believe that is a business credo too and being transparent.

I think that's why, Brett, we've had a lot of early adoption at a time when people are very frustrated and very distrustful of other social that is out there. The respectfulness of our community is a key differentiator, Nicole is going to speak to that. Then the number of polling options, the richness, the versatility of it is also what sets us apart. There was a user, Ragnarok, the other day and he just gave us this amazing feedback right in the app. He wrote, "All I know is Bestest is the best polling app I've used. Well, I enjoy polls in general, many other platforms are a bit rigid in their interfaces, options, and capabilities are quite limited. Bestest, however, is raising the bar at a substantial level. With that, Nicole, I'd love if you could address how we prevent trolling and the acrimony that you find in a lot of other apps.

Nicole H.:

Yeah, absolutely. In regards to the trolls, there's a few things that we have in place to prevent this kind of behavior. The first is we have community guidelines that make it immediately not okay to post certain types of comments in polls, specifically, things that are sexually explicit. In our community guidelines is you're not allowed to harass or abuse other people. It's really important to us that users are able to express themselves without feeling like they're silenced for their opinions. As Kelly mentioned earlier, we have some serious conversations that go on. After the Alabama law was passed, we had a lot of conversation about abortion, and people are very intense about their opinions about it. It's okay to speak that way but it's not okay to disparage somebody else for having an opinion. One thing we've noticed is that even without ourselves monitoring the content, our users monitor each other.

They're very quick to police each other in saying like, "Hey, that's not okay. That's inappropriate behavior." Sometimes it works and sometimes people continue to push out, and so we do have other safeguards in place. Particularly, you can report users for their behavior if they're posting content that's inappropriate, if they're posting comments that are inappropriate. If a user gets reported enough, then they get marked as a troll. That user now has the ability to see that people are not okay with the way they're behaving in the app and the way they're conducting themselves with the community. We've had users reach out like, "How do I fix this? I'm really sorry, I was just trying to ruffle some feathers but I don't want to be a troll." We tell them, "Listen, just either wait it out and don't get reported anymore, improve your behavior, or try posting polls that the community likes and try to earn a different ranking."

We have the poll star ranking which is about posting amazing polls, and if you post polls that the community truly loves, then they'll welcome you with open arms and you'll see your ranking change. Or go above and beyond and become one of those community policers, become one of the helpers in the app. Reach out to other users who are struggling or being bullied by someone and you might even earn the champion ranking, which is nominated and assigned by the company after deliberation. Yeah, that's a few of the ways. I just wanted to make a comment in terms of the reporting, as I mentioned, we don't want to silence opinions and we're very careful about not taking things down just because they ruffle feathers. We want to make sure that what you're saying or posting is truly going against the guidelines and truly harassing someone, not just stating an opinion that people don't necessarily like.

Brett Andrews:

Yeah, I think that's really interesting about your user base really having a community culture to it. We talk a lot in our business and when we're talking to other startups about the culture of the company itself, but you guys have with this base. It's almost an arm of the company in a lot of ways, and I think that's really interesting some of the self-policing that you mentioned. I think it goes in line, some of that goes in line with what Kelly mentioned of the reason of doing the crowdfunding campaign in the first place is this community seems to be pretty vibrant and it has an identity. I think that's really important when you're building something like what you guys are building. We did have another question come in, pertaining to what Kelly was talking about but I really would love to hear Nicole's take on this, and it's about competition.

As Kelly mentioned in her previous statement that there are some other polling, other social media channels that do have polling features. They're certainly not the primary focus, it doesn't seem like but they're there. I'd love to hear Nicole's take on how Bestest is different than some of the other options out there on other platforms in the way that you plan to be the number one place to go if you want to have a poll, whether you're a user or a brand.

Nicole H.:

Yeah, absolutely. As you mentioned, we're dedicated to polling, so our whole structure of polling is just above and beyond what anybody else is offering currently. They're either offering only text or they're offering binary choices or the whole experience is clunky. But what I found is the biggest difference is the polls really get lost among the clutter of all the other posts. You're less likely to get engagement on your polls because of that. Facebook is a great example of this, where they're just trying to be everything. By doing that, they're nothing at the same time. They don't excel at any one particular thing, we just offer everything. I think our goal with Bestest is to really excel at polling and make it as rich as possible of an experience. We've had a lot of users and companies and potential investors reach out to us and say, "Your UI and UX is absolutely stunning, it's amazing, it's so easy, and intuitive." I think that that's attributed to the fact that we dedicate everything to polling.

Brett Andrews:

Yeah, I can speak from firsthand experience. Here in the office, many of us have downloaded the app and have accounts and oftentimes, yeah, oftentimes at lunch, we'll sit there and I think we've far surpassed your average six minutes on the app. I think because there's that, as a habit, you're going through and voting on things. As you mentioned, Nicole, that the UI/UX is fantastic and it's addictive. I find myself just voting on stuff like Kelly mentioned in the beginning like what should I have for dinner tonight? All of a sudden, I'm interacting with this and making a vote on, on somebody's poll. Then it's even more fun when you start putting out polls yourself. I think I've done a couple on my own and it's been really, really cool to see what the response is like.

Real quick, I wanted to get into the part of the capital side. Again, the purpose of this webinar is to share more information around the crowdfunding campaign that is on the MicroVentures website for Bestest. Kelly, I know you went into the use of funds and talked about how a big bulk of that, I think it was 55%, is going to be used for acquisition and retention. I'd love to maybe dive a little bit deeper. You don't need to spend too much time reiterating some of the marketing channels because I think you have covered that quite a bit. But I think retention piece is a side I'd really be curious to hear more about. Specifically, because there is a large amount of the funds that are going towards that. What can you share with us on the strategy there?

Kelly Helmuth:

Sure. Thanks, Brett. We've been able to achieve industry standard retention rates and that's with free and somewhat nonexistent tools. We like to look at the fact of what if we had enterprise level, enterprise grade software? What if we had a dedicated person in this position? Like we saw it when we had [inaudible 00:35:33], when we were pumping out videos, when he was able to engage with our community on social media, we saw an immediate lift. We feel that this part of our business, we're at a point in a level of growth and maturity where it needs its own owner. The reason why it's such a big portion, Brett, of the capital ratings is because it's actually going to fund a new hire. I know every state, every state government you talk to, the whole objective is job creation. Our investors will help us create this one job and actually render an even better user experience.

That's one thing, is the human capital, then we actually have that enterprise software that we partnered with and are ready to move forward with enterprise level tools. We can message users in the app, we can trigger things. After you voted on a poll, four hours later, you get a reminder, "Come back and check out the results of your poll." None of these things do we have right now and they'll make a measurable difference in our business.

Brett Andrews:

That's great. Yeah, and I think that I just love the idea that you're doing this raise, and in many ways, your users are helping by backing the project and showing their support, they're helping you bring on team members that can then improve the experience for them. It's a win-win. Not only are they getting to invest into the company from a financial perspective, but they're also improving the experience for themselves in the long-term. I think that's really cool. We're coming up on time here. I did, really quickly before we wrap up, wanted to talk a little bit about the future. Obviously, you've alluded to it a couple of times, Kelly, that because of compliance reasons, we've got to be careful about what we say in terms of claims of where we think this can go. But I think from a broad sense, you're at over 40,000 users today, which as I mentioned in the beginning is extremely impressive given that you launched not even a year ago.

But I'd love to hear your thoughts on just the continued growth, the plan for the future, in addition to this, the capital raised here. But do you feel that the strategies you've been employing are replicable to get you to a million, 10 million, 100 million users potentially?

Kelly Helmuth:

Absolutely, our biggest constraint is capital. We've been able to do all this with a limited team on a shoestring budget so an infusion of capital can amplify and magnify what we're already doing. It's going to be the most significant contributor to our future. At this point, it might be a good time to engage our chairman and founder, Lalit, and see what some of his thoughts are on moving forward.

Lalit Goel:

Well, thank you, Kelly. I really see in an immediate future for Bestest. We have put together a great team and a lot of investors including myself really and truly believe in this. What we have done is we have created an experience where a lot of people say that you can get coffee from Starbucks or you can get it from a gas station. We see our polling app gives you an experience of a Starbucks coffee in terms of polling. We are growing fast and capital is the only constraint we have at this time. I know we shouldn't be talking about the future looking information here, but we're very confident that we'll be growing fast and as a premier polling app going forward.

Brett Andrews:

Great, I appreciate that. I guess we're going to bring it to an end here. I guess, Kelly, Lalit, Nicole, before we all make sure to point everyone towards the campaign page at the end, but is there any last words you'd like to share and anywhere else that you'd like to point people towards? Certainly, to download the app, I would encourage everyone to do that. As I mentioned before, I've used it and it's really fun and I think you'll find yourself getting stuck on it longer than any plan. But even outside of that, I believe you have some social media accounts that people can follow, any other places that they can get some more information other than the MicroVentures page?

Kelly Helmuth: Well, I'd say the MicroVentures page is rich with information. Your team has done an exceptional job. That was the most rigorous due diligence process I've ever been through. Yeah, so the app is available for free for download on Google Play. On the App Store, the social channels are listed right there on your screen. Please give us a follow, we have some really fun stuff. It's a great way to stay up-to-date on the company and in touch with the founders. Let us know if you want any merch or space. Please look at the perks of investing, there are a number of them listed right there on the website. If you know anyone in media, if you know any companies that would love to make group decisions, our app could help, please let us know. We had a polling company in DC reach out to us because they received MicroVentures' email and they said, "This is exceptional, let's talk."

Then, finally, yeah, get on it, enjoy it, use it yourself and hopefully it'll solve some problems. Finally, if you know any event hosts, whether it's wine tasting, beer tasting, chicken wing festival, or a battle of the bands, this is something that they can use for live audience voting. Just keep all of those in mind when you go out there and you're experiencing your day to day life, we would love any support, any referrals that you can give.

Brett Andrews: That's great. It really is a solution that applies to almost everybody, and it's hard to think of someone who can't get some use or enjoyment out of the product. Lastly, just to mention, again, the raise is ongoing for Bestest and you can find more information on that raise including the investment terms, the perks Kelly mentioned. There's some really cool stuff on there depending on the level of investment that you make. You can read through all of that. There's a bunch of other material that we put together with the help of the Bestest team. Then, of course, if you'd like to invest and be a part of this, we welcome you. If you go to microventures.com and click on the crowdfunding tab, you'll find the Bestest tombstone, you can click there and then that'll be the campaign page.

There's a bright orange button that says invest up in the top right. And you can click there. If you don't have an account, you can quickly make one and it's pretty easy to move through the process. Then, lastly, if you do have any other questions, many people will probably be listening to this or a recording of this, so if you do have any other questions, there is a discussion forum where you can go in and ask those and the Bestest team can respond. They're very diligent and I know they're excited about this whole process as are we, as MicroVentures. We're very happy to be working with them and it's been a pleasure so far.
