SUMMARY

The following summary is qualified in its entirety by more detailed information that may appear elsewhere in this Form C/A and the Exhibits hereto. Each Purchaser is urged to read this Form C/A and the Exhibits hereto in their entirety.

XFit, Inc., which we refer to as the Company, is a Texas Corporation that was formed on September 1, 2019. The Company was formed as the result of the conversion of XFit, LLC, a Texas limited liability company into XFit, Inc., which occurred simultaneously with the incorporation of the Company on September 1, 2019.

The Company acquired the assets used in the operation of its business, including its intellectual property, which we refer to as the Acquired Assets, on September 6, 2017 pursuant to an Asset Purchase Agreement, dated August 8, 2017, which we refer to as the Asset Purchase Agreement, between Terry G. Jones, our Chief Executive Officer, as buyer of the Acquired Assets and NXS Holdings, LLC, which we refer to as NXS, as seller of the Acquired Assets. XFit, LLC was formed on August 30, 2017 and Mr. Jones assigned his rights under the Asset Purchase Agreement to the Company. The purchase price for the assets was $300,000.

NXS was formed by certain previous investors in Nexersys, Inc., which we refer to as Nexersys, who had guaranteed a loan that was made to Nexersys by South Louisiana Bank. Nexersys originally designed the intellectual property and Nexersys products. Nexersys was in default under the loan so such previous investors capitalized NXS with sufficient capital to acquire the loan from South Louisiana Bank. After acquiring the loan, NXS then foreclosed on the loan and thereby acquired all of the Acquired Assets from Nexersys, which NXS then sold to us under the Asset Purchase Agreement.

The Company is located at 7500 Rialto Blvd, Building 1, Suite 122, Austin, TX 78735.

The Company's website is www.nexersys.com.

The information available on or through our website is not a part of this Form C/A. In making an investment decision with respect to our Securities, you should only consider the information contained in this Form C/A.

The Business

The Company designs, manufactures and sells interactive fitness products which focus on striking (boxing, kickboxing, mixed-martial arts), primary to consumers using direct-to-consumer sales methods. In the near future, the Company plans to add subscription based enhanced content for its users.

RISK FACTORS

Risks Related to the Company's Business and Industry

We have a limited operating history upon which you can evaluate our performance, and accordingly, our prospects must be considered in light of the risks that any new company encounters.

We were formed in August of 2017. Accordingly, we have a limited history upon which an evaluation of our prospects and future performance can be made. Our operations are subject to all business risks associated with new enterprises. The likelihood of our creation of a viable business must be considered in light of the problems, expenses, difficulties, complications, and delays frequently encountered in connection with the inception of a business, operation in a competitive industry, and the continued development of advertising, promotions, and a corresponding client base. We anticipate that our operating expenses will increase for the near future. There can be no assurances that we will ever operate profitably. You should consider the Company's business, operations and prospects in light of the risks, expenses and challenges faced as an early-stage company.

In order for the Company to compete and grow, it must attract, recruit, retain and develop the necessary personnel who have the needed experience.

Recruiting and retaining highly qualified personnel is critical to our success. These demands may require us to hire additional personnel and will require our existing management personnel to develop additional expertise. We face intense competition for personnel. The failure to attract and retain personnel or to develop such expertise could delay or halt the development and commercialization of our product candidates. If we experience difficulties in hiring and retaining personnel in key positions, we could suffer from delays in product development, loss of customers and sales and diversion of management resources, which could adversely affect operating results. Our consultants and advisors may be employed by third parties and may have commitments under consulting or advisory contracts with third parties that may limit their availability to us.

The development and commercialization of our products is highly competitive.

We face competition with respect to our current products and any products that we may seek to develop or commercialize in the future. Our competitors include major companies worldwide. Many of our competitors have significantly greater financial, technical and human resources than we have and superior expertise in research and development and marketing approved products and thus may be better equipped than us to develop and commercialize products. These competitors also compete with us in recruiting and retaining qualified personnel and acquiring technologies. Smaller or early stage companies may also prove to be significant competitors, particularly through collaborative arrangements with large and established companies. Accordingly, our competitors may commercialize products more rapidly or effectively than we are able to, which would adversely affect our competitive position, the likelihood that our products will achieve initial market acceptance and our ability to generate meaningful additional revenues from our products.

We rely on other companies to provide raw materials, major components, and subsystems for our products.

We depend on these suppliers and subcontractors to meet our contractual obligations to our customers and conduct our operations. Our ability to meet our obligations to our customers may be adversely affected if suppliers or subcontractors do not provide the agreed-upon supplies or perform the agreed-upon services in compliance with customer requirements and in a timely and cost-effective manner. Likewise, the quality of our products may be adversely impacted if companies to whom we delegate manufacture of major components or subsystems for our products, or from whom we acquire such items, do not provide certain materials which meet required specifications and perform to our and our customers' expectations. Our suppliers may be less likely than us to be able to quickly recover from natural disasters and other events beyond their control and may be subject to additional risks such as financial problems that limit their ability to conduct their operations. The risk of these adverse effects may be greater in circumstances where we rely on only one or two subcontractors or suppliers for a particular raw material, component, or subsystem.

We depend on third-party service providers and outsource providers for a variety of services and we outsource a number of our non-core functions and operations.

In certain instances, we rely on single or limited service providers and outsourcing vendors because the relationship is advantageous due to quality, price, or lack of alternative sources. If production or service was interrupted and we were not able to find alternate third-party providers, we could experience disruptions in manufacturing and operations including product shortages, higher freight costs and re-engineering costs. If outsourcing services are interrupted or not performed or the performance is poor, this could impact our ability to process, record and report transactions with our customers and other constituents. Such interruptions in the provision of supplies and/or services could result in our inability to meet customer demand, damage our reputation and customer relationships and adversely affect our business.

We depend on third party providers, suppliers and licensors to supply some of the hardware, software and operational support necessary to provide some of our services.

We obtain these materials from a limited number of vendors, some of which do not have a long operating history, or which may not be able to continue to supply the equipment and services we desire. Some of our hardware, software and operational support vendors represent our sole source of supply or have, either through contract or as a result of intellectual property rights, a position of some exclusivity. If demand exceeds these vendors' capacity or if these vendors experience operating or financial difficulties or are otherwise unable to provide the equipment or services we need in a timely manner, at our specifications and at reasonable prices, our ability to provide some services might be materially adversely affected, or the need to procure or develop alternative sources of the affected materials or services might delay our ability to serve our customers. These events could materially and adversely affect our ability to retain and attract customers, and have a material negative impact on our operations, business, financial results and financial condition.

Quality management plays an essential role in determining and meeting customer requirements, preventing defects, improving the Company's products and maintaining the integrity of the data that supports the safety and efficacy of our products.

Our future success depends on our ability to maintain and continuously improve our quality management program. An inability to address a quality or safety issue in an effective and timely manner may also cause negative publicity, a loss of customer confidence in us or our current or future products, which may result in the loss of sales and difficulty in successfully launching new products. In addition, a successful claim brought against us in excess of available insurance or not covered by indemnification agreements, or any claim that results in significant adverse publicity against us, could have an adverse effect on our business and our reputation.

Manufacturing or design defects, unanticipated use of our products, or inadequate disclosure of risks relating to the use of the products can lead to injury or other adverse events.

These events could lead to recalls or safety alerts relating to our products (either voluntary or required by governmental authorities) and could result, in certain cases, in the removal of a product from the market. Any recall could result in significant costs as well as negative publicity that could reduce demand for our products. Personal injuries relating to the use of our products can also result in product liability claims being brought against us. In some circumstances, such adverse events could also cause delays in new product approvals.

Customers often finance purchases of our products, particularly the Nexersys.

Declines in the lending environment including fewer lenders, tighter underwriting and loan approval criteria, greater down payment requirements and, in some cases, higher interest rates have impaired customers' ability to finance and purchase our products. If credit conditions worsen, and adversely affect the ability of customers to finance potential purchases at acceptable terms and interest rates, it could result in a decrease in sales of our products or delay any improvement in our sales.

In general, demand for our products and services is highly correlated with general economic conditions.

A substantial portion of our revenue is derived from discretionary spending by individuals, which typically falls during times of economic instability. Declines in economic conditions in the U.S. or in other countries in which we operate may adversely impact our consolidated financial results. Because such declines in demand are difficult to predict, we or the industry may have increased excess capacity as a result. An increase in excess capacity may result in declines in prices for our products and services.

An intentional or unintentional disruption, failure, misappropriation or corruption of our network and information systems could severely affect our business.

Such an event might be caused by computer hacking, computer viruses, worms and other destructive or disruptive software, "cyber attacks" and other malicious activity, as well as natural disasters, power outages, terrorist attacks and similar events. Such events could have an adverse impact on us and our customers, including degradation of service, service disruption, excessive call volume to call centers and damage to our plant, equipment and data. In addition, our future results could be adversely affected due to the theft, destruction, loss, misappropriation or release of confidential customer data or intellectual property. Operational or business delays may result from the disruption of network or information systems and the subsequent remediation activities. Moreover, these events may create negative publicity resulting in reputation or brand damage with customers.

Our global operations are required to comply with the U.S. Foreign Corrupt Practices Act and similar anti-bribery laws in other jurisdictions and with U.S. and foreign export control, trade embargo and customs laws.

If we fail to comply with them, we could suffer civil and criminal sanctions.

We are required to comply with various import laws and export control and economic sanctions laws, which may affect our transactions with certain customers, business partners and other persons and dealings between our employees and subsidiaries.

In certain circumstances, export control and economic sanctions regulations may prohibit the export of certain products, services and technologies. In other circumstances, we may be required to obtain an export license before exporting the controlled item. Compliance with the various import laws that apply to our businesses can restrict our access to, and increase the cost of obtaining, certain products and at times can interrupt our supply of imported inventory.

The Company's success depends on the experience and skill of the board of directors, its executive officers and key employees.

In particular, the Company is dependent on Terry Jones who is our founder and Chief Executive Officer and has held that position from our inception to present. There can be no assurance that he will continue to be employed by the Company for a particular period of time. The loss of Terry Jones or any member of the board of directors or executive officer could harm the Company's business, financial condition, cash flow and results of operations.

We rely on various intellectual property rights, including patents in order to operate our business.

Such intellectual property rights, however, may not be sufficiently broad or otherwise may not provide us a significant competitive advantage. In addition, the steps that we have taken to maintain and protect our intellectual property may not prevent it from being challenged, invalidated, circumvented or designed-around, particularly in countries where intellectual property rights are not highly developed or protected. In some circumstances, enforcement may not be available to us because an infringer has a dominant intellectual property position or for other business reasons, or countries may require compulsory licensing of our intellectual property. Our failure to obtain or maintain intellectual property rights that convey competitive advantage, adequately protect our intellectual property or detect or prevent circumvention or unauthorized use of such property, could adversely impact our competitive position and results of operations. We also rely on nondisclosure and noncompetition agreements with employees, consultants and other parties to protect, in part, trade secrets and other proprietary rights. There can be no assurance that these agreements will adequately protect our trade secrets and other proprietary rights and will not be breached, that we will have adequate remedies for any breach, that others will not independently develop substantially equivalent proprietary information or that third parties will not otherwise gain access to our trade secrets or other proprietary rights.

As we expand our business, protecting our intellectual property will become increasingly important. The protective steps we have taken may be inadequate to deter our competitors from using our proprietary information. In order to protect or enforce our patent rights, we may be required to initiate litigation against third parties, such as infringement lawsuits. Also, these third parties may assert claims against us with or without provocation. These lawsuits could be expensive, take significant time and could divert management's attention from other business concerns. The law relating to the scope and validity of claims in the technology field in which we operate is still evolving and, consequently, intellectual property positions in our industry are generally uncertain. We cannot assure you that we will prevail in any of these potential suits or that the damages or other remedies awarded, if any, would be commercially valuable.

From time to time, third parties may claim that one or more of our products or services infringe their intellectual property rights.

Any dispute or litigation regarding patents or other intellectual property could be costly and time-consuming due to the complexity of our technology and the uncertainty of intellectual property litigation and could divert our management and key personnel from our business operations. A claim of intellectual property infringement could force us to enter into a costly or restrictive license agreement, which might not be available under acceptable terms or at all, could require us to redesign our products, which would be costly and time-consuming, and/or could subject us to an injunction against development and sale of certain of our products or services. We may have to pay substantial damages, including damages for past infringement if it is ultimately determined that our products infringe on a third party's proprietary rights. Even if these claims are without merit, defending a lawsuit takes significant time, may be expensive and may divert management's attention from other business concerns. Any public announcements related to litigation or interference proceedings initiated or threatened against us could cause our business to be harmed. Our intellectual property portfolio may not be useful in asserting a counterclaim, or negotiating a license, in response to a claim of intellectual property infringement. In certain of our businesses we rely on third party intellectual property licenses and we cannot ensure that these licenses will be available to us in the future on favorable terms or at all.

The Company intends to use the proceeds from the Offering for unspecified working capital.

This means that the Company has ultimate discretion to use the proceeds as it sees fit and has chosen not to set forth any specific uses for you to evaluate. The net proceeds from this Offering will be used for the purposes, which our management deems to be in our best interests in order to address changed circumstances or opportunities. As a result of the foregoing, our success will be substantially dependent upon our discretion and judgment with respect to application and allocation of the net proceeds of this Offering. The Company may choose to use the proceeds in a manner that you do not agree with and you will have no recourse. A use of proceeds that does not further the Company's business and goals could harm the Company and its operations and ultimately cause an Investor to lose all or a portion of his or her investment.

Although dependent on certain key personnel, the Company does not have any key man life insurance policies on any such people.

The Company is dependent on Terry Jones in order to conduct its operations and execute its business plan, however, the Company has not purchased any insurance policies with respect to those individuals in the event of their death or disability. Therefore, if any of Terry Jones die or become disabled, the Company will not receive any compensation to assist with such person's absence. The loss of such person could negatively affect the Company and its operations.

We have not prepared any audited financial statements.

Therefore, you have no audited financial information regarding the Company's capitalization or assets or liabilities on which to make your investment decision. If you feel the information provided is insufficient, you should not invest in the Company.

We are subject to income taxes as well as non-income based taxes, such as payroll, sales, use, value-added, net worth, property and goods and services taxes, in both the U.S. and various foreign jurisdictions.

Significant judgment is required in determining our provision for income taxes and other tax liabilities. In the ordinary course of our business, there are many transactions and calculations where the ultimate tax determination is uncertain. Although we believe that our tax estimates are reasonable: (i) there is no assurance that the final determination of tax audits or tax disputes will not be different from what is reflected in our income tax provisions, expense amounts for non-income based taxes and accruals and (ii) any material differences could have an adverse effect on our financial position and results of operations in the period or periods for which determination is made.

We are not subject to Sarbanes-Oxley regulations and lack the financial controls and safeguards required of public companies.

We do not have the internal infrastructure necessary, and are not required, to complete an attestation about our financial controls that would be required under Section 404 of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002. There can be no assurance that there are no significant deficiencies or material weaknesses in the quality of our financial controls. We expect to incur additional expenses and diversion of management's time if and when it becomes necessary to perform the system and process evaluation, testing and remediation required in order to comply with the management certification and auditor attestation requirements.

The Company has indicated that it has engaged in certain transactions with related persons.

Please see the section of this offering statement entitled "Transactions with Related Persons and Conflicts of Interest" for further details.

Maintaining, extending and expanding our reputation and brand image are essential to our business success.

We seek to maintain, extend, and expand our brand image through marketing investments, including advertising and consumer promotions, and product innovation. Increasing attention on marketing could adversely affect our brand image. It could also lead to stricter regulations and greater scrutiny of marketing practices. Existing or increased legal or regulatory restrictions on our advertising, consumer promotions and marketing, or our response to those restrictions, could limit our efforts to maintain, extend and expand our brands. Moreover, adverse publicity about regulatory or legal action against us could damage our reputation and brand image, undermine our customers' confidence and reduce long-term demand for our products, even if the regulatory or legal action is unfounded or not material to our operations.

In addition, our success in maintaining, extending, and expanding our brand image depends on our ability to adapt to a rapidly changing media environment. We increasingly rely on social media and online dissemination of advertising campaigns. The growing use of social and digital media increases the speed and extent that information or misinformation and opinions can be shared. Negative posts or comments about us, our brands or our products on social or digital media, whether or not valid, could seriously damage our brands and reputation. If we do not establish, maintain, extend and expand our brand image, then our product sales, financial condition and results of operations could be adversely affected.

We must correctly predict, identify, and interpret changes in consumer preferences and demand, offer new products to meet those changes, and respond to competitive innovation.

Consumer preferences our products change continually. Our success depends on our ability to predict, identify, and interpret the tastes and habits of consumers and to offer products that appeal to consumer preferences. If we do not offer products that appeal to consumers, our sales and market share will decrease. We must distinguish between short-term fads, mid-term trends, and long-term changes in consumer preferences. If we do not accurately predict which shifts in consumer preferences will be long-term, or if we fail to introduce new and improved products to satisfy those preferences, our sales could decline. In addition, because of our varied customer base, we must offer an array of products that satisfy the broad spectrum of consumer preferences. If we fail to expand our product offerings successfully across product categories, or if we do not rapidly develop products in faster growing and more profitable categories, demand for our products could decrease, which could materially and adversely affect our product sales, financial condition, and results of operations.

In addition, achieving growth depends on our successful development, introduction, and marketing of innovative new products and line extensions. Successful innovation depends on our ability to correctly anticipate customer and consumer acceptance, to obtain, protect and maintain necessary intellectual property rights, and to avoid infringing the intellectual property rights of others and failure to do so could compromise our competitive position and adversely impact our business.

Substantial disruption to production at our manufacturing and distribution facilities could occur.

A disruption in production at our third-party manufacturing facilities could have an adverse effect on our business. In addition, a disruption could occur at the facilities of our suppliers or distributors. The disruption could occur for many reasons, including fire, natural disasters, weather, water scarcity, manufacturing problems, disease, strikes, transportation or supply interruption, government regulation, cybersecurity attacks or terrorism. Alternative facilities with sufficient capacity or capabilities may not be available, may cost substantially more or may take a significant time to start production, each of which could negatively affect our business and results of operations.

Rising concern over international tariffs, including tariffs applied to goods traded between the United States and China, could materially and adversely affect our business and results of operations.

Since the beginning of 2018, there has been increasing rhetoric, in some cases coupled with legislative or executive action, from several U.S. and foreign leaders regarding tariffs against foreign imports of certain materials. We believe that all or part of our product cost will increase by as much as 10% as long as the new tariffs remain in effect. Because of complexities in the regulations, we are not sure which elements of our costs will be impacted or whether we will be able to increase our selling prices to maintain margins. To the extent our margins are affected, the impact will first impact our operating results in October when we begin to sell merchandise currently on order from China. Imposition of tariffs could cause a decrease in the sales margins of our products, which would directly impact our business and operating results.

Risks Related to the Securities

Affiliates of the Company, including officers, directors and existing interest holders of the Company, may invest in this Offering and their funds will be counted toward the Company achieving the Minimum Amount.

There is no restriction on affiliates of the Company, including its officers, directors and existing interest holders, investing in the Offering. As a result, it is possible that if the Company has raised some funds, but not reached the Minimum Amount, affiliates can contribute the balance so that there will be a closing. The Minimum Amount is typically intended to be a protection for investors and gives investors confidence that other investors, along with them, are sufficiently interested in the Offering and the Company and its prospects to make an investment of at least the Minimum Amount. By permitting affiliates to invest in the offering and make up any shortfall between what non-affiliate investors have invested and the Minimum Amount, this protection is largely eliminated. Investors should be aware that no funds other than their own and those of affiliates investing along with them may be invested in this Offering.

Upon conversion of the Crowd Notes, Purchasers will grant a proxy to vote their underlying securities to the intermediary or its affiliate, and, thus, will not have the right to vote on any matters coming before the shareholders of the Company for a vote. By granting this proxy you are giving up your right to vote on important matters, including significant corporate actions like mergers, amendments to our certificate of incorporation, a liquidation of our company and the election of our directors.

Upon conversion of the Crowd Notes and by virtue of a provision contained in the Crowd Notes or a separate agreement with the Intermediary and the Company, you will grant a proxy to the intermediary or its affiliate to vote the underlying securities that you will acquire upon conversion on all matters coming before the shareholders for a vote. The intermediary does not have any fiduciary duty to you to vote shares in a manner that is in your best interests. Accordingly, the intermediary may vote its proxy in a manner that may not be in the best interests of you as a security holder. For example, the intermediary may vote the proxy in favor of an amendment to our charter that adversely affects the rights of the holders of your class of securities in order to allow for a new investment to occur where the new investor requires senior rights.

We are selling Crowd Notes that will convert into equity securities of our company or result in payment in limited circumstances.

The Crowd Notes do not have a maturity date and only convert or result in payment in limited circumstances. If there is a merger, buyout or other corporate transaction that occurs before a qualified equity financing, investors will receive a payment of the greater of two times their purchase price or the amount of equity securities they would have been able to purchase using the valuation cap. If there is a qualified equity financing which is defined as the first sale by the Company of its preferred stock after the closing of this offering from which the Company receives gross proceeds of not less than $1 million (excluding the aggregate amount of securities converted into preferred stock in connection with such sale or series of related sales), the notes will convert into a yet to-be determined class of preferred stock. The notes will convert at a discount of 20%, based on a valuation cap meaning investors would be rewarded for taking on early risk compared to later investors. But you won't know how much your investment is worth until that happens. The outside investors at the time of conversion, if any, might value the Company at an amount well below the $6 million valuation cap, so you should not view the $6 million as being an indication of the Company's value. If you choose to invest, you should be prepared for the possibility that your notes will never convert and will have no value.

The Crowd Notes will not be freely tradable until one year from the initial purchase date. Although the Crowd Notes may be tradable under federal securities law, state securities regulations may apply and each Purchaser should consult with his or her attorney.

You should be aware of the long-term nature of this investment. There is not now and likely will not be a public market for the Crowd Notes. Because the Crowd Notes have not been registered under the Securities Act or under the securities laws of any state or non-United States jurisdiction, the Crowd Notes have transfer restrictions and cannot be resold in the United States except pursuant to Rule 501 of Regulation CF. It is not currently contemplated that registration under the Securities Act or other securities laws will be effected. Limitations on the transfer of the Crowd Notes may also adversely affect the price that you might be able to obtain for the Crowd Notes in a private sale. Purchasers should be aware of the long-term nature of their investment in the Company. Each Purchaser in this Offering will be required to represent that it is purchasing the Securities for its own account, for investment purposes and not with a view to resale or distribution thereof.

Neither the Offering nor the Securities have been registered under federal or state securities laws, leading to an absence of certain regulation applicable to the Company.

No governmental agency has reviewed or passed upon this Offering, the Company or any Securities of the Company. The Company also has relied on exemptions from securities registration requirements under applicable state securities laws. Investors in the Company, therefore, will not receive any of the benefits that such registration would otherwise provide. Prospective investors must therefore assess the adequacy of disclosure and the fairness of the terms of this Offering on their own or in conjunction with their personal advisors.

No Guarantee of Return on Investment

There is no assurance that a Purchaser will realize a return on its investment or that it will not lose its entire investment. For this reason, each Purchaser should read the Form C/A and all Exhibits carefully and should consult with its own attorney and business advisor prior to making any investment decision.

A majority of the Company is owned by a small number of owners.

Prior to the Offering the Company's current owners of 20% or more beneficially own up to 68.3% of the Company. Subject to any fiduciary duties owed to our other owners or investors under Texas law, these owners may be able to exercise significant influence over matters requiring owner approval, including the election of directors or managers and approval of significant Company transactions, and will have significant control over the Company's management and policies. Some of these persons may have interests that are different from yours. For example, these owners may support proposals and actions with which you may disagree. The concentration of ownership could delay or prevent a change in control of the Company or otherwise discourage a potential acquirer from attempting to obtain control of the Company, which in turn could reduce the price potential investors are willing to pay for the Company. In addition, these owners could use their voting influence to maintain the Company's existing management, delay or prevent changes in control of the Company, or support or reject other management and board proposals that are subject to owner approval.

The Company has the right to extend the Offering deadline.

The Company may extend the Offering deadline beyond what is currently stated herein. This means that your investment may continue to be held in escrow while the Company attempts to raise the Minimum Amount even after the Offering deadline stated herein is reached. Your investment will not be accruing interest during this time and will simply be held until such time as the new Offering deadline is reached without the Company receiving the Minimum Amount, at which time it will be returned to you without interest or deduction, or the Company receives the Minimum Amount, at which time it will be released to the Company to be used as set forth herein. Upon or shortly after release of such funds to the Company, the Securities will be issued and distributed to you.

There is no present market for the Securities and we have arbitrarily set the price.

We have arbitrarily set the price of the Securities with reference to the general status of the securities market and other relevant factors. The Offering price for the Securities should not be considered an indication of the actual value of the Securities and is not based on our net worth or prior earnings. We cannot assure you that the Securities could be resold by you at the Offering price or at any other price.

In addition to the risks listed above, businesses are often subject to risks not foreseen or fully appreciated by the management. It is not possible to foresee all risks that may affect us. Moreover, the Company cannot predict whether the Company will successfully effectuate the Company's current business plan. Each prospective Purchaser is encouraged to carefully analyze the risks and merits of an investment in the Securities and should take into consideration when making such analysis, among other, the Risk Factors discussed above.

Purchasers will be unable to declare the Security in "default" and demand repayment.

Unlike convertible notes and some other securities, the Securities do not have any "default" provisions upon which the Purchasers will be able to demand repayment of their investment. The Company has ultimate discretion as to whether or not to convert the Securities upon a future equity financing and such Purchasers have no right to demand such conversion. Only in limited circumstances, such as a liquidity event, may such Purchasers demand payment and even then, such payments will be limited to the amount of cash available to the Company.

The Company may never elect to convert the Securities or undergo a liquidity event.

The Company may never receive a future equity financing or elect to convert the Securities upon such future financing. In addition, the Company may never undergo a liquidity event such as a sale of the Company or an IPO. If neither the conversion of the Securities nor a liquidity event occurs, the Purchasers could be left holding the Securities in perpetuity. The Securities have numerous transfer restrictions and will likely be highly illiquid, with no secondary market on which to sell them. The Securities are not equity interests, have no ownership rights, have no rights to the Company's assets or profits and have no voting rights or ability to direct the Company or its actions.

THE SECURITIES OFFERED INVOLVE A HIGH DEGREE OF RISK AND MAY RESULT IN THE LOSS OF YOUR ENTIRE INVESTMENT. ANY PERSON CONSIDERING THE PURCHASE OF THESE SECURITIES SHOULD BE AWARE OF THESE AND OTHER FACTORS SET FORTH IN THIS FORM C/A AND SHOULD CONSULT WITH HIS OR HER LEGAL, TAX AND FINANCIAL ADVISORS PRIOR TO MAKING AN INVESTMENT IN THE SECURITIES. THE SECURITIES SHOULD ONLY BE PURCHASED BY PERSONS WHO CAN AFFORD TO LOSE ALL OF THEIR INVESTMENT.

BUSINESS

Description of the Business

The Company designs, manufactures and sells interactive fitness products which focus on striking (boxing, kickboxing, mixed-martial arts), primary to consumers using direct-to-consumer sales methods. In the near future, the Company will be adding subscription based enhanced content for its users.

See Exhibit B to this Form C/A, Company Summary, which is incorporated herein by reference, for a more detailed description of the Company's Business.

Business Plan

The Company intends to continue its focus on interactive fitness products marketed through direct-to-consumer channels. The next step is to use digital marketing to increase sales. At the same time, the Company intends to continue to develop enhanced interactive user content, including live content, which the Company believes will result in an increasing stream of recurring subscription revenue. The Company also believes that its migration to the Microsoft PlayFab platform will provide cross-over between fitness and gaming further increasing its potential consumer markets.

History of the Business

The Company is a Texas Corporation that was formed on August 30, 2017. The Company was formed as the result of the conversion of XFit, LLC, a Texas limited liability company into XFit, Inc., which occurred simultaneously with the incorporation the Company on September 1, 2019.

The Company acquired the assets used in the operation of its business, including its intellectual property, which we refer to as the Acquired Assets, on September 6, 2017 pursuant to an Asset Purchase Agreement, dated August 8, 2017, which we refer to as the Asset Purchase Agreement, between Terry G. Jones, our Chief Executive Officer, as buyer of the Acquired Assets and NXS Holdings, LLC, which we refer to as NXS, as seller of the Acquired Assets. Mr. Jones assigned his rights under the Asset Purchase Agreement to the Company. The purchase price for the assets was $300,000.

NXS was formed by certain previous investors in Nexersys, Inc., which we refer to as Nexersys, who had guaranteed a loan that was made to Nexersys by South Louisiana Bank. Nexersys originally designed the intellectual property and Nexersys product. Nexersys was in default under the loan so such previous investors capitalized NXS with sufficient capital to acquire the loan from South Louisiana Bank. After acquiring the loan, NXS then foreclosed on the loan and thereby acquired all of the Acquired Assets from Nexersys, which NXS then sold to us under the Asset Purchase Agreement.

Cross Body Trainer	Double ended boxing bag with related app	Direct sale to consumers and wholesale sales of commercial models for multi-family and hotel fitness facilities, and fitness clubs

We are continuously developing enhanced content for the Nexersys devices. We expect to launch some of these late in 2019 or early 2020. These enhancements are not dependent on the successful completion of this Offering. We expect to develop live interactive programming in 2020, part of which may be funded with proceeds of this Offering, depending on the ultimate amount raised in this Offering.

We sell direct to consumer via the Company's website and an Amazon store. We offer consumer financing through a third party, Affirm. We sell our commercial products through wholesale distributors for use in hotel fitness facilities, multifamily fitness facilities, and fitness clubs.

Competition

The Company's primary competitors are interactive fitness products, including, among others; Peloton, Echelon and Mirror.

We are an earlier stage company than the named competitors and do not have their level of resources in terms of marketing and advertising. We believe we compete with them by (1) offering a unique format for high intensity interval workouts and (2) creating a crossover between interactive fitness and gaming allowing our customers to become more engaged in the use of our products.

Customer Base

Consumers who desire at-home fitness products, multi-family property owner/operators, hospitality property owner/operators, corporate wellness centers, educational facilities, governmental facilities, and commercial gyms (including boutique clubs for boxing, MMA and kickboxing).

XFIT, LLC
NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS (REVIEWED)
DECEMBER 31, 2018 AND 2017

NOTE A- ORGANIZATION AND NATURE OF ACTIVITIES

XFit, LLC ("the Company") is a limited liability company organized under the laws of Texas. The Company distributes high-end fitness equipment for direct-to-consumer retail sale and wholesale for commercial sales.

NOTE B- GOING CONCERN MATTERS

The financial statements have been prepared on the going concern basis, which assumes that the Company will continue in operation for the foreseeable future. However, management has identified the following conditions and events that created an uncertainty about the ability of the Company to continue as a going concern. The Company sustained net losses of $193,440 and $84,254 in 2017 and 2018, respectively.

The following describes management's plans that are intended to mitigate the conditions and events that raise substantial doubt about the Company's ability to continue as a going concern. The Company plans to raise additional funds to continue operations through a campaign conducted under SEC Regulation CF. The Company's ability to meet its obligations as they become due is dependent upon the success of management's plans, as described above.

These conditions and events create an uncertainty about the ability of the Company to continue as a going concern through August 21, 2020 (one year after the date that the financial statements are available to be issued). The financial statements do not include any adjustments that might be necessary should the Company be unable to continue as a going concern.

NOTE C- SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

Basis of Presentation

The accompanying financial statements have been prepared in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America ("US GAAP").

Significant Risks and Uncertainties

The Company is subject to customary risks and uncertainties associated with development of new technology including, but not limited to, the need for protection of proprietary technology, dependence on key personnel, costs of services provided by third parties, the need to obtain additional financing, and limited operating history.

Use of Estimates

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with GAAP requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Cash and Cash Equivalents

Cash and cash equivalents include all cash balances, and highly liquid investments with maturities of three months or less when purchased.

Revenue

The Company recognizes revenue when persuasive evidence of an arrangement exists, delivery has occurred, or services have been rendered, the fee for the arrangement is fixed or determinable and collectability is reasonably assured.

Intangible Assets

Intangible assets that are subject to amortization are stated at their historical cost and amortized on a straight-line basis over their expected useful lives, which usually varies from 3 to 10 years and up to 20 years for patents. An adjustment is made for any impairment. Intangible items acquired must be recognized as assets separately from goodwill if they meet the definition of an asset, are either separable or arise from contractual or other legal rights, and their fair value can be measured reliably. The Intangible asset recorded on the books is comprised of workout applications and equipment designs the company developed and will be tested for impairment in following years.

Sales & Marketing

The Company records sales & marketing expenses in the year incurred.

Income Taxes

The Company applies ASC 740 Income Taxes ("ASC 740"). Deferred income taxes are recognized for the tax consequences in future years of differences between the tax bases of assets and liabilities and their financial statement reported amounts at each period end, based on enacted tax laws and statutory tax rates applicable to the periods in which the differences are expected to affect taxable income. Valuation allowances are established, when necessary, to reduce deferred tax assets to the amount expected to be realized. The provision for income taxes represents the tax expense for the period, if any and the change during the period in deferred tax assets and liabilities. ASC 740 also provides criteria for the recognition, measurement, presentation and disclosure of uncertain tax positions. A tax benefit from an uncertain position is recognized only if it is "more likely than not" that the position is sustainable upon examination by the relevant taxing authority based on its technical merit.

Recently Adopted Accounting Pronouncements

From time to time, new accounting pronouncements are issued by the Financial Accounting Standards Board, or FASB, or other standard setting bodies and adopted by the Company as of the specified effective date. Unless otherwise discussed, the Company believes that the impact of recently issued standards that are not yet effective will not have a material impact on its financial position or results of operations upon adoption.

In November 2015, the FASB issued ASU (Accounting Standards Update) 2015-17, Balance Sheet Classification of Deferred Taxes, or ASU 2015-17. The guidance requires that all deferred tax assets and liabilities, along with any related valuation allowance, be classified as noncurrent on the balance sheet. For all entities other than public business entities, the guidance becomes effective for financial statements issued for annual periods beginning after December 15, 2017, and interim periods within annual periods beginning after December 15, 2018. Early adoption is permitted for all entities as of the beginning of an interim or annual reporting period. The adoption of ASU 2015-17 had no material impact on the Company's financial statements and related disclosures.

In November 2016, the FASB issued ASU 2016-18, Statement of Cash Flows (Topic 230), Restricted Cash, or ASU 2016-18. The amendments of ASU 2016-18 were issued to address the diversity in classification and presentation of changes in restricted cash and restricted cash equivalents on the statement of cash flows which is currently not addressed under Topic 230. ASU 2016-18 would require an entity to include amounts generally described as restricted cash and restricted cash equivalents with cash and cash equivalents when reconciling the beginning of period and end of period total amounts on the statement of cash flows. This guidance is effective for annual reporting periods, and interim periods within those years, beginning after December 15, 2018 for non-public entities. Early adoption is permitted, and the standard must be applied retrospectively. The adoption of ASU 2016-18 had no material impact on the Company's financial statements and related disclosures.

In May 2014, the FASB issued ASU, 2014-09—Revenue from Contracts with Customers (Topic 606), or ASU 2014-09, and further updated through ASU 2016-12, or ASU 2016-12, which amends the existing accounting standards for revenue recognition. ASU 2014-09 is based on principles that govern the recognition of revenue at an amount to which an entity expects to be entitled to when products are transferred to customers. This guidance is effective for annual reporting periods, and interim periods within those years, beginning December 15, 2018 for non-public entities. The new revenue standard may be applied retrospectively to each prior period presented or retrospectively with the cumulative effect recognized as of the date of adoption. The adoption of ASU 2014-09 had no material impact on the Company's financial statements and related disclosures.

In February 2016, the FASB issued ASU 2016-02, Leases (Topic 842), or ASU 2016-02, which supersedes the guidance in ASC 840, Leases. The new standard requires lessees to apply a dual approach, classifying leases as either finance or operating leases based on the principle of whether or not the lease is effectively a financed purchase by the lessee. This classification will determine whether lease expense is recognized based on an effective interest method or on a straight-line basis over the term of the lease. A lessee is also required to record a right-of-use asset and a lease liability for all leases with a term of greater than 12 months regardless of their classification. Leases with a term of 12 months or less will be accounted for similar to existing guidance for operating leases today. This guidance is effective for annual reporting periods beginning after December 15, 2019 for non-public entities. The adoption of ASU 2016-02 had no material impact on the Company's financial statements and related disclosures.

In March 2016, the FASB issued ASU 2016-09, Improvements to Employee Share-based Payment Accounting, or ASU 2016-09. ASU 2016-09 simplifies several aspects of the accounting for share-based payment transactions, including the income tax consequences, classification of awards as either equity or liabilities, and classification on the statement of cash flows. Some of the areas of simplification apply only to non-public companies. This guidance was effective on December 31, 2016 for public entities. For entities other than public business entities, the amendments are effective for annual periods beginning after December 15, 2017, and interim periods within annual periods beginning after December 15, 2018. Early adoption is permitted for an entity in any interim or annual period for which financial statements have not been issued or made available for issuance. An entity that elects early adoption must adopt all amendments in the same period. The adoption of ASU 2016-09 had no material impact on the Company's financial statements and related disclosures.

In May 2017, the FASB issued ASU 2017-09, Compensation—Stock Compensation (Topic 718): Scope of Modification Accounting, or ASU 2017-09, which clarifies when to account for a change to the terms or conditions of a share-based payment award as a modification. Under the new guidance, modification accounting is required only if the fair value, the vesting conditions, or the classification of the award (as equity or liability) changes as a result of the change in terms or conditions. This guidance is effective for annual reporting periods, and interim periods within those years, beginning after December 15, 2017, for both public entities and non-public entities. Early adoption is permitted. The adoption of ASU 2017-09 had no material impact on the Company's financial statements and related disclosures.

valuation techniques to measure fair value that maximize the use of observable inputs and minimize the use of unobservable inputs. These inputs are prioritized as follows:

Level 1 - Observable inputs, such as quoted prices for identical assets or liabilities in active markets;
Level 2 - Inputs, other than the quoted prices in active markets, that are observable either directly or indirectly, such as quoted prices for similar assets or liabilities, or market-corroborated inputs; and
Level 3 - Unobservable inputs for which there is little or no market data which require the reporting entity to develop its own assumptions about how market participants would price the assets or liabilities.

The valuation techniques that may be used to measure fair value are as follows:

Market approach - Uses prices and other relevant information generated by market transactions involving identical or comparable assets or liabilities.

Income approach - Uses valuation techniques to convert future amounts to a single present amount based on current market expectations about those future amounts, including present value techniques, option-pricing models, and excess earnings method.

Cost approach - Based on the amount that currently would be required to replace the service capacity of an asset (replacement cost).

NOTE G- LLC MEMBER LIABILITY

The Company is a limited liability company. As such, the financial liability of members of the Company for the financial obligations of the Company is limited to each member's contribution of capital.

NOTE H- CONCENTRATIONS OF RISK

NOTE I- SUBSEQUENT EVENTS

Management considered events subsequent to the end of the period but before August 21, 2019, the date that the financial statements were available to be issued.

In August 2019, the Company converted its organizational status from a limited liability company to a corporation.

COMPANY SUMMARY

Opportunity

There is a growing movement in fitness and training to ditch the traditional gym in favor of working out at home. Many people who sign up for a gym membership abandon it quickly - in fact, data compiled by the Guardian indicates that the gym dropout rate in the first eight weeks after signing up could be as high as 80%. This high dropout rate can be attributed to a multitude of factors, including distance, lack of an effective workout plan, or not wanting to pay for a trainer. Another primary driver of this change towards interactive at-home fitness is the growing number of programs and new technologies enabled by the internet.ⁱ There are a number of options for people seeking an interactive at-home fitness experience including biking, running, weightlifting, High Intensity Interval Training (HIIT), boxing, and more.

Boxing provides a full body workout that utilizes strength and cardio to improve overall fitness. In addition to boosting strength and cardio, boxing (as well as kickboxing, MMA, etc.) can improve a number of skill-related aspects of fitness including agility, coordination, balance, and reactivity.ⁱⁱ

Combining exercise equipment and interactive gaming, Nexersys is a professional-grade multimedia fitness product that's engineered to deliver the motivation of a personal trainer, the benefits of a mixed martial arts HIIT workout, and the entertainment and feedback available from today's gaming and computer technology. The company seeks to engage those seeking alternative forms of High Intensity Interval Training as well as enthusiasts of various forms of striking such as boxing, kick-boxing, and mixed-martial arts.

The Company designs, manufactures, and sells interactive fitness products to deliver gaming style workouts using striking skills such as boxing, kickboxing, and mixed-martial arts. MICROVENTURES

Use of Proceeds and Product Roadmap

The company plans to allocate the majority of proceeds from this raise towards digital advertising, purchasing additional inventory, enhancing its user content and marketing collateral, and general working capital. If the minimum amount is raised, the company will allocate over 70% towards digital advertising, while using the remainder to market the campaign. If the maximum of $1.07 million is reached, the company will allocate $250,000 towards purchasing inventory, $300,000 towards digital advertising, $100,000 on enhancing content, roughly $30,000 towards campaign marketing, and the remainder towards general working capital.

In Q4 2019, the company plans to release a youth version of the Nexersys. In early 2020, the company plans to release its enhanced, subscription-based content. While the company plans to spend heavily on digital marketing, it also intends to spend on developing interactive user content, including live content, which the company believes will result in an increasing stream of recurring subscription revenue. XFit believes that its migration to the Microsoft PlayFab platform provides a cross-over between fitness and gaming, further increasing its potential appeal to consumer markets.

The Company engaged Darwin Insights in April 2019 and began testing direct-to-consumer digital advertising for the N3 Elite in June. XFit commenced its N3 Elite direct-to-consumer campaign and the campaign delivered media efficiency and sales results in June, July, and August, which exceeded expectations. Sales of Nexersys units were $279,537 and 79 units for the first six months of 2019, $69,093 and 22 units in July, and $99,562 and 32 units in August. XFit is procuring additional N3 Elite inventory to support increased media spend and plans to add the N3 Commercial/Pro models in October and the N3 Youth model in December to the advertising campaign.

Business Model

XFit currently derives its revenue from product sales but plans to derive an increasingly large portion of revenue and earnings from recurring monthly subscription revenue as it develops enhanced workout content. Currently, the company is operating with a 67% gross profit margin through the sales of products. With the addition of its monthly subscription revenue, it plans to further increase its margins. The company's products are priced as follows:

- Nexersys N3: XFit currently sells the Nexersys Elite for $2,295, the Pro for $5,495, and the Commercial for $6,995. The Elite is the home version that will be the focus of its direct-to-consumer advertising campaigns. The company has not yet determined a price for the Youth model.
- Cross-Body Trainer: The Cross-Body Trainer Home model sells for $245 while the Pro unit sells for $795.

MICROVENTURES

- Accessories: The Company also sells other accessories such as boxing and MMA gloves and Sports Towels. The Sports Towel costs $24.95, the MMA and boxing gloves cost $35, and the hand wraps cost $10.

XFit, Inc. currently partners with JPauJones, LLP, a company that designs, manufactures, and distributes various consumer products. JPauJones currently funds any negative cash flow by carrying the inventory and receivables for XFit and deferring receipt of payment for shared overhead. XFit plans to phase out of the arrangement with JPauJones as it becomes profitable and reaches a scale where it makes economic sense to do so. The arrangement with JPauJones reduces XFit's capital requirements, provides inventory for growth and allows it to utilize a substantial portion of the funds from this raise to accelerate advertising to increase sales.

USER TRACTION

Since inception, over 4,700 Nexersys machines and over 4,600 Cross-Body Trainers have been sold. In 2018, XFit sold over 150 Nexersys machines and roughly 110 Cross-Body Trainers. Through August of 2019, the company has sold 133 Nexersys machines and 122 Cross-Body Trainers. Except for the recent advertising tests mentioned above, the company (and its predecessor) have not been able to spend on advertising in recent years but plans to use a significant amount of proceeds from this offering to expand its digital media advertising campaign to accelerate growth. In 2012, over 950 Nexersys machines were sold with the help of spending on TV advertising. In 2014, the company sold more than 2,200 Nexersys machines due to a relationship with an Australian direct-to-consumer company. The Australian company ran into financial difficulties shortly after and had to end the relationship.

The Nexersys product has been featured on Fox News and television shows such as NCIS: Los Angeles, Disney's Kickin' It, Shark Tank, The Biggest Loser, and more.

In the first six months of 2019, operating expenses reached roughly $476,000, an 88% increase from ~$253,000 in the first six months of 2018. Through July 2019, the company has generated a net loss of roughly $314,000, compared to a net loss of roughly $35,100 during the same time period in 2018. In all of 2018, the company generated a net loss of approximately $193,000. The increased loss was primarily due to an increase in G&A expenses incurred to continue content and product development and to prepare to launch the planned advertising campaign while not yet materially increasing sales due to the lack of spending on marketing. The company consumes a low amount of cash due to its inventory and shared overhead arrangements with JPaulJones. As of the end of June, the company had roughly $61,500 in cash on hand. While the company's ability to scale revenue depends on the proceeds from this offering, it has adequate liquidity to operate for the next 12 months due to its arrangement with JPaulJones.

iii. The undersigned confirms that it is not relying and will not rely on any communication (written or oral) of the Company, MicroVenture Marketplace Inc., or any of their respective affiliates, as investment advice or as a recommendation to purchase the Securities. It is understood that information and explanations related to the terms and conditions of the Securities provided in the Form C/A or otherwise by the Company, MicroVenture Marketplace Inc. or any of their respective affiliates shall not be considered investment advice or a recommendation to purchase the Securities, and that neither the Company, MicroVenture Marketplace Inc. nor any of their respective affiliates is acting or has acted as an advisor to the undersigned in deciding to invest in the Securities. How are you guys doing today?

Terry: We're great.

Brett: Great. Well, thanks for joining us. Real quick, just to give everyone what's the format going to be. We're going to start things off, hopefully you can see the screen share up there. The Nexersys team's going to run through the presentation. Should be about 10 or 15 minutes. During that presentation, we encourage you to send any questions. If you go over to the Questions tab on the GoToWebinar control panel, you should see the tab titled Questions and you can submit them right there. Feel free to do so while the presentation is ongoing. Those questions will just go to me, so they won't interrupt the team. Then when we get done with the presentation, we will get those questions answered and field any others that anyone has. So, with that, I'll let you guys take it away and introduce everyone to Nexersys.

Terry: All right. Hey, thanks so much and to all of the attendees, thank you for taking the time. My name is Terry Jones. I am the CEO and founder of XFit, Inc. which owns all of the Nexersys trademarks, patents, and business. XFit is a Texas corporation. I'm joined here by Cary Grossman, our president and CFO, and Emily Skeen, our director of marketing. So, we appreciate everyone's time today.

We'll move through this presentation. Nexersys is an interactive fitness and gaming platform. It's based in the boxing modality and it features not just fitness for the body but also the mind, which boxing and MMA sports are ideal for. It's a very competitive platform not only for the fitness, but also from a gaming perspective. On the platform today, you can get a great workout with both video and dynamic animated training sessions, but you can also do head-to-head competition of up to 15 players on the platform in either the sparring or the mitts rounds. Nexersys is a very fun and engaging workout because again, it is based in striking and boxing and MMA, so unlike some of the other interactive fitness products that are either on spinner or rowing or other types of platforms that are somewhat... I hate to say boring, but not quite as engaging when you're working on an interactive striking workout. You have to engage your brain. It is very mind-oriented as well as fitness-oriented. It is high intensity interval training, so it's very effective, but it's also a lot of fun and that's what we're so excited about on the core foundation of the platform.

Nexersys is owned, as I mentioned, by XFit, Inc. It is an Austin, Texas based corporation. We've been in Austin for about... the product line has been around for about eight and a half, nine years. We have two primary products. We have the Nexersys product line, which is our hero products, and that's where you see the multiple pads on a very stable steel frame. It includes several different circuit boards as well as a tablet that's connected to the internet which is where all of our software resides. We've sold, to date, a little over 47 hundred units of the Nexersys product. The other product line we have is called the cross body trainer. That's a double end bag. On the double end bag, we have a circuit board sensor that connects to an app that's in both the Google and IOS app stores so that users can download that app free and workout on the cross body trainer with an interactive training session.

Our content... And the key to Nexersys and XFit is our content. Although we build physical platforms, our key feature is interactive fitness and gaming. We deliver cardio and core and body weight activities. We use striking as our foundation and so everything's in the apps for each of the product lines and we update those apps on a regular basis by adding new features and new content. In our roadmap for content, we'll talk about a little bit later.

We're really happy. We've been around for a number of years, but we're excited with the interactive fitness market due to the heavy lifting that's being done by some ten-ton gorillas like Peloton, who's recently gone public and has had an extremely high market valuation growth over the past few years. There's a company called Mirror, there's Echelon, Hydro... There's probably six or seven major interactive companies out there that have actually helped build awareness but also created a very, very strong consumer demand for interactive fitness products. Connectivity basically has been in all other areas of our life, and now from a consumer and even starting to be commercial fitness standpoint, interactive is absolutely leading the way. So clearly consumers are speaking with a very strong voice that they want and demand interactive fitness and we're happy to be in that market.

XFit is debt free, so we have got existing sales, and we operate, as the deck said, in cooperation with another company that we own and run called JPaulJones. Our platforms are developed, although we're adding to our code and creating new content. We've been in production, and we've got a very strong supply chain for our products and we've been in market for a number of years, both selling and servicing our products. Because of the ability to be debt free, we're actually poised for growth and as you'll see later in the presentation, the majority of the funds that we're looking to raise here will be used for growth, both for media and building the inventory for that growth.

The final thing I would say is we are a direct marketing model company. Although we have internally a lot of experience with big box retail, the foundation for this company is direct to consumer, and we do sell commercial products to best in class commercial facilities including high-end residential, hospitality, government, military, and other commercial dealers in the U.S. and around the world through our dealer network. The bulk of our growth and our game plan is direct to consumer, to the consumer market. It's through social and digital marketing, and we'll supplement that with some TV marketing later in the life, but right now that is our growth plan, and quite frankly, we've executed to that growth plan pretty effectively. In August, we actually sold out of all our consumer inventory. We're about to be back in stock, so we're excited about that. We're working with a commercial media company out of Chicago that's been very effective and our media efficiency ratios, or our ROI, is exceeding our expectations. We're happy that we've found what we think is a functional D2C model that'll help us grow and build the business.

Our hero product is our N3 Elite under the Nexersys line. As you can see here, this is the next generation. Our first consumer model was called the Nexersys Home. It had leg pads. What we found out over the years is that most of our consumer customers prefer not to kick, so we were able to save some costs and also simplify the user experience and the N3 Elite is our hero product. It's a little over $2200, which is in the exact same price range as Peloton and Hydro and a few other products. That is what has been the focus of our consumer facing direct campaign. That is the product we sold out of in August but will be in stock in about eight or nine days. We have been taking reservations, and kind of to my surprise, people have actually paid us to get on our reservation list on a very limited basis over the last month. So, we're pretty excited to get that product back in market.

The other Nexersys models we have in market are the N3C, which is our commercial product. It does include kick pads. That is the number one product that we sell into commercial settings, both in the U.S. and in about eight or ten foreign countries around the world through our dealer network. Then we have the N3P, which is a traditional boxing platform. That's a three pad model. We are... we started a direct to consumer media campaign on those two products three weeks ago. The campaign so far has performed above expectations in terms of ROI. We expect to continue that campaign as we roll back into paid media for the N3 Elite. These products are all built in a best in class factory in China, same factory we've been with for eight years. The factory is Impulse.

That is the number one commercial fitness brand in China. It is a publicly traded Chinese company, traded on the Shenzhen Exchange, and a very stable company.

We do have a new entry to our Nexersys line that will be arriving in December. It's called the N3 Youth. We have built samples of this. We've tested it with a few people, including a multi-belt world champion boxer whose four and eight year old kids are using the product today. The early response from kids has been overwhelming that have trained on the product and played with the product and we're really excited to add this to the Nexersys line. That product will have a soft launch in December and we expect to start rolling it out Q1 for the youth market.

The second product line that we have is a cross body trainer. This is a double end bag. It has... What's unique about it is a few things. First of all, it's got a sensor that is attached to the top of the bag. That sensor connects via Bluetooth in it to the user's tablet or phone, which we have a holder residing on that bow. Two nice features: not only is it interactive with our content, but the bag will actually move up and down vertically which is unique for double end bags. It also has a tension strap so beginners so can reduce the speed of the movement of the bag as they get used to it. This is the Cross Body Trainer Home. It's a $245 product. It's sold primarily on our Amazon brand store right now, but we expect later in 2020, or 2021, to actually add this to our paid media mix. It's a great entry product.

We also have a commercial version of this that we sell into professional boxing and MMA gyms, and some consumers decide to upgrade to the commercial product also, but this is a great gateway product for us. Again, the app's free in the App Store. If you want to see what it's like, you can go to either the iOS or Google Play stores, download the app, and actually play on your phone. You can touch the screen and it'll simulate what it's like to hit the bag. This is a great gateway product into interactive striking force.

The key to this company and our growth and quite frankly our future valuation is our content. It's user experience. Currently, we do have all of our content is in the cloud. We have video rounds, pre-recorded video rounds. We also have dynamic animated rounds that are actually created as you play. There is intelligence on board today that adjusts the workout based upon your performance level. It'll speed up or slow down with you, much like a human. We do have... our technology platform, our underlying OS is Android. When we started eight years ago it was on Linux, but the good news is technology has continued to improve and simplify, and we migrated over on to the Android platform almost three years ago. When we did that, we started expanding our use of Unity as an animation engine, and that's really what we code in. The great thing for us, there are even, all the way down to kids in junior high and high school have the ability and knowledge of how to program in Unity, which is different than when we were on Linux and the programmers were both rare and very expensive. There's a very vibrant Unity coding platform out there.

We actually partnered with Microsoft late last year and then migrated on at their request to their PlayFab platform in March of this year. It's an extremely stable and competent platform that will let us not only have a view into user experience but communicate with and create activities, competitions, and social sharing with the users on the Nexersys platform. That is Microsoft's a key strategic partner to us going forward. They provide service and support to us a partner, including access to their engineering teams out of the Azure team, everything from vision AI to machine learnings. Some of their Kinect elements, we're currently about to push out later this year. Motion detection through our existing camera and software, and Microsoft has been absolutely key to us on that.

One of the other big things we'll push out next year, we will be pushing out live video training. Our platform's already enabled to accept those live video feeds. We're also developing adventure play, which is pretty simple, but basically what it means that kids or adults will be able to interact with avatars and actions on screen that are not just boxing or MMA. Kids will be able to fight dragons or ninjas or have other gaming type experiences. This adventure play will use the same rigs and basic environs on our platform as our fitness, so really it's just skinning elements. It's fairly low-hanging fruit to increase the user experience for all our users out there, but we believe this technology stack is absolutely critical to enable us on a low-cost basis to improve our user experience and expand it beyond just straight interactive fitness. We think that's a very big key to our future, unlike some of the other interactive fitness platforms. We don't see them in the animation side and we don't see them on the competition side of the ledger, which we think is key to growth not only of our products but also our subscription platform of the future.

Market opportunity, we'll talk about briefly here. We mentioned it. Interactive fitness is the growth piece of the fitness market. It's way up. Traditional fitness is up a little bit, but interactive fitness is absolutely leading the way with a very strong 31% annual growth rate. Personalize training through the interactive fitness products is really been validated, I'd say first and foremost by Peloton but also Mirror and Hydro and Echelon and others. The market has spoken very strongly, very clearly. Interactive fitness is what they want, and we're a unique product in that space in that we are very interactive for the boxing modality, which is not only engaging for fitness physical, but also mental fitness as well as gaming. It's a great space. It's a great time to be in this space, especially with a strong, patented platform like we have.

Our sales model is very much driven by consumer sales. As I mentioned earlier, we are a direct company. That is, our engine and our focus, we go out via right now digital platforms. Facebook and Instagram primarily, but also with SEO and SEM and Google Search. That is how we inform and educate and build awareness for our products and create demand. We did have... we started last May with a new digital campaign and test and it was culminated in August as we made adjustments through the summer which is our slowest consumer market. In August, we actually exceeded an ROI of 4.0. That means for every dollar we spent, we had more than $4 in revenue. We sold out of our consumer product. We've expedited new production coming back in. Basically, we sold all of our Q3 inventory in one month, so that's a problem but a good problem to have. Our new inventory starts landing and we've got accelerated production up right now, but we'll be back in stock around the 23rd or 24th of this month. We have a backlog of orders, but we will start back in market with our paid media for that N3 campaign as soon as the first containers start to land.

We expect to continue to scale the N3 campaign into 2020 and beyond. As I mentioned, we took the opportunity when we were out of stock on N3 E to actually begin testing on paid media for the N3 C and P and we focused on higher net worth individuals through some very formulaic demographic targeting. We are successful so far. The MER on that campaign is exceeding expectations. That product is a very high margin product and so we're excited to have two campaigns in market later this month on the E and the C, and then we will add a specifically targeted campaign for the N3 Youth Q1, to go after that market, all in the direct to consumer side. We go out, we put people into our funnel through our digital advertising, then through retargeting as well as email cadence and other factors and features, we continue to talk to customers and we convert them.

We do have consumer finance on the website. Our finance company is Affirm. They are best in class consumer finance company. That is who Peloton uses, and Mirror and Echelon and a few others. We have a best in class consumer finance opportunity, or option, on our website, and we have seen a pretty significant portion of our sales take up that consumer finance option, to date more than 50%. So, we're happy to have that on board.

Commercial sales. We've been in the commercial market for about seven plus years. Our primary vertical right now, our best vertical has been high-end multi-family. The bulk of our business, we've had no marketing spend really over the last two and a half to three years, until this summer. The bulk of our business has been repeat purchases by best in class and top multi-family operators as well as government. We're expanding that right now, but we expect that commercial sales will continue to grow.

We spend very little money on commercial advertising and our business model really plans to utilize the lift from the direct to consumer advertising that builds awareness and demand for the platforms to actually drive the commercial sales. It's a very good channel for us, and unlike some of the other interactive fitness products that have had to recently pull out of the commercial space because their products do not stand up in that space, our commercial products have been in market for a number of years and most of our business, as I mentioned, is repeat so we obviously have a very strong commitment to service for those products. Even though we build computers that people beat on, they are very stable. They have been stable, and they continue to perform well in the market.

Our management and organization, for the size, for the kind of depth and breadth of a company that we are, we're very efficient. We do have a strong team, but the good news is we've got a strategic relationship with JPaulJones, which I am the founder and CEO of, which does develop, manufacture and distribute unique consumer products. We have actually, in-house, we have our sales and marketing staff here. We have in-house editors. We have graphics artists. We have web designers. We have an operations team so we build and ship products in Asia and ship them around the world every week. We do have an in-house controller, and Cary is our president and our CFO, and he is a CPA with strong financial experience.

We do have a dedicated manufacturing staff in China, and we have three of them there. Two have been with me for over six years, and so we touch and personally inspect every product that comes out of our factories before they ship whether it's shipping to the U.S. or foreign territories. Good news on the manufacturing side, I mentioned Impulse is a top, best in class manufacturing facility in China, and so we have a very strong supply chain there. Most of our... We do have in-house engineers that are creating our content, but we also work with some contractors, and we work in strong support from Microsoft. We're happy to have that support as we continue to develop out our content, both live training as well as the adventure play and enhanced animation that we mentioned.

Very happy to have very strong patents and trademarks, both in the U.S. Our IP strategy is to patent our primary market, which is the U.S., and then also protect the manufacturing market, which is China. So, our patents are filed in the U.S. We have multiple utility patents. Under those utility patents, we file under the Patent Convention Treaty and we have multiple patents issued also in China. Our patents are recognized by the Chinese government. So, our patents are valid in the U.S. and China and really serve as a foundation not only to protect our product line but hopefully we think will add value as we grow and the market continues to evolve because very few...

I will tell you we've never paid one penny for product placement in any shows. We have given product in kind, and we continue to do that from time to time. People like Disney actually bought the product from us, but you can see we've been featured in many shows around the world and the reason is our product and our platform is iconic. It's unique. Some refer to it as the Ferrari of fitness because it is so visually cool but also functionally cool, so we're really pleased that so many people have found our product and our content and platform to be unique so as to have shared it in some of these really kind of cool outlets.

Financial snapshot real quick. I've think you've seen probably this, but we've sold over 4 thousand each of the Nexersys and Cross Body Trainer units. Our gross margins are a little over 65%, actually, which exceeds some of the competitors in the interactive space significantly. We do have... our anticipated media spend cost of sales is going to be probably in the 25% to 30% range. That's where we're seeing it right. So, we do believe have a clear path to profitability unlike some of the other entrants into this space. It is not our plan to lose money for a lot of years while we build brand. It is our plan to make money, and we've certainly had our profitable months and quarters and we are driving towards positive EBIDA in 2020 and we feel that given our margins and our historical cost to sales that we will hit that, but I can tell you it is a very large goal of ours to get to the EBIDA positive place. This is not just a "spend until you build brand" company. This is very much about revenue and margins.

So, the great news for us, as I mentioned, because of the revenue share relationship we have with JPaulJones right now, the majority of this raise will be able to be used just for growth for advertising and inventory support. We think that the direct to consumer model will certainly support that.

As I noted here, the use of proceeds... we have hit our minimum and we're very proud of that. Some of that is from friends and family of ours, and we certainly support it. You can see the use of proceeds that are allocated based upon where we end up at the end of the raise, and we're certainly hoping to hit the maximum offering, but we're pleased that we've achieved the minimum already to date.

That's kind of it. I won't go into risk disclosures. I think that's clear, and that's who we are as Nexersys.

Brett: Thanks Terry. I really appreciate that. That was very in-depth. So, we already have some questions rolling in, but we did also have some people join late, so I want to remind everyone that if you do have a question, you can feel free to submit that through the Questions tab on your GoToWebinar control panel. I wanted to kick things off first... you talked a little bit about this past August and while it's typically a slow time of year for you, you had an outperforming month in terms of top line. Can you elaborate a little bit there on what you attribute that to? I know you talked a little bit about the new marketing campaigns. Is some of it the buzz around just interactive fitness in general or do you think it was something that you guys did in specific that you foresee to be repeatable?

Terry: Absolutely it's what we did. We started our test, our media company is called Darwin, they're out of Chicago. We started our test in May. We stopped the test two different times as we adjusted. When we started our testing, we had very strong cost-per-click, click through rate, and add to cart numbers way beyond expectations, but our conversions were a little slow starting out so we stopped. We actually send our customers to unique landing pages. We don't send them to the general website. We made adjustments in the information flow and what we found was consumers, rather than asking for the sale early on, we needed to educate them and inform them of the benefits as well as the features of the product.

As we modified those unique landing pages a couple of times, first in June and then in July, we saw material changes and improvements in conversion rates. Our add-to-cart cost actually went up, but our initiated purchases and conversion went way, way up. We were adding fewer to cart but once they added to cart, their opportunity or their intent to purchase was much higher. We believe it's absolutely scalable. July and August are the slowest direct to consumer fitness months of the year, primarily because people are outside either doing activities or on vacation and yes, the learnings that we go from that we actually applied to our N3 C and P campaign and they're already performing also very well. Yes, there's a very strong, vibrant interactive fitness market but our success was related to specific messaging that we modified and changed during our test.

Brett: Thanks. So next question we have here is around the subscription based content. You mentioned that there's a gaming aspect to this as well. This question specific is asking do you foresee selling the subscriptions without the physical products or will always be tied to that, and then just in general, how do you look at the subscription, the content side, the subscription side of the revenue model playing into the overall long term success of the company?

Terry: Today we do not have any revenue based on subscriptions that are off-platform. We do have conversations with some of our strategics, including Microsoft, on how we might be able to implement that in future months or years. We don't forecast any off-platform revenue today. We will continue to offer a basic content program at no cost to all of our users. It's very consistent with what's on the machine today. The subscription revenue, what we call enhanced content, will start early next year. It'll include live video training, both with professional trainers as well as celebrities. It will also include in-game, or in-app gaming and things like competitions.

We are and looking at some different options and opportunities to bring more content that is subscription-validated to the gaming community. We expect to have a couple of different tiers of paid subscription starting next year. Certainly, that subscription market... We'll also have competition. Even things where you could actually win awards and rewards whether it's Friday Night Fights, online competitions, both peer to peer as well as group play. Our platform, just like many of the games... our platform is quite frankly a game except rather than using your fingers and your thumbs, you're using your fists and elbows and knees. We think there's a very vibrant market for that opportunity out there, especially as we continue to expand our relationships with some strategic players in the space.

Brett: Got it. And that's kind of a good segue into a handful of questions that we got here on competition. Maybe one question in particular mentions FightCamp. I'm sure you're probably with them, but maybe you can just elaborate a little bit more. In addition to the gaming piece of the subscription content that I think is very much different than what else is out there, what are the other ways that you plan on competing with the other interactive fitness products that are on the market?

Terry: I would say the way... and FightCamp is a very interesting product. It is a heavy bag. We're happy and anyone and everyone's that in the interactive market, we support and we think it's a very huge and robust market. What's different for us is we actually have... Part of our patent is we actually put the tablet in front of your face so from a gaming perspective, people are used to looking directly at the content and quite frankly when you strike something, you need to be looking at the area that you're striking. It's much like fighting. You look in the eyes of your opponent and then you're striking. So, the setup, the configuration which is part of our core patents, is very unique for us and it encourages and makes it more realistic and fun for the user.

The big thing for us is actually a combination of two things. A, the modality of either boxing or MMA. That sport for fitness is getting more popular every day as you see the boutique boxing gyms come in, as you see the rise of combat sports both for fans, but also for fitness. We think the modality of striking and fighting is much more strongly based in competition than, say, rowing or cycling or even running, quite frankly. It's more fun, it's more engaging and on our platform, especially with Microsoft on PlayFab and using Unity, we can create an online competition. Again, whether it's peer to peer, me fighting against you, me in Austin, you in China, or if it's a group competition, a round robin tournament. Our users will be able to create their own leagues, but also we expect to have some strategics, one in particular we're talking with that would create competition leagues that would encourage people to actually come in and compete and share that competition environment.

Brett: Got it. Thanks. We've got a couple more questions here. I want to remind folks if you do have any other questions for Terry, please submit them now before we get to a close on the webinar. So, one of them is about inventory. I actually have seen the products in person. I visited your office and you mentioned it's the Ferrari of interactive fitness. I have to say it is a very, very well-made product and you have some good margins as well, not to mention the fact that you guys are debt free. How do you manage inventory and what's the strategy around that? Obviously funding is a big piece of this, but what are the typical turns? What sort of order sizes do you need... are you required to purchase from your manufacturer? Can you just share a little bit more on the inventory management?

Terry: Sure. We can order as low as 20 foot containers, which is about thirty units for us, at a time. We're ordering 40 high right now, so we have stable production in place. The factory is in Qingdao. The factory is Impulse. They're easy to research. They're publicly traded. They're very large. In fact, I'll be with them in ten days in Qingdao. They're just breaking ground on a new 140 acre complete R&D and production facility, a huge campus there in Qingdao. We have very favorable terms with them. We have about a 35 day lead time on our equipment. We build our own circuit boards, so we have sensors in the pads and an aggregator circuit board in the spine that we build ourselves and provide to them. They build the equipment and then we acquire our tablets... actually, they acquire our tablets from the factory, we set up.

So, we QC all of the components that go in there and then we QC the product before it ships. We're on about a 30 to 40 day lead time for production and then it's taking anywhere from two weeks to about 22 days on the water to get it into the U.S. It's very easy to scale. They are huge, and we do not foresee any supply chain problems. We have been building this product line at this factory for over seven years, and we've never had a material failure, either in delivery or quality.

Brett: Great. And there was a specific, just quick question, on the N3 Pro and N3 Commercial. How long have those been on the market?

Terry: The Commercial has been on the market... The prior iteration on our 2.0 platform was introduced about seven years ago. The N3 Commercial, the current platform, was introduced two and a half years ago, almost three years ago. The Pro was introduced about a year and a half ago. We started shipping it almost a year ago.

Brett: Okay. Great. The last couple of questions that we had here I'll just kind of sum it into one was about the Shark Tank experience. It looks like a couple of people were familiar or saw you appear on Shark Tank at the time, and was curious what has happened since then. What was that experience like? Maybe just describing more about Shark Tank, what's happened since then, some background there.

Terry: Great question. Shark Tank was a great experience for us, although the Sharks kind of beat me up personally a little bit over our balance sheet, it was a fair beat-up. Our balance sheet at the time, we were an early stage company, unfortunately we did not find a very receptive equity market, so we raised the bulk of our money in debt, not by choice, by just virtue of that's what offered to us. At the time we went on Shark Tank, quite frankly, the Sharks were very responsive to the product. Mark Cuban beat the hell out of it and enjoyed it. They said, "Hey, you have too much debt. You're going to lose your company." The good news is we didn't lose it, but the truth is we had too much debt for an early stage company. We were able to acquire all the assets. There was no bankruptcy, but we did buy out all the investors about two years ago, and so that's one of the reasons that I have focused on trying to remain debt free and to actually build to profitability and will continue to focus on.

In terms of building awareness, still, when the Shark Tank episodes hit, our Google analytics, our web visits go through the roof. It was fun. It was interesting. Marlen Esparza joined us at no cost. There was another kind of benefit there. She's a wonderful young lady who is a medalist in the London Olympics. She's fighting professionally now, has a deal with Cover Girl and Nike. It was a great experience for us, great exposure, and quite frankly, the Sharks were right. We had too much debt. Luckily today, we don't.

The interactive fitness market was a little more of a peculiar interesting opportunity. I call it a little more bleeding edge today. It has absolutely validated and the market's come to us and the debt's gone away, so we feel like we're really poised for a great opportunity, especially with the addition of Microsoft as a partner.

Brett: Thanks. Yeah, I think that's really helpful to share that background, context and all the learnings that you guys got from it and the good thing is when those episodes, as you mentioned, do rerun then it's sort of a gift that keeps on giving from that respect.

Well, that's going to be it for us. That's all the questions that we had today. I do want to remind everyone who was live on here, if you do have any other questions or you want to find any more information other than what we covered, I would encourage you to go to microventures.com and find the Nexersys campaign page. I believe microventures.com/crowdfunding/nexersys and you can find the pitch deck that Terry went through as well as a lot of other information that we have there. For anybody who missed this live taping and is listening to the recording and has questions, there is a discussion forum on that page as well, where you can ask questions through the XFit/Nexersys team.

Then of course, we would encourage you, if you're interested, to invest. On that same page, there's an orange Invest button. Click there and it'll walk you through the process if you want to be a part of this. There's also some perks for various levels of investment and that will be on the page as well that you can take a look at.

Yeah, that's going to be it for us. Terry, if there's anything, any closing thoughts or any final points, other places you might want to point people towards, feel free to share.

Terry: No, just final note. The other part about Shark Tank... where we were when we went on Shark Tank, we needed capital. We did not have any capital for advertising. We were sustaining ourselves on public coverage. The great news is in addition to the interactive fitness market coming to us, digital advertising and the direct to consumer market has actually gotten more efficient whereas a few years ago we had call centers and people taking phone calls. Now we do our sales are actually online. It's extremely efficient. So, the marketing model has gotten efficient. The software platform and our technology stack has greatly improved, and our balance sheet is extremely clean and we have a great growth market.

So, we're excited about the opportunity for Nexersys and the entire interactive fitness market, both in the U.S. and internationally. And we appreciate everyone's time today. Thank you for considering us.

Cary: Thank you everyone.

Brett: Thanks, guys. I appreciate it.
