RISK FACTORS

Risks Related to the Company's Business and Industry

We have a limited operating history upon which you can evaluate our performance, and accordingly, our prospects must be considered in light of the risks that any new company encounters.

The Company was incorporated on December 6, 2019 and therefore has very little operating history. The Company has generated very minimal revenues from subscription and one-time fee customers and none from other sources, currently has very few revenue generating customers, and is not profitable. The Company's initial base technology platform has been developed and is operational, however, the Company intends to continue developing additional features, enhancements and service improvements to the platform, as well as intending to develop additional products and services, in order to attract and retain customers by providing additional and improved services, products and features. There is no assurance that the Company will complete the development of any additional services, features, enhancements or improvements, or any additional products or product lines, or if so, whether same will be completed timely, or in accordance with budget, or that any of the foregoing if completed will operate as desired or obtain any degree of customer acceptance. Accordingly, potential investors have very little actual operating performance and very limited information upon which to evaluate the Company's business and potential for future success. Prospective investors must consider the risks and uncertainties frequently encountered by companies in the start-up stage and early stages of development, particularly those without any significant revenues or an established customer base, and those in new and rapidly changing markets.

In order to address the risks and uncertainties associated with startup, pre-revenue and early stage companies, the Company must, among other things, successfully continue to develop its software and services, products and technology, and develop or acquire operating systems and technical capacity, attract, hire, retain and motivate qualified personnel, including sales and marketing personnel, build an organizational infrastructure, establish a market for its services and products, establish and grow a customer base, develop and maintain key relationships upon acceptable terms and conditions, including, without limitation, product and service distribution channels and partners, maintain and continue to enhance its technology, systems and processes, and respond rapidly to competition. If the Company is not successful in addressing these risks and uncertainties, its business, results of operations and financial condition may be materially and adversely affected.

The Company cannot predict with certainty if or when it will generate sufficient earnings to become profitable. Accordingly, the Company cannot assure potential investors when, or whether, the Company will become, or remain, profitable. The Company's inability to become profitable will have a material adverse effect on its business, operations and financial condition. If profitability is attained, revenues and results of operations could fluctuate significantly in the future due to a variety of factors, many of which are outside of the Company's control. A significant portion of the Company's operating expenses are related to personnel costs, sales and marketing activities, relationship development and general overhead, which cannot be adjusted quickly. Therefore, many of these operating expenses could be considered as relatively fixed in the short term. If the Company fails to generate revenues at a rate commensurate with anticipated operating expenses, or if operating expenses exceed expectations without corresponding increases in revenues, the Company's results from operations and financial condition will be materially and adversely affected. Further, even if the Company begins to generate sufficient revenues to become profitable, the Company may nonetheless decide to re-invest in product development, technology, sales and marketing activities, expansion into new markets, line of business expansion, or other activities.

We have a history of losses. If we do not become profitable or maintain profitability in the future, we may not be able to continue to operate.

We have not been profitable in the past. We have not generated any significant revenues to date. Before we are able to generate any material level of revenues, we will incur significant additional losses. We expect to substantially increase our research and development and sales and marketing and general and administrative expenses. As a result, we will need to generate significant revenues to achieve and maintain profitability in the future. We cannot assure you that we will achieve profitable operations or maintain them if achieved. Failure to achieve or maintain profitability will materially and adversely affect our business.

In order for the Company to compete and grow, it must attract, recruit, retain and develop the necessary personnel who have the needed experience.

Recruiting and retaining highly qualified personnel is critical to our success. These demands may require us to hire additional personnel and will require our existing management personnel to develop additional expertise. We face intense competition for personnel. The failure to attract and retain personnel or to develop such expertise could delay or halt the development and commercialization of our product candidates. If we experience difficulties in hiring and retaining personnel in key positions, we could suffer from delays in product development, loss of customers and sales and diversion of management resources, which could adversely affect operating results. Our consultants and advisors may be employed by third parties and may have commitments under consulting or advisory contracts with third parties that may limit their availability to us.

The development and commercialization of our products is highly competitive.

We face competition with respect to any products that we may seek to develop or commercialize in the future. Our competitors include both small and major companies operating worldwide. Many of our competitors have significantly greater financial, technical and human resources than we have and superior expertise in research and development and marketing approved products and thus may be better equipped than us to develop and commercialize products. These competitors also compete with us in recruiting and retaining qualified personnel and acquiring technologies. Smaller or early stage companies may also prove to be significant competitors, particularly through collaborative arrangements with large and established companies. Accordingly, our competitors may commercialize products more rapidly or effectively than we are able to, which would adversely affect our competitive position, the likelihood that our products will achieve initial market acceptance and our ability to generate meaningful additional revenues from our products.

Risks of competition

There are direct and indirect competitors that have resources (including, without limitation, capital and established infrastructure) which are substantially greater than those of the Company. It is also highly plausible that significant competition will emerge from new companies, as well as existing companies that may expand the scope of their services and products in order to compete with the Company. A substantial number of these companies have, or will have, significantly greater resources than the Company in terms of capital, personnel, existing business relationships and brand identity. There can be no assurances that the Company's current or potential competitors will not develop products and services comparable or superior to those to be developed by the Company or adapt more quickly than the Company to new technologies, evolving industry trends or changing customer demands and preferences. The Company expects that highly aggressive competitive forces will exist for the foreseeable future and that competition will be formidable. If the Company is unable to compete successfully against its competitors, its business, financial condition and operating results will be materially and adversely affected.

Industry consolidation may result in increased competition, which could result in a loss of customers or a reduction in revenue.

Some of our competitors have made or may make acquisitions or may enter into partnerships or other strategic relationships to offer more comprehensive services than they individually had offered or achieve greater economies of scale. In addition, new entrants not currently considered to be competitors may enter our market through acquisitions, partnerships or strategic relationships. We expect these trends to continue as companies attempt to strengthen or maintain their market positions. The potential entrants may have competitive advantages over us, such as greater name recognition, longer operating histories, more varied services and larger marketing budgets, as well as greater financial, technical and other resources. The companies resulting from combinations or that expand or vertically integrate their business to include the market that we address may create more compelling service offerings and may offer greater pricing flexibility than we can or may engage in business practices that make it more difficult for us to compete effectively, including on the basis of price, sales and marketing programs, technology or service functionality. These pressures could result in a substantial loss of our customers or a reduction in our revenue.

The Company's success depends on the experience and skill of the board of directors, its executive officers and key employees.

In particular, the Company is dependent on Emily Cisek who is the Founder and Chief Executive Officer of the Company. The Company has or intends to enter into employment agreements with Emily Cisek although there can be no assurance that it will do so or that she will continue to be employed by the Company for a particular period of time. The loss of Emily Cisek or other key employees could harm the Company's business, financial condition, cash flow and results of operations.

Although dependent on certain key personnel, the Company does not have any key man life insurance policies on any such people.

The Company is dependent on Emily Cisek in order to conduct its operations and execute its business plan, however, the Company has not purchased any insurance policies with respect to this individual in the event of death or disability. Therefore, if Emily Cisek dies or becomes disabled, the Company will not receive any compensation to assist with such person's absence. The loss of such person could negatively affect the Company and its operations.

We are subject to income taxes as well as non-income based taxes, such as payroll, sales, use, value-added, net worth, property and goods and services taxes, in the U.S.

Significant judgment is required in determining our provision for income taxes and other tax liabilities. In the ordinary course of our business, there are many transactions and calculations where the ultimate tax determination is uncertain. Although we believe that our tax estimates are reasonable: (i) there is no assurance that the final determination of tax audits or tax disputes will not be different from what is reflected in our income tax provisions, expense amounts for non-income based taxes and accruals and (ii) any material differences could have an adverse effect on our financial position and results of operations in the period or periods for which determination is made.

We are not subject to Sarbanes-Oxley regulations and lack the financial controls and safeguards required of public companies.

We do not have the internal infrastructure necessary, and are not required, to complete an attestation about our financial controls that would be required under Section 404 of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002. There can be no assurance that there are no significant deficiencies or material weaknesses in the quality of our financial controls. We expect to incur additional expenses and diversion of management's time if and when it becomes necessary to perform the system and process evaluation, testing and remediation required in order to comply with the management certification and auditor attestation requirements.

We have not prepared any audited financial statements.

Therefore, you have no audited financial information regarding the Company's capitalization or assets or liabilities on which to make your investment decision. If you feel the information provided is insufficient, you should not invest in the Company.

We face risks relating to public health conditions such as the COVID-19 pandemic, which could adversely affect the Company's customers, business, and results of operations.

Our business and prospects could be materially adversely affected by the COVID-19 pandemic or recurrences of that or any other such disease in the future. Material adverse effects from COVID-19 and similar occurrences could result in numerous known and currently unknown ways including from quarantines and lockdowns which impair the Company's business including a limited ability to find employees. The effects of a pandemic can place travel restrictions on key personnel which could have a material impact on the business. In addition, a significant outbreak of contagious diseases in the human population could result in a widespread health crisis that could adversely affect the economies and financial markets of many countries, resulting in an economic downturn that could reduce the demand for the Company's products and impair the Company's business prospects including as a result of being unable to raise additional capital on acceptable terms to us, if at all.

The amount of capital the Company is attempting to raise in this Offering is not enough to sustain the Company's current business plan.

In order to achieve the Company's near and long-term goals, the Company will need to procure funds in addition to the amount raised in the Offering. There is no guarantee the Company will be able to raise such funds on acceptable terms or at all. If we are not able to raise sufficient capital in the future, we will not be able to execute our business plan, our continued operations will be in jeopardy and we may be forced to cease operations and sell or otherwise transfer all or substantially all of our remaining assets, which could cause an Investor to lose all or a portion of his or her investment. Even if we are able to raise additional capital in the future, there is no assurance that such amount will be sufficient or will be on favorable terms.

Through our operations, we collect and store certain personal information that our customers provide to purchase products or services, enroll in promotional programs, register on our web site, or otherwise communicate and interact with us.

We may share information about such persons with vendors that assist with certain aspects of our business. Security could be compromised, and confidential customer or business information misappropriated. Loss of customer or business information could disrupt our operations, damage our reputation, and expose us to claims from customers, financial institutions, payment card associations and other persons, any of which could have an adverse effect on our business, financial condition and results of operations. In addition, compliance with tougher privacy and information security laws and standards may result in significant expense due to increased investment in technology and the development of new operational processes.

The use of individually identifiable data by our business, our business associates and third parties is regulated at the state, federal and international levels.

Costs associated with information security – such as investment in technology, the costs of compliance with consumer protection laws and costs resulting from consumer fraud – could cause our business and results of operations to suffer materially. Additionally, the success of our online operations depends upon the secure transmission of confidential information over public networks, including the use of cashless payments. The intentional or negligent actions of employees, business associates or third parties may undermine our security measures. As a result, unauthorized parties may obtain access to our data systems and misappropriate confidential data. There can be no assurance that advances in computer capabilities, new discoveries in the field of cryptography or other developments will prevent the compromise of our customer transaction processing capabilities and personal data. If any such compromise of our security or the security of information residing with our business associates or third parties were to occur, it could have a material adverse effect on our reputation, operating results and financial condition. Any compromise of our data security may materially increase the costs we incur to protect against such breaches and could subject us to additional legal risk.

The collection, processing, storage, use and disclosure of personal data could give rise to liabilities as a result of governmental regulation, conflicting legal requirements or differing views of personal privacy rights.

We receive, collect, process, transmit, store and use a large volume of personally identifiable information and other sensitive data from customers and potential customers. There are federal, state and foreign laws regarding privacy, recording telephone calls and the storing, sharing, use, disclosure and protection of personally identifiable information and sensitive data. Specifically, personally identifiable information is increasingly subject to legislation and regulations to protect the privacy of personal information that is collected, processed and transmitted. Any violations of these laws and regulations may require us to change our business practices or operational structure, address legal claims and sustain monetary penalties and/or other harms to our business.

The regulatory framework for privacy issues in the United States and internationally is constantly evolving and is likely to remain uncertain for the foreseeable future. The interpretation and application of such laws is often uncertain, and such laws may be interpreted and applied in a manner inconsistent with our current policies and practices or require changes to the features of our platform. If either we or our third party service providers are unable to address any privacy concerns, even if unfounded, or to comply with applicable laws and regulations, it could result in additional costs and liability, damage our reputation and harm our business.

Security breaches and other disruptions could compromise our information and expose us to liability, which would cause our business and reputation to suffer.

We collect and store sensitive data, including intellectual property, our proprietary business information and that of our customers, and personally identifiable information of our customers and employees, in our data centers and on our networks. The secure processing, maintenance and transmission of this information is critical to our operations. Despite our security measures, our information technology and infrastructure may be vulnerable to attacks by hackers or breached due to employee error, malfeasance or other disruptions. Any such breach could compromise our networks and the information stored there could be accessed, publicly disclosed, lost or stolen. Any such access, disclosure or other loss of information could result in legal claims or proceedings, liability under laws that protect the privacy of personal information, and regulatory penalties, disrupt our operations and the services we provide to customers, and cause a loss of confidence in our products and services, which could adversely affect our business/operating margins, revenues and competitive position.

The secure processing, maintenance and transmission of this information is critical to our operations and business strategy, and we devote significant resources to protecting our information by encrypting the DNA data, storing it separately from the consumer's data and working with top cyber security experts in the US. The expenses associated with protecting this information could reduce our operating margins.

An intentional or unintentional disruption, failure, misappropriation or corruption of our network and information systems could severely affect our business.

Such an event might be caused by computer hacking, computer viruses, worms and other destructive or disruptive software, "cyber attacks" and other malicious activity, as well as natural disasters, power outages, terrorist attacks and similar events. Such events could have an adverse impact on us and our customers, including degradation of service, service disruption, excessive call volume to call centers and damage to our plant, equipment and data. In addition, our future results could be adversely affected due to the theft, destruction, loss, misappropriation or release of confidential customer data or intellectual property. Operational or business delays may result from the disruption of network or information systems and the subsequent remediation activities. Moreover, these events may create negative publicity resulting in reputation or brand damage with customers.

Our business could be negatively impacted by cyber security threats, attacks and other disruptions.

Like others in our industry, we continue to face advanced and persistent attacks on our information infrastructure where we manage and store various proprietary information and sensitive/confidential data relating to our operations. These attacks may include sophisticated malware (viruses, worms, and other malicious software programs) and phishing emails that attack our products or otherwise exploit any security vulnerabilities. These intrusions sometimes may be zero-day malware that are difficult to identify because they are not included in the signature set of commercially available antivirus scanning programs. Experienced computer programmers and hackers may be able to penetrate our network security and misappropriate or compromise our confidential information or that of our customers or other third-parties, create system disruptions, or cause shutdowns. Additionally, sophisticated software and applications that we produce or procure from third-parties may contain defects in design or manufacture, including "bugs" and other problems that could unexpectedly interfere with the operation of the information infrastructure. A disruption, infiltration or failure of our information infrastructure systems or any of our data centers as a result of software or hardware malfunctions, computer viruses, cyber attacks, employee theft or misuse, power disruptions, natural disasters or accidents could cause breaches of data security, loss of critical data and performance delays, which in turn could adversely affect our business.

We must acquire or develop new products, evolve existing ones, address any defects or errors, and adapt to technology change.

Technical developments, client requirements, programming languages, and industry standards change frequently in our markets. As a result, success in current markets and new markets will depend upon our ability to enhance current products, address any product defects or errors, acquire or develop and introduce new products that meet client needs, keep pace with technology changes, respond to competitive products, and achieve market acceptance. Product development requires substantial investments for research, refinement, and testing. We may not have sufficient resources to make necessary product development investments. We may experience technical or other difficulties that will delay or prevent the successful development, introduction, or implementation of new or enhanced products. We may also experience technical or other difficulties in the integration of acquired technologies into our existing platform and applications. Inability to introduce or implement new or enhanced products in a timely manner could result in loss of market share if competitors are able to provide solutions to meet customer needs before we do, give rise to unanticipated expenses related to further development or modification of acquired technologies as a result of integration issues, and adversely affect future performance.

We are subject to rapid technological change and dependence on new product development.

Our industry is characterized by rapid and significant technological developments, frequent new product introductions and enhancements, continually evolving business expectations and swift changes. To compete effectively in such markets, we must continually improve and enhance our products and services and develop new technologies and services that incorporate technological advances, satisfy increasing customer expectations and compete effectively on the basis of performance and price. Our success will also depend substantially upon our ability to anticipate, and to adapt our products and services to our collaborative partner's preferences. There can be no assurance that technological developments will not render some of our products and services obsolete, or that we will be able to respond with improved or new products, services, and technology that satisfy evolving customers' expectations. Failure to acquire, develop or introduce new products, services, and enhancements in a timely manner could have an adverse effect on our business and results of operations. Also, to the extent one or more of our competitors introduces products and services that better address a customer's needs, our business would be adversely affected.

If we do not respond to technological changes or upgrade our platform, website, and technology systems, our growth prospects and results of operations could be adversely affected.

To remain competitive, we must continue to enhance and improve the functionality and features of our platform, website, and technology infrastructure. As a result, we will need to continue to improve and expand our hosting and network infrastructure and related software capabilities. These improvements may require greater levels of spending than we have experienced in the past. Without such improvements, our operations might suffer from unanticipated system disruptions, slow application performance, or unreliable service levels, any of which could negatively affect our reputation and ability to attract and retain customers and contributors. Furthermore, in order to continue to attract and retain new customers, we are likely to incur expenses in connection with continuously updating and improving our user interface and experience. We may face significant delays in introducing new services, products, and enhancements. If competitors introduce new products and services using new technologies or if new industry standards and practices emerge, our existing websites and our proprietary technology and systems may become obsolete or less competitive, and our business may be harmed. In addition, the expansion and improvement of our systems and infrastructure may require us to commit substantial financial, operational, and technical resources, with no assurance that our business will improve.

We rely on agreements with third parties to provide certain services, goods, technology, and intellectual property rights necessary to enable us to implement some of our applications.

Our ability to implement and provide our applications and services to our clients depends, in part, on services, goods, technology, and intellectual property rights owned or controlled by third parties. These third parties may become unable to or refuse to continue to provide these services, goods, technology, or intellectual property rights on commercially reasonable terms consistent with our business practices, or otherwise discontinue a service important for us to continue to operate our applications. If we fail to replace these services, goods, technologies, or intellectual property rights in a timely manner or on commercially reasonable terms, our operating results and financial condition could be harmed. In addition, we exercise limited control over our third-party vendors, which increases our vulnerability to problems with technology and services those vendors provide. If the services, technology, or intellectual property of third parties were to fail to perform as expected, it could subject us to potential liability, adversely affect our renewal rates, and have an adverse effect on our financial condition and results of operations.

Our business model is not yet proven, and the amount of market demand isn't clear.

Although the Company has launched its initial technology platform and services, its business model remains unproven. There is no guarantee that the Company's products and services will be attractive to or accepted by subscription or other consumers, or if so, to what extent and at what pricing levels. The Company's business model is dependent upon customer acceptance and use of its services and products, which in substantial part will be a result of the Company's ability to distinguish its services and products from those of its competitors. Accordingly, if the Company cannot profitably offer its services in a manner which generates considerable added value for potential customers compared to similar services, then it is highly plausible that the Company will not be successful in attracting new customers and growing its business. Further, even if the Company is successful in implementing its business model, there can be no assurances that the Company will generate sufficient revenues to become profitable.

Customer acquisition costs could increase, and the Company may depend on a few key relationships to market to potential customers.

The Company's ability to generate revenues is largely dependent on its ability to attract and retain a substantial number of customers. Attracting customers may be difficult for several reasons, including limited sales and marketing resources and reluctance by many customers. Accordingly, the Company may incur greater costs to acquire customers in comparison to existing or more established services. If the Company is not successful in attracting customers at reasonable acquisition costs, or at all, its business, results of operations and financial condition will be materially adversely affected.

While the Company's marketing and customer acquisition strategies largely involve direct marketing to potential customers, the Company may also seek to establish and maintain favorable relationships with third parties having direct access to potential consumers. There can be no assurances that the Company will be able to establish relationships with potential marketing partners or, if so, upon terms and conditions favorable to the Company.

Growth rates higher than planned could create challenges.

The Company's growth, if attained, will result in substantial responsibilities placed upon management and internal systems. Rapid expansion of operations in an emerging stage company entails risks and uncertainties. These risks can, and do, effect available management and other personnel resources, financial resources and physical resources. While detailed planning for growth can mitigate these risks, there can be no assurances that the Company will not be adversely affected by disruption, unexpected events, or conflicting demands upon resources, or that the Company's personnel, systems, procedures and controls will be adequate to support continued growth.

Our business and services could subject us to complex and evolving U.S. laws and regulations regarding the unauthorized practice of law, legal document processing and preparation, legal plans, privacy and other matters. While our model is not to prepare or advise on the preparation of legal documents, if these laws were found to apply or change to apply, then these laws and regulations may result in claims, changes to or discontinuance of some of our services, potential liabilities or additional costs that could have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations, financial condition and future prospects.

Our business involves providing forms and templates, which may include, without limitation, wills, powers of attorney, and other such documents, and the Company provides automated services to enable our customers to fill in and complete such forms and templates and, as a result, is subject to a variety of complex and evolving U.S. laws and regulations, including the following:

- Our business model includes the provision of services that represent an alternative to traditional legal services, which could subject us to allegations of unauthorized practice of law. Unauthorized practice of law generally refers to an entity or person giving legal advice who is not licensed to practice law. However, laws and regulations defining unauthorized practice of law, and the governing bodies that enforce unauthorized practice of law rules, differ among the various jurisdictions in which we operate. We are unable to acquire a license to practice law in the United States or employ licensed attorneys to provide legal advice to our customers, because we do not meet the regulatory requirement of being exclusively owned by licensed attorneys. We may also be subject to laws and regulations that govern business transactions between attorneys and non-attorneys, including those related to the ethics of attorney fee splitting and the corporate practice of law if and to the extent that we evolve to offer products that involve such items.
- Regulation of legal document processing and preparation services varies among the jurisdictions in which we conduct business. We currently provide will forms in Texas, Florida, Pennsylvania, Arizona, New York, and California and plan to expand to North Carolina and Illinois in the near future and most of the remaining states beyond that. We do not advise that these forms are accurate or provide any advice or guidance regarding alternatives or means to prepare those forms.
- Regulation of our legal documents varies considerably among the insurance departments, bar associations and attorneys general of the particular states in which we offer, or plan to offer, our legal documents. In addition, some states may seek to regulate our legal documents as insurance or specialized legal service products.

Additionally, we are required to comply with laws and regulations related to privacy and the storing, use, processing, disclosure and protection of personal information and other customer data.

Our business operations also subject us to laws and regulations relating to general business practices and the manner in which we offer our services to customers subjects us to various consumer laws and regulations, including false advertising and deceptive trade practices.

The scope of these laws and regulations are often vague and broad, and their applications and interpretations are often uncertain and conflicting.

Compliance with these disparate laws and regulations requires us to structure our business and services differently in certain jurisdictions. We dedicate significant management time and expense to dealing with these issues and expect that these issues will continue to be a significant focus as we expand into other services and jurisdictions.

In addition, any failure or perceived failure by us to comply with applicable laws and regulations may subject us to regulatory inquiries, claims, suits and prosecutions. We expect to incur costs associated with responding to, defending and settling such proceedings, particularly those related to unauthorized practice of law, and the provision of our services more generally. We can give no assurance that we will prevail in such regulatory inquiries, claims, suits and prosecutions on commercially reasonable terms or at all. Responding to, defending and/or settling regulatory inquiries, claims, suits and prosecutions may be time-consuming and divert management and financial resources or have other adverse effects on our business. A negative outcome in any of these proceedings may result in changes to or discontinuance of some of our services, potential liabilities or additional costs that could have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations, financial condition and future prospects.

Risks Related to the Securities

Neither the Offering nor the Securities have been registered under federal or state securities laws, leading to an absence of certain regulation applicable to the Company.

No governmental agency has reviewed or passed upon this Offering, the Company or any Securities of the Company. The Company also has relied on exemptions from securities registration requirements under applicable state securities laws. Investors in the Company, therefore, will not receive any of the benefits that such registration would otherwise provide. Prospective investors must therefore assess the adequacy of disclosure and the fairness of the terms of this Offering on their own or in conjunction with their personal advisors.

No Guarantee of Return on Investment

There is no assurance that a Purchaser will realize a return on its investment or that it will not lose its entire investment. For this reason, each Purchaser should read the Form C/A and all Exhibits carefully and should consult with its own attorney and business advisor prior to making any investment decision.

The Crowd Note will not be freely tradable until one year from the initial purchase date. Although the Crowd Note may be tradable under federal securities law, state securities regulations may apply and each Purchaser should consult with his or her attorney.

You should be aware of the long-term nature of this investment. There is not now and likely will not be a public market for the Crowd Note. Because the Crowd Note have not been registered under the Securities Act or under the securities laws of any state or non-United States jurisdiction, the Crowd Note have transfer restrictions and cannot be resold in the United States except pursuant to Rule 501 of Regulation CF. It is not currently contemplated that registration under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended (the “Securities Act”), or other securities laws will be effected. Limitations on the transfer of the Crowd Note may also adversely affect the price that you might be able to obtain for the Crowd Note in a private sale. Purchasers should be aware of the long-term nature of their investment in the Company. Each Purchaser in this Offering will be required to represent that it is purchasing the Securities for its own account, for investment purposes and not with a view to resale or distribution thereof.

Upon conversion of the Crowd Notes, Purchasers who are not “Major Investors” will grant a proxy to vote their underlying securities to the intermediary or its affiliate, and, thus, will not have the right to vote on any matters coming before the shareholders of the Company for a vote. By granting this proxy you are giving up your right to vote on important matters, including significant corporate actions like mergers, amendments to our certificate of incorporation, a liquidation of our company and the election of our directors.

Upon conversion of the Crowd Notes and by virtue of a provision contained in the Crowd Notes, if you are not a Major Investor, that is, an investor who has purchased at least $25,000 in principal amount of the Crowd Notes, you will grant a proxy to the intermediary or its affiliate to vote the underlying securities that you will acquire upon conversion on all matters coming before the shareholders for a vote. The intermediary does not have any fiduciary duty to you to vote shares in a manner that is in your best interests. Accordingly, the intermediary may vote its proxy in a manner that may not be in the best interests of you as a security holder. For example, the intermediary may vote the proxy in favor of an amendment to our charter that adversely affects the rights of the holders of your class of securities in order to allow for a new investment to occur where the new investor requires senior rights.

A majority of the Company is owned by a small number of owners.

Prior to the Offering, the Company's current owners of 20% or more beneficially own up to 81.3% of the Company. Subject to any fiduciary duties owed to our other owners or investors under Delaware law, these owners may be able to exercise significant influence over matters requiring owner approval, including the election of directors or managers and approval of significant Company transactions, and will have significant control over the Company's management and policies. Some of these persons may have interests that are different from yours. For example, these owners may support proposals and actions with which you may disagree. The concentration of ownership could delay or prevent a change in control of the Company or otherwise discourage a potential acquirer from attempting to obtain control of the Company, which in turn could reduce the price potential investors are willing to pay for the Company. In addition, these owners could use their voting influence to maintain the Company's existing management, delay or prevent changes in control of the Company, or support or reject other management and board proposals that are subject to owner approval.

Affiliates of the Company, including officers, directors and existing shareholders of the Company, may invest in this Offering and their funds will be counted toward the Company achieving the Minimum Amount.

There is no restriction on affiliates of the Company, including its officers, directors and existing shareholders, investing in the Offering. As a result, it is possible that if the Company has raised some funds, but not reached the Minimum Amount, affiliates can contribute the balance so that there will be a closing. The Minimum Amount is typically intended to be a protection for investors and gives investors confidence that other investors, along with them, are sufficiently interested in the Offering and the Company and its prospects to make an investment of at least the Minimum Amount. By permitting affiliates to invest in the offering and make up any shortfall between what non-affiliate investors have invested and the Minimum Amount, this protection is largely eliminated. Investors should be aware that no funds other than their own and those of affiliates investing along with them may be invested in this Offering.

You will not have a vote or influence on the management of the Company.

All decisions with respect to the management of the Company will be made exclusively by the officers, directors, managers or employees of the Company. You, as a Purchaser of Crowd Notes, will have no ability to vote on issues of Company management and will not have the right or power to take part in the management of the Company and will not be represented on the board of directors or managers of the Company. Accordingly, no person should purchase a Security unless he or she is willing to entrust all aspects of management to the Company.

There is no present market for the Securities and we have arbitrarily set the price.

We have arbitrarily set the price of the Securities with reference to the general status of the securities market and other relevant factors. The Offering price for the Securities should not be considered an indication of the actual value of the Securities and is not based on our net worth or prior earnings. We cannot assure you that the Securities could be resold by you at the Offering price or at any other price.

Purchasers will be unable to declare the Security in “default” and demand repayment.

Unlike convertible notes and some other securities, the Securities do not have any “default” provisions upon which the Purchasers will be able to demand repayment of their investment. With respect to Purchasers who invest less than $25,000 in the Securities, the Company has ultimate discretion as to whether or not to convert the Securities upon a future equity financing and such Purchasers have no right to demand such conversion. Only in limited circumstances, such as a liquidity event, may such Purchasers demand payment and even then, such payments will be limited to the amount of cash available to the Company.

The Company may never elect to convert the Securities or undergo a liquidity event.

The Company may never receive a future equity financing or, with respect to those Purchasers who invest less than $25,000, elect to convert the Securities upon such future financing. In addition, the Company may never undergo a liquidity event such as a sale of the Company or an IPO. If neither the conversion of the Securities nor a liquidity event occurs, the Purchasers could be left holding the Securities in perpetuity. The Securities have numerous transfer restrictions and will likely be highly illiquid, with no secondary market on which to sell them. The Securities are not equity interests, have no ownership rights, have no rights to the Company’s assets or profits and have no voting rights or ability to direct the Company or its actions.

The Company has the right to extend the Offering deadline. The Company has the right to end the Offering early.

The Company may extend the Offering deadline beyond what is currently stated herein. This means that your investment may continue to be held in escrow while the Company attempts to raise the Target Amount even after the Offering deadline stated herein is reached. While you have the right to cancel your investment in the event the Company extends the Offering, if you choose to reconfirm your investment, your investment will simply be held until such time as the new Offering deadline is reached without the Company receiving the Target Amount, at which time it will be returned to you without interest or deduction, or the Company receives the Target Amount, at which time it will be released to the Company to be used as set forth herein. Upon or shortly after release of such funds to the Company, the Securities will be issued and distributed to you. The Company may also end the Offering early; if the Offering reaches its target Offering amount after 30-calendar days but before the deadline, the Company can end the Offering with five business days’ notice. This means your failure to participate in the Offering in a timely manner, may prevent you from being able to participate – it also means the Company may limit the amount of capital it can raise during the Offering by ending it early.

The Company has the right to conduct multiple closings during the Offering. If the Company meets certain terms and conditions, an intermediate close of the Offering can occur, which will allow the Company to draw down on a portion of the proceeds of the offering committed and captured during the relevant period. The Company may choose to continue the Offering thereafter. Purchasers should be mindful that this means they can make multiple investment commitments in the offering, which may be subject to different cancellation rights. For example, if an intermediate close occurs and later a material change occurs as the Offering continues, Purchasers previously closed upon will not have the right to re-confirm their investment as it will be deemed completed.

In addition to the risks listed above, businesses are often subject to risks not foreseen or fully appreciated by the management. It is not possible to foresee all risks that may affect us. Moreover, the Company cannot predict whether the Company will successfully effectuate the Company's current business plan. Each prospective Purchaser is encouraged to carefully analyze the risks and merits of an investment in the Securities and should take into consideration when making such analysis, among other, the Risk Factors discussed above.

THE SECURITIES OFFERED INVOLVE A HIGH DEGREE OF RISK AND MAY RESULT IN THE LOSS OF YOUR ENTIRE INVESTMENT. ANY PERSON CONSIDERING THE PURCHASE OF THESE SECURITIES SHOULD BE AWARE OF THESE AND OTHER FACTORS SET FORTH IN THIS FORM C/A AND SHOULD CONSULT WITH HIS OR HER LEGAL, TAX AND FINANCIAL ADVISORS PRIOR TO MAKING AN INVESTMENT IN THE SECURITIES. THE SECURITIES SHOULD ONLY BE PURCHASED BY PERSONS WHO CAN AFFORD TO LOSE ALL OF THEIR INVESTMENT.

Governmental/Regulatory Approval and Compliance

Governmental/Regulatory Approval and Compliance Estate planning can be a complex and arcane area of law, and one that can vary in many details from state to state. While the legal framework has evolved on a state-by-state basis, the fundamental principles and objectives of estate planning are largely consistent across jurisdictions although careful navigation of legal requirements is necessary. The Company takes the following approach in preparing a product template to roll out into a new state.

- A review of statutes related to the fundamental requirements for creating a valid document.
- Verifying the minimum requirements to make the document effective and binding.
- Required contents, including any required statements of intent.
- Age and capacity of the signer.
- Witness requirements, including the number, age, and capacity requirements.
- Execution requirements and formalities, such as signing in the simultaneous presence of witnesses and/or notaries.
- The Company confirms that the product complies with these minimum requirements and verifies that the signature process meets or exceeds these requirements.
- A review of statutes related to the permissible contents (as opposed to the minimum requirements).
- Verification of the legal terminology used in each state and verification that the default/boilerplate provisions are consistent with state requirements.
- The Company prepares state-specific provisions if the default/boilerplate provisions are not consistent with state requirements.

- Review of any statutes related to the legal effect of each document type and the rights, powers, and authorities affected by the document.
- Examples include state limits on expanding or restricting the duties and powers of executors and state requirements for designating a guardian for a minor in the event of the death or incapacity of the parent.
- The Company will review the applicable statutes and requirements, verify compliance, and if necessary, prepare state-specific provisions to comply with the statutes and requirements.
- Review of the document-specific statutes and additional steps that may be taken in connection with executing the document.

Operations

The Company anticipates that if the Maximum amount is raised in this Offering that the funds will allow it to operate and grow until November of 2022, if not longer. During that time, we would use some of the proceeds to drive rapid growth with additional marketing spend, invest in product research and development, and ultimately, work towards a goal of $1M in annual recurring revenue. Its primary challenges will be around continuing to acquire customers, rolling out additional products, and entering new markets.

The Company has adjusted its pricing model with the launch of the will product in late July in the aims of continuing to acquire additional paid customers. Since launch of our paywall in January 2021, we have generated approximately $2,399 in revenue. We have also reduced our monthly operating expenses through more effective channels. Our monthly operating costs are approximately $35,000 comprising of a blend of personnel, marketing, software, professional services and office rent. The company currently has approximately $203,000 in cash on hand as of October 2021.

Liquidity and Capital Resources

The Offering proceeds are essential to Company plans for ongoing operations. The Company plans to use the proceeds as set forth above in the "Use of Proceeds" section, which is an indispensable element of our business strategy.

The Company has the following sources of capital in addition to the proceeds from the Offering: Revenues from current operations and potential future fundraising efforts.

Capital Expenditures and Other Obligations

The Company does not intend to make any material capital expenditures in the future.

Material Changes and Other InformationTrends and Uncertainties

After reviewing the above discussion of the steps the Company intends to take, potential Purchasers should consider whether achievement of each step within the estimated time frame is realistic in their judgment. Potential Purchasers should also assess the consequences to the Company of any delays in taking these steps and whether the Company will need additional financing to accomplish them.

The financial statements are an important part of this Form C/A and should be reviewed in their entirety. The financial statements of the Company are attached hereto as Exhibit A.

THE OFFERING AND THE SECURITIES

The Offering

The Company is offering up to 500,000 of Crowd Notes for up to $500,000. The Company is attempting to raise a minimum amount of $50,000.00 in this Offering (the "Minimum Amount"). The Company must receive commitments from investors in an amount totaling the Minimum Amount by April 4, 2022 (the "Offering Deadline") in order to receive any funds. If the sum of the investment commitments does not equal or exceed the Minimum Amount by the Offering Deadline, no Securities will be sold in the Offering, investment commitments will be cancelled and committed funds will be returned to potential investors without interest or deductions. The Company has the right to extend the Offering Deadline at its discretion. The Company will accept investments in excess of the Minimum Amount up to $500,000.00 (the "Maximum Amount") and the additional Securities will be allocated on at the Company's discretion.

The price of the Securities does not necessarily bear any relationship to the Company's asset value, net worth, revenues or other established criteria of value, and should not be considered indicative of the actual value of the Securities.

In order to purchase the Securities, you must make a commitment to purchase by completing the Subscription Agreement. Purchaser funds will be held in escrow with Evolve Bank & Trust until the Minimum Amount of investments is reached. Purchasers may cancel an investment commitment until 48 hours prior to the Offering Deadline or the Closing, whichever comes first using the cancellation mechanism provided by the Intermediary. The Company will notify Purchasers when the Minimum Amount has been reached. If the Company reaches the Minimum Amount prior to the Offering Deadline, it may close the Offering at least five (5) days after reaching the Minimum Amount and providing notice to the Purchasers. If any material change (other than reaching the Minimum Amount) occurs related to the Offering prior to the Offering Deadline, the Company will provide notice to Purchasers and receive reconfirmations from Purchasers who have already made commitments. If a Purchaser does not reconfirm his or her investment commitment after a material change is made to the terms of the Offering, the Purchaser's investment commitment will be cancelled, and the committed funds will be returned without interest or deductions.

In the event that at least $75,000 in investments is committed and received by the escrow agent and more than thirty (30) days remain before the Offering Deadline, the Company may, at the discretion of the Intermediary, conduct the first of multiple closings of the Offering (an "Intermediate Close") and withdraw funds from escrow, provided that all investors receive notice that an Intermediate Close will occur and funds will be released to the Company, at least five (5) business days prior to the Intermediate Close (absent a material change that would require an extension of the offering and reconfirmation of the investment commitment). Investors who committed on or before such notice will have until 48 hours before the Intermediate Close to cancel their investment commitment.

Thereafter, the Company may, at the discretion of the Intermediary, only conduct another Intermediate Close before the Offering Deadline if (i) the amount of investment commitments made and received in escrow exceeds $125,000 since the time of the last Intermediate Close, and (ii) more than thirty (30) days remain before the Offering Deadline.

If a Purchaser does not cancel an investment commitment before an Intermediate Close or before the Offering Deadline, the funds will be released to the Company upon closing of the Offering and the Purchaser will receive the Securities in exchange for his or her investment. Any Purchaser funds received after the initial closing will be released to the Company upon a subsequent closing, and the Purchaser will receive Securities in exchange for his or her investment as soon as practicable thereafter.

The Company has agreed to return all funds to investors in the event a Form C-W is ultimately filed in relation to this Offering, regardless of any subsequent closes.

Subscription Agreements are not binding on the Company until accepted by the Company, which reserves the right to reject, in whole or in part, in its sole and absolute discretion, any subscription. If the Company rejects all or a portion of any subscription, the applicable prospective Purchaser's funds will be returned without interest or deduction.

The price of the Securities was determined arbitrarily. The minimum amount that a Purchaser may invest in the Offering is $100.00.

The Offering is being made through MicroVenture Marketplace, Inc., the Intermediary. The following two fields set forth the compensation being paid in connection with the Offering.

Commission/Fees

At the conclusion of the Offering, the Issuer shall pay to the Intermediary a fee consisting of five percent (5%) commission based on the amount of investments raised in the Offering and paid upon distribution of funds from escrow at the time of closing.

Stock, Warrants and Other Compensation

The Intermediary will receive a number of Crowd Notes of the Issuer equal to two percent (2%) of the total number of Securities sold by the Issuer in the Offering.

Transfer Agent and Registrar

The Company will act as transfer agent and registrar for the Securities.

The Securities

We request that you please review our offering documents in conjunction with the following summary information.

Authorized Capitalization

See "CAPITALIZATION AND OWNERSHIP" above.

General

A Crowd Note is similar to a SAFE (Simple Agreement for Future Equity) security where an investor makes a cash investment in our company, but gets company stock at a later date in connection with a specific event. Although the security is called a Crowd Note, the Crowd Note is not a debt instrument. It is intended to be an alternative to a convertible note that is beneficial for both our company and you as an investor.

Valuation Cap

$10,000,000 ($10 million)

Discount Rate

Events Triggering Conversion of Crowd Notes

If you are a Major Investor, which is defined as an investor who invests at least $25,000 in this offering, then the specified event upon which the Crowd Note would convert into capital stock of our company is (i) a Qualified Equity Financing, which we define below, or (ii) a Corporate Transaction, which we define below, if instead of receiving two times (2X) the outstanding principal of your Crowd Note, your Crowd Note is converted immediately prior to the closing of the Corporate Transaction.

If you are not a Major Investor, then the Crowd Note will only convert into capital stock of our company upon the earlier of (i) our company's election to convert your Crowd Note, including upon a Qualified Equity Financing if our company elects to convert your Crowd Note then, or (ii) a Corporate Transaction, if instead of receiving two times (2X) the outstanding principal of your Crowd Note, your Crowd Note is converted immediately prior to the closing of the Corporate Transaction.

Qualified Equity Financing

The Crowd Note defines "Qualified Equity Financing" as the first sale (or series of related sales) by us of our preferred stock following the closing of this Offering from which we receive gross proceeds of not less than $1,000,000.00 (excluding the aggregate amount of securities converted into preferred stock in connection with such sale or series of related sales).

If the Crowd Note converts into equity in connection with a Qualified Equity Financing, then we will convert the Crowd Note into shares of our preferred stock that are issued in connection with the Qualified Equity Financing, which we refer to as Conversion Shares, equal to the quotient obtained by dividing the outstanding principal amount of the Crowd Note by the Conversion Price, which is defined below. The issuance of Conversion Shares will be on the same terms and conditions applicable to the stock sold in the Qualified Equity Financing; provided, however, that if you are not a Major Investor, you will receive shares of a shadow series, as we describe below, with certain limited rights. The Conversion Price applicable to a Qualified Equity Financing is the lower of:

(i) the product of (a) one minus the Discount (20%), and (b) the price paid per share for preferred stock by the investors in the Qualified Equity Financing, or

(ii) the quotient resulting from dividing (a) the Valuation Cap ($10,000,000), as defined below by (b) the total number of our shares of capital stock that are outstanding on a fully diluted basis (assuming for this purpose the exercise, exchange or conversion of all securities exercisable or exchangeable for, or convertible into, our capital stock), immediately prior to the closing of the Qualified Equity Financing.

Any investor who is not a Major Investor will receive a shadow series of preferred stock upon conversion of such investor's Crowd Note. A shadow series is a series of our preferred stock that is identical in all respects to the shares of preferred stock issued in the Qualified Equity Financing (e.g., if the Company sells Series A Preferred Stock in the Qualified Equity Financing, the shadow series would be Series A-1 Preferred Stock), except that the liquidation preference per share of the shadow series shall equal the Conversion Price and the following additional differences will apply:

(i) shadow series shareholders will grant their vote on any matter that is submitted to a vote or for the consent of the stockholders of our company (except for on matters required by law) by irrevocable proxy; and

(ii) shadow series shareholders will receive quarterly business updates from the company through the Intermediary but will have no additional information or inspection rights (except with respect to such rights which are required by law).

Corporate Transaction and Corporate Transaction Payment

The Crowd Note defines "Corporate Transaction" as

(i) the closing of the sale, transfer or other disposition of all or substantially all of our assets,

(ii) the consummation of the merger or consolidation of our company with or into another entity (except a merger or consolidation in which the holders of capital stock of our company immediately prior to such merger or consolidation continue to hold at least 50% of the voting power of the capital stock of our company or the surviving or acquiring entity),

(iii) the closing of the transfer (whether by merger, consolidation or otherwise), in one transaction or a series of related transactions, to a person or group of affiliated persons (other than an underwriter of our securities), of securities of our company if, after such closing, such person or group of affiliated persons would hold 50% or more of the outstanding voting stock of our company (or the surviving or acquiring entity), or

(iv) the initial public offering, liquidation, dissolution or winding up of our company; provided, however, that a transaction shall not constitute a Corporate Transaction if its sole purpose is to change the state of our incorporation or to create a holding company that will be owned in substantially the same proportions by the persons who held our securities immediately prior to such transaction.

If the Crowd Note converts in connection with a Corporate Transaction (defined above) then you will receive an amount equal to two times (2x) the price you paid for your Crowd Note (i.e., 2x your principal amount). If there are not enough funds to pay you and other Crowd Note investors in full, then proceeds from the respective transaction will be distributed with equal priority and pro rata among the Crowd Note investors in proportion to their Purchase Price.

If there are not enough funds to pay you and other Crowd Note investors in full, then proceeds from the respective transaction will be distributed with equal priority and pro rata among the Crowd Note investors in proportion to their Purchase Price.

Termination of Crowd Note

The Crowd Notes will terminate upon the earlier of: (a) a conversion of the entire Purchase Price under the Crowd Notes into Conversion Shares; or (b) the payment of amounts due to the investor pursuant to a Corporate Transaction.

No Voting Rights, No Shareholders Agreement and No Anti-Dilution Rights

The Crowd Notes do not have any voting rights. Further, upon conversion of the Crowd Notes into Conversion Shares, shadow series shareholders shall grant their vote on any matter that is submitted to a vote or for the consent of the members of the Company (except for on matters required by law) by irrevocable proxy.

The Company does not have any shareholder/equity holder agreements in place.

The Securities do not have anti-dilution rights.

Restrictions on Transfer

Any Securities sold pursuant to Regulation CF being offered may not be transferred by any Purchaser of such Securities during the one-year holding period beginning when the Securities were issued, unless such Securities were transferred: i) to the Company, ii) to an accredited investor, as defined by Rule 501(d) of Regulation D promulgated under the Securities Act, iii) as part of an IPO or iv) to a member of the family of the Purchaser or the equivalent, to a trust controlled by the Purchaser, to a trust created for the benefit of a family member of the Purchaser or the equivalent, or in connection with the death or divorce of the Purchaser or other similar circumstances. "Member of the family" as used herein means a child, stepchild, grandchild, parent, stepparent, grandparent, spouse or spousal equivalent, sibling, mother / father / daughter / son / sister / brother-in-law, and includes adoptive relationships. Remember that although you may legally be able to transfer the Securities, you may not be able to find another party willing to purchase them.

In addition to the foregoing restrictions, prior to making any transfer of the Securities or any Securities into which they are convertible, such transferring Purchaser must either make such transfer pursuant to an effective registration statement filed with the SEC or provide the Company with an opinion of counsel stating that a registration statement is not necessary to effect such transfer.

Additional Transfer Restrictions

You may not transfer the Crowd Notes or any securities into which they are convertible to any of our competitors, as determined by us in good faith.

IPO Lock Up

Furthermore, upon the event of an initial public offering, the equity interest into which the Crowd Notes are converted will be subject to a lock-up period and may not be sold for up to 180 days following such initial public offering.

Other Material Terms

The Company does not have the right to repurchase the Crowd Notes. The investor agrees to take any and all actions determined in good faith by the Company's Manager to be advisable to reorganize the instrument and any shares issued pursuant to the terms of the Crowd Notes into a special purpose vehicle or other entity designed to aggregate the interests of holders of Crowd Notes.

A review includes primarily applying analytical procedures to management's financial data and making inquiries of company management. A review is substantially less in scope than an audit, the objective of which is the expression of an opinion regarding the financial statements as a whole. Accordingly, we do not express such an opinion.

Management's Responsibility for the Financial Statements

Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of these financial statements in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America; this includes the design, implementation, and maintenance of internal control relevant to the preparation and fair presentation of financial statements that are free from material misstatement whether due to fraud or error.

Accountant's Responsibility

Our responsibility is to conduct the review in accordance with Statements on Standards for Accounting and Review Services issued by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants. Those standards require us to perform procedures to obtain limited assurance that there are no material modifications that should be made to the financial statements. We believe that the results of my procedures provide a reasonable basis for our report.

RESTEASIEST.COM, INC.
NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS (REVIEWED)
DECEMBER 31, 2020 & 2019

NOTE A- ORGANIZATION AND NATURE OF ACTIVITIES

Resteasiest.com, Inc. ("the Company") is a corporation organized under the laws of the state of Delaware and Texas. The Company is an online service company that offers estate, legacy, and end-of-life planning.

NOTE B- SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

Basis of Presentation

The accompanying financial statements have been prepared in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America ("US GAAP"). The Company's fiscal year ends December 31.

Significant Risks and Uncertainties

The Company is subject to customary risks and uncertainties including, but not limited to, dependence on key personnel, costs of services provided by third parties, the need to obtain additional financing, and limited operating history.

Use of Estimates

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with GAAP requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Changes in estimates are recorded in the period they are made. Actual results could differ from those estimates. Significant estimates inherent in the preparation of these financial statements include, but are not limited to, estimates of useful lives.

Cash and Cash Equivalents

Cash and cash equivalents include all cash balances, and highly liquid investments with maturities of three months or less when purchased.

Revenue

ASC Topic 606, "Revenue from Contracts with Customers" establishes principles for reporting information about the nature, amount, timing and uncertainty of revenue and cash flows arising from the entity's contracts to provide goods or services to customers. Revenues are recognized when control of the promised goods or services are transferred to a customer, in an amount that reflects the consideration that the Company expects to receive in exchange for those goods or services. The Company applies the following five steps in order to determine the appropriate amount of revenue to be recognized as it fulfills its obligations under each of its agreements: 1) identify the contract with a customer; 2) identify the performance obligations in the contract; 3) determine the transaction price; 4) allocate the transaction price to performance obligations in the contract; and 5) recognize revenue as the performance obligation is satisfied.

RESTEASIEST.COM, INC.

The Company's main line of revenue will be fees collected from its legal services.

Fixed Assets

The Company capitalizes assets with an expected useful life of one year or more, and an original purchase price of $1,000 or more. Depreciation is calculated on a double declining basis over management's estimate of each asset's useful life.

Leases

The Company subleases office space from Emily Cisek, a member of the Company's management team. The lease expires in 2021 and may be renewed at the option of the Company at the then market rate. Future minimum payments due are as follows:

2021- $6,300

Advertising

The Company records advertising expenses in the year incurred.

Research & Development

The Company records research & development expenses in the period incurred.

Income Taxes

The Company has evaluated its income tax positions and has determined that it does not have any uncertain tax positions. The Company will recognize interest and penalties related to any uncertain tax positions through its income tax expense.

The Company applies ASC 740 Income Taxes ("ASC 740"). Deferred income taxes are recognized for the tax consequences in future years of differences between the tax bases of assets and liabilities and their financial statement reported amounts at each period end, based on enacted tax laws and statutory tax rates applicable to the periods in which the differences are expected to affect taxable income. Valuation allowances are established, when necessary, to reduce deferred tax assets to the amount expected to be realized. The provision for income taxes represents the tax expense for the period, if any and the change during the period in deferred tax assets and liabilities. ASC 740 also provides criteria for the recognition, measurement, presentation and disclosure of uncertain tax positions. A tax benefit from an uncertain position is recognized only if it is "more likely than not" that the position is sustainable upon examination by the relevant taxing authority based on its technical merit.

The Company is subject to tax filing requirements as a corporation in the federal jurisdiction of the United States. The Company sustained net operating losses during fiscal years 2020 and 2019. Net operating losses will be carried forward to reduce taxable income in future years. Due to management's uncertainty as to the timing and valuation of any benefits associated with the net operating loss carryforwards, the Company has elected to recognize an allowance to account for them in the financial statements, but has fully reserved it. Under current law, net operating losses may be carried forward indefinitely.

The Company is subject to franchise and income tax filing requirements in the State of Delaware.

RESTEASIEST.COM, INC.

Net Income Per Share

Net earnings or loss per share is computed by dividing net income or loss by the weighted-average number of common shares outstanding during the period, excluding shares subject to redemption or forfeiture. The Company presents basic and diluted net earnings or loss per share. Diluted net earnings or loss per share reflect the actual weighted average of common shares issued and outstanding during the period, adjusted for potentially dilutive securities outstanding. Potentially dilutive securities are excluded from the computation of the diluted net loss per share if their inclusion would be anti-dilutive.

Recently Issued Accounting Pronouncements

From time to time, new accounting pronouncements are issued by the Financial Accounting Standards Board, or FASB, or other standard setting bodies and adopted by the Company as of the specified effective date. The Company believes that the impact of recently issued standards that are not yet effective will not have a material impact on its financial position or results of operations upon adoption.

In February 2016, the Financial Accounting Standards Board ("FASB") issued ASU No. 2016-02, Leases (Topic 842), to increase transparency and comparability among organizations by recognizing lease assets and lease liabilities on the balance sheet for most leases previously classified as operating leases. Subsequently, the FASB has issued amendments to clarify the codification or to correct unintended application of the new guidance. The new standard is required to be applied using a modified retrospective approach, with two adoption methods permissible: (1) apply the leases standard to each lease that existed at the beginning of the earliest comparative period presented in the financial statements or (2) apply the guidance to each lease that had commenced as of the beginning of the reporting period in which the entity first applies the new lease standard.

In June 2018, the FASB issued ASU No. 2018-07, Compensation - Stock Compensation (Topic 718): Improvements to Nonemployee Share-Based Payment Accounting, which simplifies the accounting for share-based payments granted to nonemployees for goods and services. Under the ASU, most of the guidance on such payments to nonemployees would be aligned with the requirements for share-based payments granted to employees. As a result, most of the guidance in ASC 718 associated with employee share-based payments, including most requirements related to classification and measurement, applies to nonemployee share-based payment arrangements. This standard is effective beginning in the first quarter of 2019, with early adoption permitted. The adoption of ASU 2018-07 is not expected to have a material effect on the Company's financial statements.

NOTE D- DEBT

In 2019, the Company received a $10,000 loan from a family member of Emily Cisek, a member of the Company's management team ("the Loan"). The Company subsequently converted the Loan into a convertible note payable.

In 2020, the company issued a series of convertible notes payable in exchange for $900,000 for the purpose of funding continuing operations ("the Notes"). The Notes accrue interest at the rate of 8% per annum and mature in 2023. During 2020, the Company accrued approximately $34,154 in interest related to the Notes. The Notes shall convert upon certain predefined conditions such as a Qualifying Financing event, Sale Event, or Maturity Date Conversion. Upon conversion, common shares can be issued with a 20%-35% discount.

In 2020, the Company received an Economic Injury Disaster Loan Advance of $1,000 that may be forgiven at a future date. As of December 31, 2020, the Company is awaiting decision for forgiveness.

NOTE E- EQUITY

The Company's articles of incorporation authorize the Company to issue 10,000,000 shares of $.00001 par value Common Stock.

The Company currently has one class of equity outstanding.

Common Stock: Common shareholders have the right to vote on certain items of Company business at the rate of one vote per share of stock.

As of December 31, 2020, the number of shares issued and outstanding by class was as follows:

Common Stock	5,095,000
--------------	-----------

In 2020, the Company issued 8,400,000 restricted stock units. During 2020, 4,672,500 RSUs vested. The remaining will vest as follows:

2021	2,730,000
2022	885,000
2023	112,500
Total	3,727,500

The Company recognized a stock compensation expense of $51 in fiscal year 2020 related to the RSUs.

RSUs entitle holders to receive a specified number of shares of the Company upon the agreed upon each individual vesting schedule. Non-vested shares may not be assigned, transferred, pledged, or otherwise disposed of before vested.

Various shareholders of the Company are guaranteed anti-dilution protection rights on a fully diluted, as converted basis. Total protected ownership interests amount to 5% of the Company.

NOTE F- EQUITY BASED COMPENSATION

In 2020, the Board of Directors adopted the 2020 Stock Option and Stock Purchase Plan ("the Plan"). The Plan provides for the grant of equity awards to employees, and consultants, including stock options, stock purchase rights and stock grants. Up to 1,000,000 shares of common stock may be issued pursuant to awards granted under the Plan. The Plan is administered by the Board of Directors, and expires ten years after adoption, unless terminated earlier by the Board. As of December 31, 2019, 1,000,000 shares remain issuable under the Plan.

RESTEASIEST.COM, INC.

During 2020, the Company granted 175,000 stock options under the Plan to various advisors and employees. The granted options had an exercise price of $.50, expire in ten years, and vest over a three-year period.

A summary of the Company's stock options activity and related information is as follows:

	Number of Options	Weighted Average Exercise	Weighted Average Remaining Contractual Term	Aggregate Intrinsic Value
Outstanding at December 31, 2019	-	-	-
Granted	175,000	$ 0.50	10
Exercised	-	-	-
Outstanding at December 31, 2020	175,000	$ 0.50	9.78	$ 0.00
Vested and Expected to vest at December 31, 2020	175,000	$ 0.50	9.78	$ 0.00
Exercisable at December 31, 2020	-	$ -	-	-

The Company accounts for stock options issued to employees under ASC 718 (Stock Compensation). Under ASC 718, share-based compensation cost to employees is measured at the grant date, based on the estimated fair value of the award, and is recognized as an item of expense ratably over the employee's requisite vesting period. The Company values stock options at their intrinsic value, instead of their fair value. An option's intrinsic value is defined as the amount by which the fair value of the underlying stock exceeds the exercise price of an option. In certain cases, this means that option compensation granted by the Company may have an intrinsic value of $0.

Subsequent to the period, 55,000 stock options were forfeited before they were vested.

NOTE G- RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

The Company received marketing services from Spark Wright & Colgin Inc. in the amount of $102,000 ("the Party"). The Party is owned by Robbie Wright, a member of the Company's management team.

The Company subleases office space from Emily Cisek, a member of the Company's management team. The Company's paid approximately $34,000 during 2020 for this lease.

The Company issued convertible notes payable to related parties in exchange for cash as follows:

Family Members of Emily Cisek: $45,000
Shareholders of the Company: $75,000

NOTE H- FAIR VALUE MEASUREMENTS

Fair value is an exit price, representing the price that would be received to sell an asset or paid to transfer a liability in an orderly transaction between market participants based on the highest and best use of the asset or liability. As such, fair value is a market-based measurement that should be determined based on assumptions that market participants would use in pricing an asset or liability. The Company uses valuation techniques to measure fair value that maximize the use of observable inputs and minimize the use of unobservable inputs. These inputs are prioritized as follows:

RESTEASIEST.COM, INC.

Level 1 - Observable inputs, such as quoted prices for identical assets or liabilities in active markets;

Level 2 - Inputs, other than the quoted prices in active markets, that are observable either directly or indirectly, such as quoted prices for similar assets or liabilities, or market-corroborated inputs; and

Level 3 - Unobservable inputs for which there is little or no market data which require the reporting entity to develop its own assumptions about how market participants would price the assets or liabilities.

The valuation techniques that may be used to measure fair value are as follows:

Market approach - Uses prices and other relevant information generated by market transactions involving identical or comparable assets or liabilities.

Income approach - Uses valuation techniques to convert future amounts to a single present amount based on current market expectations about those future amounts, including present value techniques, option-pricing models, and excess earnings method.

Cost approach - Based on the amount that currently would be required to replace the service capacity of an asset (replacement cost).

NOTE I- CONCENTRATIONS OF RISK

Financial instruments that potentially subject the Company to credit risk consist of cash and cash equivalents. The Company places its cash and cash equivalents with a limited number of high-quality financial institutions and at times may exceed the amount of insurance provided on such deposits.

NOTE J- SUBSEQUENT EVENTS

Management considered events subsequent to the end of the period but before October 4, 2021, the date that the financial statements were available to be issued.

COMPANY SUMMARY

Opportunity

Death care services are a $100+ billion industry, as unfortunately, death is a part of every person and family's life.^{vi} However, most individuals aged 55 and older put little effort into planning for the end of life. Respondents to Merrill Lynch and Age Wave Surveys found that only 18% of these individuals have a will and two other key estate planning documents.^{vii} One of the common frustrations when creating end-of-life plans and documents is overall confusion among individuals and families.^{viii} To combat these complications, a host of digital and tech-enabled companies have focused on better serving consumers that are looking to make end-of-life plans by providing cheaper and broader access to these services via technology.^{ix}

The Postage is a Houston-based startup that aims to help people better prepare for end-of-life through legacy planning. The company has designed an easy-to-use digital platform that aims to empower its users to reframe how they plan for the future through digital estate preparation and planning, funeral planning, document storage, and much more. The Postage's product is designed to mitigate confusion and guide users step-by-step through document creation and legacy planning in an intuitive interface available via web and mobile app. The company's online will maker product has already launched in Arizona, California, Florida, Illinois, New York, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, and Texas with the company eyeing expansion into Ohio, Georgia, Michigan, New Jersey, Massachusetts, and beyond later this year.

Product Roadmap

For the remainder of 2021, The Postage is targeting multiple milestones:

2021
<ul style="list-style-type: none">• Launch will-maker in five additional states: Ohio, Georgia, Michigan, New Jersey, and Massachusetts. After launch, the product will be available to over 50% of the U.S. based on population*• Add additional questionnaires within a user's "my plans" page to drive further progress and increased usage• Explore additional states to launch the will builder product with similar regulatory rules• Grow channel partner program by partnering with businesses in adjacent industries such as: insurance, funeral, enterprise HR, financial planning, and wealth management

In 2022, the company aims to continue to expand its product availability and increase marketing.

- Expand marketing efforts nationally based on the state availability of will-builder product
- Develop and launch its Trust product into initial markets
- Scale channel partner program
- Launch initial partner marketplace with integrated upsell opportunities for customers based on data and next best action recommendations. For example, this could be insurance recommendations or long-term care products that partners offer.
- Continue to develop funeral planning and family heirloom distribution/estate marketplace feature. The estate marketplace would enable a delegate or executor to distribute unclaimed items that weren't bequeathed into an estate marketplace that The Postage designs or hosts.

In 2023, the company plans to begin to develop the strategy, functionality, and partnerships for the death insurance product line.

Business Model

The Postage aims to offer a complete end-to-end solution for creating, storing, and ongoing updates to a consumer's end-of-life and estate plan. The company generates revenue in three ways:

- Initial Flat fee: For consumers to purchase and create a will, it costs $125 for couples and $75 for individuals. This is a one-time fee.
- Subscription revenues: Consumers can also purchase a $3.99 monthly subscription that gives them access to the company's comprehensive platform, create unlimited will updates, and utilize the company's legacy planning tools.
- Partner revenues: Initial setup and monthly licensing fees

USER TRACTION

Channel Partners

Since product launch, the Postage has entered into channel partnership agreements with Creative Solutions in Healthcare and Longhorn Leads. Both organizations will serve as partner marketers of The Postage's services to their consumers.

Enterprise Partnership

In addition to the channel partners, The Postage is in discussions with a large enterprise-level strategy partnership with a Fortune 100 insurance and finance group.

Users

The Postage tracks unique visitors to its site to better understand the conversion of visitors into users. Since its beta launch, the company has received just over 60,000 unique visitors to its website. January 2021 was the highest month to date, due to increased marketing budget. Marketing spend has had direct correlation on high traffic growth months. Marketing was turned off as learnings were collected and adjustments to the platform and user experience were made. For example, during May 2021-July 2021 marketing was turned off during the initial development of the will maker product. Since the launch of the will-maker product in late July 2021, paid users have increased by 800% in comparison to the previous three months.

- iv. Including the amount set forth on the signature page hereto, in the past twelve (12) month period, the undersigned has not exceeded the investment limit as set forth in Rule 100(a)(2) of Regulation CF.

b) Information Concerning the Company.

- ii. The undersigned understands and accepts that the purchase of the Securities involves various risks, including the risks outlined in the Form C/A and in this Subscription Agreement. The undersigned represents that it is able to bear any and all loss associated with an investment in the Securities.
- iii. The undersigned confirms that it is not relying and will not rely on any communication (written or oral) of the Company, MicroVenture Marketplace Inc., or any of their respective affiliates, as investment advice or as a recommendation to purchase the Securities. It is understood that information and explanations related to the terms and conditions of the Securities provided in the Form C/A or otherwise by the Company, MicroVenture Marketplace Inc. or any of their respective affiliates shall not be considered investment advice or a recommendation to purchase the Securities, and that neither the Company, MicroVenture Marketplace Inc. nor any of their respective affiliates is acting or has acted as an advisor to the undersigned in deciding to invest in the Securities. The undersigned acknowledges that neither the Company, MicroVenture Marketplace Inc. nor any of their respective affiliates have made any representation regarding the proper characterization of the Securities for purposes of determining the undersigned's authority or suitability to invest in the Securities.
- iv. The undersigned is familiar with the business and financial condition and operations of the Company, all as generally described in the Form C/A. The undersigned has had access to such information concerning the Company and the Securities as it deems necessary to enable it to make an informed investment decision concerning the purchase of the Securities.

- v. The undersigned understands that, unless the undersigned notifies the Company in writing to the contrary at or before the Closing, each of the undersigned's representations and warranties contained in this Subscription Agreement will be deemed to have been reaffirmed and confirmed as of the Closing, taking into account all information received by the undersigned.
 - vi. The undersigned acknowledges that the Company has the right in its sole and absolute discretion to abandon this Offering at any time prior to the completion of the Offering. This Subscription Agreement shall thereafter have no force or effect and the Company shall return any previously paid subscription price of the Securities, without interest thereon, to the undersigned.
 - vii. The undersigned understands that no federal or state agency has passed upon the merits or risks of an investment in the Securities or made any finding or determination concerning the fairness or advisability of this investment.
- c) No Guaranty. The undersigned confirms that the Company has not (i) given any guarantee or representation as to the potential success, return, effect or benefit (either legal, regulatory, tax, financial, accounting or otherwise) of an investment in the Securities or (ii) made any representation to the undersigned regarding the legality of an investment in the Securities under applicable legal investment or similar laws or regulations. In deciding to purchase the Securities, the undersigned is not relying on the advice or recommendations of the Company and the undersigned has made its own independent decision that the investment in the Securities is suitable and appropriate for the undersigned.
- d) Status of the Undersigned. The undersigned has such knowledge, skill and experience in business, financial and investment matters that the undersigned is capable of evaluating the merits and risks of an investment in the Securities. With the assistance of the undersigned's own professional advisors, to the extent that the undersigned has deemed appropriate, the undersigned has made its own legal, tax, accounting and financial evaluation of the merits and risks of an investment in the Securities and the consequences of this Subscription Agreement. The undersigned has considered the suitability of the Securities as an investment in light of its own circumstances and financial condition and the undersigned is able to bear the risks associated with an investment in the Securities and its authority to invest in the Securities.
- e) Restrictions on Transfer or Sale of Securities.
- i. The undersigned is acquiring the Securities solely for the undersigned's own beneficial account, for investment purposes, and not with a view to, or for resale in connection with, any distribution of the Securities. The undersigned understands that the Securities have not been registered under the Securities Act or any State Securities Laws by reason of specific exemptions under the provisions thereof which depend in part upon the investment intent of the undersigned and of the other representations made by the undersigned in this

Subscription Agreement. The undersigned understands that the Company is relying upon the representations and agreements contained in this Subscription Agreement (and any supplemental information) for the purpose of determining whether this transaction meets the requirements for such exemptions.

- ii. The undersigned understands that the Securities are restricted from transfer for a period of time under applicable federal securities laws and that the Securities Act and the rules of the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission (the "Commission") provide in substance that the undersigned may dispose of the Securities only pursuant to an effective registration statement under the Securities Act, an exemption therefrom or as further described in Rule 501 of Regulation CF, after which certain state restrictions may apply. The undersigned understands that the Company has no obligation or intention to register any of the Securities, or to take action so as to permit sales pursuant to the Securities Act. Even when the Securities become freely transferrable, a secondary market in the Securities may not develop. Consequently, the undersigned understands that the undersigned must bear the economic risks of the investment in the Securities for an indefinite period of time.
- iii. The undersigned agrees: (A) that the undersigned will not sell, assign, pledge, give, transfer or otherwise dispose of the Securities or any interest therein, or make any offer or attempt to do any of the foregoing, except pursuant to Rule 501 of Regulation CF.

7. Conditions to Obligations of the Undersigned and the Company. The obligations of the undersigned to purchase and pay for the Securities specified on the signature page hereto and of the Company to sell the Securities are subject to the satisfaction at or prior to the Closing of the following conditions precedent: the representations and warranties of the Company contained in Section 5 hereof and of the undersigned contained in Section 6 hereof shall be true and correct as of the Closing in all respects with the same effect as though such representations and warranties had been made as of the Closing.

8. Obligations Irrevocable. Following the Closing, the obligations of the undersigned shall be irrevocable.

9. Legend. The certificates, book entry or other form of notation representing the Securities sold pursuant to this Subscription Agreement will be notated with a legend or designation, which communicates in some manner that the Securities were issued pursuant to Section 4(a)(6) of the Securities Act and may only be resold pursuant to Rule 501 of Regulation CF.

10. Waiver, Amendment. Neither this Subscription Agreement nor any provisions hereof shall be modified, changed, discharged or terminated except by an instrument in writing, signed by the party against whom any waiver, change, discharge or termination is sought.

11. Assignability. Neither this Subscription Agreement nor any right, remedy, obligation or liability arising hereunder or by reason hereof shall be assignable by either the Company or the undersigned without the prior written consent of the other party.

12. Waiver of Jury Trial. THE UNDERSIGNED IRREVOCABLY WAIVES ANY AND ALL RIGHT TO TRIAL BY JURY WITH RESPECT TO ANY LEGAL PROCEEDING ARISING

OUT OF THE TRANSACTIONS CONTEMPLATED BY THIS SUBSCRIPTION AGREEMENT.

13. Dispute Resolution.

a) General Rule. Any dispute under this Subscription Agreement will be resolved through arbitration, not through the court system. All arbitration will be conducted in the state where the executive office of the Company is located at such time, unless both parties agree otherwise in writing in a specific case. All arbitration will be conducted before a single arbitrator in following the rules of the American Arbitration Association. Except as required by law, neither a party nor the arbitrator may disclose the existence, content or results of any arbitration without the prior written consent of the other parties.

b) Appeal of Award. Within thirty days of a final award by the single arbitrator, either party may appeal the award for reconsideration by a three-arbitrator panel. d) No Class Action Claims. NO ARBITRATION SHALL PROCEED ON A CLASS, REPRESENTATIVE, OR COLLECTIVE BASIS. No party may join, consolidate, or otherwise bring claims for or on behalf of two or more individuals or unrelated corporate entities in the same arbitration unless those persons are parties to a single transaction. An award in arbitration shall determine the rights and obligations of the named parties only, and only with respect to the claims in arbitration, and shall not (i) determine the rights, obligations, or interests of anyone other than a named party, or resolve any claim of anyone other than a named party, or (ii) make an award for the benefit of, or against, anyone other than a named party. No administrator or arbitrator shall have the power or authority to waive, modify, or fail to enforce this paragraph, and any attempt to do so, whether by rule, policy, and arbitration decision or otherwise, shall be invalid and unenforceable. Any challenge to the validity of this paragraph shall be determined exclusively by a court and not by the administrator or any arbitrator. If this paragraph shall be deemed unenforceable, then any proceeding in the nature of a class action shall be handled in court, not in arbitration.

14. Governing Law. This Subscription Agreement shall be governed by and construed in accordance with the laws of the State of Delaware, without regard to conflict of law principles thereof.

15. Section and Other Headings. The section and other headings contained in this Subscription Agreement are for reference purposes only and shall not affect the meaning or interpretation of this Subscription Agreement.

16. Counterparts. This Subscription Agreement may be executed in any number of counterparts, each of which when so executed and delivered shall be deemed to be an original and all of which together shall be deemed to be one and the same agreement.

18. Binding Effect. The provisions of this Subscription Agreement shall be binding upon and accrue to the benefit of the parties hereto and their respective heirs, legal representatives, successors and assigns.

19. Survival. All representations, warranties and covenants contained in this Subscription Agreement shall survive (i) the acceptance of the subscription by the Company, (ii) changes in the transactions, documents and instruments described in the Form C/A which are not material or which are to the benefit of the undersigned and (iii) the death or disability of the undersigned.

20. Notification of Changes. The undersigned hereby covenants and agrees to notify the Company upon the occurrence of any event prior to the closing of the purchase of the Securities pursuant to this Subscription Agreement, which would cause any representation, warranty, or covenant of the undersigned contained in this Subscription Agreement to be false or incorrect.

21. Severability. Webinar Transcript

Brett Andrews: Hey everybody. This is Brett Andrews with MicroVentures. Thank you all for joining us for the webinar today. Today we're going to be hearing from The Postage, a company founded to make legacy planning simple and affordable for all. We are joined today by their co-founder and CEO Emily Cisek. Emily has been recognized by The Houston Business Journal as an honoree on the 2021 Women Who Mean Business List and as a finalist on the Top Founders Under 40 for the Houston InnovationMap Awards. Prior to founding The Postage, Emily was the director of sales at Integrate Agency, a full-service digital and traditional marketing agency specializing in technology, energy, and real estate throughout Texas. With her extensive experience in leading, developing and launching robust marketing and communications programs, she led efforts for a number of clients across various industries to build out their digital initiatives.

Before that, she grew a professional career in Houston at Bounce Energy and Direct Energy as a digital marketing manager before spending several years in Austin leading a branch of Integrate Agency. Emily received her degree in business administration from Bryant University. How are you doing today, Emily?

Emily Cisek: I'm great. How are you?

Brett Andrews: Doing fantastic. I really appreciate you taking some time here to go through the presentation and further introduce folks to The Postage. So, for people listening in, just understand the expectations today. Emily is going to spend about 10 or 15 minutes going through her pitch deck. Hopefully you can see the intro slide on your screen there and she's going to give us a little bit more background on why she started the business and where things are currently today and then after that she's going to kick it back to me and we're going to go through a little bit of Q&A to get into the weeds a little bit further and stick around towards the end because we'll also point you to some places where you can find some more information or ask follow-up questions that you might have that we don't get to today. So, with that Emily, I'll let you take it away and introduce everyone to The Postage.

Emily Cisek: Awesome. So excited to be here. I'm Emily Cisek. Like Brett said, I am the CEO and co-founder of The Postage. I first wanted to start by kind of talking about why I started the business. So, a few years ago, I ended up in a six week period right after I moved to Austin going through three losses in a six week period. So on one hand, I had two grandmothers pass away within two weeks of each other, and my cousin's 13-month-old, and because of seeing that under a microscope, I really got to see the differences between how my grandmothers handled all of their pre-planning and how the families actually interacted after they passed. So you can see my grandmother actually right here, in this photo and she on one hand was meticulous, perfect planning kind of example of all the things that you needed in place. She had already downsized some of her assets, she figured out exactly how she wanted everything to be. And on that side, I was really able to celebrate her life and celebrate who she was and so our families really got to process that loss.

Well, unlike that, my other grandmother, who had a preplan for her funeral but didn't have all of the other items together, it was truly a scavenger hunt for my family and so the frustration and kind of aggravation between where things are, who's managing it, all of that really came to light and because I had such a stark comparison, I just knew there had to be a better way to manage this. Then also my cousin's 13-month-old passed away of bacterial meningitis in a week period, and so while a 13-month-old doesn't have any assets or passwords, there's also things that families need to deal with and manage and think about and so I knew then that I had to do something about this and being somebody who's brought many industries of offline business online, I knew I can make a difference, and so that's why I started The Postage a few years ago. I sat down, wrote a 50-page business plan and it all started there.

So really, we all know the problem. There is confusion around death. There is no one place for all your passwords. The process with estate planning is really cumbersome and expensive and so people don't want to do it. They think about it and they think, "Oh. I will get to it. Oh, I'll put these things together." Or they have a binder where they have all this information. Well then their families can't find it, and it's really a big problem. So that's why I started The Postage. So we really aim to make that simple and affordable for all. And so what we've done is really built a family operating system that brings everything you need together in one place. It's a mix between legal tech and fintech, and we meld this together so it's truly that one place for all your plans and your family, whether it's, you're looking for a password, you are going to a doctor's appointment with one of your children and you wanted to look up kind of something about the medications they're on or whatever you want to use it for, it really becomes that system for you.

So the market, what's really exciting about the market is it's huge and ultimately really bringing this industry to the forefront of technology and being able to leverage kind of the shifts that are going on and really the why now is because of COVID. It is something that has brought some of this planning to light. I think the differentiation between the businesses that are out there serving their employees and wealth managers, they need to be providing a service that's beyond their typical services and really the final why now is the aging population. Baby boomers are getting older, and then Generation X and millennials who are digitally savvy aren't going to want to kind of manage these things in paper, and so they're really starting to think about, "Okay, how can I really manage and plan this with my family?" So that's what's really exciting about the industry and the market.

So the team. I'm a first-time founder but the rest of the team are serial entrepreneurs that really have brought different businesses that were offline online.

Me, I have been at the energy side of things. Bounce Energy was one of the first energy suppliers that actually did all of their sales online and digitally, so no door to door salesmen, and we were able to leverage that and actually get acquired by Direct Energy and there I was part of the innovation and digital team where when the internet of things were just starting and nests and smart things and all of these companies were figuring out, "Oh, are people going to actually have these devices in their home," I was the one testing and piloting those programs and the subscriptions with all of our brands of customer.

So really over the last year and a half, what we first focused on is really having our technology in a place that was utmost secure and really a place where our users could do all of these things and make sure it wasn't just this daunting thing that you sat down and did at your computer, but also launched a mobile app so you can literally as you get an insurance policy in the mail, you can take a picture of it, you can share it with who you want to share it with, and you can kind of move on. Or even this week, I know it's Thanksgiving week so families who are making recipes, they can be jotting down notes as Great Aunt Betsy is making your family recipe, you're able to kind of capture that information on the go, so it doesn't need to be this daunting thing. And in that process, we realize and have done a lot of testing and learning and recognize, "Hey, what is the reason people are going to convert?"

In May, I ended up deciding, "Hey, let's pull forward our will builder by six months. Everything that we're seeing in the data and the feedback is telling us we need to actually provide a place where they can build simple documents." So in two and a half months, we ended up launching in Texas in July, and really have seen 800% increase in paid users since that. Our revenue has gone up 1,500% quarter over quarter. So it's really the direction that we saw and hoped for and now we are in 14 states and that's in less than a couple months, we've been able to get out to all the states that we aim to do.

So this is really our customer personas today, and what you'll find interesting about this is our products typically would be bucketed in with insurance and so women haven't typically been the group that has kind of shopped for insurance, that's the one thing where they're not really the key stakeholder in the home that's making those decisions, but what we saw because of our messaging features and some of our other features that they came in and were really interested over that feature and then realized, "Oh. Honey, look at all these other things that we can do," and so that's I think really a special niche that we're carving out and building as we kind of move forward and these are the ones that really told us hey, they want to be able to create documents. They want their kids who are in their thirties to be able to build those documents because they're having kids, and that's really kind of the path and why we launched the will builder.

So this slide, I'm not going to go through this. It's a little bit wordy, but it kind of talks through how this integrates with wealth managers, HR, and what have you. So you can see kind of that use case if you want to check it out. It's on our offering page and you can read it there.

So the business model that we have today is a flat fee, coupled with a subscription. We have had a lot of feedback and questions around, "Okay, what is the $3.99 a month for, how do we structure this?" And so there will be continued changes to this that you'll be seeing very soon in the next couple weeks, where we kind of adjust this a little bit so that it's a upfront fee, they're paying a yearly kind of renewal but everything that's included in that upfront fee is covered for the year and that includes your will, but like you can see, our gross margins are really high on this and it's a great product and of course software with economies of scale works well.

So really where we are now, we have that product roadmap. Once we get that married with our growth and marketing model, that's where the magic happens and so we've started to see early signs of that and we're going to continue to expand on that and so today, I think when we put this presentation today, we were considering launching in Ohio, Massachusetts, Georgia, New Jersey and Michigan. We are live in all of those markets. We have been able to do that fairly quickly and very leanly, so we're really excited about that and now we're going to be expanding to additional states. We're also looking into the B2B2C side and what that really means is partnering with wealth management groups, HR, the turnover and the health piece of being employed and being an employer has changed and that dynamic is continuing to change so finding ways that we can help employers be really engaged with not just their employee but their employees' families and having a place for all their information so that they really can show beyond, "Hey, we care about your typical benefits, but here are these add-ons as well."

So the use of funds, really it will be to continue our expansion in two more states. Our goal is to be across the U.S. by February (2022). So we'll continue that product and kind of geographical expansion and looking to our trust and power of attorney kind of documents next as well as closing some of those B2B deals. That money will help us kind of with outreach, with getting in front of the right people and structuring those deals and getting those out, and so it will be really great to send those updates in a few weeks.

And that is really kind of where we are today and where we're going and so I'm excited to be featured on MicroVentures and see what we can do together. So thank you for Brett and MicroVentures' team for letting me present today.

Brett Andrews:

Thanks Emily. That was a great presentation and I appreciate all the background and I especially enjoyed hearing sort of the origin story of why you got into this as someone who reviews a lot of early investment opportunities, I think that when someone is getting into a business because there's an emotional aspect to it, I tend to think that that just adds an extra layer of motivation to the team, so it's great to hear a little bit of background there.

I wanted to maybe quickly I guess first jump a little bit further into the product suite. So you had a couple slides that talked about the different things that you guys offer and maybe a better way of asking it is what are you seeing, in terms of your early users, as the most popular use case and I guess what are some areas that you think that you may be able to double down on more as you move into the future?

Emily Cisek:

Sure. So I think there's two key areas that we're really seeing ... Not only be why people come in, but they're the reasons that the features that start getting them to use the other pieces of the platform and so those things are the will. Obviously since we have launched that, we have seen big increases and so that naturally has a way that you can be sharing the documents with who you want and automatically stores into the pre-organized My Documents section that you can decide who and when and why you share things. So for example, you have your will document in there and you want to share it with your executor or you want to share it with one of your beneficiaries, but one of your other beneficiaries is under 18, so it's not something that you want to share today, it's something that you would share in the future.

What's great about it, is it's not just a Dropbox where you can have secure document storage, it's a pre-organized place where you can decide who, why and when people have access to it, and you can always remove them and so it makes it a little bit easier to organize but also for your loved ones later as they're getting things delivered, they get invited to the platform, they're able to see a view into the files that you shared but also start building their legacy and their platform so that really is helping us, the will product is helping us build out the document storage piece and show the benefits of that and the value to that, as well as leveraging those network effects that are naturally being kind of built each time somebody creates a will because it invites that person, "Hey, so and so has shared an important document with you." Create an account so you can actually view it today or in the future.

The other feature that I've been really surprised about based on the audience and who's been really engaged is our messaging feature and so what our messaging feature does is allows you to send messages after you pass and so what those messages can be, they can be very methodical and thought out of here's these instructions, my will is in the safe, my financial planner's information is this, and those kind of instructions, but they can also be preset to birthday, anniversary, very much a P.S. I Love You for those of you who have seen that movie. It allows you do those kinds of messages as well and what we've really seen with that is that 55+ women are very excited about that and in some of our marketing testing that we've done, pay-per-click typically has a higher conversion than social media but what has happened is women have been sharing that feature, talking about that feature and so that's one, as we think about our positioning of our product in the future, that we may kind of bucket as a separate product on its own or figure out a way where, "Hey, you get x number of messages and memories for this kind of price," and then kind of upsell them as we progress and as usage kind of increases there.

So those are the two key areas, but I think those feed into kind of the other features, like the password manager in the My Plan section where you can outline kind of all of your life things and where the product is going is really to have a next best action logic, to understand, "Okay, you're in your thirties, here are the things you need to be thinking about. Hey, you're in your forties. These are the things you need to be thinking about," and so on so it becomes a tool that you're using throughout your life and it's almost like a trusted advisor for you and that way engagement stays high throughout kind of the lifetime of a person and beyond. So it helps with today and life planning, but also for tomorrow, making it easier for you to control things but also your loved ones to kind of manage everything so that they can really celebrate and appreciate and process loss versus focused on the logistics.

Brett Andrews: Sure. Yeah, I love the idea of the network effect. It reminds me a little bit of the way Dropbox grew. It's like if you get invited to by somebody else to access some documents, now you're automatically aware of it, just by virtue of having gotten the invite, so no, it's a super compelling marketing tactic and I want to get to marketing in a second but first wanted to maybe ask about how the different states work. So you mentioned a couple times about the geographies that you're moving into. For folks who may not be kind of aware of what all is involved there, is moving into a new state as simple as, "Hey, we're just going to start marketing in Texas or North Carolina," or is it ... Is there licensing that you have to go through? I'm assuming there's different will and estate planning law that are incorporated in each state.

Emily Cisek: Yeah, no, absolutely. So really, in each state, while in the early 1980s, there was this bill that basically passed that there are some standards across jurisdictions, there are state-specific nuances and so what that really means is the definition in a will, how many signatures they have, if they have a self-proving affidavit. So there are different things per state, so when we think about a new state, we have a full process that is: we review kind of the documents, we understand the state laws, we work with estate lawyers in that state to kind of review is there any nuances to this, and then put together those requirements for our tech team to launch.

So there is a process to that and you have to be cognizant of all those laws and while we're not providing legal advice, we're providing complete documents for our users and so that's what that really means and today, while we are in 14 markets with our will product, the rest of our platform is accessible across the nation and so you can use it anywhere. It just won't have the will piece to it. But we'll be moving that out there, and so yeah. That's kind of the rules around that.

Brett Andrews: So the fact that you guys are doing the legwork there I think is valuable. In terms of determining which markets or states you go into, I guess how do you go about that? Is it kind of a combination of demographics as well as what the hurdles might be?

Emily Cisek: Yeah, so what we have done is basically categorize them into five different categories as far as ease of entry and so out of that we then bucketed it by population. So what we've done is basically population, demographics around that. So your California, your Texas, your Florida, your Arizona were kind of our initial markets, and from there it's truly been, "Okay, what are the biggest populations and what is the ease of entry into those?" There are certain states, for example Louisiana, is very complex. So Louisiana is likely going to be one of the last markets we do. But then there's other states that there's just a few different requirements, a different legal account and that sort of thing and so I'm really proud of my team from being able to launch at the end of July in one market and then now be in 14 and really been able to ...

Up to this point, have raised $1.3 million and have runway into where we'll hit two years and really have allowed that to stretch over two years to build a really strong, solid, secure product that we are proud of and so to be able to do that and then go out in 14 markets and do all the things that we've done, it's really great and so this money and what we're raising for now is really to take that to the next level and so anybody who invests is really going to be part of that and so I find that really exciting. I hope other people do too.

Brett Andrews:

Sure, and it's something that affects all of us at some point or another, right? So I think that that definitely should resonate. I had mentioned marketing, I wanted to ask a couple questions around this. So when you think of marketing for a product like this, I think maybe sort of two different things. One is tactics, how do you get in front of the consumer, and then second is demographics in the sense of who is that ideal consumer. So I'm sure you have this somewhat segmented but you've got folks who are kind of in a more ... Maybe older and a more immediate need of a service like this, and then you've got folks who are ... Maybe I think you mentioned in thirties, forties that probably would be wise to start planning for this, certainly if you're starting a family and you've got kids and all of the other things. How do you think about ... And maybe you can talk about kind of near term and what you've seen so far as well as you guys continue to grow. Those two buckets, so maybe the earlier but less immediate demo and then the more immediate demo and then how the different marketing tactics vary depending on who you're trying to get in front of.

Emily Cisek:

Yeah, so it's been really interesting with our ... We've only spent 60 to 100K on direct marketing tactics and really doing a lot of testing and learning to see what resonated and when we came out, Generation X was really the generation that we thought would be the buyers because they're in their mid to late forties, or beyond that, they have kids and they have aging parents. But what we've really seen with our marketing to date is, it's really been that 55+ group that has been really interested in our whole suite of products. I think at the younger age you think about it as, "Oh, like I do need a will. I just had my kids, but do I need to be thinking about these other things," and so we're working on ways to kind of keep those folks engaged and really segment, "Hey, these are the things you should be thinking about now and how you can use this on a more regular basis."

So marketing to them, the tactics we've used have ... Like I said before, pay-per-click is typically the higher converting tactic but it's expensive and so what we've seen is on that, with the wills, we've had a really good success on converting customers from that getting them in that way, but then on the social media side for messaging, all the 55+ women who are sharing with their friends, "Oh my goodness, look at this grandma and this baby, and this is so awesome. I want to share this with my family. I am thinking about my legacy, I am thinking about how I'm going to be remembered," and then sharing it across Facebook, which the different audiences, millennials are less on Facebook now and Gen Z are less on Facebook and more on other channels, so really curating the message with the audience with the kind of channel has been what we've learned so far.

I think also as we move forward, while direct to consumer, some of that marketing is really expensive, the way we can kind of leverage our channel partners and B2B2C relationships is to really be that growth engine that keeps our costs and our CAC (customer acquisition cost) down while being able to get tranches of customers at a time, without the heavy kind of marketing costs. I think with wills for example, we see 45 days to 60 days before somebody actually completes it so marketing we're doing months before and the retargeting is ultimately leading them to a conversion but it takes time to actually see that conversion happen and so we're looking at other ways to leverage different channels of marketing that keep our CAC down and really make us as efficient and effective as possible.

Brett Andrews:

Got it. Yeah, that is interesting, that that demographic is the one that ... That it's resonated so much with and I think it speaks to the user interface I guess or simplicity of your product. That pretty much anybody of all ages can get in there and figure out how to use it and then they're encouraged to share it with folks who are in a similar position as them. So last couple questions from me before we wrap up here, one topic I think is always of interest to potential investors is competitive landscape. So I think in software businesses in general, due to some of the low friction to get started, tend to be competitive. Certainly for a market this size, I think that it's one that I'm sure there's other firms out there that have their eyes on. You don't necessarily need to get into specifics with other companies but I was curious to maybe just get your take on sort of the competitive advantage that you see with The Postage and how you're positioned within the market relative to other solutions.

Emily Cisek:

Sure. I think what's really special about us is that ... I mean there are players and there's been a lot of players in movement and raises frankly, but because of the market being so big, there's an opportunity for many winners and so I think really what is special about us is we are an intergenerational holistic platform that is positioning ourselves not as a legal tech, not as just death tech, not as a fintech company but we're really bringing those together in a very highly curated way where we can reach out to niche markets, for example the female market that we're talking about, that may not be the same demographics that certain players out there are going for because of their leadership, because of where they've been successful and so really finding our niche that way is really important and I know establishing a moat or a distribution channel that's a little bit different from other players is really important to investors and so we are continually focused on, "Okay, we know kind of the things that we're going to be doing to make it very clear what our moats are."

I can't really get into that today but there are certain things around that and then our distribution channels as well with those B2B2C kind of relationships and those distribution channels that will really make us unique. I get that question a lot, like, "Oh, what if so and so adds this feature and what's their barrier?" Well sure, they could add that, but the way we've built our technology is let us do it really leanly and so for them to go and add some of the features that we have, it would be a lot more expensive and a lot more work and so that's something I'm proud of my CTO Ken and he built it from the ground up and that's really something that's special when people ask me that question too.

Brett Andrews: Sure, and last one from me is you talked a little bit about this on the use of funds but maybe just wanted to revisit/kind of dig a little deeper but in terms of just roadmap and what the execution strategy looks like, maybe you can kind of give listeners an idea of, "Okay, in the next six months, six to nine months or so, here is really the main things we're focused on tackling," and then maybe 12 to 18 and how you see that, that continuing to expand. I know you've touched on the B2B2C channels quite a few times here which I think are super interesting. We could probably spend an hour talking about all of that but yeah, I guess I would love to just maybe hear a recap on how you sort of see the next few moves from you guys over the next ... I don't know, six to twelve months.

Emily Cisek: Sure. So I think in the next six months, it's continuing to expand the will. Starting to get the power of attorney and trust documents and the research and development of that product as well as doing kind of those middle market B2B relationships and what I mean by that is segments that are ... They have 10,000 kind of customers or clients or employees, whether it's on the HR side, wealth management side or what have you, and so those are kind of our key focuses in the next six months.

Beyond that, it will be launching the trust and expanding that. It will be starting to build in and nurture relationships for bigger enterprise deals and getting kind of a channel partner manager or partnerships manager in the door. So beyond me, we're kind of reaching out and expanding our scope that way and longer term, to really ... Like I've said, focus on being that intergenerational holistic solution that gets you engaged at various different age points and there will be products that kind of align with that based on where you are, who you are, and kind of where you're going so that it's a product that you're continually engaging with throughout your life. So whether that's on insurance side or what have you, there's a lot of different avenues in products that are coming kind of in that next 12 months.

Brett Andrews: That's great. Well I think that's a good exciting place to wrap it up here. So before I give you the final parting thoughts or anywhere else you want to point folks towards, I want to thank you Emily for the time today. Also thank everyone who tuned into this. We really appreciate you taking time out of your busy day to learn a little bit more about The Postage and this investment opportunity. If you have any more questions after we sign off here that we didn't get to, first I would encourage you to check out the campaign page for The Postage on the MicroVentures website. The direct URL for that is invest.microventures.com/offerings/the-postage. You can also go to microventures.com, hit the Invest tab at the top and then scroll down and you should see The Postage tombstone, you can click there, it will get you to the same place.

We have a whole host of information we put together in conjunction with The Postage Team and Emily there that may answer a good bit of your questions if you didn't feel like we got to them. The pitch deck is also there for your reference. This webinar will be there for your reference. There's updates that Emily has been posting there as well and will probably continue to do so throughout the life of this campaign. The terms of the investment which we didn't go over today are there, as well as the associated perks, so I'd definitely encourage you to check out those. If you invest at different thresholds, there are some kind of bonuses that are pretty cool that come along with the investment. And then down at the bottom, there's a discussion forum. So we've had some really good questions come in from prospective investors already, so first I'd flip through those and see if maybe one of your questions may have already been answered but if it hasn't, then you can feel free to submit one there. Emily's been doing a very good job of addressing those, so I would encourage you to utilize that.

Then of course if you'd like to participate and join The Postage team in building this, we'd love to have you aboard. To do that, on that same page, there's a bright orange Invest tab which should be at the top right. If you have an account with us, I'm sure you know how this works. If not, I'd encourage you to sign up as it's free to do so you just put in your information and then you can decide how much you'd like to contribute to the raise. So that is probably the best place to go for information related to this offering but Emily, any kind of final thoughts you'd like to share or any other places you think you'd like to point people towards? I guess the website would probably be a good spot, particularly if they're in the market for this kind of service, I would encourage folks to check that out as well.

Emily Cisek:

Yeah, no, absolutely, thepostage.com, check us out, and I think ... really thankful for everybody who's participated already and really excited to have people really giving feedback and product feedback and loops that are happening really quickly, so I'm really excited about that and I can't wait to see all that we can accomplish together, so if you haven't participated yet, we would love to have you on board and can't wait to see what we can accomplish together, and thanks for your time today.

Brett Andrews:

Really appreciate it, Emily. Thanks again for you taking some time out of your busy day and I hope you have a great Thanksgiving holiday.

Emily Cisek: Yes, you too, and I hope everyone at home does as well.

Brett Andrews: All right, we'll talk soon.

Emily Cisek: Yeah.

Brett Andrews: Bye bye.

Emily Cisek: Bye.
