Million Marker offers customers the ability to learn more about their potential exposure to toxic chemicals and how to mitigate or eliminate their exposure through personalized behavior-based plans. Our vision is to discover over a million biomarkers of exposure. We believe these "Million Markers" will inform and improve individual health and advance precision medicine. We aim to achieve this goal by selling direct-to-consumer testing kits, building a comprehensive chemical metabolite database, and conducting research studies using our laboratory and technological platforms. Part of the Y-Combinator Spring 2019 cohort, Million Marker is raising more capital to purchase new laboratory equipment and hire additional chemists and researchers to scale its testing capabilities. RISK FACTORS

Risks Related to the Company's Business and Industry

We are an early stage company, with limited operating history.

We are an early stage company. We were formed as a corporation in Delaware on May 10, 2019. We have a limited operating history with which you can evaluate our business and prospects. Our prospects must be considered in light of the risks encountered by companies in the early stages of development in highly competitive markets, particularly the markets for integration platform as a service technology. You should consider the frequency with which early-stage businesses encounter unforeseen expenses, difficulties, complications, delays and other adverse factors. These risks are described in more detail below.

We have a history of losses. If we do not become profitable or maintain profitability in the future, we may not be able to continue to operate.

We have not been profitable in the past. We have not generated any significant revenues to date. Before we are able to generate any material level of revenues, we will incur significant additional losses. We expect to substantially increase our research and development and sales and marketing and general and administrative expenses. As a result, we will need to generate significant revenues to achieve and maintain profitability in the future. We cannot assure you that we will achieve profitable operations or maintain them if achieved. Failure to achieve or maintain profitability will materially and adversely affect our business.

We may not be able to manage future growth effectively.

If our business plan is successful, we may experience significant growth in a short period of time and potential scaling issues. Should we grow rapidly, our financial, management and operating resources may not expand sufficiently to adequately manage our growth. If we are unable to manage our growth, our costs may increase disproportionately, our future revenues may stop growing or decline and we may face dissatisfied customers. Our failure to manage our growth may adversely impact our business and the value of your investment.

We need to continue as a going concern if our business is to succeed.

Because of our recurring losses and negative cash flows from operations, we may not be able to continue as a going concern in the future. Reasons for our possible failure to continue as a going concern include our historical net losses, limited working capital, requirement to repay short and long term indebtedness and the need for additional financing to implement our business plan. If we are not able to attain profitability in the near future our financial condition could deteriorate further, which would have a material adverse impact on our business and prospects and result in a significant or complete loss of your investment. If we are unable to continue as a going concern, we might have to liquidate our assets and the values we receive for our assets in liquidation or dissolution could be significantly lower than the values reflected in our financial statements.

In order for the Company to compete and grow, it must attract, recruit, retain and develop the necessary personnel who have the needed experience.

Recruiting and retaining highly qualified personnel is critical to our success. These demands may require us to hire additional personnel and will require our existing management personnel to develop additional expertise. We face intense competition for personnel. The failure to attract and retain personnel or to develop such expertise could delay or halt the development and commercialization of our product candidates. If we experience difficulties in hiring and retaining personnel in key positions, we could suffer from delays in product development, loss of customers and sales and diversion of management resources, which could adversely affect operating results. Our consultants and advisors may be employed by third parties and may have commitments under consulting or advisory contracts with third parties that may limit their availability to us.

The development and commercialization of our products is highly competitive.

We face competition with respect to any products that we may seek to develop or commercialize in the future. Our competitors include both smaller companies and major companies operating worldwide, including True Health Labs, EverlyWell, Walk-In Lab, and PrivaPath Diagnostics. Many of our competitors have significantly greater financial, technical and human resources than we have and superior expertise in research and development and marketing approved products and thus may be better equipped than us to develop and commercialize products. These competitors also compete with us in recruiting and retaining qualified personnel and acquiring technologies. Smaller or early stage companies may also prove to be significant competitors, particularly through collaborative arrangements with large and established companies. Accordingly, our competitors may commercialize products more rapidly or effectively than we are able to, which would adversely affect our competitive position, the likelihood that our products will achieve initial market acceptance and our ability to generate meaningful additional revenues from our products.

The use of individually identifiable data by our business, our business associates and third parties is regulated at the state, federal and international levels.

Costs associated with information security – such as investment in technology, the costs of compliance with consumer protection laws and costs resulting from consumer fraud – could cause our business and results of operations to suffer materially. Additionally, the success of our online operations depends upon the secure transmission of confidential information over public networks, including the use of cashless payments. The intentional or negligent actions of employees, business associates or third parties may undermine our security measures. As a result, unauthorized parties may obtain access to our data systems and misappropriate confidential data. There can be no assurance that advances in computer capabilities, new discoveries in the field of cryptography or other developments will prevent the compromise of our customer transaction processing capabilities and personal data. If any such compromise of our security or the security of information residing with our business associates or third parties were to occur, it could have a material adverse effect on our reputation, operating results and financial condition. Any compromise of our data security may materially increase the costs we incur to protect against such breaches and could subject us to additional legal risk.

Through our operations, we collect and store certain personal information that our customers provide to purchase products or services, enroll in promotional programs, register on our web site, or otherwise communicate and interact with us.

We may share information about such persons with vendors that assist with certain aspects of our business. Security could be compromised and confidential customer or business information misappropriated. Loss of customer or business information could disrupt our operations, damage our reputation, and expose us to claims from customers, financial institutions, payment card associations and other persons, any of which could have an adverse effect on our business, financial condition and results of operations. In addition, compliance with tougher privacy and information security laws and standards may result in significant expense due to increased investment in technology and the development of new operational processes.

Security breaches and other disruptions could compromise our information and expose us to liability, which would cause our business and reputation to suffer.

We collect and store sensitive data, including intellectual property, our proprietary business information and that of our customers, suppliers and business partners, and personally identifiable information of our customers and employees, in our data centers and on our networks. The secure processing, maintenance and transmission of this information is critical to our operations and business strategy. Despite our security measures, our information technology and infrastructure may be vulnerable to attacks by hackers or breached due to employee error, malfeasance or other disruptions. Any such breach could compromise our networks and the information stored there could be accessed, publicly disclosed, lost or stolen. Any such access, disclosure or other loss of information could result in legal claims or proceedings, liability under laws that protect the privacy of personal information, and regulatory penalties, disrupt our operations and the services we provide to customers, and damage our reputation, and cause a loss of confidence in our products and services, which could adversely affect our business/operating margins, revenues and competitive position.

The secure processing, maintenance and transmission of this information is critical to our operations and business strategy, and we devote significant resources to protecting our information. The expenses associated with protecting our information could reduce our operating margins.

The Company's success depends on the experience and skill of the board of directors, its executive officers and key employees.

In particular, the Company is dependent on Jenna Hua who is CEO and President. There can be no assurance that Jenna will continue to be employed by the Company for a particular period of time. The loss of Jenna Hua or any member of the board of directors or executive officer could harm the Company's business, financial condition, cash flow and results of operations.

Although dependent on certain key personnel, the Company does not have any key man life insurance policies on any such people.

The Company is dependent on Jenna Hua in order to conduct its operations and execute its business plan, however, the Company has not purchased any insurance policies with respect to those individuals in the event of their death or disability. Therefore, if any of Jenna Hua die or become disabled, the Company will not receive any compensation to assist with such person's absence. The loss of such person could negatively affect the Company and its operations.

We have not prepared any audited financial statements.

Therefore, you have no audited financial information regarding the Company's capitalization or assets or liabilities on which to make your investment decision. If you feel the information provided is insufficient, you should not invest in the Company.

The Company has indicated that it has engaged in certain transactions with related persons.

Please see the section of this Offering Statement entitled "Transactions with Related Persons and Conflicts of Interest" for further details.

We are subject to income taxes as well as non-income based taxes, such as payroll, sales, use, value-added, net worth, property and goods and services taxes, in both the U.S. and various jurisdictions.

Significant judgment is required in determining our provision for income taxes and other tax liabilities. In the ordinary course of our business, there are many transactions and calculations where the ultimate tax determination is uncertain. Although we believe that our tax estimates are reasonable: (i) there is no assurance that the final determination of tax audits or tax disputes will not be different from what is reflected in our income tax provisions, expense amounts for non-income based taxes and accruals and (ii) any material differences could have an adverse effect on our financial position and results of operations in the period or periods for which determination is made.

We are not subject to Sarbanes-Oxley regulations and lack the financial controls and safeguards required of public companies.

We do not have the internal infrastructure necessary, and are not required, to complete an attestation about our financial controls that would be required under Section 404 of the Sarbanes-Oxley Act of 2002. There can be no assurance that there are no significant deficiencies or material weaknesses in the quality of our financial controls. We expect to incur additional expenses and diversion of management's time if and when it becomes necessary to perform the system and process evaluation, testing and remediation required in order to comply with the management certification and auditor attestation requirements.

Changes in employment laws or regulation could harm our performance.

Various federal and state labor laws govern our relationship with our employees and affect operating costs. These laws include minimum wage requirements, overtime pay, healthcare reform and the implementation of the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act, unemployment tax rates, workers' compensation rates, citizenship requirements, union membership and sales taxes. A number of factors could adversely affect our operating results, including additional government-imposed increases in minimum wages, overtime pay, paid leaves of absence and mandated health benefits, mandated training for employees, increased tax reporting and tax payment requirements for employees who receive tips, a reduction in the number of states that allow tips to be credited toward minimum wage requirements, changing regulations from the National Labor Relations Board and increased employee litigation including claims relating to the Fair Labor Standards Act.

The Company's business operations may be materially adversely affected by a pandemic such as the Coronavirus (COVID-19) outbreak.

In December 2019, a novel strain of coronavirus was reported to have surfaced in Wuhan, China, which spread throughout other parts of the world, including the United States. On January 30, 2020, the World Health Organization declared the outbreak of the coronavirus disease (COVID-19) a "Public Health Emergency of International Concern." On January 31, 2020, U.S. Health and Human Services Secretary Alex M. Azar II declared a public health emergency for the United States to aid the U.S. healthcare community in responding to COVID-19, and on March 11, 2020 the World Health Organization characterized the outbreak as a "pandemic." COVID-19 resulted in a widespread health crisis that adversely affected the economies and financial markets worldwide. The Company's business could be materially and adversely affected. The extent to which COVID-19 impacts the Company's business will depend on future developments, which are highly uncertain and cannot be predicted, including new information which may emerge concerning the severity of COVID-19 and the actions to contain COVID-19 or treat its impact, among others. If the disruptions posed by COVID-19 or other matters of global concern continue for an extended period of time, the Company's operations may be materially adversely affected.

We face risks related to health epidemics and other outbreaks, which could significantly disrupt the Company's operations and could have a material adverse impact on us.

The outbreak of pandemics and epidemics could materially and adversely affect the Company's business, financial condition, and results of operations. If a pandemic occurs in areas in which we have material operations or sales, the Company's business activities originating from affected areas, including sales, materials, and supply chain related activities, could be adversely affected. Disruptive activities could include the temporary closure of facilities used in the Company's supply chain processes, restrictions on the export or shipment of products necessary to run the Company's business, business closures in impacted areas, and restrictions on the Company's employees' or consultants' ability to travel and to meet with customers, vendors or other business relationships. The extent to which a pandemic or other health outbreak impacts the Company's results will depend on future developments, which are highly uncertain and cannot be predicted, including new information which may emerge concerning the severity of a virus and the actions to contain it or treat its impact, among others. Pandemics can also result in social, economic, and labor instability which may adversely impact the Company's business.

If the Company's employees or employees of any of the Company's vendors, suppliers or customers become ill or are quarantined and in either or both events are therefore unable to work, the Company's operations could be subject to disruption. The extent to which a pandemic affects the Company's results will depend on future developments that are highly uncertain and cannot be predicted.

Maintaining, extending and expanding our reputation and brand image are essential to our business success.

We seek to maintain, extend, and expand our brand image through marketing investments, including advertising and consumer promotions, and product innovation. Increasing attention on marketing could adversely affect our brand image. It could also lead to stricter regulations and greater scrutiny of marketing practices. Existing or increased legal or regulatory restrictions on our advertising, consumer promotions and marketing, or our response to those restrictions, could limit our efforts to maintain, extend and expand our brands. Moreover, adverse publicity about regulatory or legal action against us could damage our reputation and brand image, undermine our customers' confidence and reduce long-term demand for our products, even if the regulatory or legal action is unfounded or not material to our operations.

In addition, our success in maintaining, extending, and expanding our brand image depends on our ability to adapt to a rapidly changing media environment. We increasingly rely on social media and online dissemination of advertising campaigns. The growing use of social and digital media increases the speed and extent that information or misinformation and opinions can be shared. Negative posts or comments about us, our brands or our products on social or digital media, whether or not valid, could seriously damage our brands and reputation. If we do not establish, maintain, extend and expand our brand image, then our product sales, financial condition and results of operations could be adversely affected.

We must correctly predict, identify, and interpret changes in consumer preferences and demand, offer new products to meet those changes, and respond to competitive innovation.

Consumer preferences our products change continually. Our success depends on our ability to predict, identify, and interpret the tastes and habits of consumers and to offer products that appeal to consumer preferences. If we do not offer products that appeal to consumers, our sales and market share will decrease. We must distinguish between short-term fads, mid-term trends, and long-term changes in consumer preferences. If we do not accurately predict which shifts in consumer preferences will be long-term, or if we fail to introduce new and improved products to satisfy those preferences, our sales could decline. In addition, because of our varied customer base, we must offer an array of products that satisfy the broad spectrum of consumer preferences. If we fail to expand our product offerings successfully across product categories, or if we do not rapidly develop products in faster growing and more profitable categories, demand for our products could decrease, which could materially and adversely affect our product sales, financial condition, and results of operations.

In addition, achieving growth depends on our successful development, introduction, and marketing of innovative new products and line extensions. Successful innovation depends on our ability to correctly anticipate customer and consumer acceptance, to obtain, protect and maintain necessary intellectual property rights, and to avoid infringing the intellectual property rights of others and failure to do so could compromise our competitive position and adversely impact our business.

Substantial disruption to production at our manufacturing and distribution facilities could occur.

A disruption in production at our manufacturing facility or at our third-party manufacturing facilities could have an adverse effect on our business. In addition, a disruption could occur at the facilities of our suppliers or distributors. The disruption could occur for many reasons, including fire, natural disasters, weather, water scarcity, manufacturing problems, disease, strikes, transportation or supply interruption, government regulation, cybersecurity attacks or terrorism. Alternative facilities with sufficient capacity or capabilities may not be available, may cost substantially more or may take a significant time to start production, each of which could negatively affect our business and results of operations.

Certain provisions of the Health Care Reform Law could affect us adversely.

The Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act as amended by the Health Care and Education Reconciliation Act (the Healthcare Reform Law), each enacted in March 2010, generally known as the Health Care Reform Law, significantly expand health insurance coverage to uninsured Americans and changes the way health care is financed by both governmental and private payers. Additionally, further federal and state proposals for health care reform are likely. Such regulation could have a negative effect on our business, financial condition, and results of operations.

The Health Care Reform Law 2.3% excise tax on domestic sales of medical devices by manufacturers and importers beginning in 2013, and the fee on branded prescription drugs and biologics that was implemented in 2011, may adversely affect sales and cost of goods sold.

For example, (i) where we purchase medical devices from third-party manufacturers, the manufacturers may increase their prices to cover their payment of the excise tax and our costs to purchase such medical devices may therefore increase and (ii) where we manufacture medical devices or are the importer of record, our cost of goods sold have increased because we are subject to paying the excise tax.

The healthcare industry is highly regulated.

We are subject to regulation in the U.S. at both the federal and state level and in foreign countries. In addition, the U.S. federal and state governments have allocated greater resources to the enforcement of these laws. If we fail to comply with these regulatory requirements, or if allegations are made that we failed to comply, our results of operations and financial condition could be adversely affected.

Products that we manufacture, source, distribute or market are required to comply with regulatory requirements.

To lawfully operate our businesses, we are required to hold permits, licenses and other regulatory approvals from, and to comply with operating and security standards of, governmental bodies. Failure to maintain or renew necessary permits, licenses or approvals, or noncompliance or concerns over noncompliance may result in suspension of our ability to distribute, import or manufacture products, product recalls or seizures, or criminal and civil sanctions and could have an adverse effect on our results of operations and financial condition.

We are subject to various U.S. federal and state laws pertaining to health care fraud and abuse, including anti-kickback, self-referral, false claims and fraud laws, and any violations by us of such laws could result in fines or other penalties.

We are subject to the various U.S. federal and state laws intended to prevent health care fraud and abuse. The federal anti-kickback statute prohibits the offer, receipt, or payment of remuneration in exchange for or to induce the referral of patients or the use of products or services that would be paid for in whole or part by Medicare, Medicaid or other federal health care programs. Remuneration has been broadly defined to include anything of value, including cash, improper discounts, and free or reduced price items and services. Many states have similar laws that apply to their state health care programs as well as private payors. Violations of the anti-kickback laws can result in exclusion from federal health care programs and substantial civil and criminal penalties.

The False Claims Act (FCA) imposes liability on persons who, among other things, present or cause to be presented false or fraudulent claims for payment by a federal health care program. The FCA has been used to prosecute persons submitting claims for payment that are inaccurate or fraudulent, that are for services not provided as claimed, or for services that are not medically necessary. The FCA includes a whistleblower provision that allows individuals to bring actions on behalf of the federal government and share a portion of the recovery of successful claims. If our marketing or other arrangements were determined to violate the FCA or anti-kickback or related laws, then our revenue could be adversely affected, which would likely harm our business, financial condition, and results of operations.

State and federal authorities have aggressively targeted medical technology companies for alleged violations of these anti-fraud statutes, based on improper research or consulting contracts with doctors, certain marketing arrangements that rely on volume-based pricing, off-label marketing schemes, and other improper promotional practices. Companies targeted in such prosecutions have paid substantial fines in the hundreds of millions of dollars or more, have been forced to implement extensive corrective action plans or Corporate Integrity Agreements, and have often become subject to consent decrees severely restricting the manner in which they conduct their business. If we become the target of such an investigation or prosecution based on our contractual relationships with providers or institutions, or our marketing and promotional practices, we could face similar sanctions, which would materially harm our business.

Our research and development efforts may not succeed in developing commercially successful products and technologies, which may limit our ability to achieve profitability.

We must continue to explore opportunities that may lead to new products and technologies. To accomplish this, we must commit substantial efforts, funds, and other resources to research and development. A high rate of failure is inherent in the research and development of new products and technologies. Any such expenditures that we make will be made without any assurance that our efforts will be successful. Failure can occur at any point in the process, including after significant funds have been invested.

Regardless of whether our clinical trials are deemed to be successful, promising new product candidates may fail to reach the market or may only have limited commercial success because of efficacy or safety concerns, failure to achieve positive clinical outcomes, inability to obtain necessary regulatory approvals or satisfy regulatory criteria, limited scope of approved uses, excessive costs to manufacture, the failure to establish or maintain intellectual property rights, or infringement of the intellectual property rights of others.

Even if we successfully develop new products or enhancements, they may be quickly rendered obsolete by changing customer preferences, changing industry standards, or competitors' innovations. Innovations may not be quickly accepted in the marketplace because of, among other things, entrenched patterns of clinical practice or uncertainty over third-party reimbursement. We cannot state with certainty when or whether any of our products under development will be launched, whether we will be able to develop, license, or otherwise acquire drug candidates or products, or whether any products will be commercially successful. Failure to launch successful new products or new indications for existing products may cause our products to become obsolete, which may limit our ability to achieve profitability.

We could experience difficulties and delays in the manufacturing, distribution and sale of our products.

Our product supply and related patient access could be negatively impacted by, among other things: (i) product seizures or recalls or forced closings of manufacturing plants; (ii) disruption in supply chain continuity including from natural or man-made disasters at one of our facilities or at a critical supplier, as well as our failure or the failure of any of our suppliers to comply with Current Good Manufacturing Practices and other applicable regulations or quality assurance guidelines that could lead to manufacturing shutdowns, product shortages or delays in product manufacturing; (iii) manufacturing, quality assurance/quality control, supply problems or governmental approval delays; (iv) the failure of a sole source or single source supplier to provide us with the necessary raw materials, supplies or finished goods within a reasonable timeframe; (v) the failure of a third-party manufacturer to supply us with bulk active or finished product on time; (vi) construction or regulatory approval delays for new facilities or the expansion of existing facilities, including those intended to support future demand for our biologics products; (vii) the failure to meet new and emerging regulations requiring products to be tracked throughout the distribution channels using unique identifiers to verify their authenticity in the supply chain; and (viii) other manufacturing or distribution issues, including limits to manufacturing capacity due to regulatory requirements, and changes in the types of products produced, such as biologics, physical limitations or other business interruptions, any of which could have a negative effect on our business and results of operations.

We are dependent on our collaborative agreements for the development of products and business development, which exposes us to the risk of reliance on the viability of third parties.

In conducting our research and development activities, we currently rely, and will in the future rely, on collaborative agreements with third parties such as manufacturers, contract research organizations, commercial partners, universities, governmental agencies and not-for-profit organizations for both strategic and financial resources. The loss of, or failure to perform by us or our partners under, any applicable agreements or arrangements, or our failure to secure additional agreements for other products in development, would substantially disrupt or delay our research and development and commercialization activities. Any such loss would likely increase our expenses and materially harm our business, financial condition and results of operation.

Reliance on third-party relationships and outsourcing arrangements could adversely affect our business.

We utilize third parties, including suppliers, alliances with other pharmaceutical and biotechnology companies, and third-party service providers, for selected aspects of product development, the manufacture and commercialization of certain products, support for information technology systems, and certain financial transactional processes. For example, we outsource the day-to-day management and oversight of our clinical trials to contract research organizations the manufacture of certain of our products. Outsourcing these functions involves the risk that the third parties may not perform to our standards or legal requirements, may not produce reliable results, may not perform in a timely manner, may not maintain the confidentiality of our proprietary information, or may fail to perform at all. Failure of these third parties to meet their contractual, regulatory, confidentiality, or other obligations to us could have a material adverse effect on our business.

Risks Related to the Securities

The Crowd Note will not be freely tradable until one year from the initial purchase date. Although the Crowd Note may be tradable under federal securities law, state securities regulations may apply and each Purchaser should consult with his or her attorney.

You should be aware of the long-term nature of this investment. There is not now and likely will not be a public market for the Crowd Note. Because the Crowd Note have not been registered under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended (the “Securities Act”) or under the securities laws of any state or non-United States jurisdiction, the Crowd Note have transfer restrictions and cannot be resold in the United States except pursuant to Rule 501 of Regulation CF. It is not currently contemplated that registration under the Securities Act or other securities laws will be effected. Limitations on the transfer of the Crowd Note may also adversely affect the price that you might be able to obtain for the Crowd Note in a private sale. Purchasers should be aware of the long-term nature of their investment in the Company. Each Purchaser in this Offering will be required to represent that it is purchasing the Securities for its own account, for investment purposes and not with a view to resale or distribution thereof.

You will not have a vote or influence on the management of the Company.

All decisions with respect to the management of the Company will be made exclusively by the officers, directors, managers or employees of the Company. You, as a Purchaser of Crowd Notes, will have no ability to vote on issues of Company management and will not have the right or power to take part in the management of the company and will not be represented on the board of directors or managers of the Company. Accordingly, no person should purchase a Security unless he or she is willing to entrust all aspects of management to the Company.

Affiliates of the Company, including officers, directors and existing shareholders of the Company, may invest in this Offering and their funds will be counted toward the Company achieving the Minimum Amount.

There is no restriction on affiliates of the Company, including its officers, directors and existing shareholders, investing in the Offering. As a result, it is possible that if the Company has raised some funds, but not reached the Minimum Amount, affiliates can contribute the balance so that there will be a closing. The Minimum Amount is typically intended to be a protection for investors and gives investors confidence that other investors, along with them, are sufficiently interested in the Offering and the Company and its prospects to make an investment of at least the Minimum Amount. By permitting affiliates to invest in the offering and make up any shortfall between what non-affiliate investors have invested and the Minimum Amount, this protection is largely eliminated. Investors should be aware that no funds other than their own and those of affiliates investing along with them may be invested in this Offering.

Neither the Offering nor the Securities have been registered under federal or state securities laws, leading to an absence of certain regulation applicable to the Company.

No governmental agency has reviewed or passed upon this Offering, the Company or any Securities of the Company. The Company also has relied on exemptions from securities registration requirements under applicable state securities laws. Investors in the Company, therefore, will not receive any of the benefits that such registration would otherwise provide. Prospective investors must therefore assess the adequacy of disclosure and the fairness of the terms of this Offering on their own or in conjunction with their personal advisors.

No Guarantee of Return on Investment

There is no assurance that a Purchaser will realize a return on its investment or that it will not lose its entire investment. For this reason, each Purchaser should read the Form C/A and all Exhibits carefully and should consult with its own attorney and business advisor prior to making any investment decision.

Upon conversion of the Crowd Notes, Purchasers who are not “Major Investors” will grant a proxy to vote their underlying securities to the intermediary or its affiliate, and, thus, will not have the right to vote on any matters coming before the shareholders of the Company for a vote. By granting this proxy you are giving up your right to vote on important matters, including significant corporate actions like mergers, amendments to our certificate of incorporation, a liquidation of our company and the election of our directors.

Upon conversion of the Crowd Notes and by virtue of a provision contained in the Crowd Notes, if you are not a Major Investor, that is, an investor who has purchased at least $25,000 in principal amount of the Crowd Notes, you will grant a proxy to the intermediary or its affiliate to vote the underlying securities that you will acquire upon conversion on all matters coming before the shareholders for a vote. The intermediary does not have any fiduciary duty to you to vote shares in a manner that is in your best interests. Accordingly, the intermediary may vote its proxy in a manner that may not be in the best interests of you as a security holder. For example, the intermediary may vote the proxy in favor of an amendment to our charter that adversely affects the rights of the holders of your class of securities in order to allow for a new investment to occur where the new investor requires senior rights.

The Company has the right to extend the Offering deadline.

The Company may extend the Offering deadline beyond what is currently stated herein. This means that your investment may continue to be held in escrow while the Company attempts to raise the Minimum Amount even after the Offering deadline stated herein is reached. Your investment will not be accruing interest during this time and will simply be held until such time as the new Offering deadline is reached without the Company receiving the Minimum Amount, at which time it will be returned to you without interest or deduction, or the Company receives the Minimum Amount, at which time it will be released to the Company to be used as set forth herein. Upon or shortly after release of such funds to the Company, the Securities will be issued and distributed to you.

The Company has the right to end the Offering early.

The Company may also end the Offering early; if the Offering reaches its target Offering amount after 30-calendar days but before the deadline, the Company can end the Offering with five business days’ notice. This means your failure to participate in the Offering in a timely manner, may prevent you from being able to participate – it also means the Company may limit the amount of capital it can raise during the Offering by ending it early.

There is no present market for the Securities and we have arbitrarily set the price.

We have arbitrarily set the price of the Securities with reference to the general status of the securities market and other relevant factors. The Offering price for the Securities should not be considered an indication of the actual value of the Securities and is not based on our net worth or prior earnings. We cannot assure you that the Securities could be resold by you at the Offering price or at any other price.

Purchasers will be unable to declare the Security in “default” and demand repayment.

Unlike convertible notes and some other securities, the Securities do not have any “default” provisions upon which the Purchasers will be able to demand repayment of their investment. With respect to Purchasers who invest less than $25,000 in the Securities, the Company has ultimate discretion as to whether or not to convert the Securities upon a future equity financing and such Purchasers have no right to demand such conversion. Only in limited circumstances, such as a liquidity event, may Such Purchasers demand payment and even then, such payments will be limited to the amount of cash available to the Company.

The Company may never elect to convert the Securities or undergo a liquidity event.

The Company may never receive a future equity financing or, with respect to those Purchasers who invest less than $25,000, elect to convert the Securities upon such future financing. In addition, the Company may never undergo a liquidity event such as a sale of the Company or an IPO. If neither the conversion of the Securities nor a liquidity event occurs, the Purchasers could be left holding the Securities in perpetuity. The Securities have numerous transfer restrictions and will likely be highly illiquid, with no secondary market on which to sell them. The Securities are not equity interests, have no ownership rights, have no rights to the Company's assets or profits and have no voting rights or ability to direct the Company or its actions.

The Company has the right to conduct multiple closings during the Offering.

If the Company meets certain terms and conditions, and more than thirty (30) days remain before the Offering Deadline, an intermediate close of the Offering can occur, which will allow the Company to draw down on the first $75,000 of the proceeds of the offering committed and captured during the relevant period, as well as every $125,000 raised after. The Company may choose to continue the Offering thereafter. Purchasers should be mindful that this means they can make multiple investment commitments in the offering, which may be subject to different cancellation rights. For example, if an intermediate close occurs and later a material change occurs as the Offering continues, Purchasers previously closed upon will not have the right to re-confirm their investment as it will be deemed completed.

In addition to the risks listed above, businesses are often subject to risks not foreseen or fully appreciated by the management. It is not possible to foresee all risks that may affect us. Moreover, the Company cannot predict whether the Company will successfully effectuate the Company's current business plan. Each prospective Purchaser is encouraged to carefully analyze the risks and merits of an investment in the Securities and should take into consideration when making such analysis, among other, the Risk Factors discussed above.

THE SECURITIES OFFERED INVOLVE A HIGH DEGREE OF RISK AND MAY RESULT IN THE LOSS OF YOUR ENTIRE INVESTMENT. ANY PERSON CONSIDERING THE PURCHASE OF THESE SECURITIES SHOULD BE AWARE OF THESE AND OTHER FACTORS SET FORTH IN THIS FORM C/A AND SHOULD CONSULT WITH HIS OR HER LEGAL, TAX AND FINANCIAL ADVISORS PRIOR TO MAKING AN INVESTMENT IN THE SECURITIES. THE SECURITIES SHOULD ONLY BE PURCHASED BY PERSONS WHO CAN AFFORD TO LOSE ALL OF THEIR INVESTMENT.

BUSINESS

Description of the Business

Million Marker offers customers the ability to learn more about their potential exposure to toxic chemicals and how to mitigate or eliminate their exposure through personalized behavior-based plans. Our vision is to discover over a million biomarkers of exposure. We believe these "Million Markers" will inform and improve individual health and advance precision medicine. We aim to achieve this goal by selling direct-to-consumer testing kits, building a comprehensive chemical metabolite database, and conducting research studies using our laboratory and technological platforms. Part of the Y-Combinator Spring 2019 cohort, Million Marker is raising more capital to purchase new laboratory equipment and hire additional chemists and researchers to scale its testing capabilities. The Company believes achieving economies of scale can reduce the unit costs of its mail-in testing and make it more affordable for its consumers to “learn what’s inside.”

Business Plan

Million Marker utilizes metabolomics (the study of chemicals that are involved in metabolism) and personal exposure analysis to help individuals to measure and track their own exposures to environmental toxins. FINANCIAL INFORMATION

Please see the financial information listed on the cover page of this Form C/A and attached hereto in addition to the following information. Financial statements are attached hereto as Exhibit A.

Operations

The Company is currently raising its seed round of financing. Following the Offering, we should have enough liquidity to execute our business plan until 2022. We intend to be profitable by the end of 2021. Our significant challenges are establishing our own lab and bringing down the unit economics of the test we are offering.

The Company intends to achieve profitability in the next 12 months by establishing its own lab and bring down the unit economics. We aim to then work with several channels to offer and sell our service.

Liquidity and Capital Resources

The Offering proceeds are essential to our operations. We plan to use the proceeds as set forth above under "use of proceeds", which is an indispensable element of our business strategy. The Offering proceeds will have a beneficial effect on our liquidity, as we had $124,319 in cash on hand on December 31, 2020, which will be augmented by the Offering proceeds and used to execute our business strategy.

The Company does not have any additional sources of capital other than the proceeds from the Offering.

Capital Expenditures and Other Obligations

The Company does not intend to make any material capital expenditures in the future.

Material Changes and Other Information

Trends and Uncertainties

After reviewing the above discussion of the steps the Company intends to take, potential Purchasers should consider whether achievement of each step within the estimated time frame is realistic in their judgment. Potential Purchasers should also assess the consequences to the Company of any delays in taking these steps and whether the Company will need additional financing to accomplish them.

The financial statements are an important part of this Form C/A and should be reviewed in their entirety. The financial statements of the Company are attached hereto as Exhibit A.

THE OFFERING AND THE SECURITIES

The Offering

The Company is offering up to 250,000 of Crowd Notes for up to $250,000.00. The Company is attempting to raise a minimum amount of $25,000.00 in this Offering (the "Minimum Amount"). The Company must receive commitments from investors in an amount totaling the Minimum Amount by March 8, 2021 (the "Offering Deadline") in order to receive any funds. If the sum of the investment commitments does not equal or exceed the Minimum Amount by the Offering Deadline, no Securities will be sold in the Offering, investment commitments will be cancelled and committed funds will be returned to potential investors without interest or deductions. The Company has the right to extend the Offering Deadline at its discretion. The Company will accept investments in excess of the Minimum Amount up to $250,000.00 (the "Maximum Amount") and the additional Securities will be allocated on at the Company's discretion.

The price of the Securities does not necessarily bear any relationship to the Company's asset value, net worth, revenues or other established criteria of value, and should not be considered indicative of the actual value of the Securities.

In order to purchase the Securities you must make a commitment to purchase by completing the Subscription Agreement. Purchaser funds will be held in escrow with Evolve Bank & Trust until the Minimum Amount of investments is reached. Purchasers may cancel an investment commitment until 48 hours prior to the Offering Deadline or the Closing, whichever comes first using the cancellation mechanism provided by the Intermediary. The Company will notify Purchasers when the Minimum Amount has been reached. If the Company reaches the Minimum Amount prior to the Offering Deadline, it may close the Offering at least five (5) days after reaching the Minimum Amount and providing notice to the Purchasers. If any material change (other than reaching the Minimum Amount) occurs related to the Offering prior to the Offering Deadline, the Company will provide notice to Purchasers and receive reconfirmations from Purchasers who have already made commitments. If a Purchaser does not reconfirm his or her investment commitment after a material change is made to the terms of the Offering, the Purchaser's investment commitment will be cancelled and the committed funds will be returned without interest or deductions.

In the event that $75,000 in investments is committed and received by the escrow agent and more than thirty (30) days remain before the Offering Deadline, the Company may conduct the first of multiple closings of the Offering (an "Intermediate Close"), provided all investors receive notice that an Intermediate Close will occur and funds will be released to the Company, at least five (5) business days prior to the Intermediate Close (absent a material change that would require an extension of the offering and reconfirmation of the investment commitment). Investors who committed on or before such notice will have until 48 hours before the Intermediate Close to cancel their investment commitment.

In the event the Company does conduct the first of multiple closes, the Company agrees to only withdraw $75,000 from escrow and will only conduct the Intermediate Close if more than thirty (30) days remain before the Offering Deadline. The Company may only conduct another Intermediate Close before the Offering Deadline if: (i) the amount of investment commitments made and received in escrow exceeds $125,000 since the time of the last Intermediate Close; and (ii) more than thirty (30) days remain before the Offering Deadline.

If a Purchaser does not cancel an investment commitment before an Intermediate Close or before the Offering Deadline, the funds will be released to the Company upon closing of the Offering and the Purchaser will receive the Securities in exchange for his or her investment. Any Purchaser funds received after the initial closing will be released to the Company upon a subsequent closing, and the Purchaser will receive Securities in exchange for his or her investment as soon as practicable thereafter.

The Company agrees to return all funds to investors in the event a Form C/A-W is ultimately filed in relation to this Offering, regardless of any subsequent closes.

Subscription Agreements are not binding on the Company until accepted by the Company, which reserves the right to reject, in whole or in part, in its sole and absolute discretion, any subscription. If the Company rejects all or a portion of any subscription, the applicable prospective Purchaser's funds will be returned without interest or deduction.

The price of the Securities was determined arbitrarily. The minimum amount that a Purchaser may invest in the Offering is $100.00.

The Offering is being made through MicroVenture Marketplace, Inc., the Intermediary. The following two fields set forth the compensation being paid in connection with the Offering.

Commission/Fees

At the conclusion of the Offering, the Issuer shall pay to the Intermediary a fee consisting of five percent (5%) commission based on the amount of investments raised in the Offering and paid upon distribution of funds from escrow at the time of closing.

Stock, Warrants and Other Compensation

The Intermediary will receive a number of Crowd Notes of the Issuer equal to two percent (2%) of the total number of Securities sold by the Issuer in the Offering.

Transfer Agent and Registrar

The Company will act as transfer agent and registrar for the Securities.

The Securities

We request that you please review our organizational documents in conjunction with the following summary information.

Authorized Capitalization

See “CAPITALIZATION AND OWNERSHIP” above.

General

A Crowd Note is similar to a SAFE (Simple Agreement for Future Equity) security where an investor makes a cash investment in our company, but gets company stock at a later date in connection with a specific event. Although the security is called a Crowd Note, the Crowd Note is not a debt instrument. It is intended to be an alternative to a convertible note that is beneficial for both our company and you as an investor.

Events Triggering Conversion of Crowd Notes

If you are a Major Investor, which is defined as an investor who invests at least $25,000 in this offering, then the specified event upon which the Crowd Note would convert into capital stock of our company is a Qualified Equity Financing, which we define below.

If you are not a Major Investor, then the Crowd Note will only convert into capital stock of our company upon the earlier of (i) our company’s election to convert your Crowd Note, or (ii) a Corporate Transaction that occurs after a Qualified Equity Financing.

Qualified Equity Financing

The Crowd Note defines “Qualified Equity Financing” as the first sale (or series of related sales) by us of our preferred stock following the closing of this offering from which we receive gross proceeds of not less than $1,000,000.00 (excluding the aggregate amount of securities converted into preferred stock in connection with such sale (or series of related sales)).

If the Crowd Note converts into equity in connection with a Qualified Equity Financing, then we will convert the Crowd Note into shares of our preferred stock that are issued in connection with the Qualified Equity Financing, which we refer to as Conversion Shares, equal to the quotient obtained by dividing the outstanding principal amount of the Crowd Note by the Conversion Price, which is defined below. The issuance of Conversion Shares will be on the same terms and conditions applicable to the stock sold in the Qualified Equity Financing; provided, however, that if you are not a Major Investor, you will receive shares of a shadow series, as we describe below, with certain limited rights. The Conversion Price applicable to a Qualified Equity Financing is the lower of:

(A) the product of (1) one minus any applicable Discount, and (2) the price paid per share for preferred stock by the investors in the Qualified Equity Financing, or

(B) the quotient resulting from dividing (1) the Valuation Cap ($9 million or $10 million, depending on whether the Purchaser is an early bird investor), as defined below by (2) the total number of our shares of capital stock that are outstanding on a fully diluted basis (assuming for this purpose the exercise, exchange or conversion of all securities exercisable or exchangeable for, or convertible into, our capital stock), immediately prior to the closing of the Qualified Equity Financing.

Any investor who is not a Major Investor will receive a shadow series of preferred stock upon conversion of such investor's Crowd Note. A shadow series is a series of our preferred stock that is identical in all respects to the shares of preferred stock issued in the Qualified Equity Financing (e.g., if the Company sells Series A Preferred Stock in the Qualified Equity Financing, the shadow series would be Series A-1 Preferred Stock), except that the liquidation preference per share of the shadow series shall equal the Conversion Price and the following additional differences will apply:

(i) shadow series shareholders will grant their vote on any matter that is submitted to a vote or for the consent of the stockholders of our company (except for on matters required by law) by irrevocable proxy; and

(ii) shadow series shareholders will receive quarterly business updates from the company through the Platform but will have no additional information or inspection rights (except with respect to such rights which are required by law).

Corporate Transaction and Corporate Transaction Payment

The Crowd Note defines "Corporate Transaction" as

(i) the closing of the sale, transfer or other disposition of all or substantially all of our assets,

(ii) the consummation of the merger or consolidation of our company with or into another entity (except a merger or consolidation in which the holders of capital stock of our company immediately prior to such merger or consolidation continue to hold at least 50% of the voting power of the capital stock of our company or the surviving or acquiring entity),

(iii) the closing of the transfer (whether by merger, consolidation or otherwise), in one transaction or a series of related transactions, to a person or group of affiliated persons (other than an underwriter of our securities), of securities of our company if, after such closing, such person or group of affiliated persons would hold 50% or more of the outstanding voting stock of our company (or the surviving or acquiring entity), or

(iv) the initial public offering, liquidation, dissolution or winding up of our company; provided, however, that a transaction shall not constitute a Corporate Transaction if its sole purpose is to change the state of our incorporation or to create a holding company that will be owned in substantially the same proportions by the persons who held our securities immediately prior to such transaction.

In the event of a Corporate Transaction (defined above), you will receive an amount equal to two times (2X) the price you paid for your Crowd Note (i.e., 2x your principal amount). If there are not enough funds to pay you and other Crowd Note investors in full, then proceeds from the respective transaction will be distributed with equal priority and pro rata among the Crowd Note investors in proportion to their Purchase Price.

Termination of Crowd Note

The Crowd Notes will terminate upon the earlier of: (a) a conversion of the entire purchase price under the Crowd Notes into Conversion Shares; or (b) the payment of amounts due to the investor pursuant to a Corporate Transaction.

Additional Transfer Restrictions

In addition, you may not transfer the Crowd Notes or any securities into which they are convertible to any of our competitors, as determined by us in good faith.

IPO Lock Up

Furthermore, upon the event of an initial public offering, the equity interest into which the Crowd Notes are converted will be subject to a lock-up period and may not be sold for up to 180 days following such initial public offering.

No Voting Rights, No Shareholders Agreement and No Anti-Dilution Rights

The Crowd Notes do not have any voting rights. Further, upon conversion of the Crowd Notes into Conversion Shares, shadow series shareholders shall grant their vote on any matter that is submitted to a vote or for the consent of the members of the Company (except for on matters required by law) by irrevocable proxy.

The Company does not have any shareholder/equity holder agreements in place.

The Securities do not have anti-dilution rights.

Restrictions on Transfer

Any Securities sold pursuant to Regulation CF being offered may not be transferred by any Purchaser of such Securities during the one-year holding period beginning when the Securities were issued, unless such Securities are transferred: 1) to the Company, 2) to an accredited investor, as defined by Rule 501(d) of Regulation D promulgated under the Securities Act, 3) as part of an IPO or 4) to a member of the family of the Investor or the equivalent, to a trust controlled by the Purchaser, to a trust created for the benefit of a member of the family of the Investor or the equivalent, or in connection with the death or divorce of the Investor or other similar circumstances. "Member of the family" as used herein means a child, stepchild, grandchild, parent, stepparent, grandparent, spouse or spousal equivalent, sibling, mother/father/daughter/son/sister/brother-in-law, and includes adoptive relationships. Remember that although you may legally be able to transfer the Securities, you may not be able to find another party willing to purchase them.

In addition to the foregoing restrictions, prior to making any transfer of the Securities or any Securities into which they are convertible, such transferring Purchaser must either make such transfer pursuant to an effective registration statement filed with the SEC or provide the Company with an opinion of counsel stating that a registration statement is not necessary to effect such transfer.

In addition, the Purchaser may not transfer the Securities or any Securities into which they are convertible to any of the Company's competitors, as determined by the Company in good faith.

Furthermore, upon the event of an IPO, the capital stock into which the Securities are converted will be subject to a lock-up period and may not be sold for up to 180 days following such IPO.

Other Material Terms

The Company does not have the right to repurchase the Securities.

MILLION MARKER WELLNESS, INC.
NOTES TO FINANCIAL STATEMENTS
As of August 31, 2020
(unaudited)

NOTE 1 - NATURE OF OPERATIONS

Million Marker Wellness, Inc. (which may be referred to as the “Company,” “we,” “us,” or “our”) provides customers with the ability to learn more about their exposure to toxic chemicals and how to eliminate their exposure through a personalized behavior-change plan. Named after its mission to discover millions of environmental biomarkers, the Company currently sells mail-in urine tests to track Bisphenol A (BPA) and phthalates exposure.

Since Inception, the Company has relied on credit issued by a United States-based banking institution, raising capital, and revenue from a research project in collaboration with The Community to fund its operations. As of August 31, 2020, the Company had limited working capital and will be dependent upon future research grants from public and private institutions, research projects with partnering companies and issuance of securities to investors and employees before it will begin generating consistent revenue from selling its mail-in test kits. This raises some concern about the Company’s ability to continue as a going concern.

During the next 12 months, the Company intends to fund its operations with funding from a crowdfunding campaign offering issuance of its convertible notes (see Note 7), government and other grants, and capital contributions from other investors. If the Company cannot secure additional short-term capital, it may cease operations. These financial statements and related notes thereto do not include any adjustments that might result from these uncertainties.

The Company is headquartered in El Cerrito, California and incorporated in the state of Delaware.

NOTE 2 - SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

Basis of Presentation

The accounting and reporting policies of the Company conform to accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America ("GAAP").

Use of Estimates

The preparation of the financial statements in conformity with GAAP requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the amounts reported in the financial statements and the footnotes thereto. Actual results could differ from those estimates. It is reasonably possible that changes in estimates will occur in the near term.

Risks and Uncertainties

The Company has a limited operating history. The Company's business and operations are sensitive to general business and economic conditions in the United States. A host of factors beyond the Company's control could cause fluctuations in these conditions. Adverse conditions may include: recession, downturn or otherwise, competition, theft of intellectual property rights or changes in consumer desires. These adverse conditions could affect the Company's financial condition and the results of its operations. As of August 31, 2020, the Company is operating as a going concern. See Note 1 and Note 6 for additional information.

Cash and Cash Equivalents

The Company considers short-term, highly liquid investment with original maturities of three months or less at the time of purchase to be cash equivalents. Cash consists of funds held in the Company’s checking account.

Receivables and Credit Policy

Trade receivables from customers are uncollateralized customer obligations due under normal trade terms, primarily requiring payment before services are rendered. Trade receivables are stated at the amount billed to the customer. Payments of trade receivables are allocated to the specific invoices identified on the customer’s remittance advice or, if unspecified, are applied to the earliest unpaid invoice. The Company, by policy, routinely assesses the financial strength of its customer. As a result, the Company believes that its accounts receivable credit risk exposure is limited and it has not experienced significant write-downs in its accounts receivable balances. As of August 31, 2020, the Company did not have any outstanding accounts receivable.

Property and Equipment

Property and equipment are recorded at cost (if the aggregate costs for acquiring and placing the asset in service is greater than $500). Expenditures for renewals and improvements that significantly add to the productive capacity or extend the useful life of an asset are capitalized. Expenditures for maintenance and repairs are expensed as incurred. When equipment is retired or sold, the cost and related accumulated depreciation are eliminated from the balance sheet accounts and the resultant gain or loss is reflected in income.

Depreciation is calculated using the straight-line method, based on useful lives of the assets which range from three to seven years. The Company reviews the carrying value of property and equipment for impairment whenever events and circumstances indicate that the carrying value of an asset may not be recoverable from the estimated future cash flows expected to result from its use and eventual disposition. In cases where undiscounted expected future cash flows are less than the carrying value, an impairment loss is recognized equal to an amount by which the carrying value exceeds the fair value of assets. The factors considered by management in performing this assessment include current operating results, trends and prospects, the manner in which the property is used, and the effects of obsolescence, demand, competition, and other economic factors. The Company had no impairment as of August 31, 2020.

Fair Value Measurements

The Company has determined the fair value of certain assets and liabilities in accordance with United States generally accepted accounting principles ("GAAP"), which provides a framework for measuring fair value.

Fair value is defined as the exchange price that would be received for an asset or paid to transfer a liability (an exit price) in the principal or most advantageous market for the asset or liability in an orderly transaction between market participants on the measurement date. Valuation techniques should maximize the use of observable inputs and minimize the use of unobservable inputs. A fair value hierarchy has been established, which prioritizes the valuation inputs into three broad levels. Level 1 inputs consist of quoted prices in active markets for identical assets or liabilities that the reporting entity has the ability to access at the measurement date. Level 2 inputs are inputs other than quoted prices included within Level 1 that are observable for the related asset or liability. Level 3 inputs are unobservable inputs related to the asset or liability.

Income Taxes

Income taxes are provided for the tax effects of transactions reporting in the financial statements and consist of taxes currently due plus deferred taxes related primarily to differences between the basis of receivables, inventory, property and equipment, intangible assets, and accrued expenses for financial and income tax reporting. The deferred tax assets and liabilities represent the future tax return consequences of those differences, which will either be taxable or deductible when the assets and liabilities are recovered or settled. Deferred tax assets are reduced by a valuation allowance when, in the opinion of management, it is more likely than not that some portion or all of the deferred tax assets will not be realized.

There is no income tax provision for the Company for the period from Inception through August 31, 2020 as the Company had no taxable income.

The Company evaluates its tax positions that have been taken or are expected to be taken on income tax returns to determine if an accrual is necessary for uncertain tax positions. As of August 31, 2020, the unrecognized tax benefits accrual was zero.

Revenue Recognition

The Company recognizes revenue when persuasive evidence of an arrangement exists, delivery has occurred or services have been rendered, the fee for the arrangement is fixed or determinable and collectability is reasonably assured. As of August 31, 2020, the Company has recognized sales of $31,700 from a research project collaboration with The Community in August of 2019 after services were rendered. The Company has also recognized sales totaling $2,718 in mail-in test kits since inception after products were delivered.

Advertising Expenses

The Company expenses advertising costs as they are incurred.

Organizational Costs

In accordance with FASB ASC 720, the Company expenses organizational costs, including accounting fees, legal fee, and costs of incorporation.

Research and Development Costs

In accordance with FASB ASC 730, the Company expenses research and development costs.

Concentration of Credit Risk

The Company maintains its cash with a local financial institution located in the United States of America, which it believes to be credit worthy. The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation insures balances up to $250,000. At times, the Company may maintain balances in excess of the federally insured limits.

Recent Accounting Pronouncements

In May 2014, the Financial Accounting Standards Board ("FASB") issued Accounting Standards Update ("ASU") No. 2014-09, "Revenue from Contracts with Customers". Under this guidance, revenue is recognized when promised goods or services are transferred to customers in an amount that reflects the consideration expected to be received for those goods or services. The updated standard will replace most existing revenue recognition guidance under U.S. GAAP when it becomes effective and permits the use of either the retrospective or cumulative effect transition method. Early adoption is not permitted. The updated standard for nonpublic entities will be effective after December 15, 2018, and interim periods within annual periods beginning after December 15, 2019. We are currently evaluating the effect that the updated standard will have on our financial statements and related disclosures.

In February 2016, FASB issued ASU No. 2016-02, Leases, that requires organizations that lease assets, referred to as "lessees", to recognize on the balance sheet the assets and liabilities for the rights and obligations created by those leases with lease terms of more than 12 months. ASU 2016-02 will also require disclosures to help investors and other financial statement users better understand the amount, timing, and uncertainty of cash flows arising from leases and will include qualitative and quantitative requirements. The new standard for nonpublic entities will be effective for fiscal years beginning after December 15, 2019, and interim periods within fiscal years beginning after December 15, 2020, and early application is permitted. We are currently evaluating the effect that the updated standard will have on our financial statements and related disclosures.

MICROVENTURES

Company: Million Marker

Market: Health and Wellness

Product: Mail-in chemical exposure test and lifestyle optimization program

Company Highlights

- Graduated from Y Combinator's Spring 2019 Cohort
- Partnership agreement with the University of California, San Francisco and support from Stanford University School of Medicine and Johns Hopkins School of Public Health
- MOU with Parley for the Oceans (international ocean conservation NGO) and contract with The Community (Publicis Groupe) to launch a plastic awareness campaign in Summer 2021
- Provides mail-in test kits to measure personal exposure of potentially harmful environmental chemicals

EXECUTIVE SNAPSHOT

What if we could end chronic disease and improve fertility? What if we could effectively detox our lives? Everyday environmental exposures may exacerbate the risk of developing a chronic disease to a greater degree than genetics alone.ⁱ What if there is an easy way to track and reduce these chemical exposures? Million Marker utilizes chemical metabolites and personal exposure analysis to allow individuals to measure and track their own exposure to toxic environmental chemicals. Our vision is to discover over a million biomarkers of exposure. We believe these "Million Markers" will inform and improve individual health and advance precision medicine. We aim to achieve this goal by selling direct-to-consumer testing kits, building the world's most comprehensive chemical metabolite database, and conducting research studies using our laboratory and technological platforms. As part of Y-Combinator's Spring 2019 cohort, Million Marker is raising more capital to purchase new laboratory equipment and hire additional chemists and researchers to scale its testing capabilities and reduce consumer costs.

PERKS

You are investing in a Crowd Note in this Offering. Perks are meant to be a thank you from the company for investing. The perks below, subject to Regulation CF investment limits, are inclusive of lower dollar amount perks.

$500+ — An "I Learned What's Inside" organic cotton T-shirt or Million Marker organic cotton reusable mask

$1,000+ — A Million Marker Detox Starter Kit. The Detox starter kit can be a personal care detox kit or a household product detox kit.

$5,000+ — One testing kit and a Million Marker lifestyle audit.

$10,000+ — Two testing kits, intended to use before and after lifestyle improvements to track progress and confirm intervention success, and an "Ask Me Anything" with the Million Marker team.

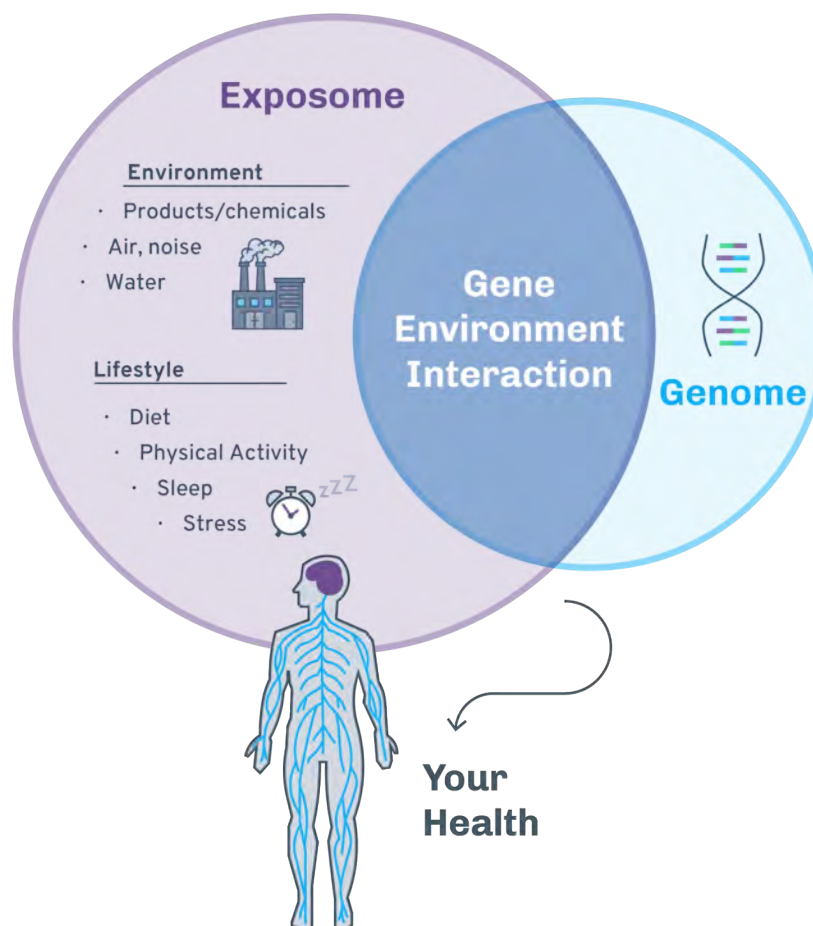

MICROVENTURES

In addition to the above perks, investors that purchase the first 200,000 Crowd Notes, and thereby fund the first $200,000, will receive Crowd Notes with a conversion provision based on a $9 million valuation cap instead of a $10 million valuation cap. That means, in connection with equity financing of at least $1,000,000 (a “Qualified Equity Financing”), the company has the option to convert the Crowd Note into shares of non-voting preferred stock (Conversion Shares) at a price based on the lower of (A) the price per unit paid for Preferred Stock by investors in the Qualified Equity Financing or (B) the price per share based on a $9 million valuation cap (instead of a $10 million valuation cap).

COMPANY SUMMARY

Opportunity

Although the risks of developing chronic diseases are attributed to both genetic and environmental factors, recent studies indicate that at least 70% of disease risks are likely due to environmental variables.ⁱⁱ This means we may be able to change our overall health by understanding how our environment affects us. Specifically, our reliance on plastic can pose numerous health issues. Plastic chemicals are everywhere, and we are exposed to them every day—by drinking from plastic water bottles, eating fish that were exposed to oceanic plastic, and using certain everyday products, just to name a few sources.ⁱⁱⁱ Plastic chemicals, such as bisphenol A (BPA) and phthalates, are potentially toxic chemicals present in these sources that can affect our health.^{iv}

MICROVENTURES

It's estimated that more than 90% of Americans have some level of bisphenol A (BPA) in our system right now.^v While some medical experts claim BPA is safe at low levels, the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) expressed "some concern" about the potential effects of BPA on the brain, behavior, and prostate glands in fetuses, infants, and young children.^{vi} In fact, BPA may harm people at doses 20,000 times lower than what the FDA says is safe, according to a paper published in 2020.^{vii} Phthalates, another chemical used in consumer and building products, are linked to female fertility issues, birth complications, toddler behavior, and can cause irreversible effects on male reproduction.^{viii}

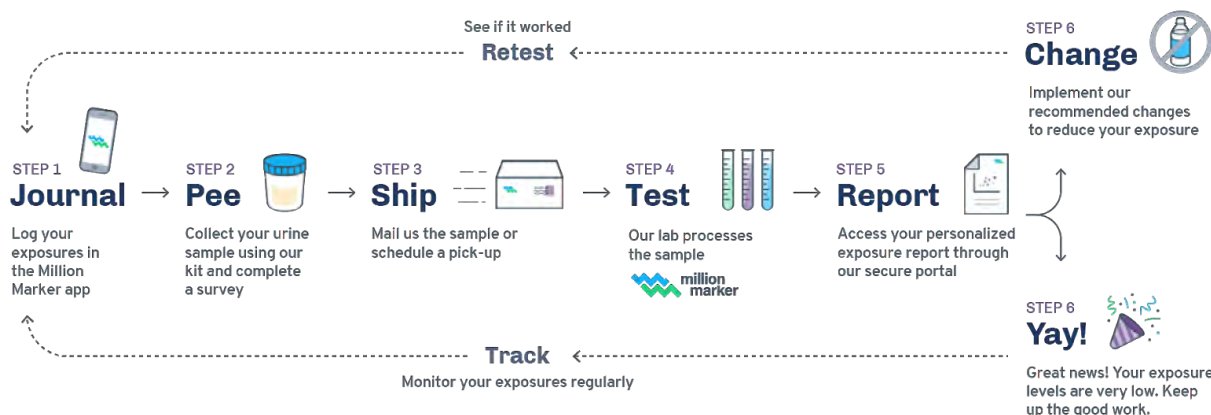

Many products claim to "detox" your body. But Million Marker is aiming to diminish and eliminate the potential negative lifetime effects of harmful chemicals in our environment by testing personal exposure of these chemicals and suggesting lifestyle changes. Through at-home, direct-to-consumer testing, Million Marker can test your personal exposure to harmful chemicals. Currently, the company offers a BPA and Phthalates Test Kit and plans to scale its laboratory testing capabilities to offer additional chemical testing kits and biomatrix sampling methods. Because chemicals like BPA and phthalates are found in everyday plastics and personal care products, Million Marker will also provide and sell environmentally-friendly products and safe cosmetics to users as a solution to reduce toxic chemical exposures. The Company anticipates this will generate additional revenue in addition to the testing.

Product

Hormones are responsible for, or contribute to, fertility, normal growth in fetuses and children, body weight, and overall health. BPA and phthalates are known to be hormone-disrupting chemicals. This means that they can alter the normal hormone systems in humans. While BPA acts to mimic estrogen, phthalates block testosterone.

Million Marker's direct-to-consumer testing kit and technological platform are fundamental to our goal of discovering a million biomarkers and providing personalized wellness suggestions to our customers. The current testing kit available for online purchase tests for bisphenol A (BPA) and phthalates in urine samples. Once the sample is tested, customers receive a personalized report based on their exposure to BPA and Phthalates with wellness suggestions to limit exposure to these chemicals. Customers can then purchase additional kits to track their progress and regularly monitor their BPA and phthalates exposure.

How it Works

Testing Kit and Results

The testing kit comes with all the materials you need to collect the sample and a set of instructions to make the process simple and easy. When you receive your kit, you document your diet and product use through Million Marker's app before sample collection. Once a sample has been shipped, it takes about four to eight weeks until you receive your personalized report, which consists of your personal exposure levels and how you compare to Million Marker users and the general population. The results also come with lifestyle suggestions to decrease exposure to BPA and phthalates, personalized to each consumer's biomarker levels and lifestyle survey.

Product Roadmap

MICROVENTURES

Million Marker intends to grow its biomarker database by studying more chemical metabolites and introducing new testing panels and biomatrices to sample. Million Marker anticipates rolling out the following new testing and biomatrices sampling in the next two years:

Chemical Panel Expansion

- Pesticides exposure from food: Organophosphate pesticides (OPs) are used in commercial agriculture and home gardens to control pests on crops. They are also known to be found in flea and tick treatments for domesticated pets. OPs have possible health concerns including affecting the nervous system and causing harm to the developing fetus.^{ix}
- Air pollution biomarkers: Polycyclic hydrocarbons (PAHs) are found in charred food, coal, crude oil, and gasoline. When burned, PAHs can pass into the body through the air or skin contact with the fumes. PAHs are considered cancer-causing chemicals and large levels of exposure are linked to cause blood and liver abnormalities.^x
- Chemicals in non-stick products: Perfluorooctanoic acids (PFOAs) cause a frictionless surface, which makes them a common ingredient in non-stick pans. These chemicals are known to stay in the body for very long periods of time (known as “forever chemicals”) and are reportedly in almost everyone at very low levels. PFOAs may cause certain types of cancer in humans and have been linked to causing tumors within animals.^{xi}
- Chemicals in home remodeling materials: Volatile organic compounds (VOCs) are emitted into the air from certain materials and activities often found in the home. Painting, caulking, and flooring are common home remodeling activities that can cause various compounds to be released into the air and inhaled. According to the American Lung Association, VOCs can affect the nervous system and some can cause cancer.^{xii}
- Chemicals in carpets and mattresses: Polybrominated diphenyl esters (PBDEs) are flame retardants used in products like furniture foam padding and rugs. Humans can come into contact with PBDEs directly in their home or by eating contaminated food like fatty fish that have been discovered to contain PBDEs.^{xiii} The health effects of PBDEs in humans have been correlated with adverse neuro-developmental- and reproductive effects in humans,^{xiv} and animal studies have shown they can cause thyroid, liver, and brain damage.^{xv}

Biomatrix Expansion

- Breast milk: We plan to test options to include breast milk. This test can measure qualities such as levels of calories, antibodies, and enzymes, as well as possible toxins like BPA and PBDEs. Breast milk composition varies from mother to mother. Factors that influence differences include lifestyle habits and exposure to certain chemicals that may differ within urban, suburban, and rural areas.^{xvi}
- Hair: Testing hair samples for minerals and toxic chemicals gives a long-term perspective (~3 months) of a person’s exposure to their environment. Conducting a time series analysis can give a more accurate reading on a person’s general health over a longer period of time compared to a blood or urine test.^{xvii}
- Blood Spots: Blood testing can reveal metabolites at low levels.^{xviii} Million Marker aims to provide metabolite testing using dried blood spot (DPS) cards, which can be done at home and mailed in just like the urine test kit.

MICROVENTURES

Business Model

Million Marker generates revenue from selling direct-to-consumer BPA and phthalates test kits and cross-sells environmentally friendly products and safe cosmetics. Its D2C model also allows the company to grow its biobank in the hopes of proving the efficacy of its testing capabilities to government and private research institutions. Currently, Million Marker uses a laboratory at the University of California, San Francisco (UCSF) to carry out its tests. Through this partnership with UCSF, Million Marker pays variable costs per test, which is why it's seeking funding to build its own laboratory to bring down costs through economies of scale. Also, Million Marker intends to apply for research funding and grants from government and private research institutions as it scales its biobank and testing capabilities.

D2C Testing: The BPA and phthalates test kit is delivered right to the consumer's door and comes with a pre-packaged return shipping label. Results are usually delivered within four to eight weeks via a secure data portal. Consumers have the option to re-test as many times as they want to regularly monitor exposure to BPA and phthalates. Million Marker aims to reduce the test kit cost after building its own lab from the proceeds of this raise. The kit currently sells for $499. Million Marker anticipates bringing down the cost of its test kit (~$200) as it scales and builds its own laboratory.

Cross-selling: Million Marker's mission to provide wellness guidance to consumers goes beyond testing for BPA and phthalate levels within consumers. On its website, Million Marker has approved a variety of products and cosmetics that are free from chemicals like BPA, phthalates, parabens, sulfates, and other toxic chemicals. These "Million Marker Approved Products" include shampoos and conditioners, soaps, deodorants, lip balms, food storage, water bottles, cleaning supplies, kitchen items, and more.

Research Funding: As the Million Marker biobank and laboratory capabilities grow, the company intends to apply for both public and private research funding. Funding applications require a proof of concept from the research or organization applying, and Million Marker aims to grow its biobank and laboratory testing capacity to be competitive throughout the funding application process. The NIH, one of the many organizations that provides biomedical research funding, invested more than $32 billion last year through research grants and contracts.^{xix}

USER TRACTION

Million Marker graduated from Y Combinator, in the famed accelerator's Spring 2019 batch. The Silicon Valley-based accelerator has an early-stage portfolio that includes the likes of many notable tech companies, including:^{xx}

- Stripe, Airbnb, DoorDash, Coinbase, Dropbox, Flexport, GitLab, Reddit, Brex, and Cruise^{xxi}

MICROVENTURES

To drive sales of its at-home testing kit, Million Marker has partnered with a global advertising agency, the Community, to work on an ocean plastic campaign to raise awareness about microplastics in the ocean. The campaign will test over 100 social media influencers and recruits using the Million Marker BPA and phthalates Test Kit. The Community has worked with some of the largest brands, including Verizon, Corona Extra, Google, Coca Cola, Oreo, Kroger, and Dunkin'.^{xxii}

the community

In September, Million Marker applied for small business innovation research (SBIR) funding from the National Institutes of Health. The SBIR research is titled “Personalized Mobile Intervention to Reduce Exposure to Endocrine Disrupting Chemicals in Women of Child-Bearing Age and their Partners.” To carry out this research project, which the company hopes to be one of future funding opportunities, Million Marker anticipates using its laboratory testing capabilities with support from third-party institutions and companies. Million Marker has signed letters of intent with the University of Washington’s School of Public Health and the Stanford University School of Medicine’s Department of Genetics to support its research efforts. Companies including Hugh & Grace, Breast Cancer Over Time, and Clinica de Salud del Valle Salinas (CSVS) have also committed to support the SBIR research. Million Marker has also collaborated with Thyrve, Eggwhisperer, and Environmental Health News to raise awareness about the effects of harmful environmental exposures.

MICROVENTURES

Beyond Million Marker's SBIR research funding, the team is conducting another study and scoring system for plastic biomarkers titled "Development of PASS (Plastic Accumulation Scoring System)—A New Way to Reduce Plastic Exposures and Improve Health." The PASS study aims to develop an integrative framework for scoring internal and external plastic exposures and pilot test the scoring system using Million Marker's existing customer data and national biomonitoring data from the National Health and Nutrition Examination Survey. PASS will also update Million Marker's existing app and AI data pipeline. Along with Million Marker's partnership with The Community, Parley committed to running a plastic awareness campaign. Parley is an ocean conservation NGO. A member of the Johns Hopkins School of Public Health who has collaborated on numerous NIH and NSF-funded projects has committed to collaborate with Million Marker on the PASS study.

Million Marker currently partners with the University of California, San Francisco, which provides the laboratory space needed to conduct metabolomics testing. With the proceeds of this raise, Million Marker aims to supplement testing at UCSF's laboratory with its own equipment.

Million Marker has partnered with Natalist, which informs and empowers women during the family-starting by educating and offering resources to its customers. Natalist agreed to provide study participants for Million Marker's SBIR research and collaborate in future studies.

HISTORICAL FINANCIALS

Million Marker was founded in May 2019 and has generated $34,418 in revenue through August 2020. A majority of its revenue ($31,700) was generated in August 2019 from a collaborative research project with The Community. $2,718 of revenue was generated from individual sales of Million Marker's mail-in test kits.

MICROVENTURES

Since inception, the company has incurred just over $221,000 in costs, largely associated to contracted work relationships, salaries and wages, cost of goods sold (COGS), and laboratory testing and supplies. In August 2019, Million Marker's monthly expenses reached its highest across the 16-month period, totaling $27,061. More than half of this total was from paying an analytical chemist to assist the company on its research project with The Community. In 2020, Million Marker cut salaries and wages and contractor expenses, as the company spent just over $20,000 in Q1.

In 2019, contractor costs accounted for ~42.5% of total expenses and salaries and wages accounted for 25.8% of total expenses. Laboratory and testing supplies accounted for 11.2% of total expenses, which was the third greatest expense for the year.

In 2020, contractor costs were less than half the amount incurred in 2019 and represented just over 29% of total expenses for the period. Salaries and wage expenses accounted for more than half of total expenses at 57.6%. Laboratory and testing supply expenses dropped in 2020 to less than 1% of total expenses for the year.

MICROVENTURES

Million Marker's net income since inception has fluctuated, however the company believes it can positively benefit from its recent partnership with Parley and letters of support from Johns Hopkins, the University of Washington, and Stanford University. In August 2019, Million Marker recorded positive net income of $4,736, largely from its research project with The Community, which generated $31,700 of revenue. From January to August 2020, Million Marker's average monthly cash burn was $10,360. The company's cash balance at the end of December 2020 was $124,319.

INDUSTRY AND MARKET ANALYSIS

Health and Wellness

The health and wellness market encompasses all aspects improving a person's health. From gym memberships, diet plans, beauty products, to digital apps and personalized medicine, the global wellness market was valued at $4.5 trillion in 2018 and 5.3% of total global economic output. Of the various market sectors, preventive and personalized medicine and public health accounted for $575 billion of the total market.^{xxiii} As we are living in an era of customization, consumers are demanding more than just information about their health. Personalized wellness is veering from the traditional "one-size-fits-all" approach, which has created high exit potential for startups that can provide a personalized approach to healthcare if they can cross two key entry barriers—support from providers and high costs of laboratory equipment.^{xxiv} Through this raise, Million Marker intends to purchase laboratory equipment to bring down the unit economic costs of its kits, which is vital for providers who wish to recommend the test kit to patients.

In an era where consumers can personalize every aspect of their life, health and wellness should be no different. Personalized nutrition, for example, can have positive health effects, since the gut microbiome can be as much as

90% different from other individuals. The increasing use of wearable devices such as the FitBit and Apple Watch can provide personalized health reports for each individual. Direct-to-consumer testing has also increased in popularity as it provides the personalization that consumers look for in a simple business model.^{xxv}

Laboratory Services Market

Million Marker is also a competitor in the laboratory services market. In 2018, the global laboratory services market was valued at $212 billion^{xxvi} and is expected to grow to $326 billion 2025, representing a 6.4% compounded annual growth rate (CAGR).^{xxvii} Segmented by test type and in order of revenue outlook, the market segments include clinical chemistry, human and tumor genetics, medical microbiology and cytology, and esoteric testing. Million Marker competes in the clinical chemistry segment, which tests urine, plasma, serum, and other bodily fluid samples. This segment has accounted for the major revenue share in the broader market and is largely driven by physician testing.^{xxviii} Million Marker is aiming to capture market share driven by direct to consumer testing.

From 2009 to 2019, the laboratory services industry has experienced the following venture capital milestones:^{xxix}

- Capital invested totaling over $10.5 billion across 1,500+ deals in the previous 11-year period.
- Since 2015, venture capital firms have collectively invested over $1 billion each year.
- Over the past three full years, total capital invested averaged $1.54 billion, over $500 million greater than the 11-year average.
- Total capital invested peaked in 2017 at $1.82 billion across 209 deals.

COMPETITORS

True Health Labs: Founded in 2011, True Health Labs is a direct access testing company that allows individuals to order testing kits directly to their home. True Health partners with laboratories throughout the U.S., Canada, and Europe to carry-out testing for immune disorders, thyroid issues, lyme disease, blood sugar levels, and chemical toxicity levels from urine, hair, stool, and saliva samples. After receiving results, customers can have one of True

MICROVENTURES

Health's doctors explain the test results for $129. True Health currently sells a BPA, Phthalates and Parabens combo test for $659 to U.S., Canada, and European residents.

EverlyWell: Founded in 2015, EverlyWell offers over 30 at-home test kits for general wellness, energy, weight, and sexual health. The company claims that it has tested over a half million people since inception^{xxx} and uses its network of CLIA-certified laboratories to conduct the tests. A customer purchases a test kit, collects a blood, urine, stool, or hair sample, ships the test to the company, and receives the test results along with options to living a healthier life. Out of its 30+ test-kit options, the company currently does not sell a BPA test kit. EverlyWell has reportedly generated tens of millions of dollars in annual sales, which have grown by over 300% from 2018 to 2019.^{xxxi} EverlyWell raised $50 million in its most recent round in 2019 led by Goodwater Capital. The proceeds from the raise will be used to expand its platform to meet customer demand, since the company has recently partnered with Target and will offer test-kits in over 1,600 national stores.^{xxxii}

Walk-In Lab: Founded in 2009, Walk-In Lab provides at-home test kits and in-person testing for nutrition monitoring, specific organ health, allergies, various disorders and diagnostics, hormone health, and toxic chemical exposure, among others. Walk-In Lab's biomatrix sampling include blood spots, urine, saliva, stool, breath, and hair. Its at-home test kits are limited compared to its broad testing categories due to sampling methods, and they test for allergies, hormone levels, digestive health, nutrition, and exposure analysis, among others. Its exposure test kits analyze toxic chemical presence in the body, particularly toxic metals. Walk-In Lab does not currently sell a testing for BPA exposure.

Privopath Diagnostics: Doing business as Lets Get Checked, the company offers a variety of at-home testing kits covering sexual health, men's health, women's health, and general wellness. Its general wellness tests examine organ function, including kidney, liver, colon, heart, and thyroid health, and vitamin deficiencies like iron, omega, and vitamin D. The company doesn't test for BPA or phthalates. Lets Get Checked also recently rolled out an at-home COVID-19 test for individuals and businesses. Customers have the option to purchase one-time tests starting at $49 or subscribe to recurring tests every three months at a 30% discount to the one-time purchase price.

NO ARBITRATION SHALL PROCEED ON A CLASS, REPRESENTATIVE, OR COLLECTIVE BASIS. No party may join, consolidate, or otherwise bring claims for or on behalf of two or more individuals or unrelated corporate entities in the same arbitration unless those persons are parties to a single transaction. An award in arbitration shall determine the rights and obligations of the named parties only, and only with respect to the claims in arbitration, and shall not (i) determine the rights, obligations, or interests of anyone other than a named party, or resolve any claim of anyone other than a named party, or (ii) make an award for the benefit of, or against, anyone other than a named party. No administrator or arbitrator shall have the power or authority to waive, modify, or fail to enforce this paragraph, and any attempt to do so, whether by rule, policy, and arbitration decision or otherwise, shall be invalid and unenforceable. Any challenge to the validity of this paragraph shall be determined exclusively by a court and not by the administrator or any arbitrator. If this paragraph shall be deemed unenforceable, then any proceeding in the nature of a class action shall be handled in court, not in arbitration.

Male Fertility

Understanding your reproductive health

Sperm count:
What does it mean for fertility?

Over the last 40 years, male sperm counts have gone down, and Ferti-Tek is a worldwide phenomenon.

1973 2011

338 Sperm/1000000 years
138 Sperm/1000000 years

Low Count - Low Fertility
Fewer sperm are available to find and fertilize the egg.

Who struggles from low fertility?

- Fertility problems in men are more common than you might think.
- 20 to 30% of men can be classified as having "low fertility."
- 15% to 18% of men might require fertility treatments.

The cause?
Toxic chemicals

Along with poor lifestyle habits including stress and lack of sleep and exercise, preventable causes of poor male fertility, toxic chemicals such as BPA and phthalates affect natural hormones. They act similar to estrogen and they block the body's ability to produce sperm. Toxic chemicals are found in everyday items like:

- Plastic bottles
- Food packaging
- Cosmetics

Simple ways to optimize fertility

- Test your toxic chemical exposure with the Million Marker TL.
- Avoid the following:
 - Processed foods
 - Plastics numbered 3, 7
 - Paper receipts (contain BPA)
 - Pumps that leak ingredients "fragrance"
 - Children's toys

2020 sucks. COVID, climate change, fires, and our new way of life have made this year feel out of control.

Like climate change, plastic pollution is a world-wide threat to ecosystems and our health. Chemicals used in plastic and everyday products can be toxic and are linked to chronic diseases.^{i, ii} In fact, environmental exposures can contribute more to disease than genetics do.ⁱⁱⁱ

You can't change your genetics, but you can control your exposures!

Even the tiniest exposures can add up to big problems, with no way of knowing what exactly we are being exposed to.^{iv}

Until now. We created Million Marker to identify toxic chemicals in your body and help stop chronic diseases before they start.

Our consumer-facing, mail-in testing kit identifies harmful chemical exposures and offers personalized recommendations for reducing them. Wouldn't you want to know what you're exposed to and take action?

So who can benefit from Million Marker? Everyone!

If you are starting a family, reducing exposures can promote fertility and IVF success, and protect your growing baby.^v If you are concerned about health and fitness, lowering exposures can reduce diseases like obesity, diabetes, and heart disease.^{vi}

We offer a science-backed way to detox your life.

We have already partnered with top-tier research institutions, advocacy agencies, and other innovative startups. But we need YOU!

With your help, we can establish our own lab and expand testing. We can develop our own line of toxic-free products to improve health. We can improve our database, mobile app, and research ability to increase revenue streams from private, government, and consumer sectors.

Our team of environmental health, chemistry, software, design, and big data experts are uniquely qualified to bring our visions to life.

Let's turn 2020 into something great- the year we empower everyone to make a change for their health and the world.

Webinar Transcript

Brett Andrews:

Hey, everybody. This is Brett Andrews, with MicroVentures. Thank you all for joining us for the webinar today. Today we are going to be hearing from Million Marker, a company that utilizes chemical metabolites, and personal exposure analysis to allow individuals to measure, and track their own exposure to toxic environmental chemicals. We are joined today by their founder and CEO, Jenna Hua. Jenna's extensive experience as an academic and health advocate led to her founding Million Marker in 2019, shortly after completing a post-doctoral fellowship with Stanford University's School of Medicine. Throughout her career in academia, Jenna has researched and published numerous studies that largely focused on citizen science, general health, and the impact of food consumption on a person's well-being. In one of her most recent publications, Jenna used machine learning to identify people based on food consumed in order to offer a healthier food options. She also published another report that studied the arsenic exposure and risks of eating rice within adolescents in Kunming, China. Jenna has been a project manager for UNC's Carolina Population Center, a Graduate Instructor, and Research Assistant at UC, Berkeley, and a Project Manager at UCLA's Center for Population Research.

She was also a U.S. Fulbright fellow at the Institute of International Education in Kunming, China. Jenna holds a B.S. in Nutrition, and an M.P.H. and Ph.D. in Environmental Health Sciences, from UC, Berkeley. We are also joined by Million Marker's, Chief Technology Officer, Larry Riliskis. Larry, is a seasoned technologist and entrepreneur who brings over 10 years of experience to Million Marker. Aside from his position at Million Marker, Larry, is the Director of Engineering at BehavioSec, a behavioral biometrics company. He also serves as an expert advisor for the European Commission, an independent governmental organization that prepares legislation for the Council, and Parliament. In 2018, Larry founded VictorAi, an AI-powered compliance officer to assist companies by automating regulatory compliance. The company was part of the spring 2019 cohort in LEx Lab's Accelerator program. Larry, also founded Harmony.Ai, a SaaS data privacy company that automates workflows, and enables compliance for GDPR, and other regulations. Larry, holds an M.S. in Computer Science, and a Ph.D. in Computer Networking from Luleå University of Technology. He was also a postdoctoral fellow in computer science at Stanford University.

Lastly, we are joined by their Chief Scientist Officer, Jo Rochester. Jo has spent the last decade studying how environmental stressors affect hormones and health. She was on the front lines of endocrine disruption research, especially in relation to human exposures and health effects. She has published several scoping and systematic reviews, including a pivotal one on BPA and human health. This review has been cited over 1,000 times, greatly furthering epidemiological BPA research, and it was used as the basis for regulation of BPA under California's Proposition 65. Jo holds an M.S. and Ph.D. from the University of California—Davis, and did her postdoctoral research at the University of Colorado—Boulder. She then worked at TEDx, the endocrine disruption exchange for the foremost nonprofit and endocrine disruption research, and science translation. How are you guys doing today?

Jenna Hua: Thank you so much for having us, and wonderful introductions.

Larry Riliskis: Thank you. It is great being here.

Brett Andrews: Yeah. Introductions are credit to you. So, I appreciate you guys joining us as well. Real quick before we get started, just so that everybody understands the format for today, the Million Marker team's going to run through their pitch deck presentation. Hopefully you can see on your screens the Million Marker, the first slide of that pitch decks as the name of the company there, and so they're going to spend about 10 or 15 minutes going through the pitch deck, and during that time, we encourage you to send in questions. If you go over to your "Go To Webinar" control panel, you'll see a tab titled, "Questions." Feel free to submit those during the presentation. They won't interrupt the Million Marker team. They'll just go to me, and then we'll make it through the presentation, they'll kick it back to me, and we'll go through a Q&A. So, any questions that anybody has submitted, and any others that anyone else might have. With that, guys, I'll let you take it away, and introduce everyone to Million Marker.

Jenna Hua: Thank you so much, Brett. I will start so everyone can see my screen showing the slides. So, we're Million Marker. We want to measure the effect of your environment on your health. Why we want to do this? There's the famous quote by Dr. Judith Stern, says, "Genetics loads the gun, but environment pulls the trigger." The reason is that your health is largely determinant by your environment rather than your genes. Your genes only determines about 30% of your disease risk, and your environment actually determines the rest of the 70. This is a novel concept called exposome, thinking about genome, and then there's to the exposome. The problem right now is that there is lack of personalized tools to allow us to actually measure the environment impact on our health. So what we want to do is to build a "23andMe" for environmental exposure, so we can personalize your exposures, and allow you to make changes. Remember that is that you can't change your genetics, but you can change your environment and optimize your health.

So, how it works. You can buy our kit online, it's live, and download our app through the App Store or Android Google Play, so you take an exposure survey, you pee in a cup, you ship it to us, we'll get it tested and we'll send you a report back. This report or detailed your exposure, and how you compare with others, and what you can do to personalize your changes to minimize your exposure. Then we incorporate coaching product recommendations, and also environmental education so you can fully optimize, and fully personalize reducing your exposures. After that, you can make changes and then come back and test it again to see your progress, and to track your exposure over time. I'm going to pass to Larry, to talk about, in more details, about our back-end.

Larry Riliskis: Hey. Larry, here with Million Marker and always what's really exciting for me, was rebuilding, is that typically, you would get your report results, and you have some nurse or doctor evaluating it and then giving you an answer of what it is they founded. But we, with our platform is go beyond that. We answer, “Why?” So, why are we doing this environmental surveys? We are hear to answer the question, “Why your body has specific markers inside you?” and beyond that goal, we can tell you how you can mitigate this exposure in your life, in your family. You can now simply live healthier and more rewarding life. So, as a part of our service, we are connecting it, as Jenna, mentioned. Well, we are connecting your environment is what you touch, what you eat in the products you're using.

Because they’re exposure levels inside you. So, it helps us to build a larger database and understanding where we can fully wager machine learning tools, artificial intelligence to advance not only exposure science, but also to advance the preventive medicine where we can help people to understand how the environment and products impact the everyday life, and how you can change your habit to have that better or healthier life. And if we go to next page... So beyond that, we are building this wonderful product, we also building the platform. So now imagine that you could have predictive suggestions on what products are good for your metabolism, what products are lesser good, and having this enormous amount of data, and correlations between the environment, and your levels of markers, we can build the type of platform where we can not only help the whole family, and individuals to do that, we can also provide subscription services to people.

We can also partner with industry, and an example would be that we can partner with government organizations that if we could determine regulations and guidelines on which levels can be harmful or allow products to know additionally, we can connect our data sets with research grants to advance knowledge and understanding about environment, and how it affects our bodies, and we are building our platform with strategy in mind. So people can be safe and secure, and share the data with larger research community as well as with government partners or others, so, thank you.

Jo Rochester:

Yeah, I'll jump in here. This is Jo Rochester. So, our first product is a test for BPA and Phthalates. And these are chemicals that are present in everyday plastic products we use— food packaging, things like that— and they're also present in personal care and beauty products. We've actually expanded our test, so we're testing for BPS as well, which is another chemical similar to BPA, phthalates and parabens, which are chemicals also in personal product, and some other of these everyday toxic chemicals. Now, these chemicals, what they do is they're similar to hormones, so they can mess up our normal hormone system. And hormones are responsible for many, many systems in our body reproduction, metabolism, immune system, stress, sleep, appetite, almost any system you can think of in your body is regulated by hormones. So what happens is these chemicals are linked to chronic diseases and these include fertility issues in men and women, learning delays in kids, breast cancer, diabetes, even obesity, sexual dysfunction, prostate cancer, decline in sperm, and reproductive diseases. So, many, many diseases are linked to these chemicals. Next slide.

Our first market that we'd like to target are potential and expecting parents. And these are people that are especially concerned about their own fertility and health, and the health of their future children. So there are almost 4 million births per year in the US, and people spend over $400 million per year on fertility tests and treatments. With this market, and our test, which our target price will be about $200, three tests per family over the preconception, pregnancy and postpartum phases, and 2 million planned births per year. We estimate an $1.2 billion annual market. And then we'd like to expand into other markets and these include quantified self and bio-hacker markets, so people who want to keep control of their own health, high-performance athletes, the detox and wellness market. We also want to expand into employee wellness programs. As mentioned before, we have this huge bio-bank that we'll be building up, that we can use for research grants and government contracts, and then we'd also like to expand into product sales, including our own white labeled products and affiliate accounts, and these would be non-toxic personal care and household products.

Jenna Hua:

I will take it back to tell you guys a little more about our go-to-market strategy and other aspects of the business. So, I think the beauty of our business is we can, with the platform built, we can actually serve multiple segments at the same time. Besides selling direct-to-consumer. We can also work with academic research and working with government. Simultaneously, as Jo also mentioned that we already have some brand affiliates we can integrate and also promote our products through cross selling with other innovative startups. And we'll mention later on that with our partnerships, we already have these relationships going.

Larry mentioned about our back end system, the platform, the database that we're building. On the customer front, we're also building an ecosystem. So, we're not just going to leave customer alone after they find out about their results, but we're building an ecosystem that incorporating coaching, product recommendation, as well as environmental education to empower customers and our users to actually make positive change. And this is also sort of mentioned in what Larry has said. Thinking about our business logic, that we wanted to create a cheaper affordable test before everyone could use. Right now, the test is not exactly affordable, and that's part of the fundraising is that so we can build our own lab. Once we have our own lab, we have a cheap enough test that's affordable for everyone. Then we do targeted, and as well as un-targeted testing to scale our IP generation.

With that data, we can integrate with other systems, other health records and as well as people's exposure and a product. From that the more data we have, then the more potential IP, and the potential bio marker, new bio novel biomarkers, we could generate and then the better the business. So, in terms of our competitive edge, as you can see that Larry, Jo and I, we have extensive training, technical training, so we're here to help people to understand their exposures, and we want to personalize this exposure so then all the users can make necessary changes. And what's different from our service compared to other direct-to-consumer genetic service or other lab testing is that the insight we provide is actionable. That way, we also wanted to serve multiple segment at the same time, and we also have the ability to do more cross-selling and working with other brand and the personal care products companies.

The vision we have is as reflected in our name, Million Marker, is we'd like to discover one Million Marker, or more biomarkers, so we can allow people to know their exposures. What we want to do is to work with the sample we collected, with the data we collected, we want to build the most comprehensive database on human environmental exposures and the metabolic profiles. And then with that, we can actually crowdsource the biomonitoring efforts. So, biomonitoring here is just measuring all the environmental exposures in people's body, and with that, was the crowdsource biomonitoring with the database we built, we can actually integrate lots of data to eventually advance position medicine and personal health.

So, Jo talked about our first product and from that we have already expanded our panels. So, in terms of road map, with the database we built with the platform that we built, we could do lots of new biomarker discoveries, and this includes the new exposure biomarkers. For example, if you're exposed to other chemicals other than the ones we're testing, we could potentially discover those biomarkers. One investor actually from the MicroVentures platform asked, "Are we going to expand to precision nutrition?" And yes. The technology that we're using is actually screening for all the metabolites in your body, so nutrition is a major one. So, nutrition biomarkers is also definitely on our roadmap. And besides that, it's a pretty obvious is the health and disease biomarkers. By incorporating different databases, we'll be able to link these biomarkers with peoples' exposure.

We also plan to expand our panels and then additional biomatrices. Right now, we're focusing on urine, because urine is fairly easy to collect rather than blood or other things. In terms of panel expansion, with plan to expand to, looking to pesticides, air quality biomarkers, chemicals in non-stick products or home remodeling materials, carpets and mattress, we can eventually expand to looking to exposure in breast milk, a hair, or blood spot. This is painting a picture like allowing to say, for example, in the future, you're trying to remodel your home and you're trying to figure out which paint is good. And with our database and platform, we could recommend you. Okay. What kind of paint should I be using? What kind of mattress or carpet should I be using to actually minimize my exposures?

We anticipate some of these milestones. Once we have our own lab, we definitely want to get our lab CLIA certified, bringing down our unit economics, and work on our marketing strategies. In the future, we would like to keep developing additional products as well find product-market fit and get FDA approval. So, currently these tests are counted as a wellness test. With FDA approval, we will be able to sell in four States, currently does not allow direct to consumer testing, that's including in New York, New Jersey, Maryland, and the Rhode Island. And after that, we would like to scale our offerings and expand our ability and as well as market penetration. In terms of staging, this is a little bit outdated, but you pretty much get the idea that once we have the lab built, we'll do more product development where we find our go-to market strategy, and then we'll scale.

As I mentioned before, we already have some existing partnerships, and these included non-profits companies, to advertising firms, other innovative startups, as well as universities. Our teams, three of us are here. We also have Praveen, and Jarod, not joining us. So, Praveen takes care of all our design as well as marketing, and Jarod, will be our lab director, helping us to run the lab and analyzing that sample, and then starting the biomarker discovery research. We also have a panel of very wonderful advisors. They have extensive research and scientific experience in the field of biomonitoring as well as the environmental health, as well as medicine. And this is not in the slides, recently we also recruited or they joined us, two medical advisors, and that's Dr. Aimee, and Dr. Laura. Dr. Aimee, is the Egg Whisperer lady. She runs her show on YouTube as well as other social media. Dr. Laura has a very expensive publication as well. And with that help, we're planning to establish a physician's advisory panel, that could help us sell into IVF clinics as well as having positions to recommend our service to their patients.

So now I'll kick back to Brett.

Brett Andrews: Great. Thank you, guys. That was great. We did have a couple of people joining late, and we've got a few questions that have come in already. If for the folks that joined late, if you do have any questions for the Million Marker team, please go over to the questions tab on your "Go to Webinar" control panel, and you can submit them there and we'll get them asked. First, I just wanted to start it. If you guys could elaborate a little bit on the products of the kit itself, and exactly what someone gets. So, you send, I think you had it on the second slide, you send them I guess, a form to fill out about their exposures that they self-report, and they send you the urine sample, and then they get back a personalized exposure report along with changes to implement. Is that correct?

Jenna Hua: Yes. So, if people want to know what the actual kit looks like, you can actually go to our website that has our most updated kits. What it looks like, I think on a campaign page, that's our older version of the kits. We actually had like four different versions. Iterating on four different versions. Now on our website, that's the most recent version. So, yes. People get a kit, they can download our app in the App Store or the Google Play, so they answer the exposure journal and then they ship back the samples. And we'll actually also have our sample report on our website as well. If you go to our website, go to services and you can actually see what sample reports looks like.

Brett Andrews: Great. I think that would be super helpful, so I would encourage folks to do that same thing. And so, just to clarify...

Jenna Hua: I guess one thing. Okay. Sorry. One thing I guess to add I forgot is we also curated a list of all the safe, toxic, free personal care products. That's under our approved product. So, that, actually is our most visited page on our website. That people go there as a guide to look for toxic free products. We also have put together lots of blog post education material that people can also find on our website. We call it, Toxic Free Lifestyle guide, as well as fact sheets. Sorry for interrupting.

Brett Andrews: No, I got it. That's great. And just so everybody knows, at the end of this, we'll stick around and point people to where they can find some more information. I think that's a good tip though, so I appreciate you adding that. Just to clarify, you guys have, I know in the roadmap, that you showed, you have go-to-market starting at the end of this year or somewhere around then, but you guys have actually shipped some kits, correct?

Jenna Hua: Yes.

Brett Andrews: Yeah. Okay. Got it. Yeah. I just wanted to make that point clear to people if they didn't understand. So, one of the other questions I had real quick before we get into something that have been submitted here, could you share a little bit on, obviously without giving away too much of whatever your secret sauce is, the value of the urine sample. I'm assuming there's this list of items that no matter who you are, it's probably not good to have a lot of increased exposure to, do you find that there's cases where someone maybe self-reports that they have had exposure to XYZ or these bad products, and then when you test the urine sample, it shows that there really isn't any issue, or I guess, what other additional value are you getting outside of the self-reporting of what people are interacting with that the urine sample provides that adds value to the report on the back-end?

Jenna Hua: Oh, perfect question. I think this is where personalization comes in. With the journaling, with the survey, we can already do some personalization to extent to some kind of personalization, but with urine, that's extra step for additional personalization. This is actually a really active research area as well, that we all have different physiologies. So, given you and I have different genetics makeup, that if you we have the same exposure, we would actually respond to this exposure differently. And that's kind of like a common sense if you pointed out to people and our pilot testers, what we have seen, is that people's levels are really different. So, we had some people, just as you said, that it seems to have higher exposure, but their urine levels are relatively lower versus some people already doing a lot of good stuff to optimize their health and reducing their exposure, their levels are actually high, but the key point is that these chemicals have no business being in your body. So, you should always try to get rid of them as much as possible because they only do harm, they don't do anything good.

On the business side, and then this is related to what Larry mentioned, the database that we're building, and the platform that we're building, is that with the urine sample, because urine is pretty much showing them how your body metabolize a lot of stuff, and for now the technology we're using is a targeted approach, meaning that we only screening for these chemicals. So, in the future, we can take an un-targeted approach, and that approach will allow us for screening everything else with that, then we can actually link to nutrition biomarkers and other disease biomarkers.

Brett Andrews:

Yeah, I think that's an important point for people to keep in mind. It's not as simple as you can just put out a fact sheet that that tells everybody, "Hey, this is what you should avoid." I think that what you commented there that people have different sensitivities, it's sort of like diet, right? There're some foods that affect people differently than others, and so having it really personalized, I think is really where the value is, so I appreciate that. We've got a question here. It says, what is the plan to make Million Marker data available in the EMR? How do you foresee physicians leveraging that information at the point of care?

Jenna Hua:

I think for that, right now, physicians also need quite a bit education. So, physicians actually don't get educated regarding either nutrition or environmental exposures. That's part of the reason why we're starting with OB/GYN, with the fertility doctors because this is a group of doctor that they're quite aware that these chemicals make an impact, and as also like in our roadmap, yes, we want to integrate with EMRs, and another thing I also want to point out is that compared to other diagnostic disease markers, those are more immediate, but if you think about the environmental exposures that we have, it's relatively low exposure over a long time. So, these chemicals are not going to kill you tomorrow, but they accumulate. If you get constant exposure day-in, and day-out, and these could potentially make impacts. So, the physicians will need to educate patients, you know, this matters, and it's like a long-term thing that you need to make changes day-in, and day-out, rather than like immediate.

So, I see we're linking to EMR to make discoveries when newer biomarkers, and also increasing physician education so physician can tell patients at point of care, this is something that they need to care. It's kind of like a diabetes prevention if you think that way. But in terms of diagnosing disease, then we're not there yet. I guess that's one thing I forgot to mention related to the previous question is that this is a more of anecdotal story about myself, that when we first started, I actually tested on myself, and I studied this. I already know what's going on. I'm already living a pretty toxic-free life, but what I found out is a new vitamin that I was taking, actually had lots of phthalates in it. As Jo already mentioned, phthalates is a hormone disruptor, and it could cause loss of fertility issues, and all other issues.

So, what I found out after testing myself, because a lot of these stuff are not labeled, is that the vitamin coating of the capsule, off the vitamin I was taking actually contains phthalates. So, I just want to plug that in, and that's also another value of sending your urine sample, and actually know your internal exposures.

Brett Andrews: That's great. I appreciate the sharing the story. I always think it's impressive or interesting I guess, when an entrepreneur is solving a problem that they've had personal experience with. To the point about the prolonged exposure, I think it makes sense that you guys are focused on at least to start the expecting parents and trying to address fertility issues. I guess that leads me to another question, and this kind of loops back into part of the product where you guys recommend implementing changes. How much of this, and then maybe this is more just a biology question, how much of this exposure, and the effects that come with it is reversible? Maybe that's not the right word but obviously you can start reducing your future exposure, but is there things that you can do, and is part of the changes that you recommend, can they lead to reversing whatever deleterious effects have come from previous prolonged exposure?

Jenna Hua: I think this is a perfect question for Jo. I was just going to say that.

Jo Rochester: I'm going to say, I can jump in here already. There have been studies showing, if you're exposed during development, that is during a fetus, some of these changes can't be reversed. And that is why we're very concerned about pregnant women and preconception and fertility and those things. There are studies showing that in adult animals, these mostly are done in rodents, that you can reverse effects. So, some of these problems that the chemicals cause, if you stop giving the chemical, or if you give another promoting healthy vitamin, or they study folic acid and things like that, these things can be reversed in adult animals.

Brett Andrews: Well, that's good news for all of us I bet. We appreciate that. Okay. We had another question here about, I guess the privacy side, Larry touched on this during the presentation, but question is, what kind of personal data are you collecting? I know Larry's mentioned that you guys are taking steps to make sure that people feel comfortable sharing this type of data with you. I know with some of your competitors or at least companies who are doing something similar but in different verticals, have come up against this concern before, can you guys just touch on a little bit about the steps that you're taking, and then from a consumer side, what they can expect in terms of their personal data?

Jenna Hua: Larry can take it.

Larry Riliskis: I can jump in here. So, I wanted to say there's noble privacy has been a big thing in all my career. For example, as I mentioned, I have worked as advisor for European Union, and I was part of pushing through GDPR. I think people have a right to their data and a right to know what we're doing. So, the way how we are building the platform, is that we are separating the private information from data from something that cannot be connected to you. So, that, is built by design. The platform is in a such a way that data cannot be connected to you personally, but it still can be used for science, for research, but once we're generating personal life reports, we connect, and go back to this information and data to individuals. So, we have separated it already in the design phase to make this separation for people protection, and their rights, for example, in how the data is used, and their right to be forgotten, and the right to get all this information, and allow or disallow us to share the private data. Jenna, if you want to add anything more here?

Jenna Hua: Yes, I wanted to add, right now we're collecting people's exposure data. So that includes what you have eaten, and also all the products you're using, and you would do that throughout app. You can simply snap a photo, and we can get those things analyzed. Besides that, we're also collecting gender, age, ethnicity, and obviously your address, but your address is mainly for shipping for now. But with these personal information, the main purpose is so we can adjust in the chemical when we give you your results, those information, gender, age, weight, actually weight too, and ethnicity, is mainly to use to adjust your hydration status. So, if you think about it it has to do with your genetic makeup, is that you would have different hydration status. If you're more hydrated, then obviously your chemical level could be lower. That needs to be adjusted to give you a true reflection of your chemical levels. So, that's what we're using. That's the data that we're collecting right now.

In the future, we would like to link to your other, say wearable data, or your electronic medical records. But those are only if our users give us access to that. And we also want to position ourselves as data steward rather than data owner. So, we would like to work with our users together. If you contribute your data to scientific research, which we very much needed for this kind of environmental health research, and biomonitoring. If you do contribute, then we can give you feedback on newer biomarkers that we discover or if in a future, we're able to develop something that'll make money, we can give you a kickback, idealistic speaking. But if you don't want us to do that, then we'll want to give you all the respect, that we'll delete your data. We won't even use it.

Brett Andrews: Great. I'm glad you elaborated there. And that kind of leads into the last couple of questions that we have here. By the way, if anybody else has any other questions for the Million Marker team, please go ahead and submit them now. Right now, we've got about two more or so. The first question is asking directly, do you guys have any IP? I know you sort of touched on this. I'll kind of lay out my understanding and then, and then certainly correct me if I'm wrong but the kits themselves are more or less off the shelf, is my understanding. The IP that you guys have is really around the analysis that you're doing on the back-end, and then the recommendations that you're providing, is that correct, or is there any other? I know you mentioned moving forward, there's some other IP you guys are looking at but maybe fill in the gaps that I laid out there and let us know if there's anything else that people should be aware of?

Jenna Hua: Yes. You've covered pretty much everything.

Brett Andrews: Okay. Okay, great. And then, actually we just got another one that just came in. So, I'm going to move the other one to the back. This question is, will you take advantage of EWG's database? And can you talk about recommendations of existing products versus developing your own products?

Jenna Hua: Oh, okay. So, yes. EWG is a pioneer in this field. But how we're different from EWG is because EWG, is a non-profit. And I also think our filtering criteria is quite stringent, that if we see any research study showing any chemical have any detrimental effects on either animal or human, we take it out. We see in the future we want to work with EWG because they have done a ton of wonderful, wonderful work, and then I see us with them as a having potential partnerships.

Brett Andrews: Great-

Jenna Hua: Also EWG has been around for a lot longer. If you use the EWG service, you know they have an app for healthy living that you can actually check out product ratings. And once we build our own lab, that's the fundraising goal, is that we also want to start looking to, of all the products that we're recommending to people, we also want to test the product as a whole because packaging also comes into play. Some manufacturers use good packaging, and some of them don't, even if the product is good. If you have a bad packaging that could be potential leaching of chemicals into the product then that defeats the purpose of having good ingredients.

Jo Rochester: And that's also why we're interested in developing our own products, is that we'll have full control over packaging and ingredients.

Brett Andrews: That's actually a really interesting point. I hadn't thought of how the packaging could be the most damaging part of a specific product. That point Jo, just touched on, is really covers our last couple of questions, which are all fairly similar, and there were about the business model. So, just reframe it in a way that you guys can address it in one shot, but can you just elaborate a little bit on the business model, and I think specifically focus on sort of past, present, future. So, I know you guys have earned a little bit of revenue so far. How has that been earned so far, and then what is the current method, or I guess the near-term method of earning or producing revenue, and then what do you guys see? I know you covered some of this in the pitch deck, but I think it would be helpful just to give a little more color. What do you guys see as other potential revenue streams?

It sounds like from Jo's point, that could include products of your own, but it sounds like with the data you're collecting, there's a number of other ways you guys could produce revenues. So could you just touch on business model a little bit?

Jenna Hua: Right now, we're selling it just organically. We did not do any other hiking because we have been heads-down building, and we've done pilot testing. As I mentioned before, even our testing kit has been the fourth version already. In the beginning, we also had to figure out logistics, figure out making sure we do our own stability testing, making sure the chemical is stable for shipping. So we've been doing a lot of a product development, and then so far out of all the tests we've sold, it's all by word of mouth. Organically, we have also been gaining social media presence to get a message out there that, "Hey, there's the service exists. And hey, you need to care about your environmental exposures." That's, I guess, the past state, and relate to the current state. The current state is, once the fundraising is done, we're planning to do more marketing, raising people's awareness. Again, getting a message out there, and also start working with physicians, the trusted providers. So, OB/GYNs, fertility doctors that go through IVF clinics, as well as, doulas and midwives.

So, that's our channel and that's also our first go-to-market. So, one example would be Thryve, which is a microbiome testing company. So, their users have been thinking about additional testing that they could offer. And that's also another channel for us to gain new users, and in the future, Jo, mentioned that yes, we want to have our own white labeled products. We would also want it to work with other government organizations. So, one thing I want to plug in is that right now the government body that tests for we're doing the biomonitoring is the CDC, through the National Health Nutrition Examination Survey, and that surveys conducted like every other year.

And for the chemical levels that we're looking at population levels the CDC tests about 3,000 people every other year. So, if you think about your gender, your age, your ethnicity, looking at your levels, that's a very, very small number, and that's part of the reason why we wanted to crowdsource biomonitoring. So, at population level, we can actually know these levels, and actually force potential government policy change eliminating these chemicals, and as well as for individuals. That's the future that Brett mentioned that we see us pursuing.

Brett Andrews:

Got it. That's great. And in summation, if I may, I think due to the feedback loops, and the network effects that you guys talked about, and the number of stakeholders that you guys are serving with this product, and platform, there's a myriad [of] different ways to potentially earn revenue once you guys can get this to scale. So, I really appreciate that there, Jenna. So that's going to do it for the questions that we have submitted so far. Real quick before I give the Million Marker team the last kind of parting thoughts, I just want to first thank everybody who attended here, and for the folks who are listening to this recording. If you would like to get some more information after we park the webinar. I'd encourage you to go to the campaign page on the MicroVentures website. The direct URL for that is invest.microventures.com/offerings/MillionMarker.

When you get there, and by the way, you can also get to that same campaign page by going to microventures.com homepage, click the invest tab in the top right, and scroll down until you see the tombstone familiar marker, you can click there, it'll get you to the same place. On that page, we've got a wealth of information that our team in collaboration with the Million Marker team put together, it's got the pitch deck that they went through, a video, information on the terms of the investment, information on the market, the team, the product, a lot of the stuff that we covered today, but even more in depth in that. If you have any additional questions that maybe come to mind after we get off the webinar today, there's a discussion forum there. So, feel free to ask questions there. I know they've been very responsive in getting those questions answered. So, we encourage you to do that as well.

And then of course, lastly, if you'd like to invest, and participate, and be a part of what these guys are building, we'd encourage you to do so. So, on that same page, up in the top right, I think as you scroll down, it'll stick with you. But there's an orange invest button up in the top, right. You can click on that. If you have account with us, you probably already know the process. If not, you can sign up and create one pretty quickly, and then participate in what these guys are doing, and be a part of the exciting changes that they're attempting to make in the world. So, with that, if you guys have any other places, I know you mentioned some of them earlier, but any places you'd like to point people towards or any sort of parting thoughts you'd like to share with everybody before we sign off, feel free.

Jo Rochester: I'd just like to mention that we have some really cool perks, so look at those as well, for investors.

Brett Andrews: Yeah. Get yourself a kit. It sounds like since you guys have them, if you're interested, I know, I'm certainly, probably, ignorant to some of the stuff that I get exposure to on a daily basis, so it's probably wise to check it out yourself, and I'm sure that's part of the perks that even if you're just want to be a consumer, I would encourage folks to do that as well.

Jenna Hua: Yeah. I also want to just reiterate, also for people if you want to know more go to our website, we have all the materials that we have on the website. It's all original content. We spend a lot of time putting those together, and as a scientist, one issue a lot of scientists have is the, "How do we actually communicate this to the public in an easy understanding way?" So, we have spent quite a bit energy putting together those materials. So, I really encourage people if you have doubts about buying expensive tests right now, please go to those materials to look because you can also get lots of information on those materials that we have created. Please also follow us on, on social media. We're active on multiple platform. We're active on Instagram, Pinterest, Twitter, LinkedIn, TikTok, you name it. Please check us out. Yeah. Thank you.

Larry Riliskis: And so, if I may just add, we also have got toxic free lifestyle audit kit. So using the app we can also facilitate some information, and take an audit offset as well which is much cheaper.

Brett Andrews: Now, I think that's great. I have actually gone to the resources tab on the website. There's some really interesting pieces there so I would also just second that, and encourage everyone to go check that out. Well, this has been great. I really appreciate the time Jenna, Larry, Jo. I really appreciate you guys taking some time and sharing more about your business. Thank you to everyone who logged in, and listened to this live, and also for everyone who's listening to the recording, we know the world's crazy right now, and then time's precious, so it means a lot to us that you took some time out of your day to tune in on this, and with that, we'll let everybody go, and have a great day, and great rest of your week. Thanks guys. I really appreciate it.

Jo Rochester: Thank you.

Jenna Hua: Thank you.

Larry Riliskis: Thank you.

Brett Andrews: Talk soon. Bye.

Larry Riliskis: Bye.

Jo Rochester: Bye.
