

Bay Area Rancher Cooperative (BAR-C)

Formed on July 28, 2020.

A business model that places the interests of the ranching community first.

Bay Area Ranchers' Cooperative

16 Founding Members comprised of North Bay Ranchers

FOOD

Locavores beware: Livestock ranchers to lose Bay Area slaughterhouse

Janelle Bitker and Tara Duggan | Nov. 27, 2019 | Updated: Nov. 27, 2019 12:51 p.m.

Workers processing beef at Marin Sun Farms, the Bay Area's last remaining USDA-certified slaughterhouse, Petaluma, California, November 26th, 2019. In January, the Bay Area's last remaining USDA-certified slaughterhouse, run by Marin Sun Farms in Petaluma, will no longer process animals from local ranches other than its own. When the local meat ranching company took over the slaughterhouse in 2014 that had been owned by Rancho Feeding Corp., it promised to help other ranches stay in business by offering the service. The company announced more

When the meat company Marin Sun Farms bought the Bay Area's last remaining slaughterhouse in Petaluma in 2014, owner David Evans, a Point

The Bottleneck Just Got Narrower

Our Mission:

To serve our community of ranchers and
farmers by providing access to local processing with
transparency,
honesty, &
dedication.

Our solution:

- By ranchers, for ranchers
- Provides a regional humane, no stress harvest method.
- Job opportunities
- Model for other regions

Brick and Mortar

Our values:

- Animal Welfare and Ecology
- Transparency
- Service and Quality
- Healthy Culture
- Resiliency and Viability

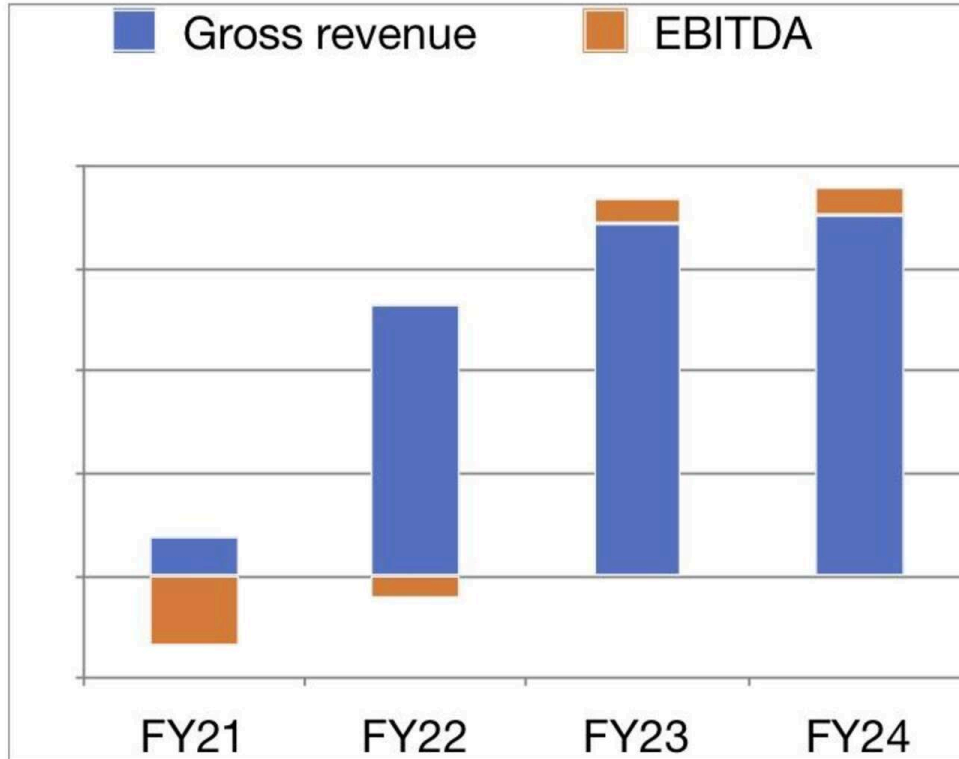

Market Analysis

80 direct-to-consumer ranchers in Northern California

- Harvest more than 10,000 head of livestock
- 60% of these animals come from less than 50 miles away
- Demand is 2X the capacity of the unit
- Cash flow positive in 10 months

Business Model

Figures are estimates and not guarantees

Assumptions:*
Capital $1.2M Raised
Equipment & Lease Acquired
Operational by May 2021

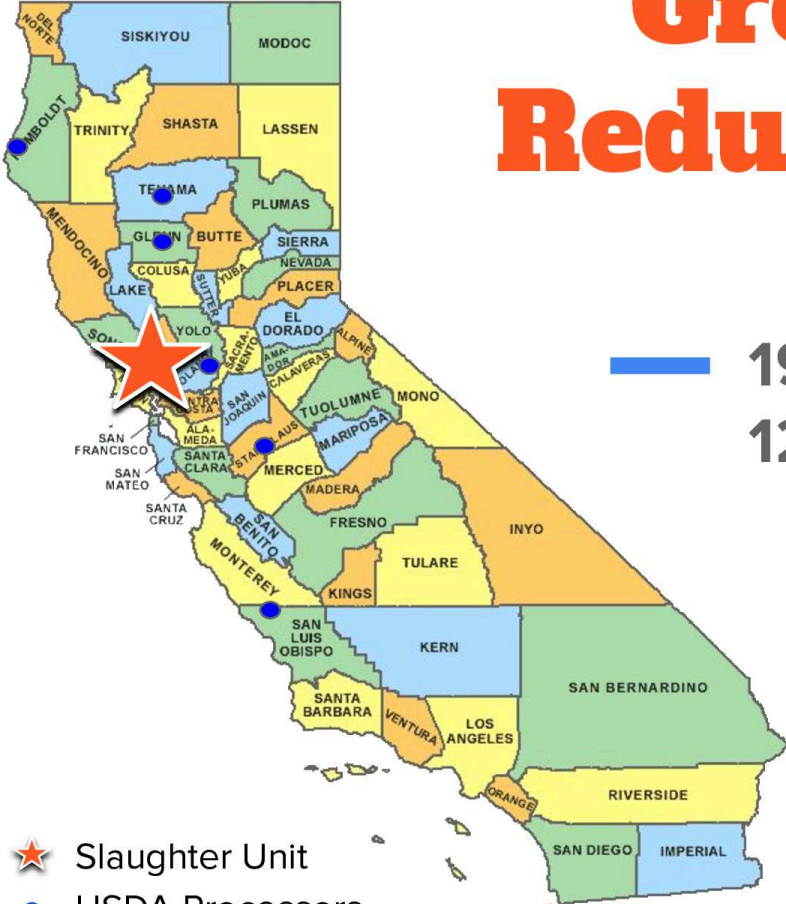

Greenhouse Gas Reduction: 1 location

=

— 19.6 tons of CO₂ saved by 12 of our founding members

— 26,150 fewer miles in just 8
months! (1+ trip around the world!)

— 78% total reduction in miles

★ Slaughter Unit
● USDA Processors

- Raised: $117,000
- End of October Goal: $500k to secure Mobile Unit
- End of 2020 Goal: $1.2 Million
- *Raised from a combo of Reg CF & Rule 506C

What We Are Asking

Raise $1.2 million
from our community

Balance of funds for Facility improvements
Capital equipment
Legal & Professional Services
Operating Expenses

Join Us
as a social impact
investor

Thank you

www.bayarearanchers.com

invest@bayarearanchers.com