

TRANSITNET

2022 Report

Dear investors,

In the wake of the downturn in the crypto market and the fallout from the collapse of FTX, we believe that a significant opportunity exists to create tools to make the industry safer, more secure, and regulatory compliant. In this environment, we believe that the Company's technology and intellectual property to confirming ownership (title) of crypto wallets has significant potential.

Additionally, the leadership teams of the Company and its parent entity, CapLinked, Inc. (CLI), are currently determining the terms of a full separation and spin-off of TransitNet from CLI, which if completed would make TransitNet a wholly independent company. We will send additional updates to our investors as this process continues.

We need your help!

Over the past year, TransitNet's investors helped the Company get the word out about its fundraise, participated in the alpha test, provided valuable product feedback, and helped promote the Company on social media. We will be reaching out to our investors soon to suggest additional ways they can get involved and support the company, whether it is through using the product or sharing our vision for bringing title to crypto.

Sincerely,

Eric Jackson

CEO & Co-Founder

Our Mission

Management's Discussion and Analysis of Financial Condition and Results of Operations

You should read the following discussion and analysis of our financial condition and results of operations together with our financial statements and the related notes and other financial information included elsewhere in this offering. Some of the information contained in this discussion and analysis, including information regarding the strategy and plans for our business, includes forward-looking statements that involve risks and uncertainties. You should review the "Risk Factors" section for a discussion of important factors that could cause actual results to differ materially from the results described in or implied by the forward-looking statements contained in the following discussion and analysis.

Overview

We believe crypto holds great promise, but only if it enters the mainstream and becomes more widely used. Many requirements of investors cannot be met without title and the right infrastructure: proof of reserve, use as collateral, and ability to insure.

We want to make crypto safe and secure. Our first-of-its-kind platform allows investors to confirm ownership for digital currencies they have in their crypto wallets, as well as monitor asset movements and securely exchange information with other parties before sending or receiving crypto.

TransitNet, LLC was incorporated in the State of California in January 2020.

The Company is subject to risks and uncertainties common to early-stage companies. Given the Company's limited operating history, the Company cannot reliably estimate how much revenue it will receive in the future.

Historical Results of Operations

Our company was organized in January 2020 and has limited operations upon which prospective investors may base an evaluation of its performance.

- Revenues & Gross Margin. For the period ended December 31, 2022, the Company had revenues of $2,848 compared to the year ended December 31, 2021, when the Company had revenues of $9,797. Our gross margin was 100.0% in fiscal year 2022, compared to 100.0% in 2021.

- Assets. As of December 31, 2022, the Company had total assets of $760,183.80, including $710,183.80 in cash. As of December 31, 2021, the Company had $1,335,202 in total assets, including $1,295,202 in cash.
- Net Loss. The Company has had net losses of $1,377,827 and net losses of $975,340 for the fiscal years ended December 31, 2022 and December 31, 2021, respectively.
- Liabilities. The Company's liabilities totaled $226,136.37 for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2022 and $162,677 for the fiscal year ended December 31, 2021.

Related Party Transaction

Refer to Question 26 of this Form C for disclosure of all related party transactions.

Liquidity & Capital Resources

To-date, the company has been financed with $5,000 in debt and approximately $2.8M in SAFEs. We don't have any other sources of capital in the immediate future.

We will likely require additional financing in excess of the proceeds previously raised in order to perform operations over the lifetime of the Company. Because of the complexities and uncertainties in establishing a new business strategy, it is not possible to adequately project whether the proceeds of this offering will be sufficient to enable us to implement our strategy. This complexity and uncertainty will be increased if less than the maximum amount of securities offered in this offering is sold. Although capital may be available for early-stage companies, there is no guarantee that the Company will receive any future investments from investors.

Runway & Short/Mid Term Expenses

TransitNet, LLC cash in hand is $466,095, as of April 2023. Over the last three months, revenues have averaged 0/month, cost of goods sold has averaged $0/month, and operational expenses have averaged $25,000/month, for an average burn rate of $25.00 per month.

We have lowered operating expenses significantly from Q4 2022 in order to increase our runway in light of the slowdown in the crypto industry. Furthermore, the leadership teams of the Company and its parent entity, CapLinked, Inc. (CLI), are currently determining the terms of a full separation and spin-off of TransitNet from CLI, which if completed would make TransitNet a wholly independent company. We will revisit the Company's operating strategy upon completion of this process.

We do not expect to begin generating significantly more revenue over the next 3-6 months, as our core product will still be in development over that time. We don't expect to need any additional capital to continue operations over the next 3-6 months, however we will be exploring feasible options for revenue generation, raising capital, and partnerships.

The Company is not currently profitable. Future profitability will depend on our ability to achieve product-market fit. As would be typical for most cloud software companies, we will likely need to raise a significant amount of venture funding to achieve this and scale the business to profitability.

We have previously raised capital directly from investors under Reg D. We are not currently raising capital although we will continue to evaluate our options for doing so going forward.

All projections in the above narrative are forward-looking and not guaranteed.

Net Margin: -48,379%    Gross Margin: 100%    Return on Assets: -181%    Earnings per Share: -$Infinity    Revenue per Employee: $2,848    Cash to Assets: 93%    Revenue to Receivables: -    Debt Ratio: 30%

Risks

Security breaches and other disruptions could compromise the Company's information and expose it to liability, which would cause its business and reputation to suffer. The Company collects and stores sensitive data, including intellectual property, proprietary business information of the Company's customers, vendors and business partners, and personally identifiable information of its customers and employees. The secure processing, maintenance and transmission of this information is critical to the Company's operations and business strategy. Like others in this industry, the Company could face persistent attacks on its information infrastructure where proprietary information and sensitive/confidential data relating to our operations is stored. Additionally, software and applications that the Company procures from third-parties may contain defects in design or manufacture, including "bugs" and other problems that could unexpectedly interfere with the operation of the information infrastructure. Despite security measures, the information technology and infrastructure may be vulnerable to attacks by hackers or breached due to employee error, malfeasance or other disruptions. Any such breach could compromise the Company's networks and the information stored there could be accessed, publicly disclosed, lost or stolen, potentially resulting in legal claims or proceedings. Such loss of information could disrupt the Company's operations and the products and services it provides to customers, damage its reputation, and cause a loss of confidence in its products and services, which could adversely affect the Company's revenues and competitive position.

As the Company expands its business, protecting our intellectual property will become increasingly important. The protective steps taken may be inadequate to deter competitors from using the Company's proprietary information. In order to protect or enforce its intellectual property rights, the Company may be required to initiate litigation against third parties, such as infringement lawsuits. Also, third parties may assert claims against us with or without provocation, and an adverse finding could negatively impact the Company. These lawsuits could be expensive, take significant time and could divert management's attention from other business concerns. The law relating to the scope and validity of claims in the technology field in which the Company operates is still evolving and, consequently, intellectual property positions in this industry are generally uncertain. the Company cannot assure that it will prevail in any potential suits or that damages or other remedies would be commercially valuable.

The Company relies on nondisclosure and noncompetition agreements with vendors, consultants and other parties to protect trade secrets and other proprietary rights. There is no assurance that these agreements will adequately protect the trade secrets and other proprietary rights if breached, or that the Company will have adequate remedies for any breach, that others will not independently develop substantially

The Company relies on various intellectual property rights in order to operate its business. The Company's intellectual property rights, including trademarks, may not be sufficiently broad or otherwise may not provide a significant competitive advantage. The steps the Company has taken to maintain and protect its intellectual property may not prevent such rights from being challenged, invalidated, circumvented or designed-around. Should the Company fail to obtain or maintain intellectual property rights that convey competitive advantage, adequately protect intellectual property or detect or prevent circumvention or unauthorized use of such property, it could adversely impact Company's competitive position and results of operations.

The Company's future success depends on the continued services and performances of key management, consultants and advisors, and it currently does not carry key person life insurance. However, the Company may secure key person life insurance when such coverage is deemed financially prudent. Also, the Company's future success may further depend on its ability to attract and retain additional key personnel and third party contractual relationships. If the Company is unable to attract and retain key personnel and third party contractors, this could adversely affect the Company's business, financial condition, and operating results

In order to respond to market changes, the Company's management may from time to time make changes to the business of the Company. There are certain risks associated with such changes. As a strategic response to changes in the competitive environment, the Company may from time to time make certain pricing, service or marketing decisions or business combinations that could have a material adverse effect on the Company's business, results of operations and financial condition.

Other firms could enter our field and release competing products. If these firms are larger, more highly capitalized, or better at executing, they may pose a serious risk to the company's future prospects.

Our firm's software product is early stage and has not yet achieved what is known in the industry as product-market fit. We are currently testing it with users in order to gain insights into the market, which we hope will guide us toward future changes to our product and implementation of our business model. If we are unable to achieve product-market fit for any reason, it will limit our ability to scale the business and hamper the company's future prospects.

We assume that we will be able to continue to enhance and improve our software in ways that are desirable to existing and prospective customers. If we are unable to do this for any reason, it will limit our ability to grow revenue and put the business at risk.

There are significant costs associated with the creation of a cloud-based software company, and most businesses in this industry do not generate a profit for many years, if ever. We will likely need to raise additional amounts of capital from outside investors after this current raise. If we are unable to do so for any reason, it will hamper the company's future prospects.

While our company builds cloud-based software, its business model is to sell software to individuals and firms that own cryptocurrency or are service providers to such firms. Therefore demand for our software can be impacted by regulations governing cryptocurrencies.

Likewise, prolonged regulatory uncertainty could diminish demand for cryptocurrency and therefore impact demand for our software.

The US economy currently faces a number of economic risks, including but not limited to geopolitical conflict, high inflation, rising interest rates, stock market volatility, and ongoing uncertainty from the Covid-19 pandemic. This could negatively impact the ability of our prospective clients to purchase our software or invest in new types of technologies.

The regulatory environment for cryptocurrency in the United States is still dynamic and evolving. The issuance of future regulations could impact businesses' demand for cryptocurrency in ways that we cannot currently anticipate.

The Company may never receive a future equity financing or elect to convert the Securities upon such future financing. In addition, the Company may never undergo a liquidity event such as a sale of the Company or an IPO. If neither the conversion of the Securities nor a liquidity event occurs, the Purchasers could be left holding the Securities in perpetuity. The Securities have numerous transfer restrictions and will likely be highly illiquid, with no secondary market on which to sell them. The Securities are not equity interests, have no ownership rights, have no rights to the Company's assets or profits and have no voting rights or ability to direct the Company or its actions.

We assume that use of cryptocurrency as an asset class and payment mechanism will continue to grow in future years. If this assumption proves incorrect, it will hamper our ability to sell our software.

Our future success depends on the efforts of a small management team. The loss of services of the members of the management team may have an adverse effect on the company. There can be no assurance that we will be successful in attracting and retaining other personnel we require to successfully grow our business.

Additional issuances of securities. Following the Investor's investment in the Company, the Company may sell interests to additional investors, which will dilute the percentage interest of the Investor in the Company. The Investor may have the opportunity to increase its investment in the Company in such a transaction, but such opportunity cannot be assured. The amount of additional financing needed by the Company, if any, will depend upon the maturity and objectives of the Company. The declining of an opportunity or the inability of the Investor to make a follow-on investment, or the lack of an opportunity to make such a follow-on investment, may result in substantial dilution of the Investor's interest in the Company.

Issuer repurchases of securities. The Company may have authority to repurchase its securities from unitholders, which may serve to decrease any liquidity in the market for such securities, decrease the percentage interests held by other similarly situated investors to the Investor, and create pressure on the Investor to sell its securities to the Company concurrently.

A sale of the issuer or of assets of the issuer. As a minority owner of the Company, the Investor will have limited or no ability to influence a potential sale of the Company or a substantial portion of its assets. Thus, the Investor will rely upon the executive management of the Company to manage the Company so as to maximize value for unitholders. Accordingly, the success of the Investor's investment in the Company will depend in large part upon the skill and expertise of the executive management of the Company. If the Management of the Company authorizes a sale of all or a part of the Company, or a disposition of a substantial portion of the Company's assets, there can be no guarantee that the value received by the Investor, together with the fair market estimate of the value remaining in the Company, will be equal to or exceed the value of the Investor's initial investment in the Company.

Transactions with related parties. The Investor should be aware that there will be occasions when the Company may encounter potential conflicts of interest in its operations. On any issue involving conflicts of interest, the executive management of the Company will be guided by their good faith judgement as to the Company's best interests. The Company may engage in transactions with affiliates, subsidiaries or other related parties, which may be on terms which are not arm's-length, but will be in all cases consistent with the duties of the management of the Company to its unitholders. By acquiring an interest in the Company, the Investor will be deemed to have acknowledged the existence of any such actual or potential conflicts of interest and to have waived any claim with respect to any liability arising from the existence of any such conflict of interest.

Minority Ownership

An Investor in the Company will likely hold a minority position in the Company, and thus be limited as to its ability to control or influence the governance and operations of the Company.

The marketability and value of the Investor's interest in the Company will depend upon many factors outside the control of the Investor. The Company will be managed by its officers and be governed in accordance with the strategic direction and decision-making of its Management, and the Investor will have no independent right to name or remove an officer or member of the Management of the Company.

Following the Investor's investment in the Company, the Company may sell interests to additional investors, which will dilute the percentage interest of the Investor in the Company. The Investor may have the opportunity to increase its investment in the Company in such a transaction, but such opportunity cannot be assured.

The amount of additional financing needed by the Company, if any, will depend upon the maturity and objectives of the Company. The declining of an opportunity or the inability of the Investor to make a follow-on investment, or the lack of an opportunity to make such a follow-on investment, may result in substantial dilution of the Investor's interest in the Company.

Exercise of Rights Held by Principal Shareholders

As holders of a majority-in-interest of voting rights in the Company, the unitholders may make decisions with which the Investor disagrees, or that negatively affect the value of the Investor's securities in the Company, and the Investor will have no recourse to change these decisions. The Investor's interests may conflict with those of other investors, and there is no guarantee that the Company will develop in a way that is optimal for or advantageous to the Investor. For example, the unitholders may change the terms of the operating agreement for the company, change the terms of securities issued by the Company, change the management of the Company, and even force out minority holders of securities. The unitholders may make changes that affect the tax treatment of the Company in ways that are unfavorable to you but favorable to them. They may also vote to engage in new offerings and/or to register certain of the Company's securities in a way that negatively affects the value of the securities the Investor owns. Other holders of securities of the Company may also have access to more information than the Investor, leaving the Investor at a disadvantage with respect to any decisions regarding the securities he or she owns. The unitholders have the right to redeem their securities at any time. Unitholders could decide to force the Company to redeem their securities at a time that is not favorable to the Investor and is damaging to the Company. Investors' exit may affect the value of the Company and/or its viability. In cases where the rights of holders of convertible debt, SAFES, or other outstanding options or warrants are exercised, or if new awards are granted under our equity compensation plans, an Investor's interests in the Company may be diluted. This means that the pro-rata portion of the Company represented by the Investor's securities will decrease, which could also diminish the Investor's voting and/or economic rights. In addition, as discussed above, if a majority-in-interest of holders of securities with voting rights cause the Company to issue additional units, an Investor's interest will typically also be diluted.

Restrictions on Transfer

The securities offered via Regulation Crowdfunding may not be transferred by any purchaser of such securities during the one year period beginning when the securities were issued, unless such securities are transferred:

- to the issuer;
- to an accredited investor®;
- as part of an offering registered with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission; or
- to a member of the family of the purchaser or the equivalent, to a trust controlled by the purchaser, to a trust created for the benefit of a member of the family of the purchaser or the equivalent, or in connection with the death or divorce of the purchaser or other similar circumstance.

Valuation Methodology for Prior Reg CF Raise

The offering price for the securities offered pursuant to this Form C has been determined arbitrarily by the Company, and does not necessarily bear any relationship to the Company's book value, assets, earnings or other generally accepted valuation criteria. In determining the offering price, the Company did not employ investment banking firms or other outside organizations to make an independent appraisal or evaluation. Accordingly, the offering price should not be considered to be indicative of the actual value of the securities offered hereby.

The initial amount invested in a SAFE is determined by the investor, and we do not guarantee that the SAFE will be converted into any particular number of units. As discussed in Question 13, when we engage in an offering of equity interests involving Preferred Units, Investors may receive a number of Preferred Units calculated as either (i) the total value of the investor's investment, divided by the price of the Preferred Unit being issued to new Investors, or (ii) if the valuation for the company is more than the Valuation Cap, the amount invested divided by the quotient of (a) the Valuation Cap divided by (b) the total amount of the Company's capitalization at that time. Because there will likely be no public market for our securities prior to an initial public offering or similar liquidity event, the price of the Preferred Units that Investors will receive, and/or the total value of the Company's capitalization, will be determined by our management. Among the factors we may consider in determining the price of Preferred Units are prevailing market conditions, our financial information, market valuations of other companies that we believe to be comparable to us, estimates of our business potential, the present state of our development and other factors deemed relevant. In the future, we will perform valuations of our units that take into account, as applicable, factors such as the following:

- unrelated third party valuations;
- the price at which we sell other securities in light of the relative rights, preferences and privileges of those securities;
- our results of operations, financial position and capital resources;
- current business conditions and projections;
- the marketability or lack thereof of the securities;
- the hiring of key personnel and the experience of our management;
- the introduction of new products;
- the risk inherent in the development and expansion of our products;
- our stage of development and material risks related to our business;
- the likelihood of achieving a liquidity event, such as an initial public offering or a sale of our company given the prevailing market conditions and the nature and history of our business;
- industry trends and competitive environment;
- trends in consumer spending, including consumer confidence;
- overall economic indicators, including gross domestic product, employment, inflation and interest rates; and
- the general economic outlook.

We will analyze factors such as those described above using a combination of financial and market-based methodologies to determine our business enterprise value. For example, we may use methodologies that assume that businesses operating in the same industry will share similar characteristics and that the Company's value will correlate to those characteristics, and/or methodologies that compare transactions in similar securities issued by us that were conducted in the market.
