00:00

transitioning out of the Army in 2017

00:02

was probably one of the hardest things

00:03

I've ever done in my life going from six

00:06

years of constant Brotherhood

80:00

surrounding me to being isolated in the

00:10

civilian world not really having anyone

00:12

to relate to whether it was in school

00:14

with students or trying to reach out to

00:17

the VFW and American Legion and just 00:20

having that generation gap in that case

00:22

not being able to relate with their experiences I really started to affect

00:24

00:26

my life to the point where my family and

00.28

my friends weren't really able to help

00:30

me fill this void that was being

00:33

generated in my mind being isolated in a

00:36

lot of memories I had within the service

00:38

my name is Nicholas York co-founder of

00.41

Charlie Foxtrot Brune my co-founder

00:43

Timothy price and I met in Afghanistan

00:45

while deployed Charlie Foxtrot we're

00:47

more focused on being able to allow

00:49

veterans to come in and have that place

00:52

to be aware they can relate to others

00:55

and be able to identify easily with them

00:57

as well as be able to enjoy some craft

01:00

beer we have eight staple beers on tap

01:02

at all times for seasonal and for six

01:06

small batches that will be rotating

01:09

throughout we're not just focused on our 01:11

younger generation of transitioning

01:13

veterans but we're focused on veterans

01:14

as a whole 22 veterans committing

01:18

suicide every day with the reality of

01:20

that being over 27 it's just too much

01.22

we've partnered with the 22 project out

01:25

in Delray Florida to be able to 01:26

establish one of our beers to fund their

01:29

mission with 22 percent of our profits

01:31

donated back to their back to them so

01:34

that way they can help offer medical 01:37

treatment to veterans with PTSD and 01:39

traumatic brain injuries as a veteran

01:41

who has PTSD and suffered traumatic

01:43

brain injuries this is really dear to my 01:46

heart if we were able to receive a grant

01:49

money will you set to purchase

01:52

additional brewing equipment man you

01:54

should start getting our manufacturing

01:55

license and be able to distribute our

01:57

beer to help support our veterans
