RISK FACTORS

Risks Related to the Company's Business and Industry

Uncertain Risk.

An investment in the Company (also referred to as "we", "us", "our", or "Company") involves a high degree of risk and should only be considered by those who can afford the loss of their entire investment. Furthermore, the purchase of any of the Class A Common Stock should only be undertaken by persons whose financial resources are sufficient to enable them to indefinitely retain an illiquid investment. Each investor in the Company should consider all of the information provided to such potential investor regarding the Company as well as the following risk factors, in addition to the other information listed in the Company's Form C. The following risk factors are not intended, and shall not be deemed to be, a complete description of the commercial and other risks inherent in the investment in the Company.

Our business projections are only projections.

There can be no assurance that the Company will meet our projections. There can be no assurance that the Company will be able to find sufficient demand for our product, that people think it's a better option than a competing product, or that we will be able to provide the service at a level that allows the Company to make a profit and still attract business.

Any valuation at this stage is difficult to assess.

The valuation for the offering was established by the Company. Unlike listed companies that are valued publicly through market-driven stock prices, the valuation of private companies, especially startups, is difficult to assess and you may risk overpaying for your investment.

The transferability of the Securities you are buying is limited.

Any Class A Common Stock purchased through this crowdfunding campaign is subject to SEC limitations of transfer. This means that the stock/note that you purchase cannot be resold for a period of one year. The exception to this rule is if you are transferring the stock back to the Company, to an "accredited investor," as part of an offering registered with the Commission, to a member of your family, trust created for the benefit of your family, or in connection with your death or divorce.

Your investment could be illiquid for a long time.

You should be prepared to hold this investment for several years or longer. For the 12 months following your investment there will be restrictions on how you can resell the securities you receive. More importantly, there is no established market for these securities and there may never be one. As a result, if you decide to sell these securities in the future, you may not be able to find a buyer. The Company may be acquired by an existing player in the agricultural technology industry. However, that may never happen, or it may happen at a price that results in you losing money on this investment.

If the Company cannot raise sufficient funds, it will not succeed.

The Company is offering Class A Common Stock in the amount of up to $1,070,000 in this offering and may close on any investments that are made. Even if the maximum amount is raised, the Company is likely to need additional funds in the future in order to grow, and if it cannot raise those funds for whatever reason, including reasons relating to the Company itself or the broader economy, it may not survive. If the Company manages to raise only the minimum amount of funds, sought, it will have to find other sources of funding for some of the plans outlined in "Use of Proceeds."

We may not have enough capital as needed and may be required to raise more capital.

We anticipate needing access to credit in order to support our working capital requirements as we grow. Although interest rates are low, it is still a difficult environment for obtaining credit on favorable terms. If we cannot obtain credit when we need it, we could be forced to raise additional equity capital, modify our growth plans, or take some other action. Issuing more equity may require bringing on additional investors. Securing these additional investors could require pricing our equity below its current price. If so, your investment could lose value as a result of this additional dilution. In addition, even if the equity is not priced lower, your ownership percentage would be decreased with the addition of more investors. If we are unable to find additional investors willing to provide capital, then it is possible that we will choose to cease our sales activity. In that case, the only asset remaining to generate a return on your investment could be our intellectual property. Even if we are not forced to cease our sales activity, the unavailability of credit could result in the Company performing below expectations, which could adversely impact the value of your investment.

Terms of subsequent financings may adversely impact your investment.

We will likely need to engage in common equity, debt, or preferred stock financings in the future, which may reduce the value of your investment in the Class A Common Stock. Interest on debt securities could increase costs and negatively impact operating results. Preferred stock could be issued in series from time to time with such designation, rights, preferences, and limitations as needed to raise capital. The terms of preferred stock could be more advantageous to those investors than to the holders of Class A Common Stock. In addition, if we need to raise more equity capital from the sale of Class A Common Stock, institutional or other investors may negotiate terms that are likely to be more favorable than the terms of your investment, and possibly a lower purchase price per share.

Management Discretion as to Use of Proceeds.

Our success will be substantially dependent upon the discretion and judgment of our management team with respect to the application and allocation of the proceeds of this Offering. The use of proceeds described below is an estimate based on our current business plan. We, however, may find it necessary or advisable to re-allocate portions of the net proceeds reserved for one category to another, and we will have broad discretion in doing so.

Projections: Forward Looking Information.

Any projections or forward-looking statements regarding our anticipated financial or operational performance are hypothetical and are based on management's best estimate of the probable results of our operations and will not have been reviewed by our independent accountants. These projections will be based on assumptions which management believes are reasonable. Some assumptions invariably will not materialize due to unanticipated events and circumstances beyond management's control. Therefore, actual results of operations will vary from such projections, and such variances may be material. Any projected results cannot be guaranteed.

We are reliant on one main type of service.

All of our current services are variants on one type of service, providing a platform for global online agricultural collaboration. Our revenues are therefore dependent upon the market for such services.

Some of our products are still in prototype phase and might never be operational products.

It is possible that there may never be an operational product or that the product may never be used to engage in transactions. It is possible that the failure to release certain features of the product would be the result of a change in business model upon the Company's making a determination that the business model, or some other factor, will not be in the best interest of the Company and its stockholders.

Minority Holder; Securities with Voting Rights.

The Class A Common Stock that you are buying has voting rights attached to them. However, you are granting the right to vote, by proxy, to the Vice Chairman and his or her successor. You will be part of the minority shareholders of the Company and therefore will have a limited ability to influence management's decisions on how to run the business. You are trusting in management discretion in making good business decisions that will grow your investments. Furthermore, in the event of a liquidation of our company, you will only be paid out if there is any cash remaining after all of the creditors of our company have been paid out.

You are trusting that management will make the best decision for the company.

You are trusting in management discretion. You are buying securities as a minority holder, and therefore must trust the management of the Company to make good business decisions that grow your investment.

Insufficient Funds.

The company might not sell enough securities in this offering to meet its operating needs and fulfill its plans, in which case it may cease operating, and you will get nothing. Even if we sell all the common stock we are offering now, the Company will possibly need to raise more funds in the future, and if it can't get them, we may fail. Even if we do make a successful offering in the future, the terms of that offering might result in your investment in the company being worth less, because later investors might get better terms.

This offering involves "rolling closings," which may mean that earlier investors may not have the benefit of information that later investors have.

Once we meet our target amount for this offering, we may request that Start Engine instruct the escrow agent to disburse offering funds to us. At that point, investors whose subscription agreements have been accepted will become our investors. All early-stage companies are subject to a number of risks and uncertainties, and it is not uncommon for material changes to be made to the offering terms, or to companies' businesses, plans or prospects, sometimes on short notice. When such changes happen during the course of an offering, we must file an amended to our Form C with the SEC, and investors whose subscriptions have not yet been accepted will have the right to withdraw their subscriptions and get their money back. Investors whose subscriptions have already been accepted, however, will already be our investors and will have no such right.

Our new product could fail to achieve the sales projections we expected.

Our growth projections are based on an assumption that with an increased advertising and marketing budget our products will be able to gain traction in the marketplace at a faster rate than they currently are. It is possible that our products will fail to gain market acceptance for any number of reasons. If the products fail to achieve significant sales and acceptance in the marketplace, this could materially and adversely impact the value of your investment.

We are an early-stage company and have not yet generated any profits.

AgWiki, Inc. was formed on May 1, 2015. Accordingly, the Company has a limited history upon which an evaluation of its performance and future prospects can be made. Our current and proposed operations are subject to all business risks associated with new enterprises. These include likely fluctuations in operating results as the Company reacts to developments in its market, managing its growth and the entry of competitors into the market. We will only be able to pay dividends on any shares once our directors determine that we are financially able to do so. The Company has incurred a net loss and has had limited revenues generated since inception. There is no assurance that we will be profitable in the next 3 years or generate sufficient revenues to pay dividends to the holders of the shares.

We are an early-stage company and have limited revenue and operating history.

The Company has a short history and effectively no revenue. If you are investing in this company, it's because you think that the Company's products and services are a good idea, that the team will be able to successfully market, and sell the product or service, that we can price them right and sell them to enough people so that the Company will succeed. Further, we have never turned a profit and there is no assurance that we will ever be profitable.

We have existing patents that we might not be able to protect properly.

One of the Company's most valuable assets is its intellectual property. The Company owns certain trademarks, copyrights, Internet domain names, and trade secrets. We believe one of the most valuable components of the Company is our intellectual property portfolio. Due to the value, competitors may misappropriate or violate the rights owned by the Company. The Company intends to continue to protect its intellectual property portfolio from such violations. It is important to note that unforeseeable costs associated with such practices may invade the capital of the Company.

We have pending patent approval's that might be vulnerable.

One of the Company's most valuable assets is its intellectual property. The Company's intellectual property such as patents, trademarks, copyrights, Internet domain names, and trade secrets may not be registered with the proper authorities. We believe one of the most valuable components of the Company is our intellectual property portfolio. Due to the value, competitors may misappropriate or violate the rights owned by the Company. The Company intends to continue to protect its intellectual property portfolio from such violations. It is important to note that unforeseeable costs associated with such practices may negatively impact the capital of the Company due to its unregistered intellectual property.

Our trademarks, copyrights and other intellectual property could be unenforceable or ineffective.

Intellectual property is a complex field of law in which few things are certain. It is possible that competitors will be able to design around our intellectual property, find prior art to invalidate it, or render the patents unenforceable through some other mechanism. If competitors are able to bypass our trademark and copyright protection without obtaining a sublicense, it is likely that the Company's value will be materially and adversely impacted. This could also impair the Company's ability to compete in the marketplace. Moreover, if our trademarks and copyrights are deemed unenforceable, the Company will almost certainly lose any potential revenue it might be able to raise by entering into sublicenses. This would cut off a significant potential revenue stream for the Company.

The cost of enforcing our trademarks and copyrights could prevent us from enforcing them.

Trademark and copyright litigation has become extremely expensive. Even if we believe that a competitor is infringing on one or more of our trademarks or copyrights, we might choose not to file suit because we lack the cash to successfully prosecute a multi-year litigation with an uncertain outcome; or because we believe that the cost of enforcing our trademark(s) or copyright(s) outweighs the value of winning the suit in light of the risks and consequences of losing it; or for some other reason. Choosing not to enforce our trademark(s) or copyright(s) could have adverse consequences for the Company, including undermining the credibility of our intellectual property, reducing our ability to enter into sublicenses, and weakening our attempts to prevent competitors from entering the market. As a result, if we are unable to enforce our trademark(s) or copyright(s) because of the cost of enforcement, your investment in the Company could be significantly and adversely affected.

The loss of one or more of our key personnel, or our failure to attract and retain other highly qualified personnel in the future, could harm our business.

To be successful, the Company requires capable people to run its day to day operations. As the Company grows, it will need to attract and hire additional employees in sales, marketing, design, development, operations, finance, legal, human resources, and other areas. Depending on the economic environment and the Company's performance, we may not be able to locate or attract qualified individuals for such positions when we need them. We may also make hiring mistakes, which can be costly in terms of resources spent in recruiting, hiring and investing in the incorrect individual and in the time delay in locating the right employee fit. If we are unable to attract, hire and retain the right talent or make too many hiring mistakes, it is likely our business will suffer from not having the right employees in the right positions at the right time. This would likely adversely impact the value of your investment.

We rely on third parties to provide services essential to the success of our business.

We rely on third parties to provide a variety of essential business functions for us, including manufacturing, shipping, accounting, legal work, public relations, advertising, retailing, and distribution. It is possible that some of these third parties will fail to perform their services or will perform them in an unacceptable manner. It is possible that we will experience delays, defects, errors, or other problems with their work that will materially impact our operations and we may have little or no recourse to recover damages for these losses. A disruption in these key or other suppliers' operations could materially and adversely affect our business. As a result, your investment could be adversely impacted by our reliance on third parties and their performance.

The Company is vulnerable to hackers and cyber-attacks.

As an internet-based business, we may be vulnerable to hackers who may access the data of our investors and the issuer companies that utilize our platform. Further, any significant disruption in the Company's services or in its computer systems could reduce the attractiveness of the platform and result in a loss of investors and companies interested in using our platform. Further, we rely on a third-party technology provider to provide some of our back-up technology. Any disruptions of services or cyber-attacks either on our technology provider or on the Company could harm our reputation and materially negatively impact our financial condition and business.

In addition to the risks listed above, businesses are often subject to risks not foreseen or fully appreciated by the management. It is not possible to foresee all risks that may affect us. Moreover, the Company cannot predict whether the Company will successfully effectuate the Company's current business plan. Each prospective Purchaser is encouraged to carefully analyze the risks and merits of an investment in the Securities and should take into consideration when making such analysis, among other, the Risk Factors discussed above.

BUSINESS

Description of the Business

AgWiki has created a helpful and easy-to-use knowledge-sharing platform to connect food producers and provide life-saving information across the globe. At this time AgWiki is still per-revenue at this time. We have a plan for the future in which we are generating revenue using these models. Business Plan AgWiki is a website with a global audience where those interested in producing food can learn, provide, and discuss the numerous challenges of producing safe, abundant, sustainable, and nutritious food supply. AgWiki connects a global community of farmers, gardeners, researchers, and nutritionists working to discover and share solutions to food sustainability, hunger, and climate change through social engagement. Connecting the worldwide food industry to share information, aid in education, and build relationships will have a long- term benefit on the challenges facing food production. Over 500 million family farms manage most of the world's agricultural land and produce most of the world's food. Our goal is to connect farmers and ranchers to allow information regarding plant and animal production to be shared by all those growing food and addressing nutrition. The business model for the company is based on generating revenue from user fees of varying levels and advertising, as well as marketing trending and research data to interested parties. AgWiki.com currently exists online as a product that offers some, but not all, tools that will ultimately be available to users. The site is well beyond the "minimal viable product" stage, though it lacks some functionality that needs to be built or completed in order to offer tools that will be valued by many in agriculture.

History of the Business

The Company's Products and/or Services

Product / Service	Description	Current Market
-------------------	-------------	----------------

We are advancing the coding / technology tools that provide users a website that is more responsive to the needs of the users. One of our main advancements in 2022 has been the adding much more educational content for the users to learn from.

Our content and services are used via our online website (AgWiki.com)

Competition

The Company's primary competitors are Social media, such as Facebook, LinkedIn and other Agriculture media companies.

The farming and overall agricultural industry is vast and complex. There are significant challenges that must be addressed in the area of soil health, climate change, and sustainability. Technology has moved in a direction that allows some crop and livestock producers to utilize data and research to dramatically alter the environmental impact of all food that is produced. At the same time, how we grow our food is more important to consumers than ever before. Finally, there are millions of subsistence farmers growing enough food for their families only. Regardless of the production practice or the size and scope of a farmer or rancher, the sharing of information and adapting to new information is crucial to the success of all those that produce food. Major corporations, in Europe and the United States, have created new entities that help farmers learn more about their individual farms or ranches down to the square meter of soil or individual dairy cow or other farm animals. Within some of these new companies, there are communities and networks of food producers, but generally, they are geographically and demographically similar with very similar farm practices. A Group that exists on AgWiki is dedicated to Climate Change, another is Sustainable Farming, and yet another is about producing and marketing food during and after a pandemic. There is not an online platform that provides tools to agriculturalists that will compete directly with AgWiki as a finalized product. Small pieces of AgWiki exist within other social media products including LinkedIn and Facebook, though those products lack focus on specific issues and do not offer expertise from researchers and agronomists from all around the globe. AgWiki is a place for all those that grow any amount of food or fiber to engage with experts on controlling insects in their garden or managing the health of the soil in a field that drains into a local water source or stream.

Supply Chain and Customer Base

All of our services are variants on one type of service, providing a platform for global online agriculture collaboration.

AgWiki is an online platform where farmers, and agriculturists, ranchers (and those in the food industry) all over the world connect and build relationships with one another.

Operations

In 2020, AgWiki partnered with Start Engine on a crowdfunding initiative to raise $1M. These funds were to be utilized to make critical improvements to the AgWiki website and its day-to-day functionality. Early in our campaign, we were confronted with two unforeseen challenges. Facebook, our premier social media tool for crowdfunding, initiated changes in specific targeting options and ad controls, restricting our opportunity to target specific individuals who had clicked on our advertising pages. Facebook was our essential tool when the campaign started in December 2020; shortly after that, we were no longer successful using the tool. Our raise concluded at $125K and 245 investors. Unfortunately, by not meeting our funding milestone, we have been limited in expanding our business and driving new users to our website.

In the first quarter of 2024, a substantial modification was made to the on-boarding process for AgWiki to make it a more simplified process. Important information from each user will be gathered as their utilization of the AgWiki website expands. We hope heightened traffic on AgWiki will generate income from advertising and ultimately paid membership based on the tools utilized. Additionally, sharing content across multiple social media platforms and related websites will drive traffic back to AgWiki.com.
