Current Problem

Due to regulations imposed by the government and corporate policies for marketing and advertising leaders such as Google and Facebook, brands cannot advertise effectively. Brands also can't sell their THC based products directly to the consumer through online channels and send them through the mail.

Meanwhile, consumers, especially the growing share who are new to cannabis, are overwhelmed with choices and want to learn more about a product before purchasing it.

Herbal Daily provides an in-depth showcase of brands for consumers to learn more about the product before making a purchase. Our solution allows brands a new category for reaching customers directly through in-depth video content.

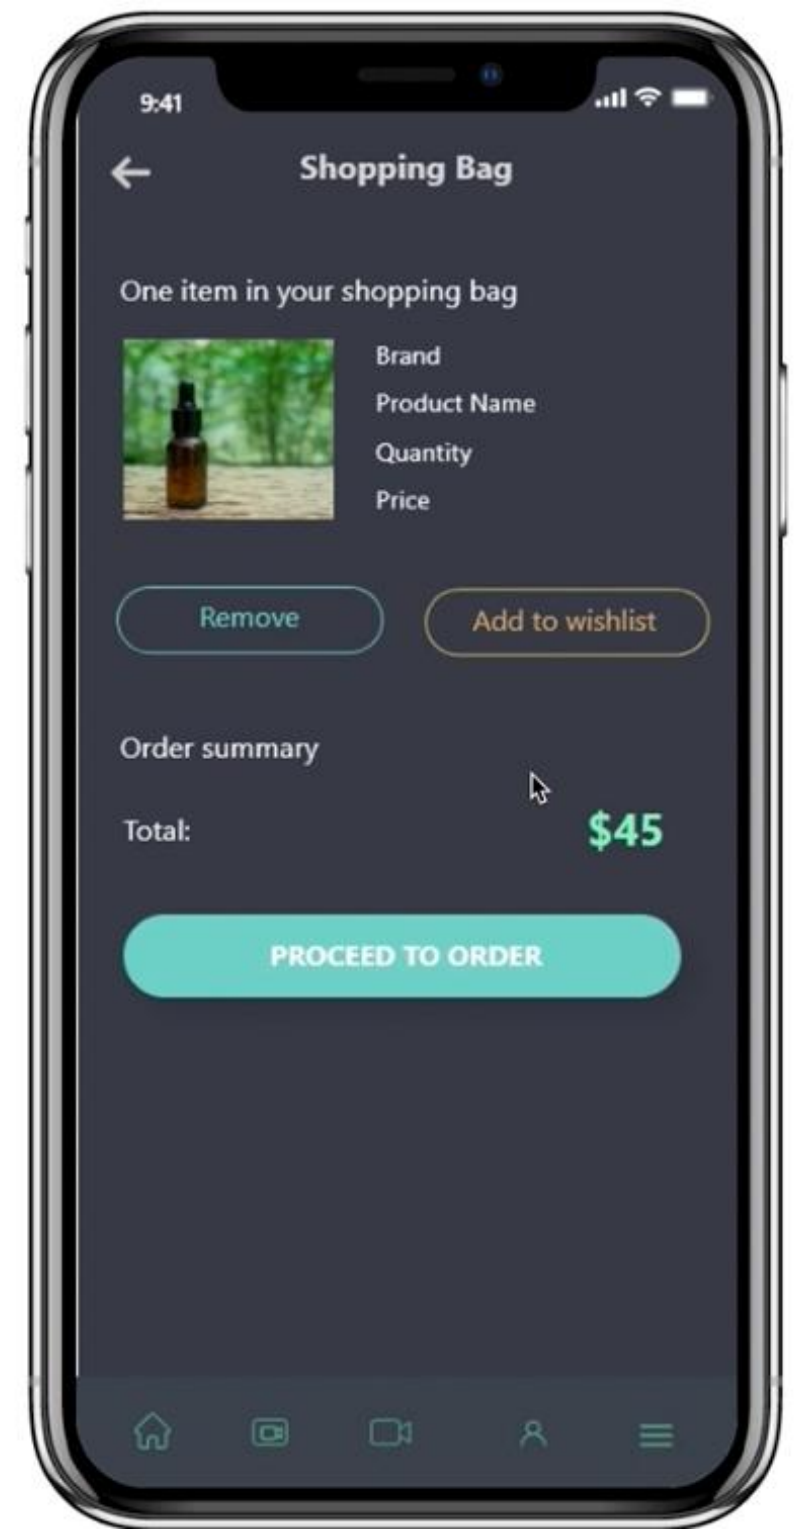

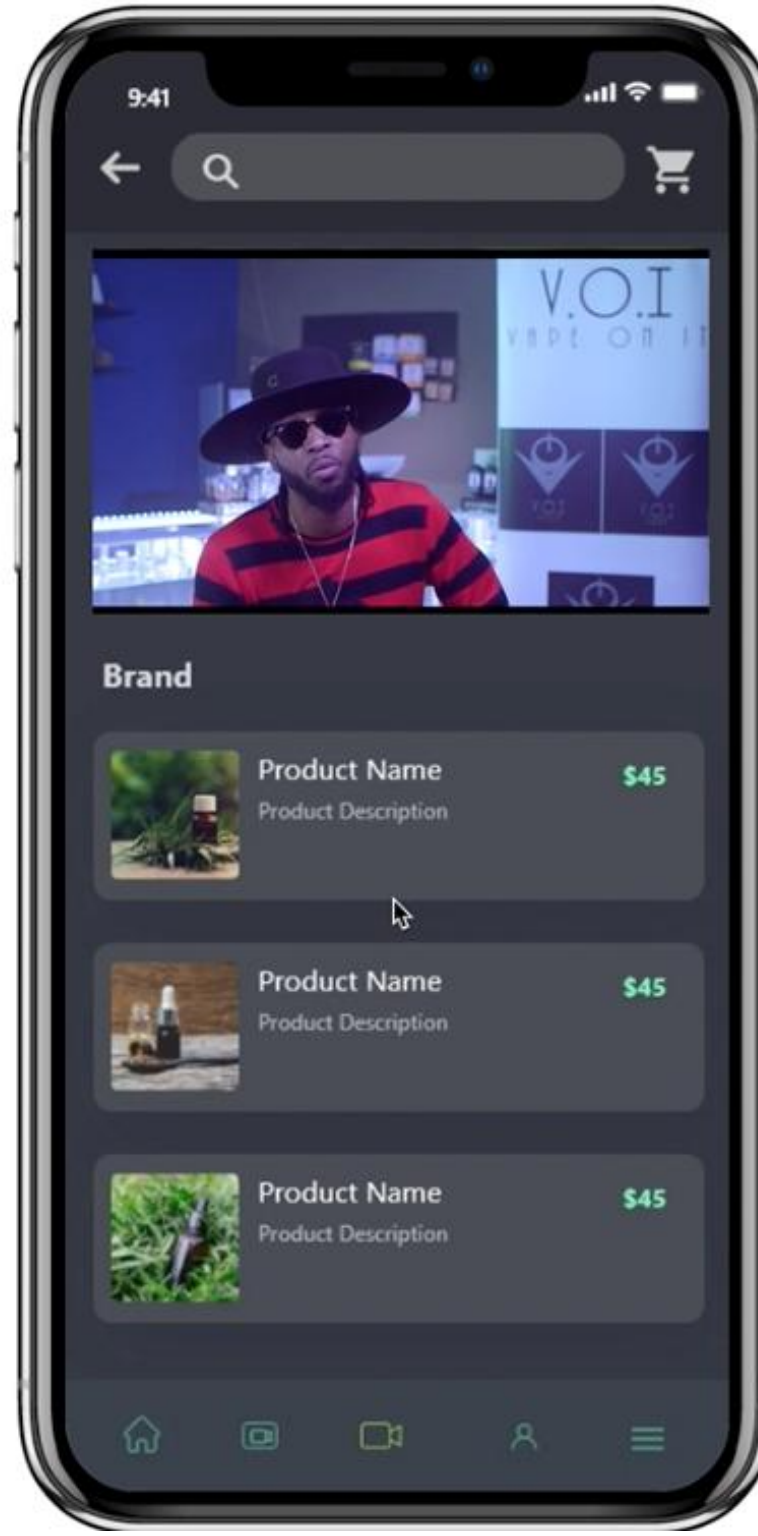

As the first infomercial-style content curation in the cannabis industry, our platform solves the industry's marketing and advertising struggles.

Our Solution

We can complete the online purchase flow through our partnerships, allowing a consumer to order a product on our site to be delivered by a local delivery service or picked up at your local dispensary.

Our platform provides crucial sales data to these business partnerships.

Founders Story

Herbal Daily was birth out of the understanding that the cannabis plant has helped many individuals. A vast majority of the population needs education on the plant and the products on the market. With compliance restrictions around the country on how a brand can market and advertise, the platform of Herbal Daily thrives to become consumers' go-to source for cannabis product information. Along with product reviews, or objective is to educate the public.

With a career as a producer in Hollywood producing content for networks like NFL Network BET, TV-One, Discovery, MTV, and BBC, Marques Miles wanted to use his expertise to effectively be a resource to the cannabis industry in the form of marketing, advertising, but most importantly storytelling. With help from Bonita Money, working diligently in the cannabis industry as the executive director of the National Diversity Inclusion Cannabis Alliance, building awareness and providing education on the importance of social equity in the cannabis industry. As the founder of ProLit Ventures, a cannabis brand consulting company, Bonita knew cannabis companies were having difficulties promoting the products due to social media restrictions and an oversaturated marketplace.

With Marques handling the content and business strategy, and Bonita overseeing cannabis compliance, business development, and cannabis brand partnerships, Sanaz Alexander joined the team bringing her expertise in product management. Sanaz's experience as a Director of Product with companies like Disney, Weedmaps, and Zynga gave the team the technical knowledge and expertise to properly execute the critical and necessary tools needed to launch the Herbal Daily platform. Our team expanded with the addition of Matthew Roberts as Chief Technology Officer. Matthew's prior experience as a software engineer includes time at Weedmaps as an engineering lead and the co-founder of several small start-ups.

Data Strategy

Our mission is to help brands make more informed business decisions through data. We will capture crucial analytics on consumer trends through our online ordering system, including the types of products each consumer purchases. We will provide data as an additional service to the brands on our platform, providing an essential and premium dashboard for each brand to monitor its sales and compare them to platform-wide sales.

Our brands will be able to see the top-selling brands and products by the consumer segment. We can use data to help brands predict the supply, demand, and change inventory based on this information. Brands will gain insight into competitors and help assist in marketing, branding, and sales tactics.

With our partnership with social equity non-profit National Diversity Inclusion Cannabis Alliance (NDICA), Herbal Daily will have strategic partnerships with NDICA's social equity delivery license holders who need a marketing arm to build their business.

The failed war on drugs affected many urban communities all over the country. Herbal Daily is prepared to do our part to support social equity programs around the country. A portion of Herbal Daily proceeds will go to help support community-based organizations.

We'll also provide discounts for social equity brands to post content to our platform. We'll provide scholarships for social equity license holders to attend business incubators. Lastly, we'll offer small grants to crucial life expenses for social equity applicants.
