Joseph M. Nemmers Jr.

Retired Healthcare Executive. Author. Veteran.
Greater Phoenix Area

Summary

I worked for Abbott Laboratories for twenty seven years, retiring in 2007 as Executive Vice President Diagnostics. Simultaneously, I spent thirteen years as an officer in the U.S. Army Reserve.

After Abbott, I worked for two private equity firms over ten years, with solid outcomes for the companies we acquired, renovated and sold. I served as chairman of the board for one of the companies, Accriva Diagnostics.

I am presently on the board of Pirouette Medical, which is developing a novel auto-injector technology to treat anaphylaxis and drug overdose.

In my second act, I am an author. I recently published a book about four young Marines from my hometown who perished at the Battle of Okinawa in WWII. It is my tenth book.

In my third act, I have my own brands of whiskey (Bandolier) and bourbon (Gray Street).

I actively support a number of Catholic institutions across the country that are close to my heart, and I participate in the adventures of my four sons, five step children, and seven grandkids.
