These are the 3 ways I'm investing my money in 2024

1.) directly into the stock market -> by way of low cost broad based market index funds 2.) real estate -> long term buy and hold rentals

3.) income investing -> which can also be termed as fixed income and this one is a bit more opportunistic aka time sensitive strategy, this is because of the sudden & dramatic increase in interest rates from the Fed which may not last indefinitely.

Carefully consider the investment objectives, risks, charges and expenses of The Fundrise Income Fund before investing. This and other information can be found in the Fund's prospectus fundrise.com/income. Read them carefully before investing. #incomefundmarketing and traditionally for people like you and I

Simple forms of fixed income would be purchasing T bills aka lending money to our government which is relatively low risk. A more advanced strategy is Private Credit, where you step in to provide financing to investors, such as real estate investors, that need money from a bank but the bank may not be willing or able to finance the entire project.

And traditionally for people like you and I to invest in private credit would involve needing A LOT of know-how and a lot of money. Fortunately though my partners at Fundrise can do this with their income fund. To get access tap the link in my bio or head to Fundrise.com. Or comment Fundrise 24 and I'll send you a link.
