MCC is raising capital to secure and build multiple opportunities in the MA Cannabis market. We see a tremendous Cannabis Industry, and have far surpassed $2 billion dollars since 2018 when recreational cannabis sales were $1 billion. The Cannabis Control Commission has approved participants into a social equity and economic empowerment program which expedites review process, reduces cost associated with licensing, Service providers, community outreach encourages new investors, company growth, and community relationships.

What are the main challenges for this businesses?

Cannabis is still federally illegal, creating tax implications that are not present in typical businesses. Interest to ship/sell cannabis across state lines, leaving many States that are legalized with product shortage. Cannabis has incredible profit margins. Although start up is high, the profit is too once operational. Cultivation allows the reliability, and affordability of products. However, the main challenges in the cannabis industry are access to property, or lack of community support and resources. The stigma around cannabis still exist and it's quite common for companies up to predatory lending. Reducing the stigma and educating the community can be challenging. Community outreach encourages new investors, company growth, and community relationships.

medicinal purposes. At present, the states are maintaining existing laws and passing new ones in this area towards enforcement could have a negative effect on the industry, potentially ending it entirely. Laws and industry are constantly changing, which could detrimentally affect our proposed operations. Local, state, and federal regulations are broad in scope and subject to evolving interpretations, which could require us to incur substantial compliance or alter our business plan. In addition, violations of these laws, or allegations of such violations, could have a material adverse effect on our operations. In addition, it is possible that regulations may be enacted in the future that are applicable to our business. We cannot predict the nature of any future laws, regulations, interpretations, or the effect of what effect additional governmental regulations or administrative policies and procedures, when and if promulgated, will have on our business.

Banking Difficulties

The cultivation, sale, and use of cannabis are illegal under federal law. Therefore, many banks do not accept deposits from cannabis growers or retailers, and therefore would not be able to do business with the Company. As such, the Company and its customers may have difficulty finding a bank willing to accept their business. There can be no assurance that banks currently or in the future will accept deposits from cannabis growers or retailers, or that in the absence of legislation state and federal banking regulators will lift the prohibitions on banks handling funds generated from an activity that is illegal under federal law. This may limit the Company's ability to open accounts, use the service of banks and otherwise transact business, which in turn may negatively affect the Company's operations.

Despite rules issued by the United States Department of the Treasury mitigating the risk to banks that do business with cannabis businesses permitted under state law, as well as guidance from the United States Department of Justice, banks remain cautious about doing business with cannabis businesses in the cannabis industry. Since the use of cannabis remains illegal under Federal law, there remains a risk that the Company may be in violation of Federal law when accepting for deposit, funds derived from the sale or distribution of cannabis. The Company and its customers involved in the cannabis industry, including us, continue to have trouble establishing and maintaining bank accounts and maintaining bank accounts may make it difficult for us and our customers to do business. In addition, our inability to use banks has resulted in our holding large sums of cash. Although we store our cash in a secure safe, we are exposed to the risk of theft or loss.

THERE MAY BE DIFFICULTIES IN ADMINISTERING REPAYMENTS AND REPAYMENT MECHANISMS MAY VARY

Because banks may not be willing to do business with a cannabis entity for the reasons discussed above, the Company's Revenue Sharing Note will be fully administered by the Company and likely not processed by a financial institution. The Company will be able to provide payments via Automated Clearing House (ACH) transfers, and may not be able to provide payments via personal checks and/or third party financial applications. This other sources may subject repayments to additional delays and subject to any applicable terms and conditions. To further clarify, repayments will not be processed by Massachusetts Cannabis Company. Massachusetts Cannabis Company will be responsible for facilitating all repayments and it is possible the Company may have difficulty fulfilling these future repayment obligations.

You Might Lose Your Money

When you buy a certificate of deposit from a bank, the Federal government (through the FDIC) guarantees that your money is safe. A Note is not like that at all. The ability of Massachusetts Cannabis Company to make the payments you expect depends on a number of factors, including many beyond our control.

Cannabis Company were to leave Massachusetts Cannabis Company or become unable to work, Massachusetts investment) could suffer substantially.

Financial Forecasts Risks

The financial forecasts provided by us herein are reasonable forecasts by us based upon assumption of various assumptions regarding operations. The validity and accuracy of these assumptions will depend in Massachusetts Cannabis Company and the key persons will have no control. Changes in assumptions or t affect the forecasts. To the extent that the assumed events do not occur, the outcome may vary significant. Consequently, there can be no assurance that the actual operating results will correspond to the forecasts. Massachusetts Cannabis Company is a newly established entity and therefore has no operating history for with.

Inability to Sell Your Investment

The law prohibits you from selling your securities (except in certain very limited circumstances) for 12 months after that one-year period, a host of Federal and State securities laws may limit or restrict your ability to sell your securities. To sell, you will likely have difficulty finding a buyer because there will be no established market. Given the long term, you will likely hold your investment for its full term.

The Company Might Need More Capital

Massachusetts Cannabis Company might need to raise more capital in the future to fund/expand operations, hire new team members, market its services, pay overhead and general administrative expenses, or a variety of other expenses. There is no assurance that additional capital will be available when needed, or that it will be available on terms that are not adverse to the company. If Massachusetts Cannabis Company is unable to obtain additional funding when needed, it could be forced to cease operations altogether.

Changes in Economic Conditions Could Hurt Massachusetts Cannabis Company

Factors like global or national economic recessions, changes in interest rates, changes in credit markets, changes in declining employment, changes in real estate values, changes in tax policy, changes in political conditions and other factors are unpredictable and could negatively affect Massachusetts Cannabis Company's financial performance. In the event Massachusetts Cannabis Company ceases operations due to the foregoing factors, it may not be able to resume operations or generate revenue in the future.

No Registration Under Securities Laws

The Notes will not be registered with the SEC or the securities regulator of any State. Hence, neither Massachusetts Cannabis Company Notes will be subject to the same degree of regulation and scrutiny as if they were registered.

Incomplete Offering Information

antitrust laws, and health care laws, could negatively affect Massachusetts Cannabis Company's financial operate. Specifically, any additional regulation on the industry could significantly negatively affect the bus
