THE OFFERING AND THE SECURITIES

The Offering

The Issuer is offering a minimum amount of $49,990.54 (the “Target Offering Amount”) and up to a maximum amount of $4,999,999.03 (the “Maximum Offering Amount”) of Class B Common Stock via Security Tokens (the “Securities”) on a best efforts basis as described in this Form C (this “Offering”). The Minimum Individual Purchase Amount is $100 and the Maximum Individual Purchase Amount is $124,000. The Issuer reserves the right to amend the Minimum Individual Purchase Amount and Maximum Individual Purchase Amount, in its sole discretion. In particular, the Issuer may elect to participate in one of the Intermediary’s special investment programs and may offer alternative Minimum Individual Purchase Amounts and Maximum Individual Purchase Amounts to Investors participating in such programs without notice. The Issuer must raise an amount equal to or greater than the Target Offering Amount by April 30, 2024 (the “Offering Deadline”). Unless the Issuer receives investment commitments, which are fully paid for and meet all other requirements set by this Offering, in an amount not less than the Target Offering Amount by the Offering Deadline, no Securities will be sold in this Offering, all investment commitments will be canceled and all committed funds will be returned.

The price of the Securities was determined arbitrarily, does not necessarily bear any relationship to the Issuer’s asset value, net worth, revenues or other objective established criteria of value, and should not be considered indicative of the actual value of the Securities.

In order to purchase the Securities, you must make a commitment to purchase by completing the purchase process hosted by the Intermediary (as defined above), including complying with the Intermediary’s know your customer (KYC) and anti-money laundering (AML) policies. If an Investor makes an investment commitment under a name that is not their legal name, they may be unable to redeem their Security indefinitely, and neither the Intermediary nor the Issuer are required to correct any errors or omissions made by the Investor.

Investor funds will be held in escrow with a qualified third party escrow agent meeting the requirements of Regulation CF (“Escrow Agent”) until the Target Offering Amount has been met or exceeded and one or more closings occur. Investors may cancel an investment commitment until up to 48 hours prior to the Offering Deadline or an intermediate close, using the cancellation mechanism provided by the Intermediary. Investors using a credit card to invest must represent and warrant to cancel any investment commitment(s) by submitting a request through the Intermediary at least 48 hours prior to the Offering Deadline, instead of attempting to claim fraud or claw back their committed funds. If the Investor does not cancel an investment commitment before the 48-hour period prior to the Offering Deadline, the funds will be released to the Issuer and the Investor will receive their Securities.

The Issuer will notify Investors when the Target Offering Amount has been reached through the Intermediary. If the Issuer reaches the Target Offering Amount prior to the Offering Deadline, it may close the Offering early provided (i) the expedited Offering Deadline must be twenty-one (21) days from the time the Offering was opened, (ii) the Intermediary must provide at least five (5) business days’ notice prior to the expedited Offering Deadline to the Investors and (iii) the Issuer continues to meet or exceed the Target Offering Amount on the date of the expedited Offering Deadline.

The Deal Page

A description of our products, services and business plan can be found on the Issuer’s profile page on the Intermediary’s website under <https://republic.com/hydro-wind-energy-3> (the “Deal Page”). The Deal Page can be used by prospective Investors to ask the Issuer questions and for the Issuer to post immaterial updates to this Form C as well as make general announcements. You should view the Deal Page at the time you consider making an investment commitment. Updates on the status of this Offering can also be found on the Deal Page.

Material Changes

If any material change occurs related to the Offering prior to the current Offering Deadline the Issuer will provide notice to Investors and receive reconfirmations from Investors who have already made commitments. If an Investor does not reconfirm their investment commitment after a material change is made to the terms of the Offering within five (5) business days of receiving notice, the Investor’s investment commitment will be canceled and the committed funds will be returned without interest or deductions.

Intermediate Closings

In the event an amount equal to two (2) times the Target Offering Amount is committed and meets all required terms of the Offering prior to the Offering Deadline on such date or such later time the Issuer designates pursuant to Rule 304(b) of Regulation CF, the Issuer may conduct the first of multiple closings of the Offering early, provided (i) the early closing date must be twenty-one (21) days from the time the Offering opened and (ii) that all Investors will receive notice of such early closing date at least five (5) business days prior to such new offering deadline (absent a material change that would require an extension of the Offering and reconfirmation of all investment commitments). Investors who committed on the date such notice is provided or prior to the issuance of such notice will be able to cancel their investment commitment until 48 hours before such early closing date.

If the Issuer conducts an initial closing (the “Initial Closing”), the Issuer agrees to only withdraw seventy percent (70%) of the proceeds that are in escrow and will only conduct such Initial Closing if there are more than twenty-one (21) days remaining before the Offering Deadline as of the date of the Initial Closing. The Issuer may only conduct another close (a “Subsequent Closing”) before the Offering Deadline if the amount of investment commitments made as of the date of such Subsequent Closing exceeds two times the Target Offering Amount as of the date of the Initial Closing and there are more than twenty-one (21) days remaining before the Offering Deadline as of the date of such Subsequent Closing.

Any investment commitments received after an intermediate closing will be released to the Issuer upon a subsequent closing and the Investor will receive evidence of the Securities via electronic certificate/PDF in exchange for their investment commitment as soon as practicable thereafter.

The Issuer has agreed to return all funds to Investors in the event a Form C-W is ultimately filed in relation to this Offering, regardless of whether multiple closings are conducted.

Investment commitments are not binding on the Issuer until they are accepted by the Issuer, which reserves the right to reject, in whole or in part, in its sole and absolute discretion, any investment commitment. If the Issuer rejects all or a portion of any investment commitment, the applicable prospective Investor’s funds will be returned without interest or deduction.

The Securities

We request that you please review this Form C and the Instrument attached as Exhibit B, in conjunction with the following summary information.

Tokenization

The Issuer intends to tokenize the Securities after the closing of the Offering. The Issuer will announce the tokenization information on the campaign page. The Intermediary is not responsible for the creation, disbursement, or management of the tokens related to this Offering.

The details and features of the tokenization are as follows:

The Issuer will issue an ERC20 compatible security token (the “HWE STO”) on Avalanche, a leading Layer-1 blockchain network. The HWE STO is a digital asset with on-chain digital security, and thus will record all transactions on the distributed ledger. The blockchain used is Avalanche. Avalanche offers industry-leading scalability, speed, and flexibility. Its consensus mechanism facilitates rapid transactions with minimal environmental impact. It is currently the 11th largest chain in the world with over $8B in market cap. The HWE STO token is governed by the following controls and functionalities:

- Dividend Mechanism: The Issuer has the capability to distribute dividends to a HWE STO token holders’ wallet;
- Compliance and Control Measures:
 - Token confiscation: The Issuer may, and reserves the right to, confiscate the HWO STE if token holders do not comply with the terms of the Subscription Agreement, including without limitation transfer restrictions, or in the event of a malicious or fraudulent transfer; and
 - Investor Whitelisting: The transfer and acquisition of HWE STO tokens are subject to a whitelisting process, ensuring compliance with the Subscription Agreement as well as applicable securities law.

Dividends and/or Distributions

The Securities do not entitle Investors to any dividends.

Dissolution

If there is a Dissolution Event (as defined below), subject to the preferences applicable to any series of preferred stock then outstanding, the Issuer will distribute all proceeds legally available for distribution with equal priority among the (i) holders of the Securities (on an as converted basis based on a valuation of Common Stock as determined in good faith by the Issuer's board of directors at the time of the Dissolution Event), (ii) all other holders of instruments sharing in the distribution of proceeds of the Issuer at the same priority as holders of Common Stock upon a Dissolution Event and (iii) all holders of Common Stock.

A "Dissolution Event" means (i) a voluntary termination of operations by the Issuer, (ii) a general assignment for the benefit of the Issuer's creditors or (iii) any other liquidation, dissolution or winding up of the Issuer (excluding a Liquidity Event), whether voluntary or involuntary.

Voting and Control

The Securities do not have voting rights unless otherwise provided for by the Issuer or by law.

The Issuer does not have any voting agreements in place.

The Issuer does not have any shareholder or equity holder agreements in place.

Anti-Dilution Rights

The Securities do not have anti-dilution rights, which means that future equity issuances and other events will dilute the ownership percentage that Investors may eventually have in the Issuer.

Restrictions on Transfer

Any Securities sold pursuant to Regulation CF being offered may not be transferred by any Investor of such Securities during the one-year holding period beginning when the Securities were issued, unless such Securities are transferred: (1) to the Issuer; (2) to an accredited investor, as defined by Rule 501(d) of Regulation D promulgated under the Securities Act; (3) as part of an IPO; or (4) to a member of the family of the Investor or the equivalent, to a trust controlled by the Investor, to a trust created for the benefit of a member of the family of the Investor or the equivalent, or in connection with the death or divorce of the Investor or other similar circumstances. "Member of the family" as used herein means a child, stepchild, grandchild, parent, stepparent, grandparent, spouse or spousal equivalent, sibling, mother/father/daughter/son/sister/brother-in-law, and includes adoptive relationships. Each Investor should be aware that although the Securities may legally be able to be transferred, there is no guarantee that another party will be willing to purchase them.

In addition to the foregoing restrictions, prior to making any transfer of the Securities, such transferring Investor must either make such transfer pursuant to an effective registration statement filed with the SEC or provide the Issuer with an opinion of counsel reasonably satisfactory to the Issuer stating that a registration statement is not necessary to effect such transfer.

In addition, the Investor may not transfer the Securities to any of the Issuer's competitors, as determined by the Issuer in good faith.

Furthermore, upon the event of an IPO, the capital stock into which the Securities are converted will be subject to a lock-up period and may not be lent, offered, pledged, or sold for up to 180 days following such IPO.

Other Material Terms

- The Issuer does not have the right to repurchase the Securities.
- The Securities do not have a stated return or liquidation preference.

COMMISSION AND FEES

Cash Commission

At the conclusion of the Offering, the Issuer shall pay the Intermediary the greater of (A) a fee of six percent (6%) of the dollar amount raised in the Offering or (B) a cash fee of twelve thousand dollars ($12,000.00).

Other Compensation

The Intermediary will also receive compensation in the form of the Securities equal to two percent (2%) of the total number of the Securities sold in the Offering. The total number of Securities outstanding after the Offering is subject to increase in an amount equal to the Intermediary's fee of two percent (2%) of the Securities issued in this Offering.

RISK FACTORS

Investing in the Securities involves a high degree of risk and may result in the loss of your entire investment. Before making an investment decision with respect to the Securities, we urge you to carefully consider the risks described in this section and other factors set forth in this Form C. In addition to the risks specified below, the Issuer is subject to same risks that all companies in its business, and all companies in the economy, are exposed to. These include risks relating to economic downturns, political and economic events and technological developments (such as hacking and the ability to prevent hacking). Additionally, early-stage companies are inherently riskier than more developed companies. Prospective Investors should consult with their legal, tax and financial advisors prior to making an investment in the Securities. The Securities should only be purchased by persons who can afford to lose all of their investment.

Risks Related to the Issuer's Business and Industry

We have a limited operating history upon which you can evaluate our performance, and accordingly, our prospects must be considered in light of the risks that any new company encounters.

The Issuer is still in an early phase and we are just beginning to implement our business plan. There can be no assurance that we will ever operate profitably. The likelihood of our success should be considered in light of the problems, expenses, difficulties, complications and delays usually encountered by early stage companies. The Issuer may not be successful in attaining the objectives necessary for it to overcome these risks and uncertainties.

Global crises and geopolitical events, including without limitation COVID-19, can have a significant effect on our business operations and revenue projections.

A significant outbreak of contagious diseases, such as COVID-19, in the human population could result in a widespread health crisis. Additionally, geopolitical events, such as wars or conflicts, could result in global disruptions to supplies, political uncertainty and displacement. Each of these crises could adversely affect the economies and financial markets of many countries, including the United States where we principally operate, resulting in an economic downturn that could reduce the demand for our products and services and impair our business prospects, including as a result of being unable to raise additional capital on acceptable terms, if at all.

The amount of capital the Issuer is attempting to raise in this Offering may not be enough to sustain the Issuer's current business plan.

In order to achieve the Issuer's near and long-term goals, the Issuer may need to procure funds in addition to the amount raised in the Offering. There is no guarantee the Issuer will be able to raise such funds on acceptable terms or at all. If we are not able to raise sufficient capital in the future, we may not be able to execute our business plan, our continued operations will be in jeopardy and we may be forced to cease operations and sell or otherwise transfer all or substantially all of our remaining assets, which could cause an Investor to lose all or a portion of their investment.

We may face potential difficulties in obtaining capital.

We may have difficulty raising needed capital in the future as a result of, among other factors, a lack of revenues from sales, as well as the inherent business risks associated with the Issuer and present and future market conditions.

Additionally, our future sources of revenue may not be sufficient to meet our future capital requirements. As such, we may require additional funds to execute our business strategy and conduct our operations. If adequate funds are unavailable, we may be required to delay, reduce the scope of or eliminate one or more of our research, development or commercialization programs, product launches or marketing efforts, any of which may materially harm our business, financial condition and results of operations.

We may implement new lines of business or offer new products and services within existing lines of business.

As an early-stage company, we may implement new lines of business at any time. There are substantial risks and uncertainties associated with these efforts, particularly in instances where the markets are not fully developed. In developing and marketing new lines of business and/or new products and services, we may invest significant time and resources. Initial timetables for the introduction and development of new lines of business and/or new products or services may not be achieved, and price and profitability targets may not prove feasible. We may not be successful in introducing new products and services in response to industry trends or developments in technology, or those new products may not achieve market acceptance. As a result, we could lose business, be forced to price products and services on less advantageous terms to retain or attract clients or be subject to cost increases. As a result, our business, financial condition or results of operations may be adversely affected.

We rely on other companies to provide components and services for our products.

We depend on suppliers and contractors to meet our contractual obligations to our customers and conduct our operations. Our ability to meet our obligations to our customers may be adversely affected if suppliers or contractors do not provide the agreed-upon supplies or perform the agreed-upon services in compliance with customer requirements and in a timely and cost-effective manner. Likewise, the quality of our products may be adversely impacted if companies to whom we delegate manufacture of major components or subsystems for our products, or from whom we acquire such items, do not provide components which meet required specifications and perform to our, and our customers', expectations. Our suppliers may also be unable to quickly recover from natural disasters and other events beyond their control and may be subject to additional risks such as financial problems that limit their ability to conduct their operations. The risk of these adverse effects may be greater in circumstances where we rely on only one or two contractors or suppliers for a particular component. Our products may utilize custom components available from only one source. Continued availability of those components at acceptable prices, or at all, may be affected for any number of reasons, including if those suppliers decide to concentrate on the production of common components instead of components customized to meet our requirements. The supply of components for a new or existing product could be delayed or constrained, or a key manufacturing vendor could delay shipments of completed products to us adversely affecting our business and results of operations.

We rely on various intellectual property rights, including patents and trademarks, in order to operate our business.

The Issuer relies on certain intellectual property rights to operate its business. The Issuer's intellectual property rights may not be sufficiently broad or otherwise may not provide us a significant competitive advantage. In addition, the steps that we have taken to maintain and protect our intellectual property may not prevent it from being challenged, invalidated, circumvented or designed-around, particularly in countries where intellectual property rights are not highly developed or protected. In some circumstances, enforcement may not be available to us because an infringer has a dominant intellectual property position or for other business reasons, or countries may require compulsory licensing of our intellectual property. Our failure to obtain or maintain intellectual property rights that convey competitive advantage, adequately protect our intellectual property or detect or prevent circumvention or unauthorized use of such property, could adversely impact our competitive position and results of operations. We also rely on nondisclosure and noncompetition agreements with employees, consultants and other parties to protect, in part, trade secrets and other proprietary rights. There can be no assurance that these agreements will adequately protect our trade secrets and other proprietary rights and will not be breached, that we will have adequate remedies for any breach, that others will not independently develop substantially equivalent proprietary information or that third parties will not otherwise gain access to our trade secrets or other proprietary rights. As we expand our business, protecting our intellectual property will become increasingly important. The protective steps we have taken may be inadequate to deter our competitors from using our proprietary information. In order to protect or enforce our intellectual property rights, including our patents, we may be required to initiate litigation against third parties, such as infringement lawsuits. Also, these third parties may assert claims against us with or without provocation. The law relating to the scope and validity of claims in the technology field in which we operate is still evolving and, consequently, intellectual property positions in our industry are generally uncertain. These lawsuits could be expensive, take significant time and could divert management's attention from other business concerns. We cannot assure you that we will prevail in any of these potential suits or that the damages or other remedies awarded, if any, would be commercially valuable.

The Issuer's success depends on the experience and skill of its executive officers and key personnel.

We are dependent on our executive officers and key personnel. These persons may not devote their full time and attention to the matters of the Issuer. The loss of all or any of our executive officers and key personnel could harm the Issuer's business, financial condition, cash flow and results of operations.

Although dependent on certain key personnel, the Issuer does not have any key person life insurance policies on any such people.

We are dependent on certain key personnel in order to conduct our operations and execute our business plan, however, the Issuer has not purchased any insurance policies with respect to those individuals in the event of their death or disability. Therefore, if any of these personnel die or become disabled, the Issuer will not receive any compensation to assist with such person's absence. The loss of such person could negatively affect the Issuer and our operations. We have no way to guarantee key personnel will stay with the Issuer, as many states do not enforce non-competition agreements, and therefore acquiring key man insurance will not ameliorate all of the risk of relying on key personnel.

In order for the Issuer to compete and grow, it must attract, recruit, retain and develop the necessary personnel who have the needed experience.

Recruiting and retaining highly qualified personnel is critical to our success. These demands may require us to hire additional personnel and will require our existing management and other personnel to develop additional expertise. We face intense competition for personnel, making recruitment time-consuming and expensive. The failure to attract and retain personnel or to develop such expertise could delay or halt the development and commercialization of our product candidates. If we experience difficulties in hiring and retaining personnel in key positions, we could suffer from delays in product development, loss of customers and sales and diversion of management resources, which could adversely affect operating results. Our consultants and advisors may be employed by third parties and may have commitments under consulting or advisory contracts with third parties that may limit their availability to us, which could further delay or disrupt our product development and growth plans.

We need to rapidly and successfully develop and introduce new products in a competitive, demanding and rapidly changing environment.

To succeed in our intensely competitive industry, we must continually improve, refresh and expand our product and service offerings to include newer features, functionality or solutions, and keep pace with changes in the industry. Shortened product life cycles due to changing customer demands and competitive pressures may impact the pace at which we must introduce new products or implement new functions or solutions. In addition, bringing new products or solutions to the market entails a costly and lengthy process, and requires us to accurately anticipate changing customer needs and trends. We must continue to respond to changing market demands and trends or our business operations may be adversely affected.

The development and commercialization of our products is highly competitive.

We face competition with respect to any products that we may seek to develop or commercialize in the future. Our competitors include major companies worldwide. Many of our competitors have significantly greater financial, technical and human resources than we have and superior expertise in research and development and marketing approved products and thus may be better equipped than us to develop and commercialize products. These competitors also compete with us in recruiting and retaining qualified personnel and acquiring technologies. Smaller or early stage companies may also prove to be significant competitors, particularly through collaborative arrangements with large and established companies. Accordingly, our competitors may commercialize products more rapidly or effectively than we are able to, which would adversely affect our competitive position, the likelihood that our products will achieve initial market acceptance, and our ability to generate meaningful additional revenues from our products.

Industry consolidation may result in increased competition, which could result in a loss of customers or a reduction in revenue.

Some of our competitors have made or may make acquisitions or may enter into partnerships or other strategic relationships to offer more comprehensive services than they individually had offered or achieve greater economies of scale. In addition, new entrants not currently considered to be competitors may enter our market through acquisitions, partnerships or strategic relationships. We expect these trends to continue as companies attempt to strengthen or maintain their market positions. The potential entrants may have competitive advantages over us, such as greater name recognition, longer operating histories, more varied services and larger marketing budgets, as well as greater financial, technical and other resources. The companies resulting from combinations or that expand or vertically integrate their business to include the market that we address may create more compelling service offerings and may offer greater pricing flexibility than we can or may engage in business practices that make it more difficult for us to compete effectively, including on the basis of price, sales and marketing programs, technology or service functionality. These pressures could result in a substantial loss of our customers or a reduction in our revenue.

Damage to our reputation could negatively impact our business, financial condition and results of operations.

Our reputation and the quality of our brand are critical to our business and success in existing markets, and will be critical to our success as we enter new markets. Any incident that erodes consumer loyalty for our brand could significantly reduce its value and damage our business. We may be adversely affected by any negative publicity, regardless of its accuracy. Also, there has been a marked increase in the use of social media platforms and similar devices, including blogs, social media websites and other forms of internet-based communications that provide individuals with access to a broad audience of consumers and other interested persons. The availability of information on social media platforms is virtually immediate as is its impact. Information posted may be adverse to our interests or may be inaccurate, each of which may harm our performance, prospects or business. The harm may be immediate and may disseminate rapidly and broadly, without affording us an opportunity for redress or correction.

Our business could be negatively impacted by cyber security threats, attacks and other disruptions.

We may face advanced and persistent attacks on our information infrastructure where we manage and store various proprietary information and sensitive/confidential data relating to our operations. These attacks may include sophisticated malware (viruses, worms, and other malicious software programs) and phishing emails that attack our products or otherwise exploit any security vulnerabilities. These intrusions sometimes may be zero-day malware that are difficult to identify because they are not included in the signature set of commercially available antivirus scanning programs. Experienced computer programmers and hackers may be able to penetrate our network security and misappropriate or compromise our confidential information or that of our customers or other third-parties, create system disruptions, or cause shutdowns. Additionally, sophisticated software and applications that we produce or procure from third-parties may contain defects in design or manufacture, including “bugs” and other problems that could unexpectedly interfere with the operation of the information infrastructure. A disruption, infiltration or failure of our information infrastructure systems or any of our data centers as a result of software or hardware malfunctions, computer viruses, cyber-attacks, employee theft or misuse, power disruptions, natural disasters or accidents could cause breaches of data security, loss of critical data and performance delays, which in turn could adversely affect our business.

Security breaches of confidential customer information, in connection with our electronic processing of credit and debit card transactions, or confidential employee information may adversely affect our business.

Our business requires the collection, transmission and retention of personally identifiable information, in various information technology systems that we maintain and in those maintained by third parties with whom we contract to provide services. The integrity and protection of that data is critical to us. The information, security and privacy requirements imposed by governmental regulation are increasingly demanding. Our systems may not be able to satisfy these changing requirements and customer and employee expectations, or may require significant additional investments or time in order to do so. A breach in the security of our information technology systems or those of our service providers could lead to an interruption in the operation of our systems, resulting in operational inefficiencies and a loss of profits. Additionally, a significant theft, loss or misappropriation of, or access to, customers’ or other proprietary data or other breach of our information technology systems could result in fines, legal claims or proceedings.

The use of individually identifiable data by our business, our business associates and third parties is regulated at the state, federal and international levels.

The regulation of individual data is changing rapidly, and in unpredictable ways. A change in regulation could adversely affect our business, including causing our business model to no longer be viable. Costs associated with information security – such as investment in technology, the costs of compliance with consumer protection laws and costs resulting from consumer fraud – could cause our business and results of operations to suffer materially. Additionally, the success of our online operations depends upon the secure transmission of confidential information over public networks, including the use of cashless payments. The intentional or negligent actions of employees, business associates or third parties may undermine our security measures. As a result, unauthorized parties may obtain access to our data systems and misappropriate confidential data. There can be no assurance that advances in computer capabilities, new discoveries in the field of cryptography or other developments will prevent the compromise of our customer transaction processing capabilities and personal data. If any such compromise of our security or the security of information residing with our business associates or third parties were to occur, it could have a material adverse effect on our reputation, operating results and financial condition. Any compromise of our data security may materially increase the costs we incur to protect against such breaches and could subject us to additional legal risk.

The Issuer is not subject to Sarbanes-Oxley regulations and may lack the financial controls and procedures of public companies.

The Issuer may not have the internal control infrastructure that would meet the standards of a public company, including the requirements of the Sarbanes Oxley Act of 2002. As a privately-held (non-public) issuer, the Issuer is currently not subject to the Sarbanes Oxley Act of 2002, and its financial and disclosure controls and procedures reflect its status as a development stage, non-public company. There can be no guarantee that there are no significant deficiencies or material weaknesses in the quality of the Issuer's financial and disclosure controls and procedures. If it were necessary to implement such financial and disclosure controls and procedures, the cost to the Issuer of such compliance could be substantial and could have a material adverse effect on the Issuer's results of operations.

Changes in foreign, federal, state or local laws and government regulation could adversely impact our business.

The Issuer is subject to legislation and regulation at the foreign, federal and local levels and, in some instances, at the state level. New laws and regulations may impose new and significant disclosure obligations and other operational, marketing and compliance-related obligations and requirements, which may lead to additional costs, risks of non-compliance, and diversion of our management's time and attention from strategic initiatives. Additionally, foreign, federal, state and local legislators or regulators may change current laws or regulations which could adversely impact our business. Further, court actions or regulatory proceedings could also change our rights and obligations under applicable foreign, federal, state and local laws, which cannot be predicted. Modifications to existing requirements or imposition of new requirements or limitations could have an adverse impact on our business.

We operate in a highly regulated environment, and if we are found to be in violation of any of the foreign, federal, state, or local laws or regulations applicable to us, our business could suffer.

We are also subject to a wide range of foreign, federal, state, and local laws and regulations. The violation of these or future requirements or laws and regulations could result in administrative, civil, or criminal sanctions against us, which may include fines, a cease and desist order against the subject operations or even revocation or suspension of our license to operate the subject business. As a result, we may incur capital and operating expenditures and other costs to comply with these requirements and laws and regulations.

Our business may depend on the continued availability of rebates, tax credits and other financial incentives.

Our products and services relating to producing electricity and desalinization technologies will be sold to businesses. In many of the countries where these products and services will be sold, financial incentives to purchase such products and services may be offered to businesses by such governments, including rebates and tax credits. The reduction, modification, or elimination of government economic incentives could cause our revenue to decline and harm our financial results.

Risks Related to the Offering

State and federal securities laws are complex, and the Issuer could potentially be found to have not complied with all relevant state and federal securities law in prior offerings of securities.

The Issuer has conducted previous offerings of securities and may not have complied with all relevant state and federal securities laws. If a court or regulatory body with the required jurisdiction ever concluded that the Issuer may have violated state or federal securities laws, any such violation could result in the Issuer being required to offer rescission rights to investors in such offering. If such investors exercised their rescission rights, the Issuer would have to pay to such investors an amount of funds equal to the purchase price paid by such investors plus interest from the date of any such purchase. No assurances can be given the Issuer will, if it is required to offer such investors a rescission right, have sufficient funds to pay the prior investors the amounts required or that proceeds from this Offering would not be used to pay such amounts.

In addition, if the Issuer violated federal or state securities laws in connection with a prior offering and/or sale of its securities, federal or state regulators could bring an enforcement, regulatory and/or other legal action against the Issuer which, among other things, could result in the Issuer having to pay substantial fines and be prohibited from selling securities in the future.

The U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission does not pass upon the merits of the Securities or the terms of the Offering, nor does it pass upon the accuracy or completeness of any Offering document or literature.

You should not rely on the fact that our Form C is accessible through the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission's EDGAR filing system as an approval, endorsement or guarantee of compliance as it relates to this Offering. The U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission has not reviewed this Form C, nor any document or literature related to this Offering.

Neither the Offering nor the Securities have been registered under federal or state securities laws.

No governmental agency has reviewed or passed upon this Offering or the Securities. Neither the Offering nor the Securities have been registered under federal or state securities laws. Investors will not receive any of the benefits available in registered offerings, which may include access to quarterly and annual financial statements that have been audited by an independent accounting firm. Investors must therefore assess the adequacy of disclosure and the fairness of the terms of this Offering based on the information provided in this Form C and the accompanying exhibits.

The Issuer's management may have broad discretion in how the Issuer uses the net proceeds of the Offering.

Unless the Issuer has agreed to a specific use of the proceeds from the Offering, the Issuer's management will have considerable discretion over the use of proceeds from the Offering. You may not have the opportunity, as part of your investment decision, to assess whether the proceeds are being used appropriately.

The Intermediary Fees paid by the Issuer are subject to change depending on the success of the Offering.

At the conclusion of the Offering, the Issuer shall pay the Intermediary the greater of (A) a fee of six percent (6%) of the dollar amount raised in the Offering or (B) a cash fee of twelve thousand dollars ($12,000.00). The compensation paid by the Issuer to the Intermediary may impact how the Issuer uses the net proceeds of the Offering.

The Issuer has the right to limit individual Investor commitment amounts based on the Issuer's determination of an Investor's sophistication.

The Issuer may prevent any Investor from committing more than a certain amount in this Offering based on the Issuer's determination of the Investor's sophistication and ability to assume the risk of the investment. This means that your desired investment amount may be limited or lowered based solely on the Issuer's determination and not in line with relevant investment limits set forth by the Regulation CF rules. This also means that other Investors may receive larger allocations of the Offering based solely on the Issuer's determination.

The Issuer has the right to extend the Offering Deadline.

The Issuer may extend the Offering Deadline beyond what is currently stated herein. This means that your investment may continue to be held in escrow while the Issuer attempts to raise the Target Offering Amount even after the Offering Deadline stated herein is reached. While you have the right to cancel your investment in the event the Issuer extends the Offering Deadline, if you choose to reconfirm your investment, your investment will not be accruing interest during this time and will simply be held until such time as the new Offering Deadline is reached without the Issuer receiving the Target Offering Amount, at which time it will be returned to you without interest or deduction, or the Issuer receives the Target Offering Amount, at which time it will be released to the Issuer to be used as set forth herein. Upon or shortly after the release of such funds to the Issuer, the Securities will be issued and distributed to you.

The Issuer may also end the Offering early.

If the Target Offering Amount is met after 21 calendar days, but before the Offering Deadline, the Issuer can end the Offering by providing notice to Investors at least 5 business days prior to the end of the Offering. This means your failure to participate in the Offering in a timely manner, may prevent you from being able to invest in this Offering – it also means the Issuer may limit the amount of capital it can raise during the Offering by ending the Offering early.

The Issuer has the right to conduct multiple closings during the Offering.

If the Issuer meets certain terms and conditions, an intermediate close (also known as a rolling close) of the Offering can occur, which will allow the Issuer to draw down on seventy percent (70%) of Investor proceeds committed and captured in the Offering during the relevant period. The Issuer may choose to continue the Offering thereafter. Investors should be mindful that this means they can make multiple investment commitments in the Offering, which may be subject to different cancellation rights. For example, if an intermediate close occurs and later a material change occurs as the Offering continues, Investors whose investment commitments were previously closed upon will not have the right to re-confirm their investment as it will be deemed to have been completed prior to the material change.

Risks Related to the Tokens

Any ledger that may be established in connection with the Token issuance may have weaknesses and vulnerabilities that raise investor and consumer protection risks.

The digital tokens (“Tokens”), if issued, will embody the rights, preferences, privileges, and restrictions (including transfer restrictions), and will be subject to the same terms and conditions, of the Securities. Like current post-trade settlement processes in the capital markets, when a Token is issued and associated with the recipient’s public address and private key, an update to the ledger is required to record the transfer of the shares using third party software platform technology. While the Issuer believes there may be potential benefits to the use of distributed ledger technologies and any Tokens, there are potential disadvantages as well. There are potential operational risks associated with all technology systems including insufficient backup, failure mechanisms or critical system safeguards. There are other potential general, operational and technical risks such as unintended software vulnerabilities, coding errors, bandwidth issues, complexity and unintended effects on internet service, computers, servers or user interfaces associated with the Issuer and the blockchain network, as well as with respect to the operation of their related technologies by service providers. We may rely on third parties to properly provide services with respect to the blockchain network and to facilitate any transfers thereunder. Any such failure by those parties to properly provide such services could subject the Issuer to potential violations.

Loss of private key(s), custodial error or investor error may cause the loss of the Tokens.

A private key, or a combination of private keys, is necessary to control and dispose of any Tokens stored in your digital wallet. The wallet location of any Token does not constitute or confer actual, rightful ownership of the security underlying the Token, which is independently recorded by the Issuer. Any loss of the private key of a wallet would render inaccessible that wallet and Tokens stored therein. This would constitute a loss of the Tokens. If this were to occur, the Issuer may have to issue replacement shares represented by the Token according to its official book entry record to the new, verified replacement wallet address.

There are risks to Token holders if a prior transfer was not properly recorded.

While the Issuer can investigate the matter and may have the capability to isolate any lost Tokens, revoke such Tokens, authenticate a new replacement wallet, and reassign/reallocate the applicable Token to a new wallet, this may not be feasible if a Token holder’s account information and record is not kept current with the Issuer or the Issuer’s designee. In connection with any issue of replacement Tokens, the Issuer will need to ensure that the link between the Tokens and the corresponding book entry form of Securities to ensure that the lost or canceled Tokens do not remain active. However, if the outstanding lost or cancelled Tokens are not deactivated, the Tokenholder may encounter issues receiving the benefits of owning the Tokens such as, for example, receipt of dividends until the book entry position has been verified and the outstanding Tokens have been deactivated.

Incorrect or fraudulent digital assets transactions may be irreversible.

Holders of Tokens may have to possess both the unique public and private keys to their digital wallets to gain access to digital assets (including the Tokens) and the loss of a private key required may be irreversible. Therefore, if any holder of a Token loses, or if a malicious actor successfully denies such holder access to such holder’s private keys, such holder may be permanently denied access to the Tokens held in the wallet corresponding to the lost, stolen or blocked keys. Holders should take and continue to take reasonable steps to secure their private keys. If a holder were to lose access to the holder’s private keys or otherwise experience data loss relating to the holder’s digital wallets, the holder could effectively lose access to the Token. If this were to occur, the Issuer may have to issue replacement shares represented by the Token according to its official book entry record to the new, verified replacement wallet address.

Risks Related to the Securities

The Securities will not be freely tradable under the Securities Act until one year from the issue date. Although the Securities may be tradable under federal securities law, state securities regulations may apply, and each Investor should consult with their attorney.

You should be aware of the long-term nature of this investment. There is not now and may never be a public market for the Securities. Because the Securities have not been registered under the Securities Act or under the securities laws of any state or foreign jurisdiction, the Securities have transfer restrictions and cannot be resold in the United States except pursuant to Rule 501 of Regulation CF. It is not currently contemplated that registration under the Securities Act or other securities laws will be effected. Limitations on the transfer of the Securities may also adversely affect the price that you might be able to obtain for the Securities in a private sale. Investors should be aware of the long-term nature of their investment in the Issuer. Each Investor in this Offering will be required to represent that they are purchasing the Securities for their own account, for investment purposes and not with a view to resale or distribution thereof.

The Securities will be equity interests in our company and will not constitute indebtedness.

The Securities will rank junior to all existing and future indebtedness and other non-equity claims of the Issuer with respect to assets available to satisfy claims on the Issuer, including in a liquidation of our company. Additionally, unlike indebtedness, for which principal and interest would customarily be payable on specified due dates, there will be no specified payments of dividends with respect to the Securities and dividends are payable only if, when and as authorized and declared by us and depend on, among other matters, our historical and projected results of operations, liquidity, cash flows, capital levels, financial condition, debt service requirements and other cash needs, financing covenants, applicable state law, federal and state regulatory prohibitions and other restrictions and any other factors our board of directors deems relevant at the time. In addition, there is no limit on the amount of debt or other obligations we may incur in the future. Accordingly, we may incur substantial amounts of additional debt and other obligations that will rank senior to the Securities, which are the most junior securities of the Issuer.

The Securities in this Offering have no protective provisions.

The Securities in this Offering have no protective provisions. As such, you will not be afforded protection, by any provision of the Securities or as a Stockholder, in the event of a transaction that may adversely affect you, including a reorganization, restructuring, merger or other similar transaction involving the Issuer. If there is a liquidation event, or change of control for the Issuer, the Securities being offered do not provide you with any protection. In addition, there are no provisions attached to the Securities in the Offering that would permit you to require the Issuer to repurchase the Securities in the event of a takeover, recapitalization or similar transaction involving the Issuer.

Investors will not have voting rights.

Investors will not have the right to vote upon matters of the Issuer. Thus, Investors will essentially never be able to vote upon any matters of the Issuer unless otherwise provided for by the Issuer or pursuant to Delaware law.

Investors will not be entitled to any inspection or information rights other than those required by law.

Investors will not have the right to inspect the books and records of the Issuer or to receive financial or other information from the Issuer, other than as required by law. Other security holders of the Issuer may have such rights. Regulation CF requires only the provision of an annual report on Form C and no additional information. Additionally, there are numerous methods by which the Issuer can terminate annual report obligations, resulting in no information rights, contractual, statutory or otherwise, owed to Investors. This lack of information could put Investors at a disadvantage in general and with respect to other security holders, including certain security holders who have rights to periodic financial statements and updates from the Issuer such as quarterly unaudited financials, annual projections and budgets, and monthly progress reports, among other things.

The Securities may be significantly diluted as a consequence of subsequent equity financings.

The Issuer's equity securities will be subject to dilution. The Issuer intends to issue additional equity to employees and third-party financing sources in amounts that are uncertain at this time, and as a consequence holders of the Securities will be subject to dilution in an unpredictable amount. Such dilution may reduce the Investor's control and economic interests in the Issuer.

The amount of additional financing needed by the Issuer will depend upon several contingencies not foreseen at the time of this Offering. Generally, additional financing (whether in the form of loans or the issuance of other securities) will be intended to provide the Issuer with enough capital to reach the next major corporate milestone. If the funds received in any additional financing are not sufficient to meet the Issuer's needs, the Issuer may have to raise additional capital at a price unfavorable to their existing investors, including the holders of the Securities. The availability of capital is at least partially a function of capital market conditions that are beyond the control of the Issuer. There can be no assurance that the Issuer will be able to accurately predict the future capital requirements necessary for success or that additional funds will be available from any source. Failure to obtain financing on favorable terms could dilute or otherwise severely impair the value of the Securities.

In addition, the Issuer has certain equity grants and convertible securities outstanding. Should the Issuer enter into a financing that would trigger any conversion rights, the converting securities would further dilute the holders of the Securities.

There can be no assurance that we will ever provide liquidity to investors through either a sale of our company or a registration of the Securities.

There can be no assurance that any form of merger, combination, or sale of our company will take place, or that any merger, combination, or sale would provide liquidity for investors. Furthermore, we may be unable to register the Securities for resale by investors for legal, commercial, regulatory, market-related or other reasons. In the event that we are unable to effect a registration, investors could be unable to sell their securities unless an exemption from registration is available.

There is no present market for the Securities and we have arbitrarily set the price.

The Offering price was not established in a competitive market. We have arbitrarily set the price of the Securities with reference to the general status of the securities market and other relevant factors. The Offering price for the Securities should not be considered an indication of the actual value of the Securities and is not based on our asset value, net worth, revenues or other established criteria of value. Rather, the price of the Securities was derived as a result of internal decisions based upon various factors including prevailing market conditions, the Company's future prospects and needs, research on other companies that have been acquired that is not scientific and is anecdotal only and the Issuer's capital structure. These prices do not necessarily accurately reflect the actual value of the Securities or the price that may be realized upon disposition of the Securities, or at which the Securities might trade in a marketplace, if one develops. We cannot guarantee that the Securities can be resold at the Offering price or at any other price.

There is no guarantee of a return on an Investor's investment.

There is no assurance that an Investor will realize a return on their investment or that they will not lose their entire investment. For this reason, each Investor should read this Form C and all exhibits carefully and should consult with their attorney and business advisor prior to making any investment decision.

IN ADDITION TO THE RISKS LISTED ABOVE, RISKS AND UNCERTAINTIES NOT PRESENTLY KNOWN, OR WHICH WE CONSIDER IMMATERIAL AS OF THE DATE OF THIS FORM C, MAY ALSO HAVE AN ADVERSE EFFECT ON OUR BUSINESS AND RESULT IN THE TOTAL LOSS OF YOUR INVESTMENT.

BUSINESS

Description of the Business

Hydro Wind Energy, Inc. is developing a disruptive technology to solve three of the biggest challenges of the 21st century: low-cost clean electricity, grid-scale energy storage and seawater desalination. This technology utilizes wind offshore using vertical axis wind rotors and offshore-based kite systems. The Issuer has also developed and started to commercialize the world's only low-cost handheld seawater desalination device for humanitarian purposes and the marine and sailing sector.

The Issuer was incorporated in Delaware as a corporation on July 14, 2020 and is headquartered in California. The Issuer sells its products and services through the internet throughout the United States and internationally.

Effective as of April 1, 2022, the Issuer owns a 100% ownership interest in Hydro Wind Energy Ltd., a company registered in England and Wales. Hydro Wind Energy Ltd. was incorporated on February 8, 2018. Prior to April 1, 2022, the Issuer owned a 61.99% ownership interest in this entity. Our financial statements include the financial results of Hydro Wind Energy Ltd., which have generated all of the revenues for the Issuer to date.

Business Plan

The Issuer plans to grow its business by increasing new product sales and marketing, investing in research and development and through hiring. The capital we raise here will empower us to expand our product development, increase sales and marketing efforts and grow out our infrastructure as we continue to aggressively grow and expand our business.

The Issuer's Products and/or Services

Product / Service	Description	Current Market
OceanHydro Wind/Omni	Power generation technology that harnesses wind offshore, stores the energy subsea and releases it on demand as electrical energy.	Governments and business to business (B2B)
SubSea RO Wind/Omni	Seawater desalination technology that utilizes subsea pressure to drive a reverse osmosis process and wind for mechanical lift.	Governments and B2B
QuenchSea	Low-cost portable, handheld device that instantly turns seawater into fresh water	Governments, B2B and business to consumer (B2C)

Competition

The markets in which our products are sold are highly competitive. Some of the top competitors in our industry include Vestas, GE Energy and Goldwind.

Our OceanHydro Wind product competes against other power generation and energy storage companies. Examples of competitors includes wind turbine companies, offshore floating wind farms, and companies offering evolving marine and kite technologies.

Our SubSea RO Wind product competes against other desalination technologies, including those offering membrane (RO) and thermal desalination.

Our QuenchSea product is creating a new product category for portable manually powered seawater desalination devices.

Customer Base

The Issuer's business model consists of targeting B2B customers for power generation and water. The seawater handheld desalination device (QuenchSea) has both a B2B and B2C target market. Our products and services are sold across countries as well as direct-to-consumers online. Core target markets for QuenchSea are Humanitarian, Disaster Relief and Portable Water Purification.

Supply Chain

Although the Issuer is dependent upon certain third party vendors, the Issuer has access to alternate service providers in the event its current third-party vendors are unable to provide services or any issues arise with its current vendors where a change is required to be made. The Issuer does not believe the loss of a current third-party vendor or service provider would cause a major disruption to its business, although it could cause short-term limitations or disruptions.

Hydro Wind Energy Inc.

Notes to the Financial Statements

Note 1- General

Organization and Purpose

Hydro Wind Energy Inc, (“the Company”), a Delaware Corporation was incorporated on July 14, 2020. The Company is the holding company of Hydro Wind Energy Ltd. (“the Subsidiary”), a private company limited by shares registered with the Registrar of Companies in England and Wales on February 8, 2018.

The principal activities of the Company and subsidiary consist of engineering design activities for industrial processes and production.

Principles of Consolidation

The accompanying consolidated financial statements include the accounts of Hydro Wind Energy Inc. and its wholly owned subsidiary Hydro Wind Energy Ltd. for the year ended December 31, 2022. These Companies are consolidated in order to present management and informed creditors with more meaningful financial information. All material inter-company accounts and transactions have been eliminated upon consolidation.

Revenue Recognition

The Company recognizes product sales revenue when the title and risk of loss have transferred to the customers, when estimated provisions for product returns, rebates and other sales allowances are reasonably determinable, and when collectability is reasonably assured. Accruals for these provisions are presented as reductions to revenues.

Basis of Accounting

The Company prepares its financial statements in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America (“US GAAP”), which involves the application of accrual accounting. Revenues and gains are recognized when earned, and expenses and losses are recognized when incurred.

Use of Estimates

The preparation of financial statements in accordance with US GAAP requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities, and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities, at the dates of the financial statements, and reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting periods. Actual reported amounts may differ from those estimates.

Income Taxes

GAAP requires that the financial statements effect of an uncertain tax position be recognized based on the outcome that is more likely than not to occur. Under this criterion the most likely resolution of an uncertain tax position should be analyzed based on technical merits and on the outcome that will likely be sustained under examination. These requirements became effective for annual financial statements beginning after December 15, 2008 and the Company adopted them as of July 14, 2020. The Company has determined it has no uncertain tax positions that would qualify for either recognition or disclosure in the financial statements.

The Company’s prior one year income tax return is subject to federal, state and city income tax examinations by tax authorities.

Income taxes are provided for the tax effects of transactions reported in the financial statements and consists of federal, state and local taxes currently due.

Provisions for deferred income taxes are not provided, as the timing differences between financial statements and income tax reporting are considered immaterial.

Accounts Receivable

Accounts receivable are stated at original invoice amount less an estimate made for doubtful accounts based on review of all outstanding amounts. Management determines the allowance for doubtful accounts by regularly evaluating individual customer receivables, contract payment terms, and any relevant external economic or regulatory factors, and sets up allowance for doubtful accounts, when collection is uncertain. Customer accounts are written off when all attempts to collect are exhausted. Recoveries of accounts receivable previously written off are recorded as other income when received.

Fair Value Measurements

The Company’s financial instruments consist of cash and cash equivalent, loan and advances receivable, accounts payable and loan payable. The recorded values of cash and cash equivalent, loan and advances receivable, accounts payable and loan payable approximate their fair values based on their short-term nature.

Convertible Notes

ASC 480, also known as FASB Accounting Standards Codification Topic 480, provides guidance on the accounting treatment of convertible securities, including convertible notes. The Company accounts for convertible based on an assessment of specific terms and applicable authoritative guidance in Financial Accounting Standards Board (“FASB”) Accounting Standards Codification (“ASC”) 480, Distinguishing Liabilities from Equity (“ASC 480”). The assessment considers whether the convertible notes are financial instruments that obligate the issuer to issue a variable number of equity shares pursuant to ASC 480, and meet the definition of a liability under ASC 480. This assessment, which requires the use of professional judgment, is conducted at the time of convertible notes issuance and as of each subsequent reporting period while the convertible notes are outstanding.

Recently Issued Accounting Pronouncement

Revenue Recognition

In May 2014, the FASB issued Accounting Standards Update (“ASU”) 2014-09, Revenue from Contracts with Customers (Topic 606), which requires an entity to recognize revenue to depict the transfer of promised goods or services to customers in an amount that reflects the consideration to which the entity expects to be entitled in exchange for those goods and services. The effective date and transition requirements for ASU 2014-09 and subsequent updates was initially deferred by one year by ASU No. 201514, Revenue from Contracts with Customers (Topic 606): Deferral of the Effective Date. In June 2020, the ASU was further deferred by ASU 2020-05, Revenue from Contracts with Customers (Topic 606) and Leases (Topic 842): Effective Dates for Certain Entities, whereby the effective date for all privately held companies that have not yet issued their financial statements or made their financial statements available to be issued has been delayed to annual periods, beginning after December 15, 2019, and interim reporting periods within annual reporting periods beginning after December 15, 2020.

Leases

In February 2016, the FASB issued ASU 2016-02, Leases (Topic 842). The standard amends the existing accounting standards for lease accounting, including requiring lessees to recognize most leases on their Balance Sheets and making targeted changes to lessor accounting. In July 2022, the ASU was deferred by ASU 2020-05, Revenue from Contracts with Customers (Topic 606) and Leases (Topic 842): Effective Dates for Certain Entities, whereby the effective dates for all privately held companies that have not yet issued their financial statements or made their financial statements available to be issued has been delayed to annual periods, beginning after December 15, 2021, and interim reporting periods within annual reporting periods beginning after December 15, 2022.

Cash Flow Statement

On November 17, 2016, the FASB issued ASU 2016-18, Statement of Cash Flows (Topic 230): Restricted Cash. It is intended to reduce diversity in the presentation of restricted cash and restricted cash equivalents in the statement of cash flows. The new standard requires that restricted cash and restricted cash equivalents be included as components of total cash and cash equivalents as presented on the statement of cash flows. As a result, entities will no longer present transfers between cash and cash equivalents and restricted cash and restricted cash equivalents in the statement of cash flows. ASU 2016-18 is effective for annual periods beginning after December 15, 2017 including interim periods within those fiscal years. Earlier adoption is permitted.

On December 02, 2019, the wholly-owned subsidiary, Hydro wind Energy Ltd (UK), entered into an convertible equity agreement with Techstars Corporate partners for a consideration of $20,000 as an advance token. The Company, as of immediately prior to the earliest to occur of (i) a Qualified Financing, (ii) a Liquidity Event, or (iii) a Dissolution Event, agreed to automatically issue to Purchaser such number of Ordinary Shares that is on such date equal to 6% of the Fully Diluted Share Capital immediately upon the issue of such Ordinary Shares. The wholly owned subsidiary had previously recognized interest at a rate of 5% per annum, resulting in a cumulative amount of $28,301 by that date.

Upon initial recognition, the convertible notes were divided into two components: an Equity component totaling $17,380 and a Debt component amounting to $230,049, which included accrued interest of $47,429 up to the specified date. The determination of the effective interest rate was based on the Bank Prime lending rate of 8% per annum, as issued by the Federal Reserve on December 31, 2022.

At issuance, the company recorded the convertible notes at their fair value. This involves separating the debt and equity components. The debt component represents the fair value of a similar non-convertible debt instrument. This portion is accounted for as a liability on the balance sheet. Over time, the company recognizes interest expense on the debt component. The residual amount, after deducting the fair value of the debt component from the total proceeds of the convertible notes, represents the equity component. The equity component is recorded as a separate component in shareholders' equity. The debt component is accounted for using the effective interest method, reflecting the amortization of the discount over the term of the convertible notes. Changes in the fair value of the convertible notes' liability component are recognized in the income statement. The conversion option (equity component) is not re-measured after initial recognition. It is included in equity until conversion or maturity. Interest expense is recognized on the debt component over the term of the convertible notes. Upon conversion, the debt component is extinguished, and the equity component converts into common stock or another equity instrument. If the convertible notes mature without conversion, the remaining unamortized debt discount is recognized as interest expense at maturity.

The world wide thirst for electricity is absolutely immense. And with people like me opting to ditch natural gas in favor of heat pumps and driving electric cars, that demand is only going to increase. I talk about solar all the time, but global wind generation is about twice that of solar (according to our world in data in 2019) (link).

Studies even suggest that offshore wind energy alone could power the entire world. In fact, 80 % of the world's wind resource is offshore in deep waters. So why isn't every country building off shore wind farms as fast as they can, and why aren't they everywhere?

Now when you think wind turbine, you're probably picturing something like this. Massive horizontal axis wind turbines or HAWTs.

But a company called Hydro Wind Energy believes they have a novel solution to the offshore wind problem, by using these, vertical axis turbines with some very interesting properties. 80%

the world's wind resource is available offshore not unsure the question is ultimately how do we harness that and turn it into a usable form of energy our approach is that we're using wind solely for mechanical lift

But before we get into that, let's talk about conventional offshore wind turbines.

If we look at offshore wind speed data 70 km off the coast of Rona in Scotland, here's what an hourly average for the entire year looks like. First of all it should be clear just how variable and intermittent the wind speeds really are.

But if we average it by season, we can get a little more clarity. Interestingly the strongest winds come in winter, which is good news, because that's when solar energy is at its lowest. And before you think that wind speeds are super constant throughout the day, remember this is an average.

This is the first major issue of offshore wind, it's unpredictable and varies throughout the day. There's no way to increase or decrease production to match what people are actually using or even know what you can expect hour by hour.

Spanish-German wind giant Siemens Gamesa is preparing to deploy 60 of its SG 14-222 DD turbines of this variety by 2024. Each of the 60 turbines will produce 14.7MW, which is a new world record.

(LINK) Feature blades that are 108M long, about the size of Football or soccer field, and a rotor diameter of 222 meters, about 45 Tesla Model S's parked bumper to bumper, it's pretty mind boggling.

There are issues though, as costs increase dramatically as the blade size increases. Both in larger molds and casts to create the blades, but also the logistics of larger support towers and anchoring them safely to the sea floor using monopiles. (LINK) A Monopile is a steel cylinder piled into the sea floor by a special hydraulic ram.

And as wind turbines continue to grow in size, these monopiles too will have to get bigger to support their massive size, and resulting moments of inertia. Now while there are some floating platforms being worked on, these turbines will largely be limited to about 50 meter sea depths which will restrict where it can be installed.

The second problem with offshore wind turbines, is that they aren't really able to harness the entirety of the winds potential.

Large wind turbines like these, require around 5m/s airspeeds to start spinning, and have to shut down when wind speeds reach around 25m/s. Their ideal operating range is around 10-15m/s and that's where the gearing, generators and power electronics are sized to operate. More modern turbines like the Siemens Gamesa 14.7MW turbines, make use of a technology called High Wind Ride Through (HWRT) which help with this, but that's a topic for another day.

we have a very important message from our sponsor this week vinfest so I first saw the VIN fast at the New York Auto Show and now they're opening up locations all along California and on July 14th they'll be opening up these showrooms so if you're interested in checking out one of the VIN fast cars now is the perfect time to go sit in it and just see how it fits you see if you have a showroom near where you live especially here in California and if you don't they're gonna be opening up more locations in the next couple of months for me the vf9 is the one I want and the reason is we still have an eight-seater gas SUV and the vf9 could replace that it has that third row of seating and it's tens of thousands of dollars cheaper than any other EV SUV with a third row you can buy in America and with our seven dollar gas prices it would pay for itself pretty quickly so if you're interested checking out Vin fast check out one of their new showrooms that are opening here in California they've got six locations as of July 14th more to come in the future and go check it out and see if it fits your family and your lifestyle huge thank you to vinfest and you for supporting the show

Power Curve of a Wind Turbine

Being so massive, these turbines actually affect the laminar flow of air, impacting other turbines down wind in a offshore farm. I had a chance to chat with Marc Spieler at NVidia, a company doing amazing work using digital twins, AI and computer simulations, to determine optimal turbine placement.

we are leveraged a lot in the design and build simulation to determine optimal turbine placement we are leveraged a lot in the design and build not only of the wind turbines themselves but also in identifying the best place for placement once they're out in the field and then optimizing the wind weight coming off of uh of a turbine not only for individual optimization of a single turbine but in a perfect world how do we optimize the entire Wind Farm what we're seeing with the increase in compute capacity is people are now simulating much broader aspects of a wind farmed offshore and using what what we call physics and four neural networks we can actually take true physics create a simulated model what we do is we we take data points that that they are able to collect and we can recreate the the physics of the simulation using what's called pins or physics and form neural networks it really allows people to to see and visualize and simulate what's going to happen in the real world before they actually start

According to an article by the American Society of Mechanical Engineers, written by Michael Abrams, while horizontal wind turbines can be 50% efficient, turbines down wind can see their outputs decreased by about 40%. To avoid the turbulence of an 10MW upwind turbine with a rotor diameter of 150meters, a downstream turbine would need to be installed three kilometers away. And these large distances, means production density is lowered, maintenance times would be higher, not to mention all the cabling to connect them all. (link)

So massive conventional turbines, operate best in a small range of wind speeds, are costly to install and require more space. But as they get bigger and bigger, the cost per MW produced continues to drop making them cost competitive in more and more regions around the world. But what about those Vertical axis turbines, or VAWTs I mentioned earlier?

Well Hydro Wind Energy has created this, the Ocean Hydro Omni, and it functions in a completely different way than other horizontal or vertical axis wind turbines.

you know they've existed but one of the big questions is why haven't they been commercialized and the reason is ultimately because if we were converting it directly to electrical energy conventional wind turbines would actually be much better to do that but if you're doing it the way we're doing it we're harnessing more of the wind resource right up to 40 meters per second which is you know very close I mean it is almost hurricanes hurricane wind

While HAWTs have efficiencies of 50%, VAWTs are only around 35-40% efficient. This is largely due to the fact that the wind hits both the collection side, as well as the other side turning back into the wind, slowing its spin. But unlike HAWTs, VAWTs generate a funnel-like wake that stretches like a contrail and the wind is less turbulent after it passes through, meaning they can be installed much closer together.

But that's not what makes Hydro Wind Energy's Omni turbines special. Unlike all other wind turbines, the Ocean Hydro Onmi doesn't produce electricity directly from the wind. No, instead it uses the wind to lift a heavy mass. Then when energy is needed, the weight can be dropped, powering a generator. This has some very interesting benefits. For one, the omni can operate in a much wider range of wind speeds. Because they don't have delicate electronics and generators attached to the turbines, they can just lift the weights faster or slower through a much wider range of wind speeds.

Also unlike traditional wind turbines, the ocean hydro omni, can respond to grid needs, either storing or release energy on demand. If the winds are high and demand is low, they can lift the weights and stand by. When demand rises, they can release the weights at a set speed and create uniform power output.

when we're lifting it we're absorbing the variability of wind power if it's connected directly to a generator that means you have fluctuating power and our approach is that during the lifting process of lifting that mass by the submerged height you're absorbing that variability of wind whether it's three meters per second 5 meters per second or six meters per second if you ask the grid they don't really like Renewables because it's it's just fluctuating power coming into the grid that's very difficult to manage imagine also that if you have two masses so as one is being dropped one is being lifted and then if you think of an array that's when it becomes more significant one would be intermittent but if you have it you know four or five these then you can actually get constant power output to the Grid it's on demand power wind and solar cannot provide on-demand power because one of the things that's missing to a future powered by Renewables is energy storage

The energy storage potential of the Ocean Hydro Omni, is a function then of the sea depth, and the weight of the mass. Mass of the weight? You know what I mean. For this reason, their first pilot plant scheduled for the second half of 2022, will be installed at a depth of 300 meters, far deeper than most traditional wind turbines.

The omni then isn't just a off shore wind energy generator, it's also a battery, and a smart grid enabled device. To see just how valuable this could be, let's compare the omni to a traditional 10MW wind turbine over the course of a day.

Using our data for Rona from earlier, and factoring average and maximum wind speeds, we can approximate true wind speeds for a day. For a traditional turbine, power output will increase with wind speeds until about 15 m/s. From 15-25 m/s the traditional turbine will change its rotor pitch angle to slow down and maintain a constant output. When wind speeds rise above 25 m/s, the turbine has to do a safety shutdown, to prevent overspeeding and damaging itself. This is what I mean by not harnessing the entirety of the wind potential. Plus the traditional turbine can't do anything about matching demand, it just produces whatever energy it can based on the wind.

In comparison the Ocean hydro Omni, can safely operate in windspeeds between 4 and 40 m/s which means this entire day, it is able to harness the wind speed to lift its weights. And it can lower them back down in a controlled way throughout the day in cycles. Now a single omni probably won't be able to produce as much power as a traditional wind turbine, but because they can be grouped closer together, and cost less per turbine, they can still provide similar power outputs over an entire wind farm. And if built with the same surface area, they'd generate at least 4x as much energy.

But where this gets really interesting is when we look at power output as a function of grid demand. Again the traditional turbine can't do much to vary its output, it's just a function of wind speed. But Hydro Wind Energy's Turbines can act as an on demand device, Build enough omni's and it could be possible to meet an entire grid's demands, no matter the time of day.

A lot of the ideas they've employed aren't new, vertical axis wind turbines, gravity batteries, but their unique packaging definitely has me excited.

But Hydro wind energy isn't in the clear just yet. They have so far tested their technology on shore, and are preparing for their first offshore installation later in 2022.

well accordingly where technology Readiness level six which means we've actually built um you know prototype tested components and sub-components integrated the system as well but onshore the next step for us is to actually finalize a sub-scale system and test it in a real offshore environment to move this to technology Readiness level seven uh and we're going to be deploying that in 750 meter sea depth so we'll it's not a big rotor that we're going to be using but it's it's a system that will kind of validate you know in terms of the almost a proof of concept uh of what we're working on

The data gathered there will feed back into their engineering design and eventual final production model.

They'll need to prove the concept can withstand gale force winds out in the deep ocean, show that their systems can last 20-30 years like a conventional turbine, and come up with maintenance procedures and intervals to ensure their turbines reach full life. This data will be critical to determine its true levelized cost of electricity. If they can win on their strategy of smaller vertical turbines that can be build closer to gether in deeper waters, with energy storage, I think they have a winner on their hands.

So are we going to stop seeing bigger and bigger conventional offshore wind turbines? Not at all, in fact there is more interest in larger conventional wind turbines than ever. But the benefits of the Ocean Hydro Omni will be a new tool in our toolkit, allowing greater renewable energy generation, and greater flexibility. Their design will be a grid operators best friend, able to provide energy when needed, regardless of wind speeds.

If we're to move away from stable but dirty forms of energy production like coal and natural gas, we'll need every tool we can get. And if renewable energy's achilles heal is predictability, on demand generation like the omni can provide will be huge to not only produce energy, but lower the need for grid storage.

But what do you think? Are you as excited for vertical axis wind turbines with gravity battery storage as I am? What percent of future offshore wind projects will use this approach? Sound off in the comments below.

Wind Power's Greatest Challenges - And How they Could be Solved

<https://www.youtube.com/watch/0RasHYFj5zs>

00:00:00.240 After a long day of work, you come home and turn on the lights, AC, or TV

00:00:04.720 As do your friends who come home at roughly the same time.

00:00:08.280 Generally speaking, the energy demand will increase during these peak hours.

00:00:12.720 Why is this a problem?

00:00:13.800 You see, some energy sources have irregular output.

00:00:16.920 We call them intermittent renewable energy sources.

00:00:19.800 They are not dispatchable on demand due to their fluctuating nature.

00:00:24.520 These fluctuations make it challenging for the grid operator

00:00:27.720 to respond to the extra demand during peak hours.

00:00:31.760 For a long time, fossil fuels fill in the gaps,

00:00:34.760 since traditional power plants can increase their output immediately.

00:00:38.840 But we don't have to explain why we don't want those anymore.

00:00:42.960 So how are we supposed to sustain a stable power grid,

00:00:46.080 working only with renewable sources?

00:00:48.600 Luckily, there are solutions that allow us to store energy

00:00:51.880 when there's an oversupply and release that back into the grid when needed.

00:00:56.280 Hydro Wind Energy is currently developing a technology that strives 00:01:00.240 to combine offshore wind with a gravity-based energy storage system.

00:01:04.360 The ocean hydro uses a vertical axis rotor.

00:01:08.480 This allows them to start working at low wind speeds

00:01:11.400 and keep working through extreme wind conditions.

00:01:14.280 How is this all possible then?

00:01:16.080 See, these floating rotors don't have a typical generator setup.

00:01:19.560 The way these generate energy is actually quite inventive.

00:01:23.520 Their system uses a heavy block that is dropped to the seabed,

00:01:27.000 which in turn drives a generator to convert

00:01:29.720 this mechanical energy into electrical energy.

00:01:33.120 Then the wind rotor is used to lift the block

00:01:35.200 back up to the surface and the cycle starts anew.

00:01:38.440 This gives the added benefit of an on demand dispatchable power.

00:01:42.240 Because of the energy storage capability,

00:01:44.400 this seems like a wonderful solution and it promotes thinking outside the box.

00:01:48.600 We will still have our questions, though.

00:01:50.440 For example, is this really applicable on grid scale?

00:01:54.240 and how does this concept deal with maintenance

00:01:56.840 and what is the ecological impact?

00:01:59.240 Let us know in the comments what your thoughts are on this problem

00:02:01.680 and how to solve it.
