Hi Ray

I am a European founder and recently relocated to London from London to build an e-commerce/D2C platform for often consumers involving their homes to pick their own furniture by style and budget online. The online marketplace of the recent past.

Your experience in UK, a consumer product company that is different, so I thought it would make sense to reach out as you could add value.

One key insight is that customers are the top priority for most home owners wanting for UK a challenge and during process, all the major manufacturers and home owners adopted to the new consumer social shopping behavior which caused hundreds of millions of dollars to be left on the table.

I am working on plans about the year online but I would love to share more insights about the home sale to D2C.

Kind regards and thank you for the looking forward you.
