The Business

The Company is researching and implementing indoor mushroom growing and farming technologies, with specific focus on morels.

RISK FACTORS

Risks Related to the Company's Business and Industry

Trade Secret Risk - The Company's proprietary growing technologies and science are protected as Trade Secrets, which have been protected as follows:

- Friend 1. Old business partner. We initially agreed upon a vested schedule but during that time uncontrollable issues arose and we severed the agreement. She has been privileged to trade secrets. Signed NDA in December 2018 and a second NDA in March 2022. She was initially issued 1% equity consideration for the NDA, but the Company redeemed that equity in 2023 in exchange for a cash payment and continued obligations under the NDAs

- Friend 2. Long- time friend and has been around the founder's work but has not been privileged to any recent work or developments. Signed NDA in December 2018 and was issued 1% equity in consideration for his continued performance under the NDA.

- Founder's Spouse. Has been privileged to various aspects of growing morels throughout the course of the founder's research.

- Scientist 1. In December 2023, he signed an NDA and was privileged to part of the trade secret in order to determine a potential for a working relationship. He was not exposed to specific techniques that are used in the growing process.

- Secured facility. The founder has limited the access to the growing lab/facility, to which only the founder and his spouse have access.

Farming in general is inherently risky with food-borne pathogens. Fungi require adequate cooking to eat and should lessen the risk of sicknesses occurring from improper growing or handling. The Company will require liability waivers from customers purchasing mushrooms.

Mushrooms generally have a tendency to not get along with alcohol, as mushrooms secrete toxins and alcohol is by definition a poison/toxin. The combination of mushrooms and alcohol mixed inside a person can sometimes result in sickness, which can vary in degree. To mitigate this risk, the Company plans to use warning labels and require liability waivers from customers when purchasing the Company's mushrooms.

The Company's proprietary growing mechanism is protected as a trade secret.

The practicalities of protecting trade secrets will present a challenge to expanding operations as to limit future employees, guests, and so forth from compromising the trade secret. The Company has, and will continue to take all reasonable measures to limit access to the growing lab or areas and to otherwise ensure reasonable protections to maintain the trade secret

The Company may never receive a future equity financing or elect to convert the Securities upon such future financing.

In addition, the Company may never undergo a liquidity event such as a sale of the Company or an IPO. If neither the conversion of the Securities nor a liquidity event occurs, the Purchasers could be left holding the Securities in perpetuity. The Securities have numerous transfer restrictions and will likely be highly illiquid, with no secondary market on which to sell them. The Securities are not equity interests, have no ownership rights, have no rights to the Company's assets or profits and have no voting rights or ability to direct the Company or its actions.

Our future success depends on the efforts of a small management team.

The loss of services of the members of the management team (consisting of the founder) may have an adverse effect on the company. There can be no assurance that we will be successful in attracting and retaining other personnel we require to successfully grow our business.

An investor in the Company will likely hold a minority position in the Company, and thus be limited as to its ability to control or influence the governance and operations of the Company.

The marketability and value of the Investor's interest in the Company will depend upon many factors outside of the investor.

The Company will be managed by its officers and be governed in accordance with the strategic direction and decision-making of its Management, and the Investor will have no independent right to name or remove an officer or member of the Management of the Company.

Following the Investor's investment in the Company, the Company may sell interests to additional investors, which will dilute the percentage interest of the investor in the Company.

The Investor may have the opportunity to increase its investment in the Company in such a transaction, but such opportunity cannot be assured.

The amount of additional financing needed by the Company, if any, will depend upon the maturity and objectives of the Company.

The declining of an opportunity or the inability of the Investor to make a follow-on investment, or the lack of an opportunity to make such a follow-on investment, may result in substantial dilution of the investor's interest in the Company.

Additional issuances of securities.

Following the investors investment in the Company, the company may sell interests to additional investors, which will dilute the percentage interest of the investor in the company. The investor may have the opportunity to increase its investment in the company in such a transaction, but such opportunity cannot be assured. The amount of additional financing needed by the company, if any, will depend upon the maturity and objectives of the company. The declining of an opportunity or the inability of the investor to make a follow-on investment, may result in substantial dilution of the investors interest in the company.

Issuer repurchases of securities.

The Company may have the authority to repurchase its securities from unitholders, which may serve to decrease any liquidity in the market for such securities, decrease the percentage interests held by other similarly situated investors to the investor, and create pressure on the investor to sell its securities to the company concurrently.

A sale of the issuer or of assets of the issuer.

As a minority owner of the Company, the investor will have limited or no ability to influence a potential sale of the Company or a substantial portion of its assets. Thus, the investor will rely upon the executive management of the Company to manage the Company so as to maximize value for unitholders. Accordingly, the success of the investor's investment in the company will depend in large part upon the skill and expertise of the executive management of the company. If the management of the company authorizes a sale of all or a part of the company, or a disposition of a substantial portion of the company's assets, there can be no guarantee that the value received by the investor, together with the fair market estimate of the value remaining in the Company, will be equal to or exceed the value of the investors initial investment in the Company.

Transactions with related parties.

The investor should be aware that there will be occasions when the Company may encounter potential conflicts of interest in its operations. On any issue involving conflicts of interest the executive management of the Company will be guided by their good faith judgment as to the Company's best interests. The Company may engage in transactions with affiliates, subsidiaries or other related parties, which may be on terms which are not arm's-length, but will be in all cases consistent with the duties of the management of the Company to its unitholders. By acquiring an interest in the company, the investor will be deemed to have acknowledged the existence of any such actual or potential conflicts of interest and to have waived any claim with respect to any liability arising from the existence of any such conflict of interest.

In addition to the risks listed above, businesses are often subject to risks not foreseen or fully appreciated by the management. It is not possible to foresee all risks that may affect us. Moreover, the Company cannot predict whether the Company will successfully effectuate the Company's current business plan. Each prospective Purchaser is encouraged to carefully analyze the risks and merits of an investment in the Securities and should take into consideration when making such analysis, among other, the Risk Factors discussed above.

BUSINESS

Description of the Business

The Company is researching and implementing indoor mushroom growing and farming technologies, with specific focus on morels.

Business Plan - The Company

In 2022, the Company was producing shiitake mushrooms (indoor growth) for most of the year and selling to local retail/restaurant outlets. In the fall of 2022, the Company shut down production of shiitake to focus on researching morel growth technologies at scale. Morel is much more profitable and lucrative, but also significantly more difficult to grow indoors, particularly at commercial scale (which is the ultimate goal of the Company that will lead to profitability). In 2023, the Company did not generate any revenue because all Company resources were focused on refining morel production techniques and technologies at scale. Currently, the Company is considering restarting shiitake farming to drive revenue, while the morel farming techniques are further researched, developed, refined, and investigated.

Business Plan - The Co-Issuer

In compliance with the Securities Act and IC Act, the Co-Issuer's organizational documents and agreements with the Company specify or contemplate that the Co-Issuer:

- Does not borrow money and is only permitted to use the proceeds from the sale of to purchase the Company's securities;
- Will issue only one class of securities in one or more offerings under Regulation Crowdfunding in which it and the Company are deemed to be co-issuers under the Securities Act;

- Will maintain a one-to-one relationship between the number, denomination, type and rights of it owns as a SAFE holder in the Company and the number, denomination, type and rights of its own securities outstanding;

- Will promptly provide disclosures and other information received by the Company to the investors and potential investors in the Company SAFEs and to the relevant intermediary; and
- Will provide to each investor the right to direct the Co-Issuer to assert the rights under State and Federal law that the investor would have if he or she had invested directly in the Company and will provide to each investor any information that it receives from the Company as a shareholder of record of the Company.

Scaling indoor morel farming continues to be a challenging process, subject to many variables, continued scientific experimentation, and testing. The Company continues to test and experiment with various methods, refining those that show the most promise on a laboratory scale and working to convert those laboratory results to a farm-size scale. In the meantime, the Company is considering restarting indoor shiitake farming to generate revenue in the short term.

The Company's business model relies on experimental science and technology. Indoor morel growing is a novel venture and has many unknowns and variable factors, including those that impact scalability, projected revenues, and the general financial sustainability outlook for the Company.

Management is currently focusing its efforts on the research process and the specific scientific methods that are needed to successfully support morel growth. These methods continue to be refined through testing and trial growth experiments, which can yield mixed results. The biggest challenge right now is transposing the science that yields results on a micro laboratory level, to larger-scale farm operation that is necessary to achieve profitability. Management is directly involved with the testing and scientific methods, and intends to continue to conduct research and experimentation to achieve a practical and scalable solution. In the interim, Management is considering dedicating a portion of company resources towards shiitake growth and farming, which is expected to generate some short-term revenue while the morel process continues in the research and experimentation phase.

Restarting shiitake production was planned as a source of revenue at the start of 2024; however, due to operational challenges and priorities, the company is limiting the scope and scale of shiitake production at this time to ensure the production is economically and scientifically viable and does not impede morel research.

Midnight Harvest, LLC
Notes to the Compiled (Unaudited) Financial Statements
December 31st, 2023
$USD

NOTE 1 – DESCRIPTION OF ORGANIZATION AND BUSINESS OPERATIONS

Midnight Harvest, LLC ("the Company") Company was formed on March 14th, 2014 as a single member LLC providing 'specialty produce' and garden fabrication. In 2018 the company focused on indoor gourmet mushroom production as its main source of revenue. In September 2022 the company raised $150,000.00 dollars from two parties at a $1,500,000.00 valuation to pivot its' operations to indoor Morel Mushroom research and production. In May of 2023 the company finalized a crowdfunding round through Wefunder raising $79,001.00 dollars at a $3,500,000.00 valuation to continue indoor Morel Mushroom research and production.

Currently the company is still in the research phase of its plan drawing no revenue. The company estimates that the runway is 1 year 8 months at the current burn rate and the company is looking to mitigate this time frame if no significant breakthrough occurs within 8 months.

Concentrations of Credit Risks

The Company's financial instruments that are exposed to concentrations of credit risk primarily consist of its cash and cash equivalents. The Company places its cash and cash equivalents with financial institutions of high credit worthiness. The Company's management plans to assess the financial strength and credit worthiness of any parties to which it extends funds, and as such, it believes that any associated credit risk exposures are limited.

Going Concern Consideration

The accompanying balance sheet has been prepared on a going concern basis, which means that the entity expects to continue its operations and meet its obligations in the normal course of business. The entity has commenced principal operations and realized income in 2020 and 2021, losses in 2022 and 2023 and may continue to generate losses. Uncertainties and challenges that the company faces include:

1. Realization of assets and satisfaction of liabilities: The company anticipates that it will be able to generate revenue and use it to satisfy its current and future obligations
2. Losses and working capital: The company expects to experience losses before it can generate positive working capital. It is uncertain how long this period will last
3. Dependence on revenues and financing: The company's ability to continue as a going concern in the next twelve months depends on its ability to generate revenues and/or obtain sufficient financing to meet its obligations and achieve profitable operating results
4. Management's plans: The company's management has evaluated the situation and intends to generate revenues and raise capital as needed to meet its capital requirements. However, there is no guarantee of success in these efforts

Considering these factors, there is substantial doubt about the company's ability to continue as a going concern for a reasonable period of time. It is important to note that the financial statements do not include any adjustments related to the recoverability and classification of recorded assets or the amounts and classification of liabilities.

NOTE 2 – SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

Basis of Presentation

The Company's financial statements are prepared in accordance with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles ("GAAP"). The Company's fiscal year ends on December 31. The Company has no interest in variable interest entities and no predecessor entities.

Use of Estimates and Assumptions

In preparing these unaudited financial statements in conformity with U.S. GAAP, the Company's management makes estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported expenses during the reporting period.

Making estimates requires management to exercise significant judgment. It is at least reasonably possible that the estimate of the effect of a condition, situation or set of circumstances that existed at the date of the financial statements, which management considered in formulating its estimate, could change in the near term due to one or more future confirming events. Accordingly, the actual results could differ significantly from those estimates.

Fair Value of Financial Instruments

ASC 820 "Fair Value Measurements and Disclosures" establishes a three-tier fair value hierarchy, which prioritizes the inputs in measuring fair value. The hierarchy prioritizes the inputs into three levels based on the extent to which inputs used in measuring fair value are observable in the market.

These tiers include:

Level 1: Valuations based on quoted prices for identical assets and liabilities in active market

Level 2: Valuations based on observable inputs other than quoted prices included in Level 1, such as quoted prices for similar assets and liabilities in active markets, quoted prices for identical or similar assets and liabilities in markets that are not active, or other inputs that are observable or can be corroborated by observable market data.

Level 3: Valuations based on observable inputs other than quoted prices included in Level 1, such as quoted prices for similar assets and liabilities in active markets, quoted prices for identical or similar assets and liabilities in markets that are not active, or other inputs that are observable or can be corroborated by observable market data.

There were no material items that were measured at fair value as of December 31, 2022 and December 31, 2023.

Cash and Cash Equivalents

The Company considers all short-term investments with an original maturity of three months or less when purchased to be cash equivalents. The Company had $129,072 and $127,766 in cash and cash equivalents as of December 31, 2022 and December 31, 2023, respectively.

Accounts Receivable

Trade receivables due from customers are uncollateralized customer obligations due under normal trade terms. Trade receivables are stated at the amount billed to the customer. Payments of trade receivables are allocated to the specific invoices identified on the customer's remittance advice or, if unspecified, are applied to the earliest unpaid invoices. Payments are generally collected upfront, but some of the merchants that products are sold through have a delay between collecting from the customer and sending to the Company.

The Company estimates an allowance for doubtful accounts based upon an evaluation of the current status of receivables, historical experience, and other factors as necessary. It is reasonably possible that the Company's estimate of the allowance for doubtful accounts will change.

Property and Equipment

Property and equipment are recorded at cost. Expenditures for renewals and improvements that significantly add to the productive capacity or extend the useful life of an asset are capitalized. Expenditures for maintenance and repairs are charged to expense. When equipment is retired or sold, the cost and related accumulated depreciation are eliminated from the accounts and the resultant gain or loss is reflected in income. Depreciation is provided using the double declining balance method, based on useful lives of the assets.

The Company reviews the carrying value of property and equipment for impairment whenever events and circumstances indicate that the carrying value of an asset may not be recoverable from the estimated future cash flows expected to result from its use and eventual disposition. In cases where undiscounted expected future cash flows are less than the carrying value, an impairment loss is recognized equal to an amount by which the carrying value exceeds the fair value of assets. The factors considered by management in performing this assessment include current operating results, trends and prospects, the manner in which the property is used, and the effects of obsolescence, demand, competition, and other economic factors. Based on this assessment there was no impairment for December 31, 2023.

A summary of the Company's property and equipment is below.

Property Type	Useful Life in Years	Cost	Accumulated Depreciation	Disposals	Book Value as of 12/31/23
Office Equipment 1	5	1,228	(528)	-	699
Office Equipment 2	5	1,078	(1,078)	-	-
Website	5	1,632	(631)	-	1,001
Grand Total	-	3,938	(2,237)	-	1,701

Revenue Recognition

The Company recognizes revenue from the sale of products and services in accordance with ASC 606, "Revenue Recognition" following the five steps procedure:

- Step 1: Identify the contract(s) with customers
- Step 2: Identify the performance obligations in the contract
- Step 3: Determine the transaction price
- Step 4: Allocate the transaction price to performance obligations
- Step 5: Recognize revenue when or as performance obligations are satisfied

Once in production - the company plans to sell fresh morel mushrooms to be sold in local markets and online. Payment of order is up front and delivery to local/surrounding markets within 15 miles of the facility would be 2-3 days. The company also provides quality spawn material for outdoor morel enthusiasts to grow their own. Primary obligation if substrate is being mailed 2-3 weeks on per order basis, and if being sold locally 'at time of transaction'

Advertising Costs

Advertising costs associated with marketing the Company's products and services are expensed as costs are incurred.

General and Administrative

General and administrative expenses consist of payroll and related expenses for employees and independent contractors involved in general corporate functions, including accounting, finance, tax, legal, business development, and other miscellaneous expenses.

Income Taxes

The Company is a pass-through entity therefore any income tax expense or benefit is the responsibility of the company's owners. As such, no provision for income tax is recognized on the Statement of Operations.

Recent Accounting Pronouncements

The FASB issues ASUs to amend the authoritative literature in ASC. There have been a number of ASUs to date that amend the original text of ASC. Management believes that those issued to date either (i) provide supplemental guidance, (ii) are technical corrections, (iii) are not applicable to us or (iv) are not expected to have a significant impact on our financial statements.

NOTE 3 – RELATED PARTY TRANSACTIONS

The SEC DOES require SPV financials, but Wefunder has not been providing them, so we have been giving the email from a year ago to issuers to attach. You may want to speak with [REDACTED] or Wefunder about this.

Hey Peyton,

Thank you for this!

I have discussed with our compliance team. Given that the law is ambiguous on this issue, we take the stance that financials are not needed for the SPV. We have a hard time believing the SEC intended issuers who use an SPV for their raises to waste time and money on financials that would be all 0s.

We appreciate your understanding and look forward to continuing our partnership.

Thanks,
Sophie
